Cotton Harvest Revenue Of $64 Million Forecast

By FRANK NOONAN
Farm Editor

The cotton harvest now underway in 14 northeast Louisiana parishes has swamped gins and may bring in a total revenue of around $64-million, according to estimates of agricultural officials.

The results of this bountiful harvest are expected to be reflected soon in the economy of area business

Last year's cotton crop in the 14 parishes was valued at an estimated $58,435,031. The planted available acreage this year showed a small decline from that of last year.

Figures obtained from the Louisiana Crop Reporting Service in Alexandria gave the total yield in these parishes at around 312,210 bales of 500 pounds gross weight last year.

YIELD HIGHER

And the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service state office in Alexandria reported total planted cotton acres in this area last year at 326,224, as compared to 294,075 acres this year.

Statistics revealed that last year's average yield of lint per acre in the 14 parishes ran from as low as 220 pounds in the hill area to 607 pounds in one of the delta parishes.

The 14 parishes include the major producers, Ouachita, Morehouse, West Carroll, East Carroll, Richland, Franklin, Tensas, Madison, Concordia, Catahoula and Caldwell, and the smaller acreage hill section parishes of Union, Jackson and Lincoln.

ASCS officials reported that in general farmers in the northeast district outside of the hill parishes made the most of their available planting acreage allotment this year. The major producing areas planted from 97 to 99 per cent of the available allotment.

Clarence O. Parker, state agricultural statistician with the Louisiana Crop Reporting Service, said of the current situation. "The acreage is down, but the yield is

New Shooting Breaks Out In Honduras

Firing Begins Shortly After Oath Is Given

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Antirevolutionary sharpshooters blazed away at the army Saturday in a deadly show of defiance of the new military regime. A bullet apparently set fire to an oil tank atop the Hotel Prado and soon the two top stories were in flames.

The fire destroyed international cable communications, located in the hotel, and newsmen were forced to duck a hail of bullets to run to an alternate telegraph office with their stories.

Telephone communications were cut off.

FIRE AT SNIPERS

Troops had been using the hotel roof to fire back at the snipers.

Despite the shooting, firemen wheeled up to the hotel and got the blaze under control, but not until the top two floors were gutted.

The battle started, as if by prearranged signal, during the afternoon in various sections of the capital. It continued hours later.

The violence came right on the heels of a statement by new government chief Col. Osvaldo Lopez Arellano that the army was in full control of the situation throughout the country.

Heaviest shooting appeared to be coming from the vicinity of the law school of the University of Honduras.

Col. Lopez Arellano led a coup Thursday that overthrew the six-year old regime of President Ramon Villeda Morales. He said Saturday his government — eight civilians and two military men — would keep power for about a year or "until the conditions which caused the move against the Villeda government are eliminated."

State Places No Trust In RFK As Chief

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The Justice Department can't be trusted to investigate the civil rights movement, the Louisiana Joint Legislative Committee on Un-Americanism said Saturday.

A spokesman said the committee has complete confidence in J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the FBI, but "we have no confidence whatsoever" in Hoover's Chief, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The matter came up at a news conference, where Jack N. Rogers the committee's lawyer, was asked if raids Friday had been "coordinated" with the FBI.

State troopers and city police, moving at the request of the committee, raided the Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc. in New Orleans.

James A. Dombrowski, executive director, was arrested, along with Benjamin E. Smith, treasurer, and Bruce Waltzer, who was identified as a member of the SCEF. Waltzer denied he was a member. They are white.

Smith and Waltzer are law partners. Officers confiscated all records at the fund headquarters.

The three men were charged with criminal conspiracy, alleging they took part in managing a subversive organization. They were released on parole, which requires no cash bond.

The raid was part of the committee effort to prove its contention that Communists have infiltrated the civil rights movement.

The fund is headed by the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, a Negro civil rights leader. It states its aim as doing away with discrimination and segregation through education.

"This is considered subversive by Louisiana legislators," said Dombrowski. "These raids are part of the general attack on the integration movement."

LEAVES 43 DEAD

Hurricane Flora Turns Westward

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Flora, killer of 43 persons in the Caribbean, crept westward to Guacanayabo Bay on Saturday night in its punishing two-day, cat-and-mouse game with eastern Cuba.

The storm's Cuban meanderings reduced its peak winds to about 80 miles per hour and eased Flora's threat to Florida and the Bahama Islands.

Stalled by an intense high-pressure area to the north, Flora thrashed aimlessly among the mountains of Cuba all day, then began slowly drifting to the southwest. Her long stay over land had weakened and knocked the shape out of the once wild and vicious storm.

AREAS RELAX

The turn brought hurricane warning flags down in the boarded-up Bahamas, and worried Floridians relaxed.

In Flora's violent wake in the Caribbean lay untold numbers of dead and vast areas of destruction.

Dr. Gerard Phileppeau, Haitian minister of health, described that Negro nation as a sodden trash heap, with towns ravaged and bodies floating in the streets. Reports of dangerous flooding began to come also from Cuba.

A hurricane, a dangerously low-pressure system in itself, tends to move toward other low pressure and away from a "high," which is a system of stable air that resists being drawn into the hurricane circulation. A "high" stretching from Nova Scotia down to the Florida Straits forced Flora's turn away from her northwest course.

Forecasters at Miami said in the latest report Flora's westward drift from Manzanillo, on the bay, probably would continue for 12 hours westward into the Caribbean, picking up speed. Forecaster Raymond Kraft said some northerly turn was a possibility after that, but it was too early to say whether that would develop Flora flattened or damaged more than 300 dwellings at Anitlla, on Oriente Province's North coast, injuring six persons.

El Greco's Art Found Hanging In School Hall

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A faculty member at St. Edward's High School says a painting which has hung for several years in the school's main building is an El Greco.

The work was identified by Brother Victor McGee, who has long been a student of the 16th century artist's works.

He did not evaluate the painting.

Brother McGee said he found the painter's signature, written in Greek, under layers of varnish in the upper left corner.

St. Edward's acquired the painting from Dale Francis, who brought it to Austin when he became the school's development director. He gave the painting to the school.

Officials plan to store the painting at a local bank until its identity can be confirmed.

The painting is of the baptism of Jesus by John the Baptist.

El Greco was born on the island of Crete in the 16th century, and later studied and painted in Italy and Spain. Most of the known El Greco works are in permanent collections.

Permits Soar For Building During Week

3 College Dorms Skyrocket Total Past $1 Million

Monroe's building permits topped the million dollar mark during the past week. The issuance of a permit for the three new men's dormitories at Northeast State College skyrocketed the total up to $1,179,151, for the period of Sept. 30 through Oct. 4, according to Dale Martha, coordinator for the City of Monroe Inspector's Department.

The men's residence halls, which received by far the largest single new building permit issued, will be constructed at 4110 Bon Aire Drive, at a cost of $1,126,161. Contractor for the project is Breck Construction Co. of Monroe.

PERMITS GRANTED

The 22 permits granted for the week included two others for new buildings, five for moving buildings and 14 for additions to present structures.

Sidney Swink and James Ellis received permission to construct a brick veneer residence, a duplex to be located at 3604-06 Claiborne. Cost of the structure will be $15,000. The final permit went to Community Homes for a new brick veneer residence at 3103 Barlow, amounting to $13,000.

N. P. Fontana got a permit to remodel his residence and grocery, repairing damage done by fire. The structure is located at 2114 Flynn, and remodeling costs will be $4,440. Vic Ditta plans to build an addition to his masonry wholesale electrical supply building at 500 Riverside, amounting to $6,000.

Mrs. Virginia Lorick will add a frame garage and storage room to her residence located at the rear of 1612 Georgia St., at a cost of $300. Monroe Tent & Awning Co. plans to do $500 worth of work on the tent and awning factory located at Selman Field.

Obtaining permits for additions to brick veneer residences were W. C. Slakter, 2306 Amalie, for $1,500; and Frank Shook, 1814 College Ave., at $1,000.

Addition permits for frame buildings were granted to Eliza-

AMBASSADOR LODGE
. . . Protests Beatings

Berbers Gain More Control In Algeria

AZAZGA, Algeria (AP)—Berber dissidents claimed control Saturday of more territory in the Kabylie Mountains of Algeria and were hailed by peasants demanding arms against President Ahmed Ben Bella.

A crowd of more than 3,000 Berbers roared a welcome to dissident leaders, who told them, "If you want arms to fight Ben Bella, we will give them to you."

CROWD CHANTS

The rhythmic chant of "Long live freedom" rose at the sports stadium of this mountain town 80 miles east of Algiers.

At the same time, Col. Mohand Ou el Hadj, military commander of the dissidents, announced the first casualty of the revolt — a rebel soldier wounded by a government patrol at Port Gueydon northeast of here. Ou el Hadj, whose home town this is, said his troops arrested the patrol after the shooting.

"Give us arms," answered the crowd, held back by young men with green and white brassards marked with the insignia of the Rebel Front of Socialist Forces.

Late in the afternoon, dissident troops who rallied to Ou El Hadj, claimed control of most towns and villages in the heart of Kabylie, outside the capital of Tizi Ouzou, which is guarded by government troops.

But even in Tizi Ouzou the government had little control over the population. A much-publicized progovernment demonstration failed to take place when only a handful of government supporters showed up.

In Fort National 15 miles from Tizi Ouzou, Berbers massed to cheer leaders who traveled from town to town to demand resistance.

A dissident parliamentary deputy from the central Algerian area of Orleanville, Arezki Harmouche, told the rally, "Our struggle is national. We are ready to suppress dictatorship."

Storm Inflicts Light Damage

BARROW, Alaska (AP) — A radio message Saturday from Wainwright, 75 miles southwest of here on the Arctic Ocean, reported only slight damage from Thursday's savage arctic storm. Fear had been expressed for the community of 100 persons.

Officials said because Wainwright was not hard hit they also believed Point Lay, a village 75 miles farther southwest with about a dozen residents, also probably escaped serious damage.

3 Americans Are Beaten, U.S. Protests

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A shaven-headed, young Buddhist monk burned himself to death before hundreds of stunned spectators in Saigon Saturday and the political crisis in South Viet Nam hit a new and dangerous peak of tension.

The monk's fiery suicide set off a rapid-fire chain of events.

RAISES SPECTER

It brought another confrontation between the U.S. government and the authoritarian regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem. It also raised the specter of more protest suicides and antigovernment demonstrations that could topple Diem's regime.

The monk, who appeared to be in his early 20s, sat in the "lotus" position in a main square, poured gasoline over his brown robe and touched a match to it. He died in three minutes.

Three U.S. newsmen attempting to cover the grisly suicide outside Saigon's teeming central market were brutally beaten by plainclothes Vietnamese police.

Henry Cabot Lodge, the new U.S. ambassador, promptly delivered personally a strong protest to the Vietnamese government.

The protest, a departure from past U.S. practice here, appeared to indicate a firmer U.S. line toward Diem. Previous beatings of Western newsmen had gone unprotested.

Lodge said he "objected strongly to the way American citizens had been treated." His protest stated this was "not a proper way to treat men who are doing their duty and who had a perfect right to be there."

The monk, identified in a Bud-

U.S. May Recall Leader Of CIA From Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. intelligence chief in South Viet Nam, John H. Richardson, and some other senior American officials at Saigon probably will be recalled in a shakeup of personnel under Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Reporting this Saturday informed sources said Richardson is being brought back to Washington "for consultation" but Lodge has asked for a permanent replacement.

The others who may be replaced in the diplomatic-military trouble spot were not named. It was said that Lodge, who took over as ambassador in late August, feels that changes are needed for a more effective performance in the prevailing circumstances.

One major difficulty has been dealing with the authoritarian regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem. At one point Washington hoped Diem would get rid of his influential brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, who is regarded as a powerful advocate of tough tactics against the regime's Buddhist opponents.

With Washington trying but failing to get Nhu out of the palace or to change his policies, it was felt here that U.S. officials in Saigon who had worked closely with Nhu are now in a position of decreased influence.

Ouachita Fair Begins Monday In West Monroe

Carnival equipment, livestock, and an assortment of other features will be moved onto the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in West Monroe this weekend in preparation for opening of the exposition at 5 p.m. Monday.

This was announced Saturday by John Birdsong, secretary-manager of the fair, who forecast that attendance during the one-week run will exceed the 45,000 mark set last year.

Some 500 4-H and FFA livestock entries have been registered for the junior livestock show from eight area parishes. These include Ouachita, Union, Morehouse, West Carroll, Richland, Franklin, Caldwell and Jackson.

In addition to the livestock show there will be horticultural exhibits, booths featuring sewing, handicraft, food preservation, baking, wildlife exhibits, and commercial exhibits.

Judging of livestock will be conducted in the evenings so junior exhibitors will not have to miss school, Birdsong said. There will be an auction of some junior show animals 1:30 p.m. Friday and a Quarter Horse show on Saturday.

The carnival will start operating Monday evening and continue through Saturday.

The livestock judging schedule will be as follows: Dairy animals, 6 p.m. Monday; breeding sheep and lambs, 5 p.m. Tuesday; hogs, 5 p.m. Wednesday; breeding beef and steers, 5 p.m. Thursday.

Birdsong announced a new carnival attraction, a fun house from Germany, which was a top attraction at the recent fair in Memphis. The other carnival features will be provided by Blue Grass Shows.

29-YEAR-OLD WOMAN

Surgeons Replace Cancerous Liver

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Surgeons from Colorado University and Denver Veterans Administration Hospital transplanted a liver to a 29-year-old woman early Saturday in a five-hour operation.

The transplant was the fifth such operation. No liver transplant done anywhere so far has been successful, a hospital spokesman said. The woman was suffering from liver cancer.

The spokesman said the name of the woman, a resident of suburban Arvada, could not be disclosed. He did not identify the donor, either, except to say that it was a man who had died in VA Hospital of gunshot wounds.

The spokesman said the surgeons had barely completed a kidney transplant on another patient when they received word of the man's death and the availability of the liver. The man's family had authorized the use of his liver in the operation.

The organ was quickly removed from the man's body, placed in a sterile container and transferred across the street to Colorado General Hospital.

The elapsed time from the death of the donor until circulation was restored in the liver was about 2½ hours.

The woman, who had been in Colorado General since Sept. 29, was prepared for the operation.

The spokesman said it could be anytime between 13 to 15 hours and three weeks before it is known whether the woman's body would accept or reject the liver. Her condition immediately after the operation was satisfactory.

The record life span of liver transplant patients here is 22 days.

UGF Reports Due Thursday

First official report meeting for the United Givers Fund will be held at noon Thursday, in the Virginia Hotel ballroom. It will be a Dutch-treat luncheon, campaign officials stated.

UGF leaders called on all workers to complete their calls as soon as possible and be prepared to make an outstanding report. This will mark the first time the total amount raised in the drive will be tabulated and reported to the public.

The results of "Operation Cleansweep" and the Pilot Campaigns will also be announced at that time.

Partly Cloudy Skies Forecast

Clouds that drifted into the Monroe area Saturday are expected to extend their visit through Monday but give no indication of turning on their taps for Twin Cities residents.

The area weatherman says that the mercury will again soar into the 90s today, reminiscent of a long hot summer that most people thought had faded into history. However, after-dark temperatures continue to serve notice that winter is gradually approaching as the mercury dips into the mid-50s again. Today's highs were forecast to be somewhere between 88 and 94. Lows tonight will range from 56 to 62. Saturday's high, around 2 p.m., was a hot and dry 93 and the low, at 6 a.m. Saturday was recorded at 55.

'HOME RUNAWAYS'

3 Little Leaguers View Series Game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three runaway Little Leaguers from Phoenix, Ariz., saw Saturday's World Series baseball game from a front-row box with a Los Angeles city councilwoman and the governor of California

For Eddie Sanchez, 11; Steve Mora, 12, and Niki Munoz, 13, it was the thrilling realization of a dream that brought them more than 400 miles from their homes earlier this week.

"I thought we'd never see the inside of this place," said one. They were a bit more thrilled than any other trio of boys there—because they'd come so close to missing the game entirely.

The three pooled their cash last Tuesday and ran away to see the World Series. They rode a bus to Los Angeles and camped for two days in the Dodger Stadium ticket line before police picked them up. By then they had little more than $5 among them.

Councilwoman Rosalind Wyman read of their plight and took them in tow as her proteges. She said she didn't mean to encourage runaways but theought they had learned their lesson—"And gosh! When you're 12 or 13 years old—a World Series!"

At Dodger Stadium the boys sat with Mrs. Wyman, her attorney husband, Eugene, who is state Democratic chairman, and Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Their grins and whoops were among those of 55,912 fans who saw the Dodgers defeat the New York Yankees 1-0 for a third straight Series victory.

Around them sat show-business and political luminaries. But the boys weren't awed. To them the stars were on the field.

El Greco was born on the island of Crete in the 16th century, and later studied and painted in Italy and Spain. Most of the known El Greco works are in permanent collections.

Partly Cloudy Skies Forecast

Clouds that drifted into the Monroe area Saturday are expected to extend their visit through Monday but give no indication of turning on their taps for Twin Cities residents.

The area weatherman says that the mercury will again soar into the 90s today, reminiscent of a long hot summer that most people thought had faded into history. However, after-dark temperatures continue to serve notice that winter is gradually approaching as the mercury dips into the mid-50s again. Today's highs were forecast to be somewhere between 88 and 94. Lows tonight will range from 56 to 62. Saturday's high, around 2 p.m., was a hot and dry 93 and the low, at 6 a.m. Saturday was recorded at 55.

UGF Reports Due Thursday

First official report meeting for the United Givers Fund will be held at noon Thursday, in the Virginia Hotel ballroom. It will be a Dutch-treat luncheon, campaign officials stated.

UGF leaders called on all workers to complete their calls as soon as possible and be prepared to make an outstanding report. This will mark the first time the total amount raised in the drive will be tabulated and reported to the public.

The results of "Operation Cleansweep" and the Pilot Campaigns will also be announced at that time.

Permits Soar For Building During Week

3 College Dorms Skyrocket Total Past $1 Million

Monroe's building permits topped the million dollar mark during the past week. The issuance of a permit for the three new men's dormitories at Northeast State College skyrocketed the total up to $1,179,151, for the period of Sept. 30 through Oct. 4, according to Dale Martha, coordinator for the City of Monroe Inspector's Department.

The men's residence halls, which received by far the largest single new building permit issued, will be constructed at 4110 Bon Aire Drive, at a cost of $1,126,161. Contractor for the project is Breck Construction Co. of Monroe.

PERMITS GRANTED

The 22 permits granted for the week included two others for new buildings, five for moving buildings and 14 for additions to present structures.

Sidney Swink and James Ellis received permission to construct a brick veneer residence, a duplex to be located at 3604-06 Claiborne. Cost of the structure will be $15,000. The final permit went to Community Homes for a new brick veneer residence at 3103 Barlow, amounting to $13,000.

N. P. Fontana got a permit to remodel his residence and grocery, repairing damage done by fire. The structure is located at 2114 Flynn, and remodeling costs will be $4,440. Vic Ditta plans to build an addition to his masonry wholesale electrical supply building at 500 Riverside, amounting to $6,000.

Mrs. Virginia Lorick will add a frame garage and storage room to her residence located at the rear of 1612 Georgia St., at a cost of $300. Monroe Tent & Awning Co. plans to do $500 worth of work on the tent and awning factory located at Selman Field.

Obtaining permits for additions to brick veneer residences were W. C. Slakter, 2306 Amalie, for $1,500; and Frank Shook, 1814 College Ave., at $1,000.

Addition permits for frame buildings were granted to Eliza-

Storm Inflicts Light Damage

BARROW, Alaska (AP) — A radio message Saturday from Wainwright, 75 miles southwest of here on the Arctic Ocean, reported only slight damage from Thursday's savage arctic storm. Fear had been expressed for the community of 100 persons.

Officials said because Wainwright was not hard hit they also believed Point Lay, a village 75 miles farther southwest with about a dozen residents, also probably escaped serious damage.

Berbers Gain More Control In Algeria

AZAZGA, Algeria (AP)—Berber dissidents claimed control Saturday of more territory in the Kabylie Mountains of Algeria and were hailed by peasants demanding arms against President Ahmed Ben Bella.

A crowd of more than 3,000 Berbers roared a welcome to dissident leaders, who told them, "If you want arms to fight Ben Bella, we will give them to you."

CROWD CHANTS

The rhythmic chant of "Long live freedom" rose at the sports stadium of this mountain town 80 miles east of Algiers.

At the same time, Col. Mohand Ou el Hadj, military commander of the dissidents, announced the first casualty of the revolt — a rebel soldier wounded by a government patrol at Port Gueydon northeast of here. Ou el Hadj, whose home town this is, said his troops arrested the patrol after the shooting.

"Give us arms," answered the crowd, held back by young men with green and white brassards marked with the insignia of the Rebel Front of Socialist Forces.

Late in the afternoon, dissident troops who rallied to Ou El Hadj, claimed control of most towns and villages in the heart of Kabylie, outside the capital of Tizi Ouzou, which is guarded by government troops.

But even in Tizi Ouzou the government had little control over the population. A much-publicized progovernment demonstration failed to take place when only a handful of government supporters showed up.

In Fort National 15 miles from Tizi Ouzou, Berbers massed to cheer leaders who traveled from town to town to demand resistance.

A dissident parliamentary deputy from the central Algerian area of Orleanville, Arezki Harmouche, told the rally, "Our struggle is national. We are ready to suppress dictatorship."

3 Americans Are Beaten, U.S. Protests

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A shaven-headed, young Buddhist monk burned himself to death before hundreds of stunned spectators in Saigon Saturday and the political crisis in South Viet Nam hit a new and dangerous peak of tension.

The monk's fiery suicide set off a rapid-fire chain of events.

RAISES SPECTER

It brought another confrontation between the U.S. government and the authoritarian regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem. It also raised the specter of more protest suicides and antigovernment demonstrations that could topple Diem's regime.

The monk, who appeared to be in his early 20s, sat in the "lotus" position in a main square, poured gasoline over his brown robe and touched a match to it. He died in three minutes.

Three U.S. newsmen attempting to cover the grisly suicide outside Saigon's teeming central market were brutally beaten by plainclothes Vietnamese police.

Henry Cabot Lodge, the new U.S. ambassador, promptly delivered personally a strong protest to the Vietnamese government.

The protest, a departure from past U.S. practice here, appeared to indicate a firmer U.S. line toward Diem. Previous beatings of Western newsmen had gone unprotested.

Lodge said he "objected strongly to the way American citizens had been treated." His protest stated this was "not a proper way to treat men who are doing their duty and who had a perfect right to be there."

The monk, identified in a Bud-

U.S. May Recall Leader Of CIA From Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. intelligence chief in South Viet Nam, John H. Richardson, and some other senior American officials at Saigon probably will be recalled in a shakeup of personnel under Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Reporting this Saturday informed sources said Richardson is being brought back to Washington "for consultation" but Lodge has asked for a permanent replacement.

The others who may be replaced in the diplomatic-military trouble spot were not named. It was said that Lodge, who took over as ambassador in late August, feels that changes are needed for a more effective performance in the prevailing circumstances.

One major difficulty has been dealing with the authoritarian regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem. At one point Washington hoped Diem would get rid of his influential brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, who is regarded as a powerful advocate of tough tactics against the regime's Buddhist opponents.

With Washington trying but failing to get Nhu out of the palace or to change his policies, it was felt here that U.S. officials in Saigon who had worked closely with Nhu are now in a position of decreased influence.

29-YEAR-OLD WOMAN

Surgeons Replace Cancerous Liver

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Surgeons from Colorado University and Denver Veterans Administration Hospital transplanted a liver to a 29-year-old woman early Saturday in a five-hour operation.

The transplant was the fifth such operation. No liver transplant done anywhere so far has been successful, a hospital spokesman said. The woman was suffering from liver cancer.

The spokesman said the name of the woman, a resident of suburban Arvada, could not be disclosed. He did not identify the donor, either, except to say that it was a man who had died in VA Hospital of gunshot wounds.

The spokesman said the surgeons had barely completed a kidney transplant on another patient when they received word of the man's death and the availability of the liver. The man's family had authorized the use of his liver in the operation.

The organ was quickly removed from the man's body, placed in a sterile container and transferred across the street to Colorado General Hospital.

The elapsed time from the death of the donor until circulation was restored in the liver was about 2½ hours.

The woman, who had been in Colorado General since Sept. 29, was prepared for the operation.

The spokesman said it could be anytime between 13 to 15 hours and three weeks before it is known whether the woman's body would accept or reject the liver. Her condition immediately after the operation was satisfactory.

The record life span of liver transplant patients here is 22 days.

'HOME RUNAWAYS'

3 Little Leaguers View Series Game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three runaway Little Leaguers from Phoenix, Ariz., saw Saturday's World Series baseball game from a front-row box with a Los Angeles city councilwoman and the governor of California.

For Eddie Sanchez, 11; Steve Mora, 12, and Niki Munoz, 13, it was the thrilling realization of a dream that brought them more than 400 miles from their homes earlier this week.

"I thought we'd never see the inside of this place," said one. They were a bit more thrilled than any other trio of boys there—because they'd come so close to missing the game entirely.

The three pooled their cash last Tuesday and ran away to see the World Series. They rode a bus to Los Angeles and camped for two days in the Dodger Stadium ticket line before police picked them up. By then they had little more than $5 among them.

Councilwoman Rosalind Wyman read of their plight and took them in tow as her proteges. She said she didn't mean to encourage runaways but theought they had learned their lesson—"And gosh! When you're 12 or 13 years old—a World Series!"

At Dodger Stadium the boys sat with Mrs. Wyman, her attorney husband, Eugene, who is state Democratic chairman, and Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Their grins and whoops were among those of 55,912 fans who saw the Dodgers defeat the New York Yankees 1-0 for a third straight Series victory.

Around them sat show-business and political luminaries. But the boys weren't awed. To them the stars were on the field.

Union Parish Starts Brisk Labor Survey

Over 1,000 job applications were accepted by a labor evaluation team in Farmerville Saturday in an effort to assure an adequate labor force for a nationally-known garment manufacturer considering establishment of a factory in Union Parish.

A Farmerville business leader, K. D. Kilpatrick, said Saturday's response of available and willing workers was encouraging and that an even greater turn-out is expected for the two remaining survey days, Monday and Tuesday. He noted that Farmerville's businessmen were optimistic about support from the adjoining parishes of Claiborne, Lincoln, Ouachita and Morehouse, adding that many of Saturday's applicants were from these parishes.

"However," warned Kilpatrick, "We only want applicants who are willing and available to work. Applicants who have no intention of working but apply to pad the survey are harming our efforts to present a sincere and realistic justification to the garment company."

"We need at least 3,000 applications to assure the location of this factory here. Company officials have told us that the Farmerville location was their avorite because of its proximity to other subsidiaries and to the company's market. They have emphasized that a favorable labor survey will result in locating the factory here."

The interviews in the Farmerville American Legion Hall will continue Monday and Tuesday, 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. They are being conducted by a labor evaluation team made up of company executives and staff members from the Louisiana Division of Employment Security and Department of Commerce and Industry. A team member advised that 2,000 applicants could be registered each of the remaining days without any extensive congestion or delay.

In an effort to aid Union Parish in obtaining the industry, Monroe will provide bus transportion Monday and Tuesday to Farmerville for anyone desiring to register as an applicant. Monroe Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard noted that such a factory at Farmerville would be of tremendous value to the entire area.

The mayor announced that buses will operate according to the following schedule:

Monday — Bus No. 1: Leaves Monroe City Hall at 8 a.m., arrive in Swartz at 8:20 a.m.; Perryville, 8:40 a.m.; Sterlington, 8:55 a.m. Spencer, 9:15 a.m.; Haile, 9:30 a.m.; Marion, 9:45 a.m.; and on to Farmerville.

Bus No. 2: Leave Calhoun at 8:20 a.m.; Choudrant, 8:55 a.m.; Downsville, 9:15 a.m. Point, 9:40 a.m.; then to Farmerville.

Tuesday — Bus No. 1: Leave Ruston courthouse at 8 a.m.; Vienna, 8:15 a.m.; Dubach, 8:25 a.m.; Bernice, 8:50 a.m.; then to Farmerville.

2 Persons Hurt In Monroe Area Auto Accidents

Two persons were hurt, neither seriously, in separate traffic accidents in and around Monroe Saturday.

A Negro, McHenry Jackson, 1201 S. McGuire St., was treated at St. Francis hospital early Saturday morning for minor injuries after he was involved in a collision at the intersection of Grammont and Jackson Streets.

According to Monroe police, Jackson was driving east on Grammont when he collided with a car driven north on Jackson Street by James E. Smith, 403 Parker St., Monroe. Smith told police the light had just turned green for him, and that as he started through the intersection, Jackson crashed into him. The wreck occurred at 5:20 a.m.

A Newellton woman, Mrs. Ruth D. Lang, 57, sustained lacerations of the face and a possible neck injury when she was struck by a car on Louisiana Highway 15, just south of the Monroe city limits Saturday afternoon. She was rushed to St. Francis hospital for emergency treatment by Hixson Brothers ambulance.

According to investigating state troopers, Mrs. Lang was turning south onto the highway from Hadley Street when struck by a car driven north by Billy Caldwell, 32, of 2402 N. 19th St., Monroe. Troopers ticketed Mrs. Lang with failure to yield right-of-way.

Friend's Action Saves Youth As Clothing Burns

A near-tragedy was averted Saturday afternoon when a 19-year-old youth's flaming clothing was torn off him by a quick thinking companion.

Parnell Stockstill, 19, of 502 Bres Ave., suffered second degree burns on the right leg, thigh and arm, and some third-degree burns near the right foot. He was hospitalized at St. Francis for treatment of the burns, which he suffered while attempting to start a truck that had run out of gas.

His companion, Jimmy Whiting, 3905 Blanks St., suffered burns on the hand when he ripped Stockstill's flaming trousers off him and extinquished the fire. Then Whiting, along with friends, rushed Stockstill to the hospital for emergency treatment.

The incident occurred at 1609 Pine Street shortly before 2:30 p.m. when the ice cream truck that Stockstill drove ran out of gas. Unofficial sources said Stockstill and Whiting were attempting to start the truck by pouring gasoline into the carburetor when the vehicle backfired and exploded flames out, catching Stockstill's clothing afire.

Whiting leaped to his assistance, removing the blazing clothing and extinquishing the fire. Stockstill was reported in good condition at the hospital later Saturday.

Truck No. three from the Monroe fire department extinguished the fire on the hood of the truck.

McKeithen

TULLOS (Special) — Gubernatorial Candidate John McKeithen on a stumping tour said here Saturday, that if elected governor he will vigorously fight, "for Protection of women's rights in the family homestead by legislation that will require the signing of both husband and wife to sell or mortgage the family homestead."

McKeithen said, "It is high time the lady of the house, the mothers of this state who bear such great responsibility for tomorrow's citizens, receive the proper protection by law."

Turning to one of his opponents, ex-Governor Robert Kennon, McKeithen said, "The Jimmie Davis crowd in Baton Rouge have turned to ex-governor Kennon in an attempt to keep their jobs and the favored positions that they have enjoyed during the past four years. The only trouble with that was that only they enjoyed any of the great blessings which God has showered on Louisiana. The average citizen and his needs was shoved into the background as the chosen few went forward."

McKeithen continued, "They're after four more years of that type of lack of government and they've pinned their hopes on Bob Kennon. Experience has taught them that he, too, favors government by the chosen few."

McKeithen said, "I believe that that crowd is in for a great disappointment on the morning of December 8th. The people of Louisiand won't buy that bill of goods no matter how much they sugar coat it."

McKeithen promised, "If you elect me governor I promise the biggest firing of deadheads that this state has ever seen. Government's going to be returned to all of the people."

Morrison

BELLEROSE, La. (AP) — DeLeseps S. Morison Saturday called the Sunshine Bridge an example of fiscal mismanagement costing the state millions of dollars.

Morrison, speaking here during a 7-stop swing through Ascension, Assumption and Lafourche parishe, said the bridge "wasn't going to cost the state anything because the state's full faith and credit would not be pledged.

"But lo and behold," the candidate for governor said, "we wake up to find the state obligated for this debt as much as for any other state general obligation bonds."

"Such fiscal misdeeds by the present administration are just further examples of the high cost of bad government."

Morrison said he favored a constitutional amendment to provide that state debts could be incurred only by a two-third vote of the legislature — plus a majority vote of the public.

Gillis Long

HOMER, La. (AP) — Gillis W. Long, candidate for governor, Saturday blamed State Education Supt. Shelby Jackson for Louisiana's educational problems.

"This man has for 16 years kept Louisiana number one in the nation in the number of illiterate people," Long said.

"And to show you his nerve: he's so proud of this record that he wants to be promoted to governor."

Long said one good thing is that the state is at least assured Jackson won't be education superintendent any more.

Long proposed an all-out offensive against illiteracy relying on the use of television for giving basic educations to adults who can't read or write.

Long said he will name his choice for education superintendent probably on Monday.

Malaysia Wants To End Land Grab

Editor's Note — William L. Ryan, a reporter who specializes in news about the clash between Communist and non-Communist worlds, is in Asia interviewing leaders and talking with people on both the left and right of the political spectrum. This dispatch results from an interview with the head of Malaysia, a nation beset at birth.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—As the leader of Malaysia sees it, President Sukarno of Indonesia must be stopped from trying to seize more territory.

And the way he can be stopped, says Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of this fledgling nation, may be "to bring home to the people of Indonesia the need for the overthrow of that diabolical type of government."

"It has done nothing for the Indonesian people except bring them misery, misery and more misery," he told this reporter Saturday. They must be encouraged to fight against an unjust government which does not fit in with modern ideas and modern civilization."

Sukarno, leader of a nation of 100 million, has vowed to do away with Malaysia, a union of former British states with a total population of 10 million.

Before Malaysia will come to terms with Sukarno, said the Tunku, the Indonesian chief must discredit the Indonesian Communist party and destroy its influence.

A crisis has been burgeoning between Malaysia and Indonesia ever since the Malaysians broke diplomatic relations with Sukarno's government and the government of the Philippines because the two refused to recognize the new nation. Malaysia was born Sept. 16.

The Tunku, a man who exudes serene self-confidence, pulled no punches in his discussion of Sukarno. As for the Philippines, he said he was at a loss to understand its position.

He said the Philippine government committed itself to accepting the findings of Secretary-General U Thant of the United Nations, whose survey subsequently found that the people of North Borneo and Sarawak favored Malaysia.

"They (the Philippines) refused to accept the U.N. findings," he said, "although they had an undertaking to do so. From the beginning they had no intention at all of honoring the U.N. report."

But the Tunku reserved his acid comments for the Indonesians. He contended that Indonesian opposition to Malaysia was a direct result of the Red Chinese attack on India last fall, when the Tunku denounced Peking and launched a save democracy" drive' to help the Indians.

"The Chinese were very angry with me," he said. "And Indonesia mounted its opposition against Malaysia as a result of my stand on China-India.

"Sukarno would say he is not influenced by the Communists, but it shows up when the Indonesians try to reach agreement with me. He says he is not under Communist influence, but he gives into them all the time.

"I would not mind meeting him (Sukarno), but it must be on my conditions. He must break away from the Communists. Otherwise, under Communist pressure, any agreements that are reached will be dishonored.

"When Sukarno discredits the Communists openly I will be ready to come to terms with him.

Ike Sees No Thaw In Soviet-U.S. Relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower thinks there has been no real thaw in U.S. relations with the Russians, and unless this country can drive a good bargain, he sees no reason for selling wheat to them.

The former president put it this way: "I would not call this a thaw. I would call it more of a change in tactics for the moment. And I would say this: If, in a matter of an economic deal, we saw that we got a very great advantage in it, well, then it is a good horse trade."

And would getting gold for surplus wheat be a good horse trade?

"It might be," Eisenhower said, "but I would look at this thing very carefully." And at another point: "If we don't get a very definite advantage in it, I don't see the reason for doing it."

Eisenhower's views were given in an interview with political reporters from the Washington Sunday Star, Newark News, Detroit News and St. Louis Post-Dispatch. They talked with Eisenhower at Gettysburg, Pa., and their copyright stories will appear in their Sunday editions.

It was a wide-ranging interview in which the former president discussed everything from foreign affairs to civil rights.

But he shied away from answering, on the record, the questions that are becoming more interesting every day: What should the Republicans do to win the White House in 1964? And if Eisenhower had his pick, who would he choose as the GOP presidential nominee?

Here are highlights of the former president's views 30 months after leaving office:

Sharing a trip to the moon with the Russians: "This would take away the appearance of a stunt and a race. I don't see the need for such a race. To me this is just putting our substance into something that has no particular value to us as a people or to the world in general.

"Of course, this race was proposed right after the Cuban fiasco. It looked a good deal like a very fine way to get Cuba off the front page."

Foreign aid: "There has been a lot of talk about the $103 billion that we have given away since World War II. But I wonder if anyone ever thinks of this: What would this world be right now if we had not given that money away?

"No one can prove that we would not today be surrounded by a complete sea of communism."

Eisenhower wishes, though, that foreign aid could be planned on a long-range basis so it would be more efficient.

Civil rights: "I am one of those who is on the side of the underprivileged people in their struggle to get their political and economic rights respected and observed. Now I believe it is not only a legal but a moral problem for everyone of us."

Eisenhower said he favors a step-at-a-time approach to civil rights legislation, and he thinks the 1957 voting law—"if fully and impartially enforced' — is the most important step of all.

Did he think, as a matter of tactics, that it might be well to delay the public accommodations portion of the pending civil rights bill?

"Public accommodations ought to be taken up soon," Eisenhower said, "but I still believe that the most precious right you have, even more than where you sleep, is can you vote or not, can you participate in your government?"

Eisenhower said he's disappointed in France's attitude toward nuclear testing, the European Common Market and North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

JUNIOR CHARITY LEAGUE

Paintings Display Held At Library

Framed reproductions of famous artists' paintings, donated for the lending collection at Ouachita Parish Public Library by the Junior Charity League, were on display at the Businessmen's Appreciation coffee, given by the League Friday at the Louis Locke Room of the main library.

Purpose of the coffee was to express appreciation to local businessmen and to acquaint them with the league projects. Also on display were scrapbooks containing pictures of League members working at the various projects, among which are the Cerebral Palsy school, Crippled Children's clinci, sewing for Charity hospital and with milk cases for social service.

Mrs. Sylvester Breard was general chairman for the event with Mrs. Hilary Sanders as food chairman and Mrs. Charles Amman, invitations chairman. Working on the food committee were Mrs. Lon Heuer, Mrs. G. W. Levert, Mrs. John Mullen, Mrs. Edwin Rowan, Mrs. W. K. Harris, Mrs. John Salisbury, Mrs. Harry Frazer, Mrs. R. G. Hart, Mrs. A. E. Montgomery Jr., Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Mrs. O. C. Jones, Mrs. Charles Searcy, Mrs. A. C. Warner. Assisting with invitations were Mrs. Robert Carter, Mrs. Robert Pipes, Mrs. J. R. Eunson, Mrs. Charles McKenzie and Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Atkinson.

Receiving at the door from 10:30 until 11:30 a.m. were Mrs. Ronald Lee Davis Jr., president of the league and Mrs. Dewitt Milam, past president and from 11:30 until 12:30 p.m. were Mrs. Jesse McDonald, vice-president and Mrs. R. L. Davis Sr., past president.

Mrs. W. C. Cookston and Mrs. Jack Taylor poured coffee from a table, covered with a moss green cloth and centered with an arrangement of artifical glass fruit and unusually shaped candles in a footed milk glass fruit bowl, encircled with English ivy. Other officers who assisted were Mrs. William D. Kelly, Mrs. Jack Tarver and Mrs. Edgar Chapman and also assisting were sustaining members, Mrs. Charles Amman, Mrs. Hilary Sanders, Mrs. Harold Woods Jr., Mrs. Paul Ransom, Mrs. William Husted, Mrs. Harry Frazer, Mrs. George Snellings, Mrs. Jack Eaterling, Mrs. Pascal Norris and Mrs. Jamar Adcock. All assisting with the courtesies were sustaining members with the exception of Mrs. Breard, general chairman and the current officers. Miss Frances Flanders, librarian, also greeted guests.

The pictures, first group for the library lending collection, given by the league may be checked out as are books by the general public. They may be checked out by library card holders for use in their homes for six weeks. "It's a wonderful way to find out what kind of art you can live with before making an actual purchase," said Mrs. Breard, who pointed out that looking at something in an art gallery is vastly different than seeing it in your home.

The framed pictures may also be checked out by teachers for use in classroom study. Included in the group are Breezing Up by Homer Winslow; The Cove by William Zorach; The Hay Wain by John Constable; Houses at Honfleur by Jean-Baptiste Corot; Dancing Recital by Edgar Degas; Vase of Flowers by Paul Cezanne; The Lovers by Pablo Pablo Picasso; Nature Morte by Georges Braque; Petite Cafe, Montmartre by Maurice Utrillo; Fruit by Caravaggio; Don Manuel Osorio de Zuniga by Francisco de Goya and Portrait of Miss Bowles by Sir Josha Reynolds.

Mrs. Phillip Rosamond, Fine Arts chairman for the Junior Charity League, had change of the purchase and presentation of the pictures to the library.

Municipalities Could Use LCAA, Professor Says

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A law professor said Saturday the Louisiana City Attorneys Association can become a very effective helper in legislation affecting municipalities.

The LCAA also heard the Plaquemine city attorney contend his area has had a liberal attitude in voter registration but is not in legal position to grant two major demands by Negro civil rights demonstrators.

Dr. Henry George McMahon of Louisiana State University told the association certain ambiguities in the law would not have come about if the relatively young group had been in existence in 1946.

McMahon said the ambiguities were in state constitutional amendments which require municipalities of over 13,000 population to raise the salary schedule of firemen.

"The court of appeals has held that these amendments do not apply to Baton Rouge or New Orleans," McMahon said.

"Now, the legislature can use the principle of severability in passing legislation which states that, even if courts hold certain portions of a statute of constitutional amendment unconstitutional, it still wishes the balance of the amendment to be applicable, he said.

But McMahon said, "there was no declaration of severability in these amendments. The language of these amendments must be modified and clarified either by the courts or the legislature."

Edward Engolio, Plaquemine city attorney, reviewed state and federal litigation resulting from racial demonstrations in his town.

The demonstrations, led by the Congress of Racial Equality, resulted in clashes with police and arrests of over 400 Negroes.

Four Northeast Bankers Attend National Meet

Leading the Louisiana delegation is W. Richard White, president of the Louisiana Bankers Association and also president of the First National Bank of Jefferson Parish, Gretna. Guthrie is vice president of the LBA.

Evans, who is the American Bankers Association vice president for Louisiana, will take an active part in the convention which will continue through Wednesday.

Studdard Seeks His Fifth Term On Police Jury

FLETCHER STUDDARD

Fletcher G. (Red) Studdard of Ward 1 has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Ouachita Parish Police Jury in the December 7th first Democratic primary.

The 56-year-old farmer is seeking his fifth term on the Police Jury.

"If elected, I will work for the people of Ward 1 and Ouachita Parish — just as I have in the past," Studdard said, issuing the following statement:

"Since Ouachita is a fast-growing parish, we need experienced men on the Police Jury. I have the experience as a juror and would like to put this to use for the people of my ward during the next four years.

"I have always worked for the benefit of Ward I and will continue to work for my people in the future.

"Ouachita has numerous projects underway now, and it is important that we continue to improve our road system, plus our drainage. I will do what I can to help these projects along toward their completion.

"In addition, I would like to point to the people that I have expressed an interest in the garbage problem, because it is serious to the parish and expecially to those people who live in the country. I will continue to work on this problem in hopes that someday we will have it solved.

"Your vote and support will be appreciated. I thank you for your vote in the past and will work for you in the future."

Dubach Church Dedicates New Building Today

DUBACH (Special) — Dr. Robert L. Lee, executive secretary of the Louisiana Baptist Convention, will be the speaker at 11 a.m. today when the First Baptist Church of Dubach dedicates a complete new church plant one block from the old site.

The new 450-seat auditorium and educational building provide 15,000 square feet of floor space and is valued at $200,000. Lincoln Builders of Ruston served as the contractor and B. G. Wardlaw of Monroe was architect.

The educational building includes three nurseries, a built-in kitchen, library, pastor's study, church office, six assembly rooms and thirty class rooms. The entire new plant is air conditioned and centrally heated.

Rev. Dayton A. Doughty, pastor of the church which was organized in 1901, said that dinner will be served following the dedication service and that open house is scheduled from 2 until 4 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Parish Officials Plan To Re-Open Riot Torn School

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP) — Officials plan to reopen Monday Iberville high school, where Negro pupils staged what deputy sheriff Lester Comeaux called it a riot.

Book and rock throwing by pupils on Friday caused principal W. O. Williams and school Supt. L. G. Hoffmann to end the school day at mid-morning.

Damage was reported limited to a broken window and some torn books, but a hurled building stone injured one girl, who was under a physician's care.

The 500 or so pupils at the school include many members of the Congress of Racial Equality which has led civil right demontration here.

Fair Concession To Help Monroe Jaycee Project

The Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce plans to operate the concession stand at the Ouachita Valley Fair, Oct. 7 through 12, Mel Cohen, Jaycee fair committee chairman, announced Saturday.

Cohen said profits from the concession will go to the club's Christmas shopping fund for underprivileged children in the Twin Cities in hopes that at least five dollars per child can be raised. He said that needy children would be taken shopping during the Christmas season by Jaycees and that the youngsters could buy whatever they desired with their five dollars as long as it was a gift for relatives or friends.

The Jaycee official explained that the purpose of the program was to help the kids enjoy the Christmas season and the joy of giving. Cohen said that for many of the youngsters this would be a "first" in their life. He added that if funds permitted, a party for the area's underprivileged youths will be staged during Yuletide at the Francis Hotel.

The chairman urged that all fair-goers patronize the Jaycee concession and assured that "the snacks will be the best at the fair."

JUNIOR CHARITY LEAGUE

Paintings Display Held At Library

Framed reproductions of famous artists' paintings, donated for the lending collection at Ouachita Parish Public Library by the Junior Charity League, were on display at the Businessmen's Appreciation coffee, given by the League Friday at the Louis Locke Room of the main library.

Purpose of the coffee was to express appreciation to local businessmen and to acquaint them with the league projects. Also on display were scrapbooks containing pictures of League members working at the various projects, among which are the Cerebral Palsy school, Crippled Children's clinci, sewing for Charity hospital and with milk cases for social service.

Mrs. Sylvester Breard was general chairman for the event with Mrs. Hilary Sanders as food chairman and Mrs. Charles Amman, invitations chairman. Working on the food committee were Mrs. Lon Heuer, Mrs. G. W. Levert, Mrs. John Mullen, Mrs. Edwin Rowan, Mrs. W. K. Harris, Mrs. John Salisbury, Mrs. Harry Frazer, Mrs. R. G. Hart, Mrs. A. E. Montgomery Jr., Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. Fred Hueneféld, Mrs. O. C. Jones, Mrs. Charles Searcy, Mrs. A. C. Warner. Assisting with invitations were Mrs. Robert Carter, Mrs. Robert Pipes, Mrs. J. R. The pictures, first group for the library lending collection, given by the league may be checked out as are books by the general public. They may be checked out by library card holders for use in their homes for six weeks. "It's a wonderful way to find out what kind of art you can live with before making an actual purchase," said Mrs. Breard, who pointed out that looking at something in an art gallery is vastly different than seeing it in your home.

The framed pictures may also be checked out by teachers for use in classroom study. Included in the group are Breezing Up by Homer Winslow; The Cove by William Zorach; The Hay Wain by John Constable; Houses at Honfleur by Jean-Baptiste Corot; Dancing Recital by Edgar Degas; Vase of Flowers by Paul Cezanne; The Lovers by Pablo Pablo Picasso; Nature Morte by Georges Braque; Petite Cafe, Montmartre by Maurice Utrillo; Fruit by Caravaggio; Don Manuel Osorio de Zuniga by Francisco de Goya and Portrait of Miss Bowles by Sir Josha Reynolds.

Four Northeast Bankers Attend National Meet

Four Northeast Louisiana bankers, two from Monroe, are attending the 89th Annual Convention of the American Bankers Association in Washington D.C. where they are participating in the final observance of the "Centennial Celebration for Commercial Banking."

Attending from Monroe are J. Grayson Guthrie, executive vice president of Central Savings Bank and Trust Co., and R. L. Vanderpool Jr., president of Ouachita National Bank. Also attending are W. P. Sevier, president of Tallulah State Bank and Trust Co., Tallulah; and C. Rupert Evans, president of First National Bank, Lake Providence.

Leading the Louisiana delegation is W. Richard White, president of the Louisiana Bankers Association and also president of the First National Bank of Jefferson Parish, Gretna. Guthrie is vice president of the LBA.

Evans, who is the American Bankers Association vice president for Louisiana, will take an active part in the convention which will continue through Wednesday.

Municipalities Could Use LCAA, Professor Says

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A law professor said Saturday the Louisiana City Attorneys Association can become a very effective helper in legislation affecting municipalities.

The LCAA also heard the Plaquemine city attorney contend his area has had a liberal attitude in voter registration but is not in legal position to grant two major demands by Negro civil rights demonstrators.

Dr. Henry George McMahon of Louisiana State University told the association certain ambiguities in the law would not have come about if the relatively young group had been in existence in 1946.

McMahon said the ambiguities were in state constitutional amendments which require municipalities of over 13,000 population to raise the salary schedule of firemen.

"The court of appeals has held that these amendments do not apply to Baton Rouge or New Orleans," McMahon said.

"Now, the legislature can use the principle of severability in passing legislation which states that, even if courts hold certain portions of a statute of constitutional amendment unconstitutional, it still wishes the balance of the amendment to be applicable, he said.

But McMahon said, "there was no declaration of severability in these amendments. The language of these amendments must be modified and clarified either by the courts or the legislature."

Edward Engolio, Plaquemine city attorney, reviewed state and federal litigation resulting from racial demonstrations in his town.

The demonstrations, led by the Congress of Racial Equality, resulted in clashes with police and arrests of over 400 Negroes.

Studdard Seeks His Fifth Term On Police Jury

FLETCHER STUDDARD

Fletcher G. (Red) Studdard of Ward 1 has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Ouachita Parish Police Jury in the December 7th first Democratic primary.

The 56-year-old farmer is seeking his fifth term on the Police Jury.

"If elected, I will work for the people of Ward 1 and Ouachita Parish — just as I have in the past," Studdard said, issuing the following statement:

"Since Ouachita is a fast-growing parish, we need experienced men on the Police Jury. I have the experience as a juror and would like to put this to use for the people of my ward during the next four years.

"I have always worked for the benefit of Ward I and will continue to work for my people in the future.

"Ouachita has numerous projects underway now, and it is important that we continue to improve our road system, plus our drainage. I will do what I can to help these projects along toward their completion.

"In addition, I would like to point to the people that I have expressed an interest in the garbage problem, because it is serious to the parish and expecially to those people who live in the country. I will continue to work on this problem in hopes that someday we will have it solved.

"Your vote and support will be appreciated. I thank you for your vote in the past and will work for you in the future."

Dubach Church Dedicates New Building Today

DUBACH (Special) — Dr. Robert L. Lee, executive secretary of the Louisiana Baptist Convention, will be the speaker at 11 a.m. today when the First Baptist Church of Dubach dedicates a complete new church plant one block from the old site.

The new 450-seat auditorium and educational building provide 15,000 square feet of floor space and is valued at $200,000. Lincoln Builders of Ruston served as the contractor and B. G. Wardlaw of Monroe was architect.

The educational building includes three nurseries, a built-in kitchen, library, pastor's study, church office, six assembly rooms and thirty class rooms. The entire new plant is air conditioned and centrally heated.

Rev. Dayton A. Doughty, pastor of the church which was organized in 1901, said that dinner will be served following the dedication service and that open house is scheduled from 2 until 4 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Parish Officials Plan To Re-Open Riot Torn School

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP) — Officials plan to reopen Monday Iberville high school, where Negro pupils staged what deputy sheriff Lester Comeaux called it a riot.

Book and rock throwing by pupils on Friday caused principal W. O. Williams and school Supt. L. G. Hoffmann to end the school day at mid-morning.

Damage was reported limited to a broken window and some torn books, but a hurled building stone injured one girl, who was under a physician's care.

The 500 or so pupils at the school include many members of the Congress of Racial Equality which has led civil right demonstration here.

Fair Concession To Help Monroe Jaycee Project

The Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce plans to operate the concession stand at the Ouachita Valley Fair, Oct. 7 through 12, Mel Cohen, Jaycee fair committee chairman, announced Saturday.

Cohen said profits from the concession will go to the club's Christmas shopping fund for underprivileged children in the Twin Cities in hopes that at least five dollars per child can be raised. He said that needy children would be taken shopping during the Christmas season by Jaycees and that the youngsters could buy whatever they desired with their five dollars as long as it was a gift for relatives or friends.

The Jaycee official explained that the purpose of the program was to help the kids enjoy the Christmas season and the joy of giving. Cohen said that for many of the youngsters this would be a "first" in their life. He added that if funds permitted, a party for the area's underprivileged youths will be staged during Yuletide at the Francis Hotel.

The chairman urged that all fair-goers patronize the Jaycee concession and assured that "the snacks will be the best at the fair."

Rattler Spoils Opening Day For Squirrel Hunter

DELHI (Special) — The squirrel, the snake and the hunter — a frustrating triangle for Jerry Simms on his first hunt of the season.

It all started when Jerry decided to try his luck on the first day of squirrel season in the southeastern corner of East Carroll Parish near Bayou Macon. The 23-year-old Epps resident spotted a bushy-tail high in the branches of an oak tree, took careful aim and fired. The squirrel got hit, Jerry got the squirrel, a rattlesnake got Jerry and finally the snake got away.

The snake struck the hunter on the left foot when he bent to pick up the busy-tail. He promptly bled the wound with a pocket knife, walked to his car and drove to a local clinic where he received further treatment.

And what did Jerry have to say about the first day of squirrel season: "I only got two squirrels!"

BREAK FALSE FRONT

Investigators Seek To Bare Syndicate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate crime investigators set their sights Saturday on breaking through a "false front of legitimacy" which they say is masking the operations of a nationwide crime syndicate.

They said they hope to do this with the testimony of police witnesses and mobster Joseph Valachi, who is scheduled to pick up Tuesday where he left off last week in a recital of murder and crime for profit over more than a quarter century.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee conducting the controversial probe of organized crime said the testimony will give the details of more murders, of illicit narcotics traffic as it exists today, of gambling rackets and a flourishing business of loaning money at usurious interest rates to underworld figures. The police call such money-lending "shylocking."

Valachi is a convicted murderer and narcotics racketeer under a life prison sentence. He is testifying against former associates in a criminal secret society he calls Cosa Nostra who, he contends, have ordered him slain as an informer.

His story of receiving the "kiss of death" from Vito Genovese, whom he calls the real power in Cosa Nostra even though now in prison, was one of the dramatic points in Valachi's testimony.

A spokesman for the subcommittee said the hearings in the coming weeks would bring forth new evidence and charts showing how Cosa Nostra in New York is split into five separate mobs, and how they have carved up among themselves the territories and rackets they control.

"This will be current information and will show at least some of the false front of legitimacy which provides cover for certain of these activities," the spokesman said.

He said Deputy Police Inspector John F. Shanley of New York City will be one of the witnesses, and is expected to give testimony which can be matched up with Valachi's story.

The investigation has kicked up controversy in which even law enforcement officials have taken opposite sides as to whether Valachi is telling anything really new, and whether the broadcasting of his testimony is "glorifying" him.

The subcommittee's declared purpose in the inquiry is to determine whether new laws are needed to help the police cope with organized crime.

The inquiry has the backing of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who testified he hoped it would arouse public indignation against racketeers and generate support for new laws to legalize police wiretapping and to compel the testimony of reluctant witnesses.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., has suggested legislation to make it a crime to join outfits like Cosa Nostra which, Valachi said requires members to take a fearsome oath to live a life of crime.

BURMESE ARRESTS

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Burma's revolutionary government Saturday arrested seven more politicians, bringing to 25 the number taken since Thursday night.

World News In Brief

CHIEF MINISTER

SRINAGAR, Kashmir (Indian Sector (AP)—Kashmir will have a chief minister instead of a prime minister under a program to reduce the northern state's special status and to promote integration of it as one of the Indian states. That will leave Jawaharlal Nehru as the only Indian prime minister.

Indian Kashmir also replace its chief of state with a state governor. The state is disputed and occupied in separate parts by India and Pakistan.

BIRTHDAY MINT

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand is minting one million one dollar silver coins and two million 5 cent coppers for limited use on the 36th birthday of King Bhumibol Adulyadej Dec. 5. Paper notes usually serve.

14 FLEE ALBANIA

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) —Yugoslavia announced Saturday that 14 persons have fled from neighboring Albania into this country in the past few days.

The Portuguese airline TAP inaugurated a weekly jet service Saturday to that West African territory, using Boeing 707 aircraft leased from Sabena, Belgian World Air Lines.

300 HELD

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—There are believed to be about 300 people held without charges in South Africa.

Authorities decline to give precise figures. They are detained under a security law which authorizes police to hold suspects 90 days — and the 80-day detention can be repeated indefinitely.

Commenting editorially on this situation, the independent Johannesburg Star last week called on Justice Minister Balthazar Voster to make a full statement giving the numbers held, released, charged and still to be charged.

Rattler Spoils Opening Day For Squirrel Hunter

DELHI (Special) — The squirrel, the snake and the hunter — a frustrating triangle for Jerry Simms on his first hunt of the season.

It all started when Jerry decided to try his luck on the first day of squirrel season in the southeastern corner of East Carroll Parish near Bayou Macon. The 23-year-old Epps resident spotted a bushy-tail high in the branches of an oak tree, took careful aim and fired. The squirrel got hit, Jerry got the squirrel, a rattlesnake got Jerry and finally the snake got away.

The snake struck the hunter on the left foot when he bent to pick up the busy-tail. He promptly bled the wound with a pocket knife, walked to his car and drove to a local clinic where he received further treatment.

And what did Jerry have to say about the first day of squirrel season: "I only got two squirrels!"

BREAK FALSE FRONT

Investigators Seek To Bare Syndicate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate crime investigators set their sights Saturday on breaking through a "false front of legitimacy" which they say is masking the operations of a nationwide crime syndicate.

They said they hope to do this with the testimony of police witnesses and mobster Joseph Valachi, who is scheduled to pick up Tuesday where he left off last week in a recital of murder and crime for profit over more than a quarter century.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee conducting the controversial probe of organized crime said the testimony will give the details of more murders, of illicit narcotics traffic as it exists today, of gambling rackets and a flourishing business of loaning money at usurious interest rates to underworld figures. The police call such money-lending "shylocking."

Valachi is a convicted murderer and narcotics racketeer under a life prison sentence. He is testifying against former associates in a criminal secret society he calls Cosa Nostra who, he contends, have ordered him slain as an informer.

His story of receiving the "kiss of death" from Vito Genovese, whom he calls the real power in Cosa Nostra even though now in prison, was one of the dramatic points in Valachi's testimony.

A spokesman for the subcommittee said the hearings in the coming weeks would bring forth new evidence and charts showing how Cosa Nostra in New York is split into five separate mobs, and how they have carved up among themselves the territories and rackets they control.

"This will be current information and will show at least some of the false front of legitimacy which provides cover for certain of these activities," the spokesman said.

He said Deputy Police Inspector John F. Shanley of New York City will be one of the witnesses, and is expected to give testimony which can be matched up with Valachi's story.

The investigation has kicked up controversy in which even law enforcement officials have taken opposite sides as to whether Valachi is telling anything really new, and whether the broadcasting of his testimony is "glorifying" him.

The subcommittee's declared purpose in the inquiry is to determine whether new laws are needed to help the police cope with organized crime.

The inquiry has the backing of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who testified he hoped it would arouse public indignation against racketeers and generate support for new laws to legalize police wiretapping and to compel the testimony of reluctant witnesses.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., has suggested legislation to make it a crime to join outfits like Cosa Nostra which, Valachi said, requires members to take a fearsome oath to live a life of crime.

BURMESE ARRESTS

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Burma's revolutionary government Saturday arrested seven more politicians, bringing to 25 the number taken since Thursday night.

There has been no official statement on the arrests though a government newspaper said those picked up were obstructing Ne Win's peace efforts.

French Assure Bella Support Against Berbers

ALGIERS (AP) — The French government is reported Saturday to have assured President Ahmed Ben Bella of support in his struggle against the Berber rebellion in Kabylie.

Highly reliable French sources said the assurances were given by French Ambassador Georges Gorse after his return from consultations in Paris. President Charles de Gaulle apparently feels Ben Bella should be backed as the best available statesman in post-independence Algeria.

Reliable reports say the main reason for the French attitude is continuation of French atomic experiments in the Sahara.

France apparently plans to explode five more bombs before completion of its atomic program in the desert.

Despite criticism of the French experiments and occasional threats — mainly for African consumption — the Algerian government has done nothing to prevent France from continuing this program.

Police Disperce Student Pickets

PARIS (UPI) — Heavily-armed police Saturday broke up a demonstration staged at the U.S. Embassy by a group of students protesting American military aid to the South Viet Nam government of President Ngo Dinh Diem. Fifty Vietnamese youths studying here were arrested.

The students assembled in front of the embassy on Avenue Gabriel off the Place de la Concorde, but the police had already surrounded the building in anticipation of trouble.

Monroe Police Arrest Three In Gambling Raid

Monroe police arrested three Negroes in a gambling raid early Saturday, while other activities remained relatively quiet.

Three Negroes booked on gambling and disturbing the peace charges early Saturday include Monroe Dixon, 37, 400½ Cenar St.; Cecile Venner, 35, 202 N. 14th St.; and C. L. George, 1516 Wallace St. They were booked at 5:45 a.m. after being apprehended at 202 N. 14th St.

The Monroe department also booked a 22-year-old Negro, Henry Ford Davis, 3700 Pippin St., for theft Saturday. Davis was arrested on a warrant obtained by S. A. Brunt of the Rose Oil Service Station on DeSiard Street. Davis was held under a $150 bond.

In West Monroe, a Shreveport man, Floyd Mangum, 3731 Mervin St., was booked for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and reckless driving at 3:30 a.m. He was taken into custody on Cypress Street by police.

Later Saturday afternoon, Monroe police booked a 40-year-old Negro woman, Francis Bobbie Howard, 906 Beverly St., for prostitution. She was arrested at her home and held under a $500 bond.

At 9:10 p.m., a 47-year-old man, Ray Jim Thompson, of 24-A Louis Locke Homes, was booked for DWI and reckless driving by Monroe officers. He was taken into custody at Winnsboro Road and Atkinson Street. Monroe officers also booked a 35-year-old man, Gene R. Stickle, 503 Stone Ave., for vagrancy after arresting him at 906 Beverly Street. He was held under a $500 bond.

The Monroe department was also probing the theft of a wallet containing around $10 and otherpersonal cards, taken from Edna Pearl Lindsey, Negro, of 1300 Ouachita Ave. She said the pocketbook was taken from her purse while she danced at the Red Front Cafe on N. 11th Street. A purse snatching incident that occurred around 7 p.m. on Thomas street was also being probed. Adell Stuart, 3017 Polk St., said that as she walked between Polk and Dick Taylor streets on Thomas Avenue, a car passed and one of the youths reached out the window and snatched her purse. It contained $4 and personal cards.

A Lake Charles woman, Ann Goodwin Jones, 3809 Yale St., also sought the aid of Monroe police Saturday in finding her white, brass-studded wallet which she lost in the 200 block of DeSiard Street. She said the pocketbook contained around $200, driver's license, her car ownership title, and courtesy cards, and requested anyone finding it call her collect at GR 73052 in Lake Charles.

Cotton Harvest Revenue Of $64 Million Forecast

better. I think it may be a record yield per acre."

He estimated that "our production is up somewhat from last year. Somewhere in the vicinity of nine or 10 per cent on total bales expected and on the yield per acre average probably close to 100 pounds."

He said the total value of last year's state crop was $88 million for lint and [illegible] million for seed.

Market prices are reported holding up well, as most gins continue on an around the clock basis.

To give an indication of the production climb which many agriculturists report is holding about even on quality with that of last year, Parker said that in "the area including East Carroll, Franklin, Madison, Morehouse, Richland, Tensas and West Carroll parishes the average yield per acre last year was 482 pounds, but estimates on September 1 of this year indicated an estimated 500 pounds per acre."

He said total yield in those seven parishes last year was [illegible] bales, and the September estimate for this year was [illegible].

Many jubilant farmers on the scene harvesting and some county agents are inclined to make larger yield estimates for this year, and quite somewhat larger figures on the totals of last year than does the Crop Reporting Service.

As an example, Austin Johnson, Franklin Parish county agent said he believed the total yield in his parish last year was around 50,655 bales on the basis of compress figures, but that officially he goes by the Reporting Service figures of 47,600 bales.

He said last year the average yield of lint per acre was close to 400 pounds. The reporting service holds to the figure of 361 average. And Johnson estimates that the yield this year, if weather continues favorable through harvest, may run to an average of around 500 pounds per acre. The 1956 average per acre there was 460 pounds of lint, he said.

Madison Parish Associate County Agent Buck Raley said, "Harvest is going full blast and farm after farm is picking two bales an acre. Most of them are making more per acre than last year. I think it will be one of the best crops we have picked in years."

All the major producing parishes reported gins running behind. Raley said, "Gins are running three to four days late and most mechanical pickers have to pick half a day and then sit idle because of the shortage of trailers."

In Richland Parish last year's yield was close to 42,000 bales. Last week Bill Watkins, assistant county agent there said that agricultural officials have boosted their estimate for this year's yield from 50,000 bales to high as 53,000 bales.

"The yield per acre seems to be quite a bit higher," he said, "and the quality of the cotton is running about like last year, and about like expected, quite a bit in the middling grade."

Harvest in general started later this year than last. Some picking was done in late Agust, but most of it did not get under way well until in September.

Said J. J. Joyce Jr., Ouachita Parish county agent, "I think we will have a better crop than we have had in several years. Gin and trailer capacity are limiting the pace of the harvest. Give us two or three weeks if the gins don't break down and there will be some pretty dark colored fields free of cotton, and maybe some with some scrapping behind."

Wesley Taylor who farms with his father, Sam Taylor, in Logtown community of Ouachita Parish reported last year harvesting one bale an acre off of a 52-acre section of field. Picking from that same acreage this year was running more than one and one-half bales an acre.

At the Bosco Gin Company at Bosco, T. A. "Bud" Calloway reported early last week passing the 1,000 bale ginning mark. The ginning season there was over last year on October 4. The total ginned in 1962 was 4,200 bales. He expects to process between 4,500 and 5,000 bales this season. He said quality of cotton was average, but not quite as good as last year. He and his father W. A. Calloway operate the gin and plant large acreages of cotton also.

Wayne McDonald, president of the Ouachita Parish Farm Bureau, a cotton farmer, residing in Monroe, recently inspected an abundant crop on his farm where plants not only were loaded with a large amount of open cotton from top to bottom, but also had many unopened bolls. Some observers estimated that the 143 acre field might yield as much as two bales an acre. Picking is expected to start there this week.

Paul Ransom of Monroe, prominent in state Farm Bureau circles, and a Ouachita cotton planter, was jubilant last week over early yields.

He cited the results on one 34-acre field which last year yielded one and one-half bales an acre.

"On the first time over this year," he said, "we got 64 bales, and there is some scrapping left to be done."

Ransom said he believes that Ouachita Parish will have an average of 620 to 630 pounds of lint per acre. The Crop Reporting Service lists the 1962 average as 485 per acre.

The weather favored the crop this year by producing rainfall when needed and presenting fair skies during the early weeks of harvest. Weather conditions during the next few weeks will have major bearing on the final outcome of the crop, since excessive moisture would downgrade quality. Last year's crop was speeded to maturity by prolonged dry weather and farmers completed harvest in time to carry out a considerable amount of land improvement work.

Ouachita Agent Joyce said farmers this year got by with a minumum of poisoning of cotton.

Around the first of the month the U. S. Department of Agriculture Classing office at Winnsboro reported through its officer in charge, R. O. Slay, that almost 10,000 samples a day were being received. He said the office was unable to keep current with receipts and a backlog of unclassed samples accumulated. A second classing crew was brought in and assigned to the night shift to prevent a further buildup of samples.

A week ago the office had classed 110,574 samples, about one-third of the expected volume for the year.

dhist leaflet as Tich Quang Huong, was the sixth Buddhist to burn himself alive in protest against Diem's regime in the last four months.

His flaming suicide brought troops and riot police rushing to the scene. Tanks and armored cars were posted at downtown intersections and President Diem's were thrown up blocking traffic for several blocks.

The barrcades were pushed back in the sidewalks late in the afternoon and most of the tanks and armored cars were removed. But the outward appearance of normality in this Vietnamese capital was obviously only skin deep.

Twenty members of the riot squad still were posted around the traffic circle where Quang Huong died.

Two other incidents were reported in Saigon within an hour of the suicide.

Troops promptly quashed an attempted student demonstration in one part of the town. A hand grenade loaded with antigovernment leaflets was set off in another section, scattering the leaflets but causing no reported casualties.

The scattered branches of the University of Saigon have remained closed since troops and riot police broke up student demonstrations there in August. High schools, scenes of other demonstrations, are being kept open at the point of a bayonet. Troops still stand guard outside most high schools in Saigon.

The suicide showed Diem's government has not broken the back of Buddhist opposition to his regime. It has only pushed it underground.

The suicide also gave Westerners another glimpse of the population's hostility to the government.

One young Vietnamese told a newsman on the scene, "You take pictures, you wrtie story. You must tell Mister Kennedy what is going on in this country."

The murmur of the crowd rose to an angry growl when a policeman tried to blow out the flames engulfing the young monk's still erect body. His efforts only made the flames roar higher.

The suicide took a bare three minutes. The monk stepped out of a cab at the intersection, walked a few steps, squatted on the sidewalk in the Buddhist "lotus" position, emptied a can of gasoline on his lap and quietly lit a match.

He said not a word. His face was calm but as the flames leaped up he winced and appeared to grit his teeth.

Three minutes later he stiffened. His charred and blackened arms curled stiffly upward from his lap, his head dropped and he keeled over dead.

Vietnamese security forces apparently were caught off guard. Several Western newsmen received mysterious telephone calls warning tham that something would happen at the central market at noon. Such calls, it is generally accepted here, are monitored by the government's security branch but no extra security forces were present when the young monk drove up to the intersection.

John Sharkey of the National Broadcasting Co., one of the three American newsmen beaten by the plainclothesmen, still was hospitalized Saturday night.

Doctors had taken six stitfhes to close a wound in the back of his head and he was being kept under observation to determine whether he suffered concussions. His condition was described as not serious.

Grant Wolfkill, also of NBC, received a blow on the spine from the butt of a gun that one of the plainclothesmen had used earlier to threaten the newsmen and force them to surrender their cameras.

French Assure Bella Support Against Berbers

ALGIERS (AP) — The French government is reported Saturday to have assured President Ahmed Ben Bella of support in his struggle against the Berber rebellion in Kabylie.

Highly reliable French sources said the assurances were given by French Ambassador Georges Gorse after his return from consultations in Paris. President Charles de Gaulle apparently feels Ben Bella should be backed as the best available statesman in post-independence Algeria.

Reliable reports say the main reason for the French attitude is continuation of French atomic experiments in the Sahara.

France apparently plans to explode five more bombs before completion of its atomic program in the desert.

Despite criticism of the French experiments and occasional threats — mainly for African consumption — the Algerian government has done nothing to prevent France from continuing this program.

Three Negroes booked on gambling and disturbing the peace charges early Saturday include Monroe Dixon, 37, 400½ Cedar St.; Ueccle Vonner, 35, 202 N. 14th St.; and C. L. George, 1516 Wallace St. They were booked at 5:45 a.m. after being apprehended at 202 N. 14th St.

The Monroe department also booked a 22-year-old Negro, Henry Ford Davis, 3500 Pippin St., for theft Saturday. Davis was arrested on a warrant obtained by S. A. Brunt, of the Rose Oil Service Station on DeSiard Street. Davis was held under a $110 bond.

Later Saturday afternoon, Monroe police booked a 40-year-old Negro woman, Francis Bobbie Howard, 906 Beverly St., for prostitution. She was arrested at her home and held under a $500 bond.

At 9:10 p.m., a 47-year-old man, Ray Jim Thompson, of 24-A Louis Locke Homes, was booked for DWI and reckless driving by Monroe officers. He was taken into custody at Winnsboro Road and Atkinson Street. Monroe officers also booked a 35-year-old man, Gene R. The Monroe department was also probing the theft of a wallet containing around $10 and otherpersonal cards, taken from Edna Pearl Lindsey, Negro, of 1300 Ouachita Ave. She said the pocketbook was taken from her purse while she danced at the Red Front Cafe on N. 11th Street. A purse snatching incident that occurred around 7 p.m. on Thomas street was also being probed. Adell Stuart, 3017 Polk St., said that as she walked between Polk and Dick Taylor streets on Thomas Avenue, a car passed and one of the youths reached out the window and snatched her purse. Cotton Harvest Revenue Of $64 Million Forecast better. I think it may be a record yield per acre."

He estimated that "our production is up somewhat from last year. Somewhere in the vicinity of nine or 10 per cent on total bales expected and on the yield per acre average probably close to 100 pounds."

He said the total value of last year's state crop was $89 million for lint and $10½ million for seed.

Market prices are reported holding up well, as most gins continue on an around the clock basis.

To give an indication in the production climb, which many agriculturists report is holding about even on quality with that of last year, Parker said that in "the area including East Carroll, Franklin, Madison, Morehouse, Richland, Tensas and West Carroll parishes the average yield per acre last year was 485 pounds, but estimates on September 1 of this year indicated an estimated 560 pounds per acre."

Many jubilant farmers on the scene harvesting and some county agents are inclined to make larger yield estimates for this year, and quote somewhat larger figures on the totals of last year than does the Crop Reporting Service.

As an example, Austin Johnson, Franklin Parish county agent said he believed the total yield in his parish last year was around 50,055 bales on the basis of compress figures, but that officially he goes by the Reporting Service figures of 47,600 bales.

He said last year the average yield of lint per acre was close to 400 pounds. The reporting service holds to the figure of 361 average. And Johnson estimates that the yield this year, if weather continues favorable through harvest, may run to an average of around 500 pounds per acre. The 1956 average per acre there was 460 pounds of lint, he said.

Madison Parish Associate County Agent Buck Raley said, "Harvest is going full blast and farm after farm is picking two bales an acre. Most of them are making more per acre than last year. I think it will be one of the best crops we have picked in years."

All the major producing parishes reported gins running behind. Raley said, "Gins are running three to four days late and most mechanical pickers have to pick half a day and then sit idle because of the shortage of trailers."

The total ginned in 1962 was 4,200 bales. He expects to process between 4,500 and 5,000 bales this season. He said quality of cotton was average, but not quite as good as last year. He and his father W. A. Calloway operate the gin and plant large acreages of cotton also.

Wayne McDonald, president of the Ouachita Parish Farm Bureau, a cotton farmer, residing in Monroe, recently inspected an abundant crop on his farm where plants not only were loaded with a large amount of open cotton from top to bottom, but also had many unopened bolls. John Sharkey of the National Broadcasting Co., one of the three American newsmen beaten by the plainclothesmen, still was hospitalized Saturday night.

Doctors had taken six stitfhes to close a wound in the back of his head and he was being kept under observation to determine whether he suffered concussions. His condition was described as not serious.

Grant Wolfkill, also of NBC, received a blow on the spine from the butt of a gun that one of the plainclothesmen had used earlier to threaten the newsmen and force them to surrender their cameras.

Hungary Requests To Buy Grain From U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hungary has told the United States it is ready to buy 800,000 tons of American grain, diplomatic sources reported Saturday.

Cargill, Inc., of Minneapolis, one of the big U.S. processors and shippers, already has requested the Commerce Department for an export license, other informants said.

The next move is up to the Kennedy administration, a Hungarian diplomat said.

Other diplomatic sources said the Czech and Bulgarian embassies here also have expressed interest in buying American grain, an estimated total value of $60 million.

Neither price nor conditions of payment were discussed, these sources said. They stressed, however that all three countries are on the market for considerable quantities, but, as one diplomat put it, "We will buy where we get the most favorable conditions."

This, one source suggested, was an indirect reply to Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirkson of Illinois, who endorsed a possible grain sale to Communist countries with the reservation that the administration seek some "political concessions" beyond the sale price.

A Hungarian legation spokesman described his government's inquiry as an expression of "most serious interest." He said that Charge d'Affaires Janos Radvany, who heads the legation, was instructed to call on the State Department and discuss the issue.

John Cole, Cargill's vice president, conferred with Griffith Johnson, assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, before Cargill submitted a formal request for an export license. Radvany informed Harold C. Vedeler, director of the Office of Eastern European Affairs, about Hungary's interest.

Hungary was described as needing 400,000 tons of bread grain, mainly wheat, and another 400,000 tons of coarse grain for feeding purposes.

Like most European countries, Hungary had an exceptionally hard winter followed by a summer either too hot or with too much rain.

In other years the Soviet Union and France supplied central European countries with grain, when needed. This year France has no export surpluses and the Soviet Union itself is buying great quantities in Canada and Australia.

Janos Hont, Hungarian deputy minister of agriculture, is now touring the United States with a five-member farm delegation. He is due back in Washington in mid-October and will be ready to negotiate with U.S. authorities if the administration is ready by then to conduct meaningful talks, the spokesman said.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex. said meanwhile the sale of American wheat to the Soviet Union would amount to handing the Russians "a gift certificate worth many millions of American dollars."

"I predict that this administration will not only approve the sale of wheat to Russia," he said, "but will approve that sale at prices below what the same wheat costs the American government."

Tower, in a talk recorded for radio use in Texas, said any such sale will bolster the entire Communits camp.

"We can hardly win an economic war with communism if we insist on subsidizing their purchases from us, especially when those purchases must be made to cover up shortcomings in their own system," he declared.

Methodists Plan Local Workshop

One of a series of distirct workshops at which Louisiana Methodists will learn how their church dollars are spent will be held in Monroe October 31.

The Rev. Lea Joyner, Monroe district missionary secretary, has charge of local arrangements for the workshop here, and will also assist in the program.

A similar workshop has been scheduled for October 23 at Ruston, with the Rev. James W. Laton in charge of arrangements.

The workshops will be led by the Rev. K. G. Rorie, assistant director of the Methodist Louisiana Area Council, who has special responsibility for missions and evangelism.

Soviets Consider Germany

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko said Saturday night the Soviet government still attaches special importance to the signing of a German peace treaty.

He was interviewed in New York by the government newspaper Izvestia, which printed the interview alongside on with U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

"I believe," Rusk was quoted as saying, "that both sides are seriously searching for the next step toward a possible agreement. We are working very earnestly to find it and I hope that very soon we will be able to make an announcement about progress."

Gromyko made a similar statement but insisted "particular importance has been paid and is now being paid by the Soviet government to the question of a German peace treaty." He did not elaborate.

Gromyko said that although he is hopeful about agreement in some areas, "regulation of the world's main problems is still a long way off." He claimed "influential forces in the West" are hampering solution of big problems.

"In any case," he concluded, "advance in the direction of accord will take place."

Gromyko did not specify issues on which there might be agreement.

Russians Want More Fertilizer

MOSCOW (AP)—The Communist party Central Committee, as important a body as there is in the Soviet Union, called on the chemical industry Saturday to start pouring out more fertilizer to provide this wheat-short country with food.

The call was sent out over the official news agency Tass and broadcast during the afternoon to the whole of the Soviet Union on Moscow radio. It also was carried in the government newspaper, Izvestia.

The appeal echoed Premier Khrushchev's promise—made last week in a long speech in Krashnodar, in the center of the Soviet Union's farming district—that Soviet farms would no longer suffer a fertilizer famine.

At that time the premier announced he had been obliged to buy 8.6 million tons of wheat in Canada and Australia to make up the shortage in this year's Soviet crop.

The Central Committee appeal was joined with an appeal from the Council of Ministers—the government. Khrushchev is head of both organizations. The appeal called for the chemistry industry to increase sharply the output of mineral fertilizers.

"This will be of decisive importance for raising harvest yields and satisfying national requirements for farm produce," it said.

The message said this year's production of 20 million tons of fertilizer would be stepped up to 24 million tons next year and to 35 million tons in 1965. This is just the amount of fertilizer Khrushchev said was produced last year in the United States for use on less than half as much land.

The letter did not repeat Khrushchev's promise to boost fertilizer production to 100 million tons by 1970.

The appeal was accompanied by assurances of great resources of fertilizer available in the Soviet Union, with the only thing lacking being the costly plants needed to refine raw phosphate ore.

It is known the Soviet Union has discussed with British officials the possibility of providing at least one entire fertilizer plant to be built in the Soviet Union.

The whole thing raises the question of money, for the country has been obliged to dump tons of gold on the European market to pay for the wheat bought. Some reports say enough Soviet gold has been sold in recent weeks on the European market to raise about $225 million, less than half-enough to pay Canada alone for wheat and flour already ordered there.

Whether Britain would be prepared to offer long-term erdeits to build one or more fertilizer plants — to be delivered immediately and paid for later—is a question. In any event, Soviet gold and foreign exchange resources are known to be restricted.

Tobacco Lack Now Plaguing Soviet Smokers

MOSCOW (AP) — The government newspaper Izvestia acknowledged Saturday night another shortage in the Soviet Union — cigarettes.

At the same time, the Canadian Embassy disclosed that a five-man delegation has arrived here to sell tobacco. Canada already has hit the headlines with its giant wheat sale to the Soviet Union. Canada has not previously sold tobacco to the Russians.

Although Izvestia conceded there is a shortage of cigarettes, it claimed this was caused by a shortage of railroad cars. The newspaper quoted government officials as saying 8,000 tons of tobacco are lying unused in Soviet ports because no cars are available.

The cars were reported being used for fruit and vegetables, of which there also is a shortage. The newspaper Evening Moscow announced that 25,000 Moscovites will turn out Sunday, on their day off, to help unload railway cars containing fruit and vegetables. Previous newspaper articles have said the produce is just sitting there, spoiling.

LOCAL OBSERVANCE SET

National Pharmacy Week Begins Today

National Pharmacy Week gets underway across the nation today and continues through Saturday.

And in Monroe and Baton Rouge special proclamations have been proclaimed to that effect.

On a state-wide basis, Governor Jimmie H. Davis has urged all Louisiana residents to observe during this special week the vital role of the pharmacists.

"The pharmacists of the State of Louisiana are indispensable members of the health profession which safeguards the well-being of all our citizens," Governor Davis said. "And, these pharmacists give unselfishly of their time and talents in this specialized professional service to the public, making the finest medication available on a moment's notice."

Echoing the same sentiments, Mayor W. L. Howard said, "I salute our pharmacists upon the contribution they make to over-all community health."

He noted pharmacists conduct their businesses on a high professional plane that has accorded them the respect and confidence of the public.

Dr. August G. Danti, associate professor in the School of Pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana State College, is president of the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association, which is cooperating in the national week of recognition for pharmacists.

"This is a time when the parmacists of this nation make a special effort to let it be known that they are prepared to serve you, the public, in the dispensing of drugs as prescribed by your physician," Dr. Danti said.

"Your pharmacist is an authority on the use and action of drugs. Having earned a degree from an accredited college of pharmacy after five years of study and internship requirements and being licensed to practice pharmacy only after passing a rigid state board examination, he is qualified to handle, store, compound and dispense drugs of all design.

"His expert knowledge of drugs enables him to act as consultant to the members of allied professions and in so doing to "team up" to render better service toward good public health."

President Danti commented that pharmacists are ready and willing to discuss any problem which threatens the health of the community and issued a general invitation to the public to become better acquainted with their parmacists.

Working with President Danti in co-ordinating National Pharmacy Week efforts in the Fifth District are Clifford LaFrance, Dr. Dale H. Cronk and Travis Dabbs, all of Monroe. LaFrance is associated with Owl Drug. Dr. Cronk is a member of the School of Pharmacy faculty at NLSC. Dabbs is local representative of the A. H. Robins Co. of Richmond, Va.

Members of the Student Branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association at Northeast State are preparing a special exhibit for downtown display in Monroe at Bodan's Rexall Drug. The exhibit, including some of the rather crude tools of the pharmaceutical industry of yesteryear, will contrast the old and the new.

Police Suspect Bank Janitor Of Aiding Bandits

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 25-year-old bank janitor — who told police two bandits surprised him in an early morning robbery Friday—was arrested as an accomplice Saturday, the FBI said.

Jorge Velasco, of Lawndale, Calif., was the second man arrested in connection with the $77,000 robbery. He was taken into custody at his home by sheriff's deputies.

Earlier Saturday, Raymond Arthur Vigneau, 26, of Lomita was arrested in Buellton, Calif., as he drove north through Santa Barbara County. FBI agents said Vigneau carried $25,000 with him. An additional $45,000 in unissued travelers' checks, savings bonds and mutilated currency was found in an apartment.

Investigators said a third man believed connected with the robbery still is being sought.

Sheriff's deputies said two masked men, wearing white coveralls, rubber masks and gloves forced their way into the Pacific State Bank in Torrance, Calif., at 8:15 a.m. Friday. Velasco was on duty at the time.

Ten employes were captured as they arrived for work, then the bandits waited for the time lock on the vault to open. They fled in the janitor's truck.

Vigneau, unemployed, was formerly janitor with the firm that hired Velasco. He denied any part in the robbery when arrested.

Both Velasco and Vigneau were charged with violating the federal bank robbery statute.

Tobacco Lack Now Plaguing Soviet Smokers

MOSCOW (AP) — The government newspaper Izvestia acknowledged Saturday night another shortage in the Soviet Union — cigarettes.

At the same time, the Canadian Embassy disclosed that a five-man delegation has arrived here to sell tobacco. Canada already has hit the headlines with its giant wheat sale to the Soviet Union. Canada has not previously sold tobacco to the Russians.

Although Izvestia conceded there is a shortage of cigarettes, it claimed this was caused by a shortage of railroad cars. The newspaper quoted government officials as saying 8,000 tons of tobacco are lying unused in Soviet ports because no cars are available.

The cars were reported being used for fruit and vegetables, of which there also is a shortage. The newspaper Evening Moscow announced that 25,000 Moscovites will turn out Sunday, on their day off, to help unload railway cars containing fruit and vegetables. Previous newspaper articles have said the produce is just sitting there, spoiling.

LOCAL OBSERVANCE SET

National Pharmacy Week Begins Today

National Pharmacy Week gets underway across the nation today and continues through Saturday.

And in Monroe and Baton Rouge special proclamations have been proclaimed to that effect.

On a state-wide basis, Governor Jimmie H. Davis has urged all Louisiana residents to observe during this special week the vital role of the pharmacists.

"The pharmacists of the State of Louisiana are indispensable members of the health profession which safeguards the well-being of all our citizens," Governor Davis said. "And, these pharmacists give unselfishly of their time and talents in this specialized professional service to the public, making the finest medication available on a moment's notice."

Echoing the same sentiments, Mayor W. L. Howard said, "I salute our pharmacists upon the contribution they make to over-all community health."

He noted pharmacists conduct their businesses on a high professional plane that has accorded them the respect and confidence of the public.

Dr. August G. Danti, associate professor in the School of Pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana State College, is president of the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association, which is cooperating in the national week of recognition for pharmacists.

"This is a time when the parmacists of this nation make a special effort to let it be known that they are prepared to serve you, the public, in the dispensing of drugs as prescribed by your physician," Dr. Danti said.

"Your pharmacist is an authority on the use and action of drugs. Having earned a degree from an accredited college of pharmacy after five years of study and internship requirements and being licensed to practice pharmacy only after passing a rigid state board examination, he is qualified to handle, store, compound and dispense drugs of all design.

"His expert knowledge of drugs enables him to act as consultant to the members of allied professions and in so doing to "team up" to render better service toward good public health."

President Danti commented that pharmacists are ready and willing to discuss any problem which threatens the health of the community and issued a general invitation to the public to become better acquainted with their parmacists.

Working with President Danti in co-ordinating National Pharmacy Week efforts in the Fifth District are Clifford LaFrance, Dr. Dale H. Cronk and Travis Dabbs, all of Monroe. LaFrance is associated with Owl Drug. Dr. Cronk is a member of the School of Pharmacy faculty at NLSC. Dabbs is local representative of the A. H. Robins Co. of Richmond, Va.

Members of the Student Branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association at Northeast State are preparing a special exhibit for downtown display in Monroe at Bodan's Rexall Drug. The exhibit, including some of the rather crude tools of the pharmaceutical industry of yesteryear, will contrast the old and the new.

Police Suspect Bank Janitor Of Aiding Bandits

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 25-year-old bank janitor — who told police two bandits surprised him in an early morning robbery Friday—was arrested as an accomplice Saturday, the FBI said.

Jorge Velasco, of Lawndale, Calif., was the second man arrested in connection with the $77,000 robbery. He was taken into custody at his home by sheriff's deputies.

Earlier Saturday, Raymond Arthur Vigneau, 26, of Lomita was arrested in Buellton, Calif., as he drove north through Santa Barbara County. FBI agents said Vigneau carried $25,000 with him. An additional $45,000 in unissued travelers' checks, savings bonds and mutilated currency was found in an apartment.

Investigators said a third man believed connected with the robbery still is being sought.

Sheriff's deputies said two masked men, wearing white coveralls, rubber masks and gloves forced their way into the Pacific State Bank in Torrance, Calif., at 8:15 a.m. Friday. Velasco was on duty at the time.

Ten employes were captured as they arrived for work, then the bandits waited for the time lock on the vault to open. They fled in the janitor's truck.

Vigneau, unemployed, was formerly janitor with the firm that hired Velasco. He denied any part in the robbery when arrested.

Both Velasco and Vigneau were charged with violating the federal bank robbery statute.

Rankin Field Abandoned In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — California Co. has plugged and abandoned its Rankin County wildcat, the West No. 1, Sec. 34-8n-3e, after controlling high pressure carbon dioxide gas encountered in the Smackover Lime Formation at 14,925 feet.

Contract depty for the venture was 16,000 feet. The well blew wild for several days after drill pipe parted and was controlled by heavy mud. Attempts to recover all of the drill pipe failed and operators plugged the well with cement.

It is reported that a second test may be drilled near the abandoned well in an attempt to drill through the high pressure carbon dioxide to the base of the formation. The venture was in the north part of Rankin County in the reservoir area.

In the Diamond Field of Wayne County, Larue-Smith Production Co. completed its Walker No. 2, sec. 7-9n-6w, pumping 142 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 9,379-90 feet.

Rankin Field Abandoned In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — California Co. has plugged and abandoned its Rankin County wildcat, the West No. 1, Sec. 34-8n-3e, after controlling high pressure carbon dioxide gas encountered in the Smackover Lime Formation at 14,925 feet.

Contract depty for the venture was 16,000 feet. The well blew wild for several days after drill pipe parted and was controlled by heavy mud. Attempts to recover all of the drill pipe failed and operators plugged the well with cement.

It is reported that a second test may be drilled near the abandoned well in an attempt to drill through the high pressure carbon dioxide to the base of the formation. The venture was in the north part of Rankin County in the reservoir area.

In the Diamond Field of Wayne County, Larue-Smith Production Co. completed its Walker No. 2, sec. 7-9n-6w, pumping 142 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 9,379-90 feet.

BOOKS
GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Total Number Of Books Given

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

On October first the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library stood at 87,660 books. Of this number 58,387 were adult books and 29,273 were juvenile. The Library is rapidly approaching it's goal of 90,000 books by January first and we feel sure that we will make it. Numerous books are added each week and the patrons are most complimentary about the increase in the book collection.

New books of fiction added in the past week will interest many readers. "The Battle of the Villa Fiorita" is the title of the new novel by Rumer Godden. As usual with this author, it is a beautiful and sensitive work of fiction. The author has a rare understanding of children and this book again displays it. The setting is in Italy, although the characters are English. This will be one of the important novels of the fall publishing season and you will not want to miss it. "Jamie" by Jack Bennett is a short but memorable book about a young boy and his determination to avenge his father. "Glory Road" by Robert Heinlein is another of his exciting science fiction stories and will eagerly read by his large and appreciative audience. "A Private Anger and Flight and Pursuit" consists of two novellas by Frank O'Rourke. They are well done and present interesting character studies. "Voices in the Evening" by Natalia Ginzburg is a very fine picture of life in a small Italian town. Two novels which will appeal especialy to women are "Gift of Life" by Charles Mercer and "In the Name of Love" by Josephine Lawrence. There are also two new mystery stories "Mute Witness" by Robert L. Pike and "The Case of the Amorous Aunt" by Earle Stanley Gardner.

The field of non-fiction offers a great variety of material. "The Conservative Affirmation" by Willmore Kendall is a very fine statement of belief in the democratic way of life. "The American Way in Taxation" by Lillian Doris is an account of the workings of the Internal Revenue Department. A new series of books in the science field should be most useful. It is called "Foundations of Modern Biology" and is published by Prentice - Hall. "Have Your Baby, Keep Your Figure" by M. Edward Davis should be most useful to young mothers. There are four new cookbooks among the additions of the week; "The Instant Epicure Cookbook" by Lillian Langseth-Christensen; "Glamour Magazine's New After Five Cookbook" by Beverly Pepper; "Complete Book of Desserts" by Ann Seranne and "Yankee Hill-Country Cooking" by Veatrice Vaughan.

"Warrior's Weapons" by Walter Buehr is an interesting discussion of the arms and armor of the middle ages. "Wood Carving" by Freda Skinner is a most useful small book. "Notes On The Piano" by Ernst Bacon will be useful to musicians. "Mexican Jewelry" by Mary L. Davis is a fascinating and beautiful book. "Run to Daylight" by Vince Lombardi sheds much light on the sport of professional football. Marjorie Souder is the author of "Basic Movement" a new book in the field of physical education. Fishermen will welcome "The Complete Book of Fly Casting" by John Alden Knight.

"Golden Swords and Pots and Pans" by Jose Arnold is a fascinating book about life in one of the fabulous near eastern countries. "Prelude to Pearl Harbor" by Gerald E. Wheeler paints a very fine picture of the United States Navy and the Far East in the years from 1921-1931. "The Southern Frontier" by John Anthony Caruso is a very fine discussion of colonial life in the Southern states.

Three new biographies were added during the past week. They are "Ahdoolo," the biography of Matthew A. Henson by Floyd Miller; "Viva Juarez" by Charles Allen Smart and "An Inquiry Into The Assassination of Abraham Lincoln" by Emmett McLoughlin.

The reference collection was enriched by a number of valuable additions in recent weeks. One which will be widely used by ministers, counsellors etc. is "The Encyclopedia of Mental Health" edited by Albert Deutsch and consisting of a 6 volume set. "Guide to Federal Archives relating to the Civil War" is a very valuable publication of the General Services Administration. Lincoln F. Hanson is the author of "Programs '63" which is a guide to programmed instructional materials available to educators as of September 1963. A perfectly beautiful as well as useful book is the new "Great World Atlas" published by the Readers Digest, which came to the Library as a memorial gift. The latest edition of "Who's Who of American Women" has just been added to the Library collection. Eight volumes of the "Genealogical Register" published by the Louisiana Genealogical and Historical Society are a welcome addition to the genealogy collection. Another book in that field is "Names of Persons For Whom Marriage Licenses Were Issued In the Earliest Marriage License Records of Pennsylvania."

LEAVING CHEYENNE. By Larry McMurtry. Harper. $4.95.

The scene is the Texas panhandle, hot, dusty and oppressive in summer and swept by wind-blown chills in winter.

The characters are cow country people, illiterate, crude, earthy, sweaty individuals with visceral impulses.

Three of them are major — Gideon Fry, a father-bossed boy who grows up to have a desperately writhing combination of conscience and land greed; Molly, the eternal Female Principle with a mind that can't choose anything from day to day, except in the realm of basic urges; and Johnny, the happy-go-lucky, irresponsible, eternal boy.

The others are rugged, Southwest American types. Gid Fry's father and Molly's father are hard-knuckle, spitting individualists with rasping, materialistic attitude toward the world. But they are basically, colorfully, human.

The plot is slim. Molly foolishly marries an Eddie who is a shallow opportunist. But she has a Puritan-minded son by Gideon and a hedonist son by Johnny, both sons being later killed in World War II. At the end, there are stark, disturbing memories for Gid, Molly and Johnny.

The author may be creating a new genre of really significant cow-country fiction, comparable in impact with the Deep South imaginings of some of our major authors.

This is McMurtry's second novel, following "Horseman Pass By," which was made into the movie "Hud." He is a real writer.

CLOG THE HARBOR

Hong Kong Boat People Colorful

HONG KONG — The clutter of junks and sampans which clogs the harbor of Aberdeen on the seaward side of Hong Kong will one day be replaced by a new city to be built for the refugees from China.

The 'boat people,' generally viewed from a floating restaurant, are among Hong Kong's most popular tourist attractions. Around - the - island tours stop at Aberdeen and other visitors arrive by sharing a taxi or taking an inexpensive cross - island bus.

Travel advisors report a long - term government plan, recently drawn up, will relcoate the boat people and the equally popular floating restaurants. They will make room for 27 acres of filled-in land to be reclaimed from the eastern tip of Aberdeen, a fishing village, and Ap Lei Chau, a small island opposite it.

The new land will mean living space and employment for the Crown Colony's continuing flood of arrivals from China. City planners estimate the area's population will double when two resettlement houses are completed in three years. The large labor market will spur industry. Sites are now marked out for boatyards and trades catering to fishermen.

The change - over will temporarily deface Aberdeen's charm and color, but the boat people will not be neglected. (For them an improved typhoon shelter and breakwater are planned at the harbor's western entrance.) The restaurants and pleasure craft will also have an anchorage.

Aberdeen and its counless junks and sampans are a traditional home of the shui sheung yan, "waterborne people," who spend their entire life afloat. For the principal seafarers of South China the boats are the scene of births, marriages and deaths.

The best vantage point for observing the teeming harbor life is the deck of a floating restaurant while testing the widely proclaimed reputation of these seafood specialists.

Infighting Among High 'Command'

GALAHAD. By Charles N. Hunter. Naylor Co. $5.95.

Back in 1944 a wiry, weary and angry American colonel was sent home by slow boat in an obvious tactic to silence him while a wartime scandal was being investigated by Washington.

The inquiries were concerned with high command decisions affecting Americans fighting in Burma, particularly one that dredged disabled soldiers out of hospitals and returned them to combat in unfit condition.

The story, with this and broader aspects bearing on the endless controversies over Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell as a commander, and the dilution of American - Chinese rapport, is told now by Col. Hunter.

The author had been through months - long ordeals with fighting in the jungle, the Japanese and the frustrations wrought from above. Hunter was the field commander, all the way, of the 5307th Composite Unit (Provisional), which had been dubbed "Merrill's Marauders" by war corresponeents when it was headed by Brig. Gen. Frank D. Merrill. The code name for the outfit was "Galahad."

Hunter's book is about the ugly guts of jungle war at combat level, and the military - political fighting above, as he saw it.

"Galahad," Hunter writes, "was the most beat upon, most written about, most heroic and yet most unrewarded regimental sized unit that participated in World War II."

Hunter developed a hatred for Stilwell in about the same degree as Stilwell's hatred for his boss, Generalissimo Chiang Kai - shek. Hunter's story centers finally on ineptitudes of high command and lack of logistical support after his men captured the airfield at Myitkyina, the Japanese base on North Burma, according to plan, and were left without promised airdrops of food and ammunition.

By the time the angry colonel had arrived home on the slow boat, the Washington investigators had turned to other matters. Now he has told his story, from his retirement after 30 years of service to his country.

REPENTENCE SHRINE

DETMOLD, Germany (AP) —A memorial of repentance for Nazi crimes against the Jews is to be built here by the Evangelical Reformed Church of Lippe in West Germany. It will bear the inscription: "Have we not all one Father?"

American Dwellings And Owners

THE DOMESTICATED AMERICANS. By Russell Lynes. Harper. $6.50.

There are some fascinating things to learn about "the American experience and the American character" simply by examining the houses Americans have lived in, as the author says in the first sentence of this book.

He begins with the age of Jackson, the log cabin and the sod house, and takes us right through to the days of the new log cabin (the ranch house) and prefabricated gadgetry.

The point is that he is showing us households by showing us houses; showing us people by showing how they have used their habitations. And he does it amusingly.

He explores many facets. Each new change in exteriors, floor plans and convenience reflects a change in the habits, social views, ambitions and frustrations of the populace.

Lynes' examination of the kitchen and dining room, for example, gets into questions of eating habits, etiquette, the servant problem; his study of the parlor and living room brings on the questions of entertainment, leisure time, status symbols, fashions, privacy and changing social customs.

It all amounts to a book of manners, as a companion to his previous volume on taste, called "The Tastemakers."

One theme emerges as the strongest from his ruminations upon American living habits — there is no longer any desire to build for permanence, for the sake of great-grandchildren; mobility is the American key, from covered wagon days to the present.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Total Number Of Books Given

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

On October first the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library stood at 87,660 books. Of this number 58,387 were adult books and 29,273 were juvenile. The Library is rapidly approaching it's goal of 90,000 books by January first and we feel sure that we will make it. Numerous books are added each week and the patrons are most complimentary about the increase in the book collection.

New books of fiction added in the past week will interest many readers. "The Battle of the Villa Fiorita" is the title of the new novel by Rumer Godden. As usual with this author, it is a beautiful and sensitive work of fiction. The author has a rare understanding of children and this book again displays it. The setting is in Italy, although the characters are English. This will be one of the important novels of the fall publishing season and you will not want to miss it. "Jamie" by Jack Bennett is a short but memorable book about a young boy and his determination to avenge his father. "Glory Road" by Robert Heinlein is another of his exciting science fiction stories and will eagerly read by his large and appreciative audience. "A Private Anger and Flight and Pursuit" consists of two novellas by Frank O'Rourke. They are well done and present interesting character studies. "Voices in the Evening" by Natalia Ginzburg is a very fine picture of life in a small Italian town. Two novels which will appeal especialy to women are "Gift of Life" by Charles Mercer and "In the Name of Love" by Josephine Lawrence. There are also two new mystery stories "Mute Witness" by Robert L. Pike and "The Case of the Amorous Aunt" by Earle Stanley Gardner.

The field of non-fiction offers a great variety of material. "The Conservative Affirmation" by Willmore Kendall is a very fine statement of belief in the democratic way of life. "The American Way in Taxation" by Lillian Doris is an account of the workings of the Internal Revenue Department. A new series of books in the science field should be most useful. It is called "Foundations of Modern Biology" and is published by Prentice - Hall. "Have Your Baby, Keep Your Figure" by M. Edward Davis should be most useful to young mothers. There are four new cookbooks among the additions of the week; "The Instant Epicure Cookbook" by Lillian Langseth-Christensen; "Glamour Magazine's New After Five Cookbook" by Beverly Pepper; "Complete Book of Desserts" by Ann Seranne and "Yankee Hill-Country Cooking" by Veatrice Vaughan.

"Warrior's Weapons" by Walter Buehr is an interesting discussion of the arms and armor of the middle ages. "Wood Carving" by Freda Skinner is a most useful small book. "Notes On The Piano" by Ernst Bacon will be useful to musicians. "Mexican Jewelry" by Mary L. Davis is a fascinating and beautiful book. "Run to Daylight" by Vince Lombardi sheds much light on the sport of professional foobtall. Marjorie Souder is the author of "Basic Movement" a new book in the field of physical education. Fishermen will welcome "The Complete Book of Fly Casting" by John Alden Knight.

"Golden Swords and Pots and Pans" by Jose Arnold is a fascinating book about life in one of the fabulous near eastern countries. "Prelude to Pearl Harbor" by Gerald E. NEW MISSIONS HEAD

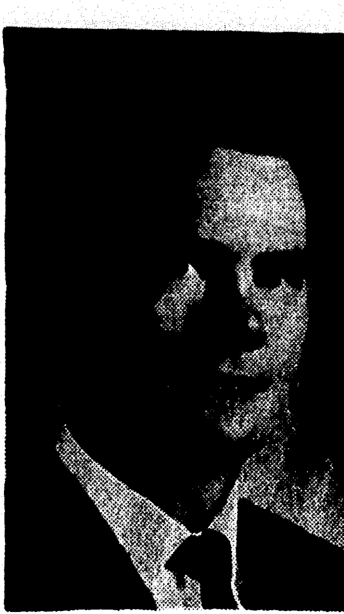
NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Dr. David M. This is one of the council's four major divisions.

Arlan Rawls In Race For Police Jury



ARLAN E. RAWLS

Arlan E. Rawls of Ward 5 has announced his candidacy for the Ouachita Parish Police Jury in the December 7th first Democratic primary.

Here is his announcement:

"I am a lifelong resident of Ouachita Parish and reside at 918 Hicks Street, West Monroe. I am a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and attend Northeast State College; a veteran of World War II and a member of the First United Pentecostal Church, West Monroe. I am 38 years of age and a construction foreman for United Gas Corporation. I am married to the former Betty Marine Anding and have two children.

"For many years I have been keenly interested in the electing of our police jurors. Because of the present turmoil throughout our country, we need to elect public officials who will take a positive stand against the intrusion of the Federal Government. I am opposed to the Civil Rights bill before Congress and its sponsors. If elected as one of your jurors, I intend to take a defenite stand on any change in our way of life. I will stand for segregation.

"One of the main problems confronting the residents outside the city limits of Ward Five is the lack of blacktopped roads and drainage. It is deplorable that our people are still in the dust after a road or street has been dedicated fifteen years or more. The mileage allowed Ward Five is inadequate to fill the need. With the co-operation of the other Jurors I hope to have the mileage increased. Our ditches need to be maintained in order to have proper drainage.

"The pay of our parish employees needs to be increased. I will work toward a solution to that problem. I realize these problems cannot be solved over night but if you see fit to elect me as one of four Jurors from Ward Five, I will work toward solving them. My aim is for a better parish to live in and Ward Five in particular. I earnestly solicit your vote and your support December 7."

Color Slides To Be Exhibited Here Oct. 13

An assortment of 353 color slides taken by ranking amateur and professional photographers in 40 states and 10 foreign countries, will be placed on display 2 p.m. Sunday, October 13, in the College Union Building auditorium at Northeast State.

This was announced Saturday by Lee Estes, program chairman of the North Louisiana Camera Club which is headquartered in Monroe.

The slides, to be borrowed from a salon exhibit scheduled for the State Fair in Shreveport, will be brought here by Henry Rush, salon chairman, and William Schmidt, color chairman, both of Shreveport. They will be returned to the fair grounds after the exhibit.

Some of the slides are from contributors in Australia, New Zealand, Hong Kong, Canada, and Mexico. Among those represented are Wellington Lee, professional photographer of New York City, and Jose Zakany of Mexico City.

Estes said, "The exhibit will represent some of the world's best quality in color slides."

The exhibit will be open to the public without charge.

Vows To Stop Discrimination

HONOLULU (AP) — John A. Gronouski, who took over as postmaster general five days ago, pledged Saturday a positive approach toward eliminating any remaining discriminatory practices in the postal service.

"Postmasters can expect me to back them to the hilt in any cases where controversies may arise due to local opposition to this policy," Gronouski said.

His address to nearly 4,000 delegates at the National Association of Postmasters convention was his first major speech since assuming office.

"The Negro is obviously fed up with being a second-class citizen. He refuses to wait any longer for equality and I don't blame him," Gronouski declared.

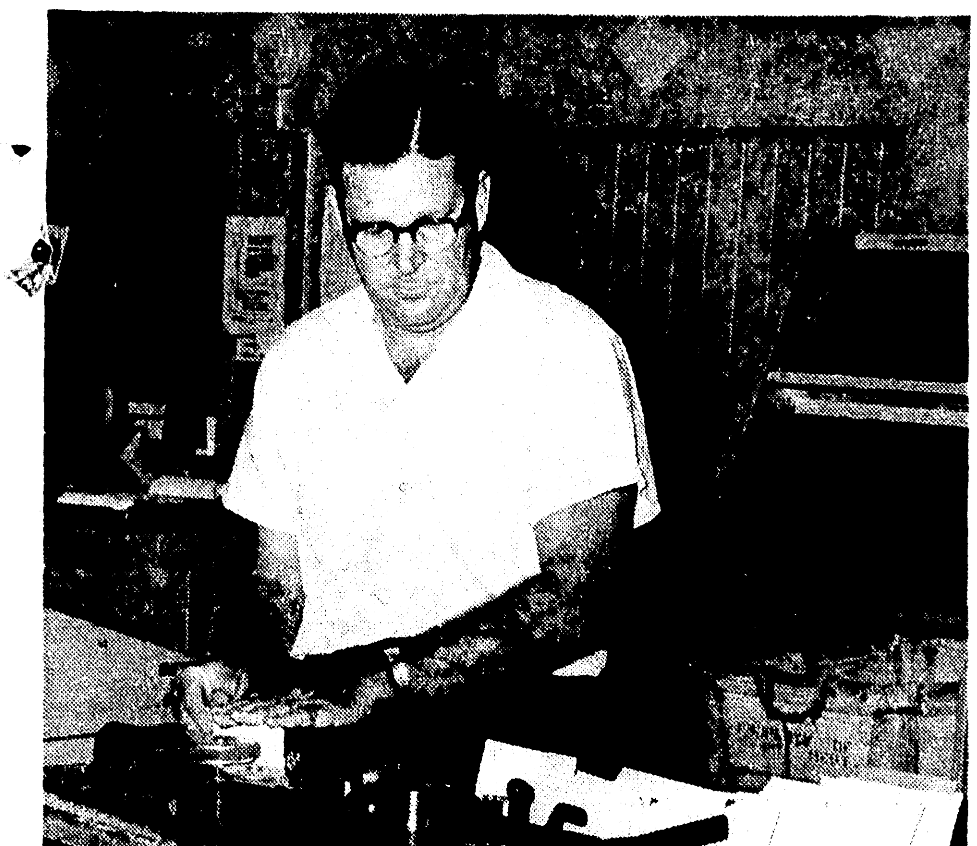
Post Office Here Speeds The Mail

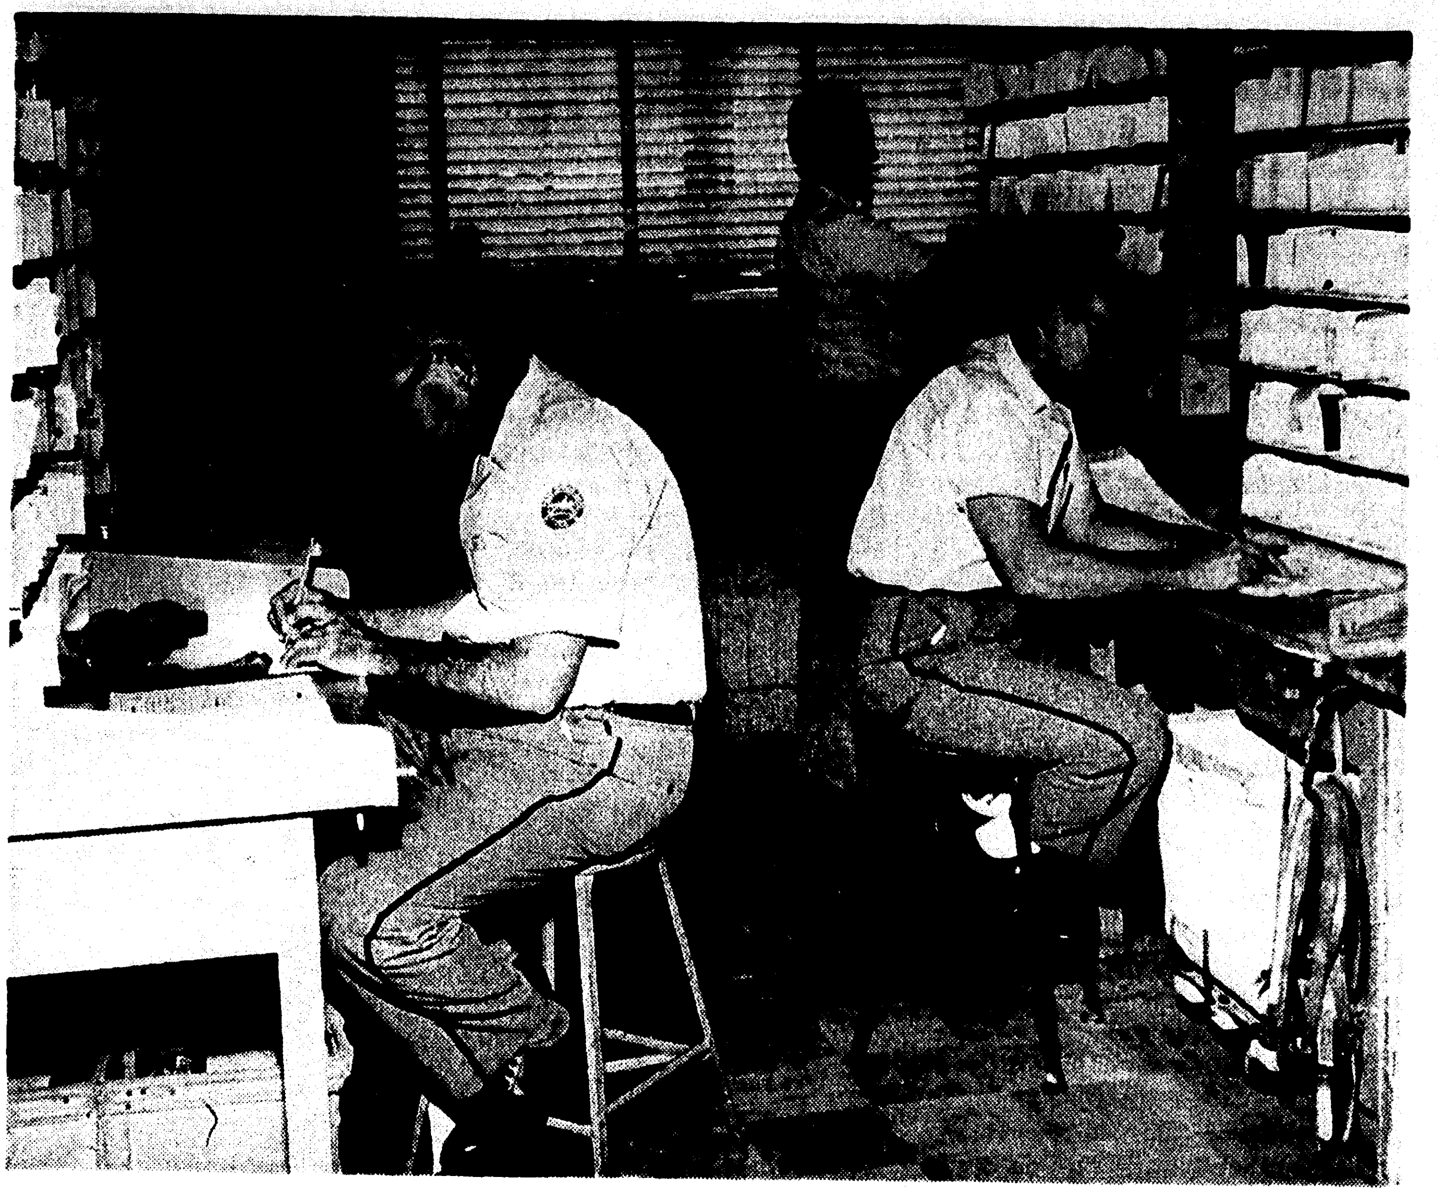
The Monroe Post Office, which handles 47 million pieces of mail annually, is one of the key postal establishments using an experimental phase of the ZIP-Code system. Here is a report on how the program operates.

Monroe Morning World
SUNDAY FEATURES
Monroe, La., Oct. 6, 1963 Page 1-B
Editorial — Spotlight — Sports

THE FIRST STOP FOR outgoing mail is the "facing table." Here letters are arranged so that all the stamps are in the same relative position to facilitate operation of the canceling machine. "Facing" the mail are Vaughn Gardner, left, and James L. Pittman. During rush periods as many clerks as space will permit are crowded around this table. (Staff photo by Ben Bradford)



STANDARD-SIZE LETTERS can whiz through this canceling machine at a rate of 30,000 per hour. This is the speed if the machine were run steadily for an hour. It does not often have the occasion to run for this long at one time, but with Thompson Brandon, above, at the controls, it easily turns out 500 canceled letters per minute. (Staff photo by Ben Bradford)



CITY CARRIERS are given a bundle of their mail upon arrival each morning. They separate the letters according to their routes, placing each one in its proper order on the route. When they are traveling, they merely have to take the top letters as they come to each house. Shown here, left to right, are Harold Parnell, Frank Burkett, Bob Schott and Coy Boyd. (Staff photo by John Fogleman)

With the activation of the new ZIP-Code mailing system, a good deal of public (as well as comic strip characters') attention has been centered on post office operations. This attention is expected to increase by geometric proportions with the start of preparations for the Christmas season — a campaign which seems to begin earlier each year.

Employing 130 workers and processing more than 47 million pieces of mail annually, the Monroe Post Office ranks as one of the leading postal establishments in the state. The local station also serves as one of 10 sectional centers in Louisiana.

This sectional center program is one phase of the ZIP-Code system. At present, Louisiana is the only state in the nation utilizing the sectional centers. Enacted on a state-wide basis on June 22, just before the national adoption of ZIP-Codes on July 1, the system is experimental in this state. If found satisfactory, it will be put into action throughout the country. Oklahoma is rumored as the next state to take up mailing operations under a sectional center set-up.

In this program, the main Monroe office is now in operation 24 hours a day. Mail from 86 post offices around northeast Louisiana in the Monroe section is sent directly to the center here. It arrives during the late afternoon and early evening, is separated through the night, and sent on to branch offices about 5 a.m. daily.

NEXT-DAY DELIVERY

Mail is delivered to its final destination by the branch offices the next morning, thus providing next-day mail service all over the state.

Truck routes are the exclusive means of delivery throughout the section, and direct connections are made with other sectional centers. Besides Monroe, they are Shreveport, East Alexandria, West Alexandria, Baton Rouge, New Orleans, Lafayette, Lake Charles, Thibodaux and Hammond.

Although not widely publicized, the sectional center project was thoroughly researched and planned by postal authorities, and local officials agree the the system is working out exceptionally well so far.

Incoming mail masses many more letters in the local post office than the outgoing category. During the last four-week accounting period (which serves as a month in the fiscal year of the Monroe Post Office), the figures showed 2,053,400 pieces of mail coming into the city, while 1,496,900 pieces were processed as they left town.

Mail comes into the Monroe office only to be further separated and then sent on. Two major dispersal methods are used — by local carriers and through the box sections of each of the three offices.

BRANCH OFFICES

In addition to the main office uptown on Jackson Street, the Monroe Post Office operates two classified stations — the Louisville and Ouachita branches — plus a contract station at Northeast Louisiana State College. Each branch sorts the mail that belongs in its box section, but the main office handles all other separation. The Louisville station is known as a finance station, while the Ouachita station has carriers to serve that section of the city.

Carriers, or mailmen as they are generally called by the public, leave the office about 8:30 each morning. Twin City residents and rural route patrons receive one daily mail delivery, but some downtown business firms get their mail twice a day. Carriers who drive the special "mailsters" carry and deliver average-sized parcels to those on their routes.

City distribution is staffed by 41 urban carriers, with seven substitutes. Four men have rural routes and two handle all special delivery messages.

Outgoing mail, that leaves the city, comes into the post office via several routes. Carriers pick up the correspondence of residents as they make their rounds, routemen gather the letters deposited in mailboxes located throughout the city, and the letters are brought by individuals and mailed in the drop chutes in the post office building.

SEPARATION

Once the mail is in the main office it is first separated according to size. For most letters the first stop is the facing table, then on to the canceling machine. Oversize letters are hand-canceled. Mail is next sorted by destination, first being worked through the primary cases, a large section of more than 50 pigeonholes roughly dividing the letters.

Cities with a sufficient volume of mail to warrant early individual selection have a box here at the primary cases. Some of these cities are Little Rock, Houston, Dallas, Jackson, etc. Letters are also separated as to large towns within Louisiana, sectional centers, selected individual states, large centrally-located cities convenient for forwarding, and groupings designated as "states east" (of the Mississippi River) and "states west."

Certain letters are then transferred over to the secondary cases where they are further separated.

Sectional center correspondence is handled at special case used only for that purpose.

The next stop for the out-bound mail is the dispatch rack, consisting of rows of mail pouches, each labelled with its destination. These are gradually filled with letters, then locked and shipped out. Only four cities have enough daily mail volume to deserve a separated pouch — West Monroe, New Orleans, Shreveport, and Baton Rouge.

'MAIL EARLY'

Postal authorities advise Monroe residents to get their mail in early — letters received before 5 p.m. are guaranteed for next day delivery anywhere in Louisiana.

Mail deposited in the main office is cleared out of the drop chutes (outgoing) every 30 minutes, and the time on the canellation (postmark) is changed every half-hour. For example, a letter mailed anytime between 10 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. will be processed within that time and bear a 10:30 a.m. postmark.

Also, any mail that comes into the main offices before midnight receives that day's postmark. This information is especially useful around income tax time and for residents mailing in insurance premiums.

Persons changing their address must personally file a written order at the post office. This should be done immediately upon moving, officials cautioned, and must be accomplished within 10 days at the latest, otherwise the carrier will return all letters to the senders.

Those with new addresses should also notify their correspondents of the change to avoid unnecessary delay in handling. A letter sent to the wrong address is brought back to the main office by the carrier at the end of his day, then the correct address must be looked up and the letter resent. Sometimes as much as an entire day's time is wasted in this manner.

SORT BEFORE MAILING

Postmaster W. W. Hathorn's main request to the public is to mail early and mail often. "The average mailer with 10 or 15 letters who decides to wait until right at 5 o'clock before depositing them does not realize that when several others do this, it results in a staggering amount of mail on clerks right at their rush hour."

Another insignificant-seeming act which greatly aids post office employees is the separation of letters into local and out-of-town groupings, Hathorn said. In that way local letters can be taken directly to that section of the office without having to go through unnecessary sorting processes.

Postal employees are required to maintain the zoning schemes on their own time. Both the city and state are classified into various mailing zones. The entire plan is known as the zoning scheme, and clerks are checked annually to test their familiarity with the system. An accuracy of 95 per cent is necessary for the clerk to continue in his position.

City and state check-ups are given during alternate years. In this test, the clerk is given a list of towns (in the state test) and must place them in their proper zones within a certain time limit. Errors amounting to more than five per cent mean failure in the examination.

The addition of the sectional center system brought another zoning scheme for clerks to learn.

Excluding the postmaster, the Monroe Post Office has 130 employees. In office works, there are 11 supervisors, and 41 regular clerks, relieved by 12 substitutes. The custodian department is composed of eight men.

Post Office Here Speeds The Mail

THE FIRST STOP FOR outgoing mail is the "facing table." Here letters are arranged so that all the stamps are in the same relative position to facilitate operation of the canceling machine. "Facing" the mail are Vaughn Gardner, left, and James L. Pittman. During rush periods as many clerks as space will permit are crowded around this table. (Staff photo by Ben Bradford)

STANDARD-SIZE LETTERS can whiz through this canceling machine at a rate of 30,000 per hour. This is the speed if the machine were run steadily for an hour. It does not often have the occasion to run for this long at one time, but with Thompson Brandon, above, at the controls, it easily turns out 500 canceled letters per minute. De Gaulle Needling U.S.

President Charles de Gaulle of France still seems to be doing the world's best job of needling United States government officials.

The thing that galls New Frontiersmen most is the fact that De Gaulle won't ask for American handouts and won't take orders from President Kennedy. They can hardly imagine a man who won't be bought.

Recent publicity indicates the biggest ground for dispute is France's refusal to allow low import rates on chickens. This has practically prohibited the sale of U. S.-produced chickens in France. Of course, the bigger problem behind that is the refusal of France to let the United States function as a member of the European Common Market, although congress gave President Kennedy authority to negotiate low tariff agreements.

Now the French have adopted a new needling tactic. They have scotched their system of handing out cheap tourist gasoline coupons.

Insiders predict the economy-bent De Gaulle government will make still another move to curtail the American traveler's shopping advantage. They expect it to end the 20 per cent discount on purchases paid for in dollars or hard-currency travelers' checks.

France is the only country in Europe that officially offers this discount-for-dollars plan, a policy that dates back to the days when the franc was desperately weak. Since then the franc has increased mightily in strength while the American dollar, particularly under the Kennedy administration, has weakened. With an economy-wise France and a deficit-minded New Frontier government in the United States, continued strengthening of the franc and continued weakening of the dollar are expected.

Some travel experts in France fear such a move would deal a stunning blow to France's already flagging tourist trade, but the government suspects shopkeepers of using the system to manipulate their tax returns and thinks the prices to tourists might not actually be too much higher.

De Gaulle argues that, since the French are making economic sacrifices to combat inflation, the foreigners shouldn't be given a purchasing advantage.

In the years since World War II, West Germany and France have greatly strengthened their economies through frugality and work. During that same period, and especially during the Kennedy administration, the United States has poured out money profligately, seemingly trying to give to all foreign countries, even our communist enemies, more money than they want.

A recent cartoon aptly pictured the situation when it showed Uncle Sam handing over another big bundle of money to Latin American countries to be used in a study to devise ways to use the money we have already given them.

PAR Offers Hope

In a nation made up of states, such as those in the United States, the nation is largely a reflection of the states. This can be true even at a time when the nation is turning those states' officials into vassals of its own.

Waste, inefficiency, corrupt politics, punishment - and - reward vote - getting and the desire of large numbers of people for handouts cut down the moral fiber of states and, therefore, of the nations. If all our states had high morals and high political standards we would have little need to worry about the morals and high standards of the nation for they would also be of that caliber.

In an article carried in Harper's Magazine, a widely recognized publication, it is stated that Louisiana's chief, and perhaps last, hope of achieving respectable state government is the Louisiana Public Affairs Research Council. The PAR is also singled out as being worthy of being copied by other states that are having governmental trouble — as if there were any which are not.

Written by Ed Kerr of Baton Rouge, the article says:

"The goal of the Public Affairs Research Council is not merely to root out inefficiency and corruption; it is dedicated rather to better than cheaper government and it has been just as outspoken in pointing up the need for increased public service — in education, mental health, and welfare as in exposing waste of tax funds.

"Other states afflicted with imperfect governments may well find this remarkably independent outfit worthy of emulation. For, when PAR speaks out, as it does in frequent reports and news releases to all the state's public officials and news media, the people listen. And, increasingly, their representatives are moved to action."

Kerr states that, so far, PAR has been unable "to reverse the state's established pattern of wasteful and inefficient government, but the deeds are no longer done in the dark and, as an increasingly aroused and informed public opinion exerts pressure for reform, there is discernible progress.

There can be no doubt that the PAR is having a strikingly strong and wholesome effect on the voters and citizens of Louisiana. Facts developed by PAR and presented in its reports not only reach all state officials and others in high places but, through news media, go out to the people.

When made aware of facts, people are much better able to choose between issues and to make correct decisions. For instance, when proposed constitutional amendments are scheduled to be voted on, PAR discusses the merits and demerits of each one by number and description, devulging facts which can be found only by research and sources not readily available to the average person. Newspapers and other news media use these facts in making their own determination of the issues and in deciding which amendments they think should be adopted and which they think should be defeated.

Best hope for the return by Louisiana to an economical, honest, efficient, ethical, democratic and trustworthy government is found in some of the words written by Kerr, when he pointed out that, so far, PAR has been unable to reverse the state's pattern of wasteful and inefficient government but said: ". . .The deeds are no longer done in the dark and as an aroused and informed public opinion exerts pressure for reform, there is discernible progress."

Just as a nation reflects the character of the states, so do the states reflect the character of the people. We won't return to honest, prudent and exemplary government unless that is what the people want and demand.

PAR and the news media give the people the facts but this, alone, is not enough. The people must take those facts and convert them into action if we are to eliminate waste, dishonesty and inefficiency. The best way to do that, of course, is at the polls — even to the extent of recall elections, if necessary.

Our legislators have voted themselves fat salaries and retirement pay that could exceed even those salaries. This could prove extremely costly and could mean further increases in taxes.

PAR gives us things to think about and to act on, if we want to. Why not do it?

The Executive Order

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

In 1933, Franklin D. Roosevelt established the Executive Order. The Executive Orders are simply given the force of law through being proclaimed by the President and published in the Federal Register. This procedure has never been challenged by the people or the courts since it was established.

On Feburary 16, 1962, under the clock of civil defense, President Kennedy issued ten Executive Orders with the respective provisions listed below:

No. 10995. For the seizure and operation by an agency of the Federal Government of all communications media;

No. 10997. For the seizure and operation by an agency of the Federal Government of all electric power, oil and gas, fuels, and minerals.

No. 10998. For the take-over of all food resources and farms, including all farm equipment.

No. 10999. For a general take-over of the modes of transportation, and control of highways and seaports, by an agency of the Federal Government.

No. 11000. For the mobilization of all civilians into a work force under supervision of the Federal Government.

No. 11001. For the Postmaster General to operate a national registration of all persons.

No. 11002. For the take-over by the Federal Government of all health, education, and welfare functions.

No. 11003. For the Federal Government to take over all airports and aircraft.

No. 11004. For a Housing and Home Finance Agency to relocate communities, build new housing with public funds, designate areas to be abandoned as unsafe, and establish new locations for populations.

No. 11005. For the Federal Government to seize and operate all railroads, inland waterways and public storage facilities.

Under Executive Order No 11051 on September 27, 1962, President Kennedy created the Office of Emergency Planning and this Order gives the authorization, to a part of the President's staff which bears this title, to put all of the above and other Executive Orders into effect — in times of increased international tension, or economic or financial crisis. Just when tensions or crises are sufficient is to be decided by this staff, which means of course by the President.

I ask you to go back and read again these ten Orders. Then, I ask you, what is left? These Orders establish the actual framework for the imposition of a complete police state over the American people, with controls over every persn's life and movements. In theory, these police state measures could be put into effect, based on only whatever the President might consider — or create — as an emergency or crisis of sufficient proportions. Is the civil rights issue a big enough crisis? Or is the coming election in 1964, if the present administration starts to decline, a sufficient crisis? I wonder!

Although Roosevelt started the Executive Order, and President Kennedy is making full use of it, there is still time. If we become more informed, if we tell our friends what we learn, if we selected a man who believes in Constitutional government to unseat the Kennedy dynasty in '64 there is still some hope. We should get behind this man, we should join movements which will help him succeed, we should make every effort to hear conservative speakers who have like views, and above all, if we really want a return to the basic ideals of our Constitution, we should not be afraid to let any one know where we stand. In my opinion, of course, the only man who can help get us back on the right track is Barry Goldwater.

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

May we see a response to this inquiry in your section of "Mr. Editor, Tell Me Please?

Last Saturday (Morning World) you printed a response to an inquiry concerning the selection of Chief Mitchell. Among other things, the board of alderman said the selection of Mitchell over the other aspirants was based on education, experience, recommendations, personality, and aptitude. Mr. Traylor said the test (or the results of the test) was only one factor considered.

Then tell me: are not prerequisites and requirements established to determine ones eligibility to compete? Surely the aspirants possessed the very qualities the Council said they considered to a greater or lesser extent dependent upon the individual. The man with the possible exception of personality. Recommendations should not have been one of the factors considered because the job was a competitive one. It's barely possible that a man could have been recommended by more people than any other yet not have the basic prerequisites.

I know one of the competitors (Lenard.) Your paper ran an article on him a year or so ago. And not so incidental, he made a very good score on the civil service test. Mr. Gates, please refer to your features editor, Sunday, August 5, 1962, and observe some of the attributes he possesses. Yet this man was passed over. Won't you help see that justice is done? Apparently there is no one to intervene in his behalf if not you. He is in no position to speak for himself. But, on second thought, he has. His record is enviable.

Would the illustrious city council of West Monroe dare compare for print the background of all the qualified aspirants, item for item the qualities they said they considered in each of the candidates? Perhaps the application to take examination would be a good source.

Passman Given Praise

Shreveport, La.

To the Editor:

A dispatch from Washington concerning the plans of Agriculture's Freeman and Interior's Udall to spend a few million or a few billion of the American tax payers' money to build a "national" park and a couple of other "give away" projects in Tanganyika, Africa, reminded me that we Louisiananians do not properly recognize the statesmanship of Congressman Otto Passman. Too often we wait until a man is dead before we acclaim him: we are prone to overlook greatness in our contemporaries.

Credit that should go to Mr. Passman quite often goes to others. For example, a month or six weeks ago the House of Representatives squeezed a tremendous amount of money out of the "Throw Away and Squander" budget item the President wanted for such things as the above, as well as buying yachts for the Emperor of Ethiopia and building palatial hunting lodges for Tito to entertain Krushchev and President Kennedy gave the credit to the "Republican leadership" in his famous denunciatory statement. The man who deserves the largest share of the credit for this service to the hard-pressed and over-burdened American taxpayer is Otto Passman. It was his painstaking work, day in and day out, extending over a period of many years, working against almost insurmountable difficulties, ferreting out information from people skilled in methods of hiding the facts, which put the information before his fellow Congressmen resulting in the mammoth reduction of the "Throw Away" bill, erroneously labeled "Foreign Aid".

In a Congress noted for the vast number of servile followers of the wacky leadership furnished by the present administration, Mr. Passman stands out like a giant and all of us in Louisiana can lift our heads with pride because he hails from our State.

I was very happy to read your "Church and State" article in Sunday paper, Sept. 23, 1963.

If more papers and people would publish and talk about this matter this would be a better American for my children and theirs. I hope everybody reads this.

Civil Rights Legislation

Girard, La.

To the Editor:

The civil rights legislation is nothing more than laws to punish and revoke all laws of the southern states, in an attempt to integrate us.

The extension of the Civil (Wrongs) commission for another year, is also, is plainly prolonging the official life of a picked group of meddlers, to traduce, humiliate, and weaken the resistance of us in the south, in our determined, uncompromising volition to defend our sacred, constitutional rights to preserve the integrity of our heritage, as a free, God-chosen nation. 1st Peter 2nd Ch. 9-10 vss: 2nd. Samuel, 7th Ch. 1-thru 10th vss.

Let us ever be remindful the government can today give you want you want today and tomorrow take what you have.

It is encouraging to see the people everywhere in every walk of life who think for themselves have at this belated moment, become aroused, and are aware there must be a reversal of these of various organizations, playing to the hilt, their emotional prejudices, under leadership of a warped-minded, radical, misguided parasitic force. Even we have to face such facts as the encouragement of the nation's leaders, as the President, and little Bobby go-gitter, rabble-rouser. We must resist.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U.S. Senator From Arizona

THE "ENGINEERING of consent" or massive public relations assault on public resistance in recent years has bloomed into a major industry. Like many other American industries, it now is being monopolized by government.

High-powered press agentry as well as low-pressure selling long have been vital ingredients in the potpourri of American commerce. But how and what the government cooks up in self-glorification is salted a bit too heavily for the tastes of most Americans.

Statistics are juggled, twisted or just plain falsified; laws are ignored, fictional characters are created for television consumption and the most dismal catastrophes are sold to an incredulous public as victories.

In short, fact has become obscured, and truth is often hidden for fear that its emergence might bring about a collapse of the make - believe structure upon which our New Frontier leans.

The U.S. Constitution, for instance, prohibits federal appointees from lobbying, and the U.S. Code forbids the expenditure of Treasury funds for purposes other than that for which they are appropriated.

Using a fleet of taxpayer-bought planes, helicopters, yachts and limousines, however, the President and his family, Cabinet members, agency heads and all manner of lesser bureaucrats roam and sail about the country and, in fact, the entire world extolling their own virtue and lobbying for their pet programs.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES and federal office space have been drafted to turn out propaganda in support of the President's Medicare bill. The Hatch Art bars political activity by federal employees, but, on orders from the administration hieracby, they very clearly overstepped these bounds in their coercion of farmers to vote for Secretary Orville Freeman's wheat program.

Other laws prohibit private citizens from negotiating with foreign governments, but both the President and the attorney general openly condoned the many negotiations with Fidel Castro and the extraction of millions of dollars in ramsom from American industry for the bearded dictator.

Other millions were spent in foreign aid to nations whose ships are engaged in trade with Cuba, although an act of Congress made such action illegal. The list of violations is almost endless, but the chances are that no prosecutions will be sought.

It is the unhappy task of a non-political public servant, the comptroller general, to determine whether Treasury funds are being used illegally, and he has done his job admirably, despite the obstacles thrown in his path. Unfortunately, if he makes such a finding, the comptroller general has no recourse except to refer the case in question to the Department of Justice for prosecution. From then on, it is up to the attorney general, and few could seriously expect the President's own brother to take legal action against his administration.

WHETHER OR NOT the violations ever are brought before the courts, they are part of a massive campaign to gain support for the administration and its programs. The drive for Medicare will go on, as will Mr. Freeman's battle for complete government control of agriculture.

Perhaps undercover negotiations with Castro will continue in order to convince the Communist bloc of our peaceful intentions. Prohibit loans and grants to foreign nations? The Frontiersman argue that to half the practice would shatter our world image.

We will be told, as we have been, that an increase of 150,000 in the number of government workers really isn't an increase per capita; that the soaring public debt actually isn't any larger, because our population is bigger; that the erection of the Berlin wall was a "victory" for the West, because it revealed the Communists' embarrassment of West Berlin prosperity; that the entire panorama of Cuban fiascoes, from the Bay of Pigs to the present, is a smashing American triumph, because it supposedly isolated Cuba from the hemisphere (although it would be hard to sell that story in such countries as Venezuela); that huge deficits and government overspending are economically successful, because they "stimulate the economy," and anyone who says you can't spend yourself rich is accused of abiding by a "Puritan ethic."

Now, of course, the big drive is on to convince us that the tax cut should not be accompanied by reduced spending. But all that this publicity is doing is to make the housewife and wage earner think. What they are thinking is that it just doesn't make sense to spend more when you have less money.

U.S. Holds Big Fertilizer Lead

IT IS STILL debatable whether Soviet Russia or the United States has the advantage in nuclear power, but there is absolutely no question that we are away ahead in fertilizer.

That is not a flippant comment. Fertilizer has contributed as much or perhaps more than modern farm machinery to the tremendous increase in agricultural production in the United States. Nikita Khrushchev knows all about that because he sought and received all the information he could gather about farm production while in this country in 1959.

However, the tongue lashing he is reported to have given farmers in Moscow for poor harvests and failure to utilize fertilizer adequately would seem to indicate he has not been successful in passing along all he learned on American farms he visited.

The evident shortage of grain in the Soviet Union, which forced the Communist government to buy half a billion dollars worth of grain from Canada is in part due to the failure to fertilize properly, he admits and provides one more shred of evidence of the hollowness of Khrushchev's threat, "We will bury you."

HE LATER EXPLAINED that he did not mean the interment would be by atomic attack, but by producing so much more in consumer goods that the U.S. would be swamped in world markets. So far, the supporting evidence would not convince even Cuba's Castro, or any other Communist coat-tail rider.

In fact the evidence at hand indicates that Russia is so far behind the U.S. in agriculture that it cannot catch up for years, if ever. Since fertilizer is essential to farming all over the world, it offers one basis of comparison.

Khrushchev's scolding left no doubt that Soviet farming methods still are about at the level of those in this country in the early part of this century. He charged his audience with failure to use such fertilizer as they have. That must be true, for the Soviet leader said that the USSR uses 154 pounds of mineral fertilizer per 2.47 acres (a hectare) of land while the U.S. farmer uses 499 pounds. France uses more than twice as much he said (1115 pounds, Britain 1685 and West Germany 2200 pounds.) Farm lands in those countries have been heavily worked for centuries.

In addition to that admission the Food and Agricultural Organization of United Nations reports that the Russians use very little fertilizer on grain and feed crops, in which they are apparently most deficient, and large amounts on tea, flax cotton and sugar beets.

PRESS REPORTS from Russia empahsize the expansion of the chemical industries, which include fertilizer production. While the Communists reported all sorts of amazing scientific discoveries in the '30s, few of which have been confirmed, the United States launched the Tennessee Valley Authority, which has done more to popularize the use of chemical fertilizers than any other agency.

Khrushchev might also be interested to know that TVA, though developed by the federal government, has left the large scale manufacture and distribution of the types of fertilizer it developed to private industry.

TVA holds approximately 200 patents on fertilizer technology, which are licensed to manufacturers without charge. Since information on patents is freely available through the U. S. patent office, the Soviets probably have most of the data on TVA processes.

Khrushchev is as glib as the old time medicine man in quoting figures. FAO reported that the USSR output for all fertilizers should reach 35 million tons by 1965, but Khrushchev says it will be 100 million tons by 1970.

Meanwhile TVA lists more than 200 companies holding in excess of 300 licenses to produce various types of fertilizer. Approximately 50 licenses are held in Texas, Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

U.S. production of mineral fertilizer has been estimated at more than 35 million tons, with plant capacity increasing at least as rapidly as Russia's, since American farmers know how to use it.

The weapons of the Cold War cover a wide range, and not all are for combat. But any list, even Khrushchev now concedes, must include fertilizer.

De Gaulle Needling U.S.

President Charles de Gaulle of France still seems to be doing the world's best job of needling United States government officials.

The thing that galls New Frontiersmen most is the fact that De Gaulle won't ask for American handouts and won't take orders from President Kennedy. They can hardly imagine a man who won't be bought.

Recent publicity indicates the biggest ground for dispute is France's refusal to allow low import rates on chickens. This has practically prohibited the sale of U. S.-produced chickens in France. Of course, the bigger problem behind that is the refusal of France to let the United States function as a member of the European Common Market, although congress gave President Kennedy authority to negotiate low tariff agreements.

Now the French have adopted a new needling tactic. They have scotched their system of handing out cheap tourist gasoline coupons.

Insiders predict the economy-bent De Gaulle government will make still another move to curtail the American traveler's shopping advantage. They expect it to end the 20 per cent discount on purchases paid for in dollars or hard-currency travelers' checks.

France is the only country in Europe that officially offers this discount-for-dollars plan, a policy that dates back to the days when the franc was desperately weak. Since then the franc has increased mightily in strength while the American dollar, particularly under the Kennedy administration, has weakened. With an economy-wise France and a deficit-minded New Frontier government in the United States, continued strengthening of the franc and continued weakening of the dollar are expected.

Some travel experts in France fear such a move would deal a stunning blow to France's already flagging tourist trade, but the government suspects shopkeepers of using the system to manipulate their tax returns and thinks the prices to tourists might not actually be too much higher.

De Gaulle argues that, since the French are making economic sacrifices to combat inflation, the foreigners shouldn't be given a purchasing advantage.

In the years since World War II, West Germany and France have greatly strengthened their economies through frugality and work. During that same period, and especially during the Kennedy administration, the United States has poured out money profligately, seemingly trying to give to all foreign countries, even our communist enemies, more money than they want.

A recent cartoon aptly pictured the situation when it showed Uncle Sam handing over another big bundle of money to Latin American countries to be used in a study to devise ways to use the money we have already given them.

PAR Offers Hope

In a nation made up of states, such as those in the United States, the nation is largely a reflection of the states. This can be true even at a time when the nation is turning those states' officials into vassals of its own.

Waste, inefficiency, corrupt politics, punishment - and - reward vote - getting and the desire of large numbers of people for handouts cut down the moral fiber of states and, therefore, of the nations. If all our states had high morals and high political standards we would have little need to worry about the morals and high standards of the nation for they would also be of that caliber.

In an article carried in Harper's Magazine, a widely recognized publication, it is stated that Louisiana's chief, and perhaps last, hope of achieving respectable state government is the Louisiana Public Affairs Research Council. The PAR is also singled out as being worthy of being copied by other states that are having governmental trouble — as if there were any which are not.

Written by Ed Kerr of Baton Rouge, the article says:

"The goal of the Public Affairs Research Council is not merely to root out inefficiency and corruption; it is dedicated rather to better than cheaper government and it has been just as outspoken in pointing up the need for increased public service — in education, mental health, and welfare as in exposing waste of tax funds.

"Other states afflicted with imperfect governments may well find this remarkably independent outfit worthy of emulation. For, when PAR speaks out, as it does in frequent reports and news releases to all the state's public officials and news media, the people listen. And, increasingly, their representatives are moved to action."

Kerr states that, so far, PAR has been unable "to reverse the state's established pattern of wasteful and inefficient government, but the deeds are no longer done in the dark and, as an increasingly aroused and informed public opinion exerts pressure for reform, there is discernible progress.

There can be no doubt that the PAR is having a strikingly strong and wholesome effect on the voters and citizens of Louisiana. Facts developed by PAR and presented in its reports not only reach all state officials and others in high places but, through news media, go out to the people.

When made aware of facts, people are much better able to choose between issues and to make correct decisions. For instance, when proposed constitutional amendments are scheduled to be voted on, PAR discusses the merits and demerits of each one by number and description, devulging facts which can be found only by research and sources not readily available to the average person. Newspapers and other news media use these facts in making their own determination of the issues and in deciding which amendments they think should be adopted and which they think should be defeated.

Best hope for the return by Louisiana to an economical, honest, efficient, ethical, democratic and trustworthy government is found in some of the words written by Kerr, when he pointed out that, so far, PAR has been unable to reverse the state's pattern of wasteful and inefficient government but said: ". . .The deeds are no longer done in the dark and as an aroused and informed public opinion exerts pressure for reform, there is discernible progress."

Just as a nation reflects the character of the states, so do the states reflect the character of the people. We won't return to honest, prudent and exemplary government unless that is what the people want and demand.

PAR and the news media give the people the facts but this, alone, is not enough. The people must take those facts and convert them into action if we are to eliminate waste, dishonesty and inefficiency. The best way to do that, of course, is at the polls — even to the extent of recall elections, if necessary.

Our legislators have voted themselves fat salaries and retirement pay that could exceed even those salaries. This could prove extremely costly and could mean further increases in taxes.

PAR gives us things to think about and to act on, if we want to. Why not do it?

The Executive Order

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

In 1933, Franklin D. Roosevelt established the Executive Order. The Executive Orders are simply given the force of law through being proclaimed by the President and published in the Federal Register. This procedure has never been challenged by the people or the courts since it was established.

On Feburary 16, 1962, under the clock of civil defense, President Kennedy issued ten Executive Orders with the respective provisions listed below:

No. 10995. For the seizure and operation by an agency of the Federal Government of all communications media;

No. 10997. For the seizure and operation by an agency of the Federal Government of all electric power, oil and gas, fuels, and minerals.

No. 10998. For the take-over of all food resources and farms, including all farm equipment.

No. 10999. For a general take-over of the modes of transportation, and control of highways and seaports, by an agency of the Federal Government.

No. 11000. For the mobilization of all civilians into a work force under supervision of the Federal Government.

No. 11001. For the Postmaster General to operate a national registration of all persons.

No. 11002. For the take-over by the Federal Government of all health, education, and welfare functions.

No. 11003. For the Federal Government to take over all airports and aircraft.

No. 11004. For a Housing and Home Finance Agency to relocate communities, build new housing with public funds, designate areas to be abandoned as unsafe, and establish new locations for populations.

No. 11005. For the Federal Government to seize and operate all railroads, inland waterways and public storage facilities.

Under Executive Order No. 11051 on September 27, 1962, President Kennedy created the Office of Emergency Planning and this Order gives the authorization, to a part of the President's staff which bears this title, to put all of the above and other Executive Orders into effect — in times of increased international tension, or economic or financial crisis. Just when tensions or crises are sufficient is to be decided by this staff, which means of course by the President.

I ask you to go back and read again these ten Orders. Then, I ask you, what is left? These Orders establish the actual framework for the imposition of a complete police state over the American people, with controls over every persn's life and movements. In theory, these police state measures could be put into effect, based on only whatever the President might consider — or create — as an emergency or crisis of sufficient proportions. Is the civil rights issue a big enough crisis? Or is the coming election in 1964, if the present administration starts to decline, a sufficient crisis? I wonder!

Although Roosevelt started the Executive Order, and President Kennedy is making full use of it, there is still time. If we become more informed, if we tell our friends what we learn, if we selected a man who believes in Constitutional government to unseat the Kennedy dynasty in '64 there is still some hope. We should get behind this man, we should join movements which will help him succeed, we should make every effort to hear conservative speakers who have like views, and above all, if we really want a return to the basic ideals of our Constitution, we should not be afraid to let any one know where we stand. In my opinion, of course, the only man who can help get us back on the right track is Barry Goldwater.

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

May we see a response to this inquiry in your section of "Mr. Editor, Tell Me Please?

Last Saturday (Morning World) you printed a response to an inquiry concerning the selection of Chief Mitchell. Among other things, the board of alderman said the selection of Mitchell over the other aspirants was based on education, experience, recommendations, personality, and aptitude. Mr. Traylor said the test (or the results of the test) was only one factor considered.

Then tell me: are not prerequisites and requirements established to determine ones eligibility to compete? Surely the aspirants possessed the very qualities the Council said they considered to a greater or lesser extent dependent upon the individual. The man with the possible exception of personality. Recommendations should not have been one of the factors considered because the job was a competitive one. It's barely possible that a man could have been recommended by more people than any other yet not have the basic prerequisites.

I know one of the competitors (Lenard.) Your paper ran an article on him a year or so ago. And not so incidental, he made a very good score on the civil service test. Mr. Gates, please refer to your features editor, Sunday, August 5, 1962, and observe some of the attributes he possesses. Yet this man was passed over. Won't you help see that justice is done? Apparently there is no one to intervene in his behalf if not you. He is in no position to speak for himself. But, on second thought, he has. His record is enviable.

Would the illustrious city council of West Monroe dare compare for print the background of all the qualified aspirants, item for item the qualities they said they considered in each of the candidates? Perhaps the application to take examination would be a good source.

Passman Given Praise

Shreveport, La.

To the Editor:

A dispatch from Washington concerning the plans of Agriculture's Freeman and Interior's Udall to spend a few million or a few billion of the American tax payers' money to build a "national" park and a couple of other "give away" projects in Tanganyika, Africa, reminded me that we Louisiananians do not properly recognize the statesmanship of Congressman Otto Passman. Too often we wait until a man is dead before we acclaim him; we are prone to overlook greatness in our contemporaries.

Credit that should go to Mr. Passman quite often goes to others. For example, a month or six weeks ago the House of Renresentatives squeezed a tremendous amount of money out of the "Throw Away and Squander" budget item the President wanted for such things as the above, as well as buying yachts for the Emperor of Ethiopia and building palatial hunting lodges for Tito to entertain Krushchev and President Kennedy gave the credit to the "Republican leadership" in his famous denunciatory statement. The man who deserves the largest share of the credit for this service to the hard-pressed and over-burdened American taxpayer is Otto Passman. It was his painstaking work, day in and day out, extending over a period of many years, working against almost insurmountable difficulties, ferreting out information from people skilled in methods of hiding the facts, which put the information before his fellow Congressmen resulting in the mammoth reduction of the "Throw Away" bill, erroneously labeled "Foreign Aid".

In a Congress noted for the vast number of servile followers of the wacky leadership furnished by the present administration, Mr. Passman stands out like a giant and all of us in Louisiana can lift our heads with pride because he hails from our State.

I was very happy to read your "Church and State" article in Sunday paper, Sept. 23, 1963.

Again, thanks for putting this in your paper.

Civil Rights Legislation

Girard, La.

To the Editor:

The civil rights legislation is nothing more than laws to punish and revoke all laws of the southern states, in an attempt to integrate us.

The extension of the Civil (Wrongs) commission for another year, is also, is plainly prolonging the official life of a picked group of meddlers, to traduce, humiliate, and weaken the resistance of us in the south, in our determined, uncompromising volition to defend our sacred, constitutional rights to preserve the integrity of our heritage, as a free, God-chosen nation. 1st Peter 2nd Ch. 9-10 vss; 2nd. Samuel, 7th Ch. 1-thru 10th vss.

Let us ever be remindful the government can today give you want you want today and tomorrow take what you have.

It is encouraging to see the people everywhere in every walk of life who think for themselves have at this belated moment, become aroused, and are aware there must be a reversal of these of various organizations, playing to the hilt, their emotional prejudices, under leadership of a warped-minded, radical, misguided parasitic force. Even we have to face such facts as the encouragement of the nation's leaders, as the President, and little Bobby go-gitter, rabble-rouser. We must resist.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U.S. Senator From Arizona

THE "ENGINEERING of consent" or massive public relations assault on public resistance in recent years has bloomed into a major industry. Like many other American industries, it now is being monopolized by government.

High-powered press agentry as well as low-pressure selling long have been vital ingredients in the potpourri of American commerce. But how and what the government cooks up in self-glorification is salted a bit too heavily for the tastes of most Americans.

Statistics are juggled, twisted or just plain falsified; laws are ignored, fictional characters are created for television consumption and the most dismal catastrophes are sold to an incredulous public as victories.

In short, fact has become obscured, and truth is often hidden for fear that its emergence might bring about a collapse of the make - believe structure upon which our New Frontier leans.

The U.S. Constitution, for instance, prohibits federal appointees from lobbying, and the U.S. Code forbids the expenditure of Treasury funds for purposes other than that for which they are appropriated.

Using a fleet of taxpayer-bought planes, helicopters, yachts and limousines, however, the President and his family, Cabinet members, agency heads and all manner of lesser bureaucrats roam and sail about the country and, in fact, the entire world extolling their own virtue and lobbying for their pet programs.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES and federal office space have been drafted to turn out propaganda in support of the President's Medicare bill. The Hatch Act bars political activity by federal employees, but, on orders from the administration hierachy, they very clearly overstepped these bounds in their coercion of farmers to vote for Secretary Orville Freeman's wheat program.

From The Inside

BEHIND the "no" votes by some of the U. S. Senators, including Margaret Chase Smith and Richard B. Russell, on the partial test ban treaty was secret testimony before the Armed Services Committee by General Thomas H. Power, head of the Strategic Air Command and the only high military officer who came out unequivocally against the treaty. Power argued that when the Russians exploded their 50-megaton bomb two years ago, parts of our defense communications system and a number of our concrete-shielded ICBMs were rendered useless. Thus Power said the U. S. must be free to test high-megaton bombs in the atmosphere in order to find out their effects on missile and communications system. Russia, he warned, might already have this information. So far, the administration has not permitted Power's testimony to be released . . .

GOLDWATER IS ON THE march, or so it seems. And the question in GOP huddles today, the reports say, is no longer how can Senator Barry Goldwater be stopped, but who wants to stop him. Republican leaders have consulted their workers, their contributors and themselves and found no significant group opposing the senator's candidacy. For months it had been assumed the Eastern wing, made up of New York investment bankers and others, would agree on someone to stop Goldwater. But the word today is that these people almost to a man were for Goldwater . . .

UNUSUAL — Rio's city government has decided to do something about "scandalous love making in public." Policemen, it seems, have been stationed in public parks and other places where amorous couples meet to enjoy themselves. The cops have orders to make no arrests, but to simply stare "with an expression of deep amazement." . . .

DO-AS-I-SAY NOTE — The Federal Aviation Agency recently held a symposium on all-weather landing systems at its multimillion dollar National Aeronautical Facilities Experimental Center in Atlantic City. Three flights bringing commercial airline delegates had to be diverted to nearby airports when FAA's landing facilities went on the blink . . .

A CAREFUL NOTE: Sign on the 12-million-ton Hoover Dam: "U. S. Government Property, Do Not Remove." . . .

THE PRESS AGENT'S ALIBI — There's no doubt but what Washington is the city of the far-out excuse. When national production is down it's because of soot in Pittsburgh; when a senator puts his brother on the payroll it's because he was the only qualified man in his state. Bed Of Roses

Two weeks ago, President Kennedy made a tour of 11-states in the west, which was labeled non-political. Yet, once he arrived, his speeches were anything but. Nevertheless, the response was on the skimpy side, to say the least. And most politicians agreed the way it turned out, particularly in response for him, it was non-political.

FAUBUS

The past week, the President journeyed to Arkansas — on another non-political tour — to dedicate a dam, and ran into practically a stone-wall.

While he sat grimly and silently at the dedication, the President heard Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus attack his civil rights program as an unjustified attempt to deprive citizens and states of basic rights. Said Faubus: "To abridge or destroy these basic rights will constitute civil wrongs, even though the effort to abridge or destroy may masquerade under the name of civil rights."

The statement came at the dedication of the Greers Ferry Dam. In his address there, Kennedy ignored Faubus' remarks, but in an address later in Little Rock, the President did speak out for "greater equality of opportunity for all our citizens as the grand objective of all our programs and politics." He said the South is changing and a new one is rising.

Reporters at the scene said the crowds at both places — as far as presidential crowds usually go — were on the skimpy side, even though it was a perfect, but somewhat warm day.

At the dam site, several persons carried anti-Kennedy signs. Some read — "Barry Goldwater Is Not Soft on Communism." . . ."Don't Worry, They're still 90 miles away."

In closing, Faubus said "It is to be regretted that more of the time and effort of the national government are not devoted to such progressive programs as the dam and the creation of worthwhile projects. Instead, we observe a great deal of time and effort being spent in sponsoring unworkable proposals for the solution of certain social and political problems."

The reception of the President — both in Arkansas and the West — is giving Democratic party planners grey hairs. . .

U. S. diplomats continue, it seems, to be snowed by their Russian counterparts. With the partial test ban treaty all wrapped up, a new agreement seems to be looking. The three have just concluded a week of talks . . .

MEANWHILE, about the biggest thing — good or bad — on Congress the past week was the testimony of Joseph Valachi, the talkative Cosa Nostra mobster, before the Senate Investigations subcommittee. During his appearances, Valachi has been supposedly giving Senator a behind-the-scene workings of the organization. He has listed Vito Genovese as the boss of the nationwide organized crime cartel. Genovese is serving time now in a federal prison, but Valachi says he still runs the show, which, among other things, includes an army of 400 to 500 men—or killers.

The biggest problem is how much to believe. Some senators believe most of what Valachi has testified, but others have taken a skeptical view.

At any rate, the Federal Bureau of Prisons will have a tough job of protecting Valachi. In fact, the big problem now is finding a prison where he will be safe. What's needed is a place where Valachi can be isolated from other prisoners while not being placed in solitary confinment.

As one official put it — "just about every prison we have is the home of some of the people he's named in his testimony."

Already, Valachi says he has received the "kiss of death" from Genovese.

This was the reason, the house group asserted, for the surprise the American people felt when trouble between the Viet Nam regime and the U. S. broke out recently.

THE SOUTH VIET NAM STORY NO. 5

Two weeks ago, President Kennedy sent Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to South Viet Nam to determine the situation there, particularly in regard to the effect on the war effort of the dispute between the government and Buddhists.

Both reported back to the President the past the past week and told him the anti-communist war was going well enough that it may be possible to withdraw most of the American forces there in two years. Both admitted the political situation there remains "deeply serious."

The U. S. has poured millions of dollars and thousands of men into South Viet Nam to keep the Southeast Asian country from falling into Communist hands. But U. S. officials have expressed fear after the Buddishsts' anti-government demonstrations that the war there could be lost if there were not reforms in the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem, a Roman Catholic.

Later in the week, McNamara and Taylor told senators that "we are winning the war out there."

Meanwhile at the UN, Ambassador Buu Hoi of South Viet Nam reported that the Buddhist crisis is over in his country and that he and UN Secretary-General U Thant discussed "how to make international public opinion better aware of the true situation.

In Saigon, U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was reported to be more concerned than military counterpart over the possible effects of the political situtation on the war. Lodge was said to feel that while there may have been no harmful effects so far, the political situation was serious and that it could have harmful effects if it continued.

NEVER underestimate the power of a woman — that's as true today as when the old adage was coined years ago. If you don't believe it, read this story. Wisconsin has a new law today because of it. Nearly a year ago, Mrs. John Melsha, 35, a housewife from New Berlin, expressed interest in buying a used car. She took the car for a trial spin and then complained about the tires. She had someone examine the tires and learned they were old, bald tires and grooves had been put in without adding new rubber to build up the tires. This, Mrs. Melsha contended, made tires too weak and made them dangerous. The used car dealer told her nothing could be done about such tires. She said she would do something. The fight ended Thursday when Gov. John W. Reynolds signed into law a bill prohibiting the regrooving of worn tires in Wisconsin. And the governor noted it was a personal triumph for Mrs. Melsha . . .

In an area known for bloodshed and revolts, the number in the Carribbean area the past week must have equalled the record.

In Honduras, the banana republic, a few pockets of resistance were believed holding out at the weekend despite victory claims by military leaders who ousted President Ramon Villeda Morales in a bloody revolt. The deposed president fled to Costa Rica, accompanied by Modesto Rodas Alvarado, his candidate for president in the October 13 election.

Presumably, the Honduran military overthrew Villeda Morales to keep Rodas Alvarado out of the presidency. In the revolt, 20 civil guardsmen were reported killed and 50 wounded in a four-hour battle in downtown Tegucigalpa.

The revolt came eight days after a military coup in the Dominican Republic that ousted President Jaun Bosch. These have caused new concern and repercussions throughout the Americans. It was the fourth such military takeover in Latin America this year.

In the Dominican Republic, blood flowed the past week despite the military control. It came when mounted police, armed with sabers and automatic weapons, broke up an attempt by university students to stage an anti-government hunger strike.

The revolts in Honduras and the Dominican Republic occurred despite a U. S. warning that the U. S. opposes unconstitutional seizure of power.

Angola's White Settlers Resolve To Stand Fast Against Nationalism

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — The flag-showing visit here of the Portuguese president, Adm. Americo Thomaz, has stiffened the resolve of Angola's 370,000 white settlers to stand fast against African nationalism.

There is virtually no talk of negotiating a settlement with the rebels, who 2½ years ago launched a savage revolt against Portuguese colonialism.

A bold black and yellow sign greeted Thomaz: "We are in Portugal—dead or alive we will stay here." Plastered on walls were posters proclaiming: "Angola—ever bigger, ever richer, ever Portuguese."

The Portuguese government of Premier Antonio Salazar regards Angola as an integral part of Portugal, much as Algeria once was similarly regarded as part of France.

NO. 1 TARGET

Angola is the No. 1 target of the anticolonial campaign of independent African nations, and they have pledged support to Angolan rebels led by Holden Roberto.

About 40,000 Portuguese troops, including African units, are garrisoned in this West African territory more than 14 times the size of Metropolitan Portugal. They are fighting an elusive guerrilla enemy, increasingly well armed and trained in the neighboring Congo.

The war is costing Portugal an estimated total of $100 million yearly. But Angola's economic benefits still outweigh this military expenditures.

Last year Angola earned $140 million from its exports, mainly of coffee, diamonds, sisal, corn, iron ore and cotton. Potentially the country is even richer but lacks capital for development.

"Portugal seems determined to hold on to Angola at all costs," said one Western diplomat. "It is apparently impervious to international pressure.

"Most of the African states are financially in pretty bad shape, and many have their own internal political problems. The Portuguese calculate it would be a long time before they can throw down any serious military challenge."

By that time the Portuguese hope to bring in thousands more white settlers and to win over the African population of Angola by gradually raising their standard of living.

Many Portuguese believe the emergence of Holden Roberto's Union of the People of Angola (UPA) as the dominant rebel movement has slammed the door to any compromise solution.

UPA was mainly responsible for the 1961 uprising in which some 700 whites and as many Africans were slaughtered. The atrocities set off a wave of reprisals.

UPA has been waging a guerrilla campaign ever since, although its strongholds are now confined to mountainous and thickly forested regions.

UPA is regarded by the Portuguese as a racist movement standing for explosion of all whites from Angola.

The rival Movement Populaire Liberation de Angola (MPLA), although tagged pro-Communist, is regarded as less extreme Several Portuguese intellectuals have been jailed on suspicion of having put out feelers for reaching accord with its leaders.

But the MPLA has been eclipsed, and all African aid to the rebels is now channeled through Roberto's UPA, with its headquarters in Leopoldville, the Congo.

The Congo government has recognized Roberto as leader of an Angolan government in exile. Portugal has broken off diplomatic relations with Leopoldville as a result.

Angola is the largest of Portugal's overseas possessions. The first Portuguese landed here almost 500 years ago. Until the 20th century, and particularly the last 20 years, Portuguese influence and colonization were limited chiefly to the coastal regions.

According to the 1960 census, Angola has a population of 4,826,770, of whom about 370,000 are white. There are a few thousand mulattoes, and the rest are Negro.

Nearly half the white settlers have arrived since World War II.

Since 1961 all Angolans—black, white and mulatto—have been Portuguese citizens.

A large percentage of Portuguese immigrants are from peasant families, and many enjoy a living standard little better than the mass of Angolan Africans.

Whites here do many menial jobs. There are white taxi drivers, charwomen, bellhops and even roadworkers.

But the multiracial society of which Portugal boasts seems largely window dressing. At a reception for the visiting president, to which the cream of Luanda society was invited, only a handful of Africans appeared among the whites.

Strategic Areas In S. Viet Nam

EDITOR'S NOTE — The strategic-hamlet program in South Viet Nam is counted on as one key to victory over Communist guerrillas. The aim is to keep guerillas from living off the countryside by seizing men and supplies in remote areas. The program has its successes and failures. This appraisal is by a correspondent just back from South Viet Nam.

By ROBERT EUNSON

TOKYO (AP) — The strategic hamlets of South Viet Nam are based on a military principle that won the American West: fortify a point and fight off marauders to gain time for final victory.

Yet the plan has run into difficulties in the long war against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor took a long look at the program when they flew to Saigon to look for an answer to the multimillion-dollar riddle: "What is wrong with U.S. aid programs in Viet Nam?"

DIFFERENT

The United States is concerned because the U.S. aid mission, which spends about $160 million a year in Viet Nam, and the U.S. military assistance program, costing about $200 million annually, both are investing time, money and supplies in the strategic hamlet program.

The U.S. aid mission is headed by Joseph Brent. A ruddy-faced, amicable American Foreign Service representative, he has 13 years of experience heading missions to Thailand, Formosa, Morocco and South Viet Nam.

"This is different from any other aid program" Brent has directed, he is quick to point out, "because you are fighting a war at the same time."

The military-assistance program is headed by Gen. Paul Harkins. Coordinating the efforts of Brent and Harkins is U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, a beginner in the Saigon arena but an old hand at dealing with Communists.

The professed father of the strategic-hamlet idea is Ngo Dinh, Nhu, closest adviser of President Ngo Dinh Diem. Blamed for the crackdown on Buddhists, Nhu is out of favor with Lodge. The U.S. ambassador has rather strongly suggested that Nhu get out of Viet Nam for a while.

Lodge sees trouble ahead if Nhu stays around, not only for the strategic-hamlet program but for the entire military campaign against the Viet Cong.

Considered by high Vietnamese and U.S. officials at the foundation for a successful war against the guerrillas, the strategic-hamlet program was begun last year and is well under way.

The program calls for building 12,000 strategic hamlets, fortified and locally garrisoned. About 8,000 have been built, although not all these have finished the moats and barbed wire enclosures to keep out Viet Cong attackers and infiltrating guerrilla sympathizers.

U.S. military aid for the hamlets ranges from barbed wire through small arms down to flashlights and swabs for the weapons.

Although Nhu claims to have given birth to the strategic-hamlet plan, others point out the British used it to defeat the Communist guerrillas in Malaya.

"Heck," says Col. Robert Byrne of Sacramento, Calif., senior adviser to the Vietnamese 25th Division at Quang Nai, "that's how we won the West. You ride down a road and see a strategic hamlet all buttoned up on a hillside, and it reminds you of pictures in your history book. Ft. Dodge, Ft. Apache, places like that all became towns, and now they're cities. That's the idea here."

The people in a hamlet select their own chief. This is an improvement over the French system, both Brent and Harkins say. The French colonial system only organized down to village or township level. Villages are organized, and each province has a province chief, selected by his peers.

The province chief suddenly could find himself with more men under his command than an army division. For instance, the head of Quang Nai province has at his disposal 3,000 civil guards, 6,500 self-defense corps troops, and 10,300 hamlet militia, totaling nearly 20,000 troops of a sort.

Although the hamlet militia are not paid, they have been known to fight fiercely in defense of the hamlet in which they live.

Self-defense corps members are paid after eight weeks of training. It takes 12 weeks in Vietnamese boot camp to become a paid civil guard.

From The Inside

BEHIND the "no" votes by some of the U. S. Senators, including Margaret Chase Smith and Richard B. Russell, on the partial test ban treaty was secret testimony before the Armed Services Committee by General Thomas H. Power, head of the Strategic Air Command and the only high military officer who came out unequivocally against the treaty. Power argued that when the Russians exploded their 50-megaton bomb two years ago, parts of our defense communications system and a number of our concrete-shielded ICBMs were rendered useless. Thus Power said the U. S. must be free to test high-megaton bombs in the atmosphere in order to find out their effects on missile and communications system. Russia, he warned, might already have this information. So far, the administration has not permitted Power's testimony to be released . . .

GOLDWATER IS ON THE march, or so it seems. And the question in GOP huddles today, the reports say, is no longer how can Senator Barry Goldwater be stopped, but who wants to stop him. Republican leaders have consulted their workers, their contributors and themselves and found no significant group opposing the senator's candidacy. For months it had been assumed the Eastern wing, made up of New York investment bankers and others, would agree on someone to stop Goldwater. Angola's White Settlers Resolve To Stand Fast Against Nationalism

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — The flag-showing visit here of the Portuguese president, Adm. Americo Thomaz, has stiffened the resolve of Angola's 370,000 white settlers to stand fast against African nationalism.

There is virtually no talk of negotiating a settlement with the rebels, who 2½ years ago launched a savage revolt against Portuguese colonialism.

A bold black and yellow sign greeted Thomaz: "We are in Portugal—dead or alive we will stay here." Plastered on walls were posters proclaiming: "Angola—ever bigger, ever richer, ever Portuguese."

The Portuguese government of Premier Antonio Salazar regards Angola as an integral part of Portugal, much as Algeria once was similarly regarded as part of France.

NO. 1 TARGET

Angola is the No. 1 target of the anticolonial campaign of independent African nations, and they have pledged support to Angolan rebels led by Holden Roberto.

About 40,000 Portuguese troops, including African units, are garrisoned in this West African territory more than 14 times the size of Metropolitan Portugal. They are fighting an elusive guerrilla enemy, increasingly well armed and trained in the neighboring Congo.

The war is costing Portugal an estimated total of $100 million yearly. But Angola's economic benefits still outweigh this military expenditures.

Last year Angola earned $140 million from its exports, mainly of coffee, diamonds, sisal, corn, iron ore and cotton. Potentially the country is even richer but lacks capital for development.

"Portugal seems determined to hold on to Angola at all costs," said one Western diplomat. "It is apparently impervious to international pressure.

"Most of the African states are financially in pretty bad shape, and many have their own internal political problems. The Portuguese calculate it would be a long time before they can throw down any serious military challenge."

By that time the Portuguese hope to bring in thousands more white settlers and to win over the African population of Angola by gradually raising their standard of living.

Many Portuguese believe the emergence of Holden Roberto's Union of the People of Angola (UPA) as the dominant rebel movement has slammed the door to any compromise solution.

UPA was mainly responsible for the 1961 uprising in which some 700 whites and as many Africans were slaughtered. The atrocities set off a wave of reprisals.

UPA has been waging a guerrilla campaign ever since, although its strongholds are now confined to mountainous and thickly forested regions.

UPA is regarded by the Portuguese as a racist movement standing for explosion of all whites from Angola.

The rival Movement Populaire Liberation de Angola (MPLA), although tagged pro-Communist, is regarded as less extreme Several Portuguese intellectuals have been jailed on suspicion of having put out feelers for reaching accord with its leaders.

But the MPLA has been eclipsed, and all African aid to the rebels is now channeled through Roberto's UPA, with its headquarters in Leopoldville, the Congo.

The Congo government has recognized Roberto as leader of an Angolan government in exile. Portugal has broken off diplomatic relations with Leopoldville as a result.

Angola is the largest of Portugal's overseas possessions. The first Portuguese landed here almost 500 years ago. Until the 20th century, and particularly the last 20 years, Portuguese influence and colonization were limited chiefly to the coastal regions.

According to the 1960 census, Angola has a population of 4,826,770, of whom about 370,000 are white. There are a few thousand mulattoes, and the rest are Negro.

Nearly half the white settlers have arrived since World War II.

Since 1961 all Angolans—black, white and mulatto—have been Portuguese citizens.

A large percentage of Portuguese immigrants are from peasant families, and many enjoy a living standard little better than the mass of Angolan Africans.

Whites here do many menial jobs. There are white taxi drivers, charwomen, bellhops and even roadworkers.

But the multiracial society of which Portugal boasts seems largely window dressing. At a reception for the visiting president, to which the cream of Luanda society was invited, only a handful of Africans appeared among the whites.

Strategic Areas In S. Viet Nam

EDITOR'S NOTE — The strategic-hamlet program in South Viet Nam is counted on as one key to victory over Communist guerrillas. The aim is to keep guerillas from living off the countryside by seizing men and supplies in remote areas. The program has its successes and failures. This appraisal is by a correspondent just back from South Viet Nam.

By ROBERT EUNSON

TOKYO (AP) — The strategic hamlets of South Viet Nam are based on a military principle that won the American West: fortify a point and fight off marauders to gain time for final victory.

Yet the plan has run into difficulties in the long war against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor took a long look at the program when they flew to Saigon to look for an answer to the multimillion-dollar riddle: "What is wrong with U.S. aid programs in Viet Nam?"

DIFFERENT

The United States is concerned because the U.S. aid mission, which spends about $160 million a year in Viet Nam, and the U.S. military assistance program, costing about $200 million annually, both are investing time, money and supplies in the strategic hamlet program.

The U.S. aid mission is headed by Joseph Brent. A ruddy-faced, amicable American Foreign Service representative, he has 13 years of experience heading missions to Thailand, Formosa, Morocco and South Viet Nam.

"This is different from any other aid program" Brent has directed, he is quick to point out, "because you are fighting a war at the same time."

The military-assistance program is headed by Gen. Paul Harkins. Coordinating the efforts of Brent and Harkins is U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, a beginner in the Saigon arena but an old hand at dealing with Communists.

The professed father of the strategic-hamlet idea is Ngo Dinh, Nhu, closest adviser of President Ngo Dinh Diem. Blamed for the crackdown on Buddhists, Nhu is out of favor with Lodge. The U.S. ambassador has rather strongly suggested that Nhu get out of Viet Nam for a while.

Lodge sees trouble ahead if Nhu stays around, not only for the strategic-hamlet program but for the entire military campaign against the Viet Cong.

Considered by high Vietnamese and U.S. officials at the foundation for a successful war against the guerrillas, the strategic-hamlet program was begun last year and is well under way.

The program calls for building 12,000 strategic hamlets, fortified and locally garrisoned. About 8,000 have been built, although not all these have finished the moats and barbed wire enclosures to keep out Viet Cong attackers and infiltrating guerrilla sympathizers.

U.S. military aid for the hamlets ranges from barbed wire through small arms down to flashlights and swabs for the weapons.

Although Nhu claims to have given birth to the strategic-hamlet plan, others point out the British used it to defeat the Communist guerrillas in Malaya.

"Heck," says Col. Robert Byrne of Sacramento, Calif., senior adviser to the Vietnamese 25th Division at Quang Nai, "that's how we won the West. You ride down a road and see a strategic hamlet on a hillside, and it reminds you of pictures in our history book. Ft. Dodge, Ft. Apache, places like that all became towns, and now they're cities. That's the idea here."

The people in a hamlet select their own chief. This is an improvement over the French system, both Brent and Harkins say. The French colonial system only organized down to village or township level. Villages are organized and each province has a province chief, selected by his peers.

The province chief suddenly could find himself with more men under his command than an army division. For instance, the head of Quang Nai province has at his disposal 3,000 civil guards, 6,300 self-defense corps troops, and 10,300 hamlet militia, totaling nearly 20,000 troops of a sort.

Although the hamlet militia are not paid, they have been known to fight fiercely in defense of the hamlet level.

Self-defense corps members are paid after eight weeks of training. It takes 12 weeks in Vietnamese boot camp to become a paid civil guard.

Space Age Arrives On The Gulf Coast

IT'S HIS move for Roy Baxter, making plans at the fishing camp he operates on Pearl River in Hancock County, Miss. Baxter, who's always lived there, is one of some 2,630 people being moved out of Hancock and adjoining Pearl River County to make way for a 142,550 acre test firing area for moonshot rocket boosters. Several towns are becoming ghost towns. Baxter, whose camp has 4,300 feet of river frontage, has bought 300 feet of frontage for a new camp at Pearlington. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

NEWLY ELECTED Mayor Frank N. Cusimano, talks of the town's needs in his drugstore in Slidell, La., which is growing with the space age boom. Cusimano defeated a man who had been mayor for 32 years on a platform of a program to keep the town up with the space age. With a population of 6,300 in 1960, Slidell exepects to have 10,000 by December and 22,000 by 1970. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

EDITORS NOTE — The next roar you hear may be from the Gulf Coast, where the moon rockets will soon be undergoing testing. The impact of the multimillion-dollar project has jolted the calm of the Bayous. But wait until they turn the rockets on. The blast won't wake the dead but it will be so loud they've at least had to move the graves.

By BEM PRICE

GAINESVILLE, Miss. (AP)—The space age has arrived on the Gulf coasts of Mississippi and Louisiana, displacing people stills, snakes, alligators, wild pigs, ducks, one graveyard and attitudes.

Gainesville, founded in the early 1700s, is now a ghost town. The nearby hamlets of Santa Rosa and Logtown will be dead by December.

About 2,630 people are being moved out of a 142,550-acre tract in Hancock and Pearl River counties—mostly swamp and piney woods—to make way for the Mississippi Test Operation—MTO—of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

PURPOSE

The purpose of MTO is to test-fire the 7.5-million-pound thrust boosters being built by the Chrysler Corp., and the Boeing Co., at NASA's newly reactivated Michoud ordnance plant at New Orleans, 35 miles away by barge.

The huge boosters will be used to launch astronauts on a trip to the moon by 1970 under Project Apollo.

Within the next five years NASA plans to spend close to $600 million on the construction of MTO and the retooling and renovation of the Michoud plant—43 air-conditioned acres under one roof.

The NASA operation is going to have—and is already having—an enormous impact on the area, especially in underdeveloped Mississippi.

The Michoud operation already has reduced unemployment in New Orleans measureably.

There are 3,000 unemployed construction workers in the New Orleans area and by the time building gets under way next year on a large scale, it is anticipated that work for all these people will be available.

For Mississippi, the arrival of the space age already is changing standards of income, creating a demand for improved public schools and promising to bring university-level education to the coast for the first time.

Macmillan's Followers Are Rallying For Tough Fight

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

BLACKPOOL, England (AP)—Harold Macmillan's Conservative followers are rallying for a back-to-the-wall fight to stay in office.

The 82nd annual conference of Britain's oldest political party opens Wednesday at a time of deepening crisis both for its 13,000,000-plus supporters and for its leader.

After 12 years of power under Sir Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden—now Lord Avon—and Macmillan the party leadership is harassed, divided.

Policies designed for the nation's postwar recovery appear to be losing appeal to voters looking ahead to the late 1960s and 1970s. Setbacks at home and abroad have tarnished the Tory claim to good government.

SUCCESSIVE

Successive by-elections have confirmed a swing to the Labor party which, if repeated in a national ballot, would give Laborites a stunning victory.

For Macmillan, 69, the convention could be his swan song as party leader. A chorus of demands for his retirement swells with each new governmental reverse. Some of his own followers have argued publicly the party needs a younger, more dynamic leader.

All these things are bound to be the subject of lively backstage talk at the four-day conference. The occasion allows Tory backwoods men-and women—to voice hopes and fears, praise and criticism of their leaders and their policies. But rank-and-file Tories do not vote on such issues as the Laborites do. Nor do they elect their leader. He is handpicked by the king-makers who might happen to be elder statesmen or aristocrats whose ancestors once ruled the land.

Does discontent with Macmillan or disenchantment with the government, mean the Conservatives have failed Britain?

The record suggests no.

Certainly there have been Conservative failures.

Internationally the Eden government's involvement with France and Israel seven years ago in the attack on Suez nearly ruined Britain. Yet Macmillan took over from Eden, pieced together the bits of Britain's shattered prestige and romped home in 1959 to the party's third successive electoral victory.

At home, the most embarrassing lapse was over the recent John Profumo affair. The former war minister's liaison with call-girl Christine Keeler, who also dallied with a Soviet diplomat, still reverberates through the British political scene.

Most Conservatives nevertheless are proud of their achievements since 1951. They recall Churchill took over from Labor Prime Minister Clement (now Lord) Attlee when Britain was nearly bankrupt; when massive foreign aid propped the economy; when the nation was short of food, overworked, over-taxed, underpaid, under-clothed.

TRANSFORMED

Tories claim they have transformed all that. They say Britons today are investing, producing, earning, exporting, consuming and saving more. They insist living standards have never been higher, prices never more stable, expansion never steadier. They point to the country's ever-developing road system packed with more than 15 million automobiles. They produce figures to show that buying power of average earnings has risen 35 per cent since 1951. Personal savings are up 15 times, industrial investment up 100 per cent, social service spending doubled, income taxes down by 22½ per cent, surtax down by 75 per cent.

The swing of the political pendulum in most democratic countries shows that people often vote for change. But it is an equal political truth that governments rarely fall in times of prosperity.

Laborites and Liberals claim that British prosperity is surface-deep, that the nation is teetering on the razor's edge of insolvency. Macmillan's counter to this in the 1959 election campaign was that Britons "had never had it so good." For this apparent emphasis on material rather than moral well-being the prime minister and his party have been criticized by some churchmen, newspapers and politicians.

When Macmillan goes who would succeed him?

If there was a clear-cut answer to this Macmillan by now would have retired to an earldom. The truth is that the Conservatives today are divided over the succession. This is rare. It is rare because the kingmakers themselves are split.

Arch-apostles of true-blue conservativism like the Marquess of Salisbury—whose forebears once were all-powerful in the affairs of the kingdom—want a man of the right with a sense of Britain's imperial past and global destiny. They have their eyes on Quintin McGarel Hogg, second Viscount Hailsham, 55-year-old science minister whose patriotic fervor sometimes startles listeners. Like Macmillan, Hailsham is a fine orator, clever, ambitious, a regular churchgoer, with an American mother. Like Macmillan, he is a mater of the political gimmick, a foe of the Socialists. Some foreigners seem to jar him, and he has included certain Americans among them.

Young Conservatives are pumping for Reginald Maulding, 46, chancellor of the exchequer. The big, jovial Maulding is unpompous in his personal relations, good at his job and has a modern, liberal approach to the big political issues of the day.

THE FUTURE of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan (right) and Edward Heath, the Lord Privy Seal, hinges on the Conservative Party's 82nd annual conference and on the national election which the Tories face with the leadership split. The conference opens Oct. 9 in Blackpool. Demands for Macmillan's retirement as party leader have been growing. Heath is considered Macmillan's favorite as his successor, but is counted a long shot in the race. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Burma Strongman Is In A 'Hurry'

By DON HUTH

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Ne Win is a man in a hurry to get things done.

The 52-year-old general's effort to make Burma a neutralist-socialist state is going to succeed—or fall on its face worse than any attempt to achieve parliamentary democracy in this strategic nation since it won independence. You can get bets on either side in Rangoon.

The Texas-size nation of 20 million is getting a taste of strong leadership. Ne Win is a sharp contrast to deposed prime minister U Nu, whose indecision triggered an armed forces coup in March 1962.

EASY GOING

Nu was easy-going and lax about controlling graft and corruption. Ne Win watches his subordinates closely and cracks down hard on offenders.

For better or worse, Ne Win is plunging headlong into a type of socialism he believes will raise standards of living which are among the lowest in Asia.

A 17-man revolutionary council, composed of military men turned politicians, is calling the shots under the direct guidance of Ne Win.

Through a vaguely defined "Burmese way to socialism" program, it has in 17 months systematically set its sights on these targets:

1. Control the nation's wealth, which is topped by rice production, through nationalization of natural resources to insure a fair share for all.
2. Establish a strong national government free from graft and corruption.
3. Improve the lot of the worker, especially peasants who make up nearly 75 per cent of the labor supply.
4. Restore internal peace through negotiations with insurgent groups.

The critics of Ne Win's government do not question the sincerity of the general and his council but they bitterly attack the speed at which the government is moving.

"They don't stop to think things through," one opposition source says. "They plunge ahead with a new decree but give no thought to its implementation and the effect it might have."

Ne Win is quick to silence opposition. He feels the politicians have had their chance and made a mess of things. He has kept the popular Nu in custody. He arrested more political leaders in August on charges of obstructing his government

One of its pet projects has been to put an end to foreign economic control, mainly by the Chinese and Indians, over Burma's economy. Ne Win's latest move in this direction is a stringent income tax law effective this week. Hundreds of Indians are leaving the country and trying to get their wealth out.

The government is aware of unrest. It knows the Burman by nature does not like to be regimented.

The revolutionary council gave in to the powerful Buddhist monks when they complained about the government's taking over certain religious buildings. It has not pressed the peasants in establishing government control over rice production.

Ne Win works 12-hour days and makes the final decision on everything important. Memos and proclamations are fired from his heavily guarded office. Visitors, when they are summoned, must pass through a series of strict checkpoints.

Ne Win tackles his work as he would plan a military action. He once told a state minister :

"I don't care how you do it, but get the job done. If you fail, hang yourself."

CLOSE CIRCLE

He relies on a close circle of advisers when he makes major decisions but he has no close friends. His speeches are brief and to the point. Once he called in a group of businessmen. Without a word of introduction, he told them he was nationalizing all trade and industry.

The general read out his reasons from a prepared statement. When he finished, he turned on his military heels and walked out.

He once was one of Burma's keenest racing fans. When he assumed power he banned horse racing because he felt it did not fit in with socialist policies.

High Court Reassembles On Monday

By PAUL M. YOST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court reassembles Monday for a new term destined to bring historic decisions in racial sit-in cases and in litigation over state legislative and congressional apportionment.

The high tribunal has agreed to hear several appeals in which the justices face the basic issue of whether a private businessman may refuse service to Negroes and whether he then may be backed up by prosecutions under state trespass laws.

The court also has granted hearings in seven appeals attacking the way Virginia, Maryland, New York and Alabama have divided the seats in their legislatures and the way New York and Georgia have divided their congressional districts.

Basic complaint in these cases is that metropolitan area voters are discriminated against by divisions that favor rural sections. Final Supreme Court decisions are expected to substantially affect the kind of state governments that develop in the future and to fix new standards for congressional districting.

UNANSWERED

Questions left unanswered when the court decided the famous Tennessee apportionment case in March, 1962 are now before the justices in the new cases.

In the Tennessee decision, the tribunal said for the first time that the division of seats in state legislatures is subject to challenge in federal courts. But it gave no suggestions as to what degree of equality of fairness the Constitution requires.

Similarly, the court left unanswered important questions when last May it decided a group of sit-in cases, saying demonstrators demanding service may not be arrested under any local segregation law or policy.

The court then had nothing to say about private segregation policies. The sit-in cases to be heard in the new term include trespass convictions of demonstrators in areas where, so far as is known, there are no segregation laws.

In 1883 the Supreme Court struck down a statute passed by Congress to require equal accommodations for all persons in inns, transportation facilities and theaters. The Supreme Court then said the Constitution's 14th Amendment allowed Congress to prohibit only state discrimination and not private action.

Eighteen new appeals asking hearings for Negroes also await court action. They involve a variety of charges resulting from racial demonstrations and include the case of a Louisiana Black Muslim.

INDICATED

He was indicted on an allegation he desecrated the United States flag. The Negro was charged with "displaying publicly a picture of the flag of the United States as representing a place of 'Hell, slavery and death.'"

Eight new appeals asking hearings on apportionment issues were docketed during the court's summer recess. The new appeals are from Oklahoma, Ohio, Washington state, Delaware, Florida, Michigan, Colorado and Queens in New York City.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, beginning his 11th year on the court, will supervise the handling of a record-breaking number of docketed cases. At the start of the new term they total almost 1,200 cases. At the same time last year the total was a few over 900.

The court's work load has more than doubled during Warren's 10-year regime. In the 1952-53 term, only 1,426 cases were docketed. With the number of justices remaining nine, each of the last 10 years has seen a sharp increase in appeals filed.

In the closing weeks of the last previous term, the court agreed to hear arguments in 95 cases.

Argument sessions begin Oct. 14 and the court has allotted 124½ hours to hear the 95 appeals already granted. By long tradition, Monday's session is devoted to brief opening ceremonies.

Among the appeals soon to be argued is that of Gov. Ross R. Barnett of Mississippi. He wants the court to rule he is entitled to a jury trial in the criminal contempt case pending against him and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. They were accused of refusing to obey lower court orders not to interfere with admission of James H. Meredith, Negro, to the University of Mississippi last year.

Other appeals to be argued raise these questions:

—Is the book "Tropic of Cancer" obscene? A Los Angeles jury and a state appellate court said it is and a book dealer must go to jail for selling a copy.

—May a Cleveland Heights, Ohio, theater operator be fined for showing a french film called "The Lovers?" Ohio courts said he may because the movie is obscene.

—Should the National Labor Relations Board alone enforce state bans on agency shop labor contracts? Florida courts ruled state tribunals have authority to do so.

—Does the Fifth Amendment's right against self-incrimination apply in state as well as in federal proceedings? A Connecticut court ruled it does not.

—Did a federal judge in Florida err in dismissing air piracy and kidnaping charges against two men accused of forcing a pilot to fly them to Cuba?

—May the Securities and Exchange Commission get an injunction to block alleged scalping by an investment advice firm? Federal courts in New York said it may not.

Stacks of new appeals filed during the summer, asking for hearings during the winter, included these cases on books and movies:

Conviction of a bookseller, under California's obscenity law, for sale of a book called "Fear of Incest"; conviction of a theater manager and his doorman for selling in Pasadena, Calif., an alleged obscene film entitled "First Fling"; a Florida court ban on a book "Pleasure was My Business" on the ground of obscenity.

Conviction of a New York bookseller for sale of a book "College for Sinners" and sale of pictures of nude females; a Kansas court order for destruction of 1,715 books seized at a newsstand and adjudged to be obscene.

The Justice Department appealed for a ruling on validity—under the antitrust laws—of acquisition by the Aluminum Co. of America of the stock and assets of the Rome Cable Corp., and the acquisition of Hazel-Atlas Glass Co. by Continental Can Co., Inc.

The department also asked review and reversal of a decision that a company official is immune from prosecution under the Sherman Anitrust Act because he testified during a congressional committee investigation of violations of antitrust laws.

Sixty employes of the University of Washington asked a hearing in their attack on a requirement that all employes of Washington state must say under oath that they are not Communist Party members. Two other persons in another appeal attack constitutionality of a ban on passports for Communist Party members.

Space Age Arrives On The Gulf Coast

IT'S HIS move for Roy Baxter, making plans at the fishing camp he operates on Pearl River in Hancock County, Miss. Baxter, who's always lived there, is one of some 2,630 people being moved out of Hancock and adjoining Pearl River County to make way for a 142,550 acre test firing area for moonshot rocket boosters. Several towns are becoming ghost towns. Baxter, whose camp has 4,300 feet of river frontage, has bought 300 feet of frontage for a new camp at Pearlington. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

NEWLY ELECTED Mayor Frank N. Cusimano, talks of the town's needs in his drugstore in Slidell, La., which is growing with the space age boom. Cusimano defeated a man who had been mayor for 32 years on a platform of a program to keep the town up with the space age. With a population of 6,300 in 1960, Slidell exepects to have 10,000 by December and 22,000 by 1970. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

EDITORS NOTE — The next roar you hear may be from the Gulf Coast, where the moon rockets will soon be undergoing testing. The impact of the multimillion-dollar project has jolted the calm of the Bayous. But wait until they turn the rockets on. The blast won't wake the dead but it will be so loud they've at least had to move the graves.

By BEM PRICE

GAINESVILLE, Miss. (AP)—The space age has arrived on the Gulf coasts of Mississippi and Louisiana, displacing people stills, snakes, alligators, wild pigs, ducks, one graveyard and attitudes.

Gainesville, founded in the early 1700s, is now a ghost town. The nearby hamlets of Santa Rosa and Logtown will be dead by December.

About 2,630 people are being moved out of a 142,550-acre tract in Hancock and Pearl River counties—mostly swamp and piney woods—to make way for the Mississippi Test Operation—MTO—of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

PURPOSE

The purpose of MTO is to test-fire the 7.5-million-pound thrust boosters being built by the Chrysler Corp., and the Boeing Co., at NASA's newly reactivated Michoud ordnance plant at New Orleans, 35 miles away by barge.

The huge boosters will be used to launch astronauts on a trip to the moon by 1970 under Project Apollo.

Within the next five years NASA plans to spend close to $600 million on the construction of MTO and the retooling and renovation of the Michoud plant—43 air-conditioned acres under one roof.

The NASA operation is going to have—and is already having—an enormous impact on the area, especially in underdeveloped Mississippi.

The Michoud operation already has reduced unemployment in New Orleans measureably.

There are 3,000 unemployed construction workers in the New Orleans area and by the time building gets under way next year on a large scale, it is anticipated that work for all these people will be available.

For Mississippi, the arrival of the space age already is changing standards of income, creating a demand for improved public schools and promising to bring university-level education to the coast for the first time.

Macmillan's Followers Are Rallying For Tough Fight

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

BLACKPOOL, England (AP)—Harold Macmillan's Conservative followers are rallying for a back-to-the-wall fight to stay in office.

The 82nd annual conference of Britain's oldest political party opens Wednesday at a time of deepening crisis both for its 13,000,000-plus supporters and for its leader.

After 12 years of power under Sir Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden—now Lord Avon—and Macmillan the party leadership is harassed, divided.

Policies designed for the nation's postwar recovery appear to be losing appeal to voters looking ahead to the late 1960s and 1970s. Setbacks at home and abroad have tarnished the Tory claim to good government.

SUCCESSIVE

Successive by-elections have confirmed a swing to the Labor party which, if repeated in a national ballot, would give Laborites a stunning victory.

For Macmillan, 69, the convention could be his swan song as party leader. A chorus of demands for his retirement swells with each new governmental reverse. Some of his own followers have argued publicly the party needs a younger, more dynamic leader.

All these things are bound to be the subject of lively backstage talk at the four-day conference. The occasion allows Tory backwoods men-and women—to voice hopes and fears, praise and criticism of their leaders and their policies. But rank-and-file Tories do not vote on such issues as the Laborites do. Nor do they elect their leader. He is handpicked by the king-makers who might happen to be elder statesmen or aristocrats whose ancestors once ruled the land.

Does discontent with Macmillan or disenchantment with the government, mean the Conservatives have failed Britain?

The record suggests no.

Certainly there have been Conservative failures.

Internationally the Eden government's involvement with France and Israel seven years ago in the attack on Suez nearly ruined Britain. Yet Macmillan took over from Eden, pieced together the bits of Britain's shattered prestige and romped home in 1959 to the party's third successive electoral victory.

At home, the most embarrassing lapse was over the recent John Profumo affair. The former war minister's liaison with call-girl Christine Keeler, who also dallied with a Soviet diplomat, still reverberates through the British political scene.

Most Conservatives nevertheless are proud of their achievements since 1951. They recall Churchill took over from Labor Prime Minister Clement (now Lord) Attlee when Britain was nearly bankrupt; when massive foreign aid propped the economy; when the nation was short of food, overworked, over-taxed, underpaid, under-clothed.

TRANSFORMED

Tories claim they have transformed all that. They say Britons today are investing, producing, earning, exporting, consuming and saving more. They insist living standards have never been higher, prices never more stable, expansion never steadier. They point to the country's ever-developing road system packed with more than 15 million automobiles. They produce figures to show that buying power of average earnings has risen 35 per cent since 1951. Personal savings are up 15 times, industrial investment up 100 per cent, social service spending doubled, income taxes down by 22½ per cent, surtax down by 75 per cent.

The swing of the political pendulum in most democratic countries shows that people often vote for change. But it is an equal political truth that governments rarely fall in times of prosperity.

Laborites and Liberals claim that British prosperity is surface-deep, that the nation is teetering on the razor's edge of insolvency. Macmillan's counter to this in the 1959 election campaign was that Britons "had never had it so good." For this apparent emphasis on material rather than moral well-being the prime minister and his party have been criticized by some churchmen, newspapers and politicians.

When Macmillan goes who would succeed him?

If there was a clear-cut answer to this Macmillan by now would have retired to an earldom. The truth is that the Conservatives today are divided over the succession. This is rare. It is rare because the kingmakers themselves are split.

Arch-apostles of true-blue conservativism like the Marquess of Salisbury—whose forebears once were all-powerful in the affairs of the kingdom—want a man of the right with a sense of Britain's imperial past and global destiny. They have their eyes on Quintin McGarel Hogg, second Viscount Hailsham, 55-year-old science minister whose patriotic fervor sometimes startles listeners. Like Macmillan, Hailsham is a fine orator, clever, ambitious, a regular churchgoer, with an American mother. Like Macmillan, he is a mater of the political gimmick, a foe of the Socialists. Some foreigners seem to jar him, and he has included certain Americans among them.

Young Conservatives are pumping for Reginald Maudling, 46, chancellor of the exchequer. The big, jovial Maudling is unpompous in his personal relations, good at his job and has a modern, liberal approach to the big political issues of the day.

THE FUTURE of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan (right) and Edward Heath, the Lord Privy Seal, hinges on the Conservative Party's 82nd annual conference and on the national election which the Tories face with the leadership split. The conference opens Oct. 9 in Blackpool. Demands for Macmillan's retirement as party leader have been growing. Heath is considered Macmillan's favorite as his successor, but is counted a long shot in the race. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Burma Strongman Is In A 'Hurry'

By DON HUTH

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Ne Win is a man in a hurry to get things done.

The 52-year-old general's effort to make Burma a neutralist-socialist state is going to succeed —or fall on its face worse than any attempt to achieve parliamentary democracy in this strategic nation since it won independence. You can get bets on either side in Rangoon.

The Texas-size nation of 20 million is getting a taste of strong leadership. Ne Win is a sharp contrast to deposed prime minister U Nu, whose indecision triggered an armed forces coup in March 1962.

EASY GOING

Nu was easy-going and lax about controlling graft and corruption. Ne Win watches his subordinates closely and cracks down hard on offenders.

For better or worse, Ne Win is plunging headlong into a type of socialism he believes will raise standards of living which are among the lowest in Asia.

A 17-man revolutionary council, composed of military men turned politicians, is calling the shots under the direct guidance of Ne Win.

Through a vaguely defined "Burmese way to socialism" program, it has in 17 months systematically set its sights on these targets:

1. Control the nation's wealth, which is topped by rice production, through nationalization of natural resources to insure a fair share for all.
2. Establish a strong national government free from graft and corruption.
3. Improve the lot of the worker, especially peasants who make up nearly 75 per cent of the labor supply.
4. Restore internal peace through negotiations with insurgent groups.

The critics of Ne Win's government do not question the sincerity of the general and his council but they bitterly attack the speed at which the government is moving.

"They don't stop to think things through," one opposition source says. "They plunge ahead with a new decree but give no thought to its implementation and the effect it might have."

Ne Win is quick to silence opposition. He feels the politicians have had their chance and made a mess of things. He has kept the popular Nu in custody. He arrested more political leaders in August on charges of obstructing his government

One of its pet projects has been to put an end to foreign economic control, mainly by the Chinese and Indians, over Burma's economy. Ne Win's latest move in this direction is a stringent income tax law effective this week. Hundreds of Indians are leaving the country and trying to get their wealth out.

The government is aware of unrest. It knows the Burman by nature does not like to be regimented.

The revolutionary council gave in to the powerful Buddhist monks when they complained about the government's taking over certain religious buildings. It has not pressed the peasants in establishing government control over rice production.

Ne Win works 12-hour days and makes the final decision on everything important. Memos and proclamations are fired from his heavily guarded office. Visitors, when they are summoned, must pass through a series of strict checkpoints.

Ne Win tackles his work as he would plan a military action. He once told a state minister :

"I don't care how you do it, but get the job done. If you fail, hang yourself."

CLOSE CIRCLE

He relies on a close circle of advisers when he makes major decisions but he has no close friends. His speeches are brief and to the point. Once he called in a group of businessmen. Without a word of introduction, he told them he was nationalizing all trade and industry.

The general read out his reasons from a prepared statement. When he finished, he turned on his military heels and walked out.

He once was one of Burma's keenest racing fans. When he assumed power he banned horse racing because he felt it did not fit in with socialist policies.

High Court Reassembles On Monday

By PAUL M. YOST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court reassembles Monday for a new term destined to bring historic decisions in racial sit-in cases and in litigation over state legislative and congressional apportionment.

The high tribunal has agreed to hear several appeals in which the justices face the basic issue of whether a private businessman may refuse service to Negroes and whether he then may be backed up by prosecutions under state trespass laws.

The court also has granted hearings in seven appeals attacking the way Virginia, Maryland, New York and Alabama have divided the seats in their legislatures and the way New York and Georgia have divided their congressional districts.

Basic complaint in these cases is that metropolitan area voters are discriminated against by divisions that favor rural sections. Final Supreme Court decisions are expected to substantially affect the kind of state governments that develop in the future and to fix new standards for congressional districting.

UNANSWERED

Questions left unanswered when the court decided the famous Tennessee apportionment case in March, 1962 are now before the justices in the new cases.

In the Tennessee decision, the tribunal said for the first time that the division of seats in state legislatures is subject to challenge in federal courts. But it gave no suggestions as to what degree of equality of fairness the Constitution requires.

Similarly, the court left unanswered important questions when last May it decided a group of sit-in cases, saying demonstrators demanding service may not be arrested under any local segregation law or policy.

The court then had nothing to say about private segregation policies. The sit-in cases to be heard in the new term include trespass convictions of demonstrators in areas where, so far as is known, there are no segregation laws.

In 1883 the Supreme Court struck down a statute passed by Congress to require equal accommodations for all persons in inns, transportation facilities and theaters. The Supreme Court then said the Constitution's 14th Amendment allowed Congress to prohibit only state discrimination and not private action.

Eighteen new appeals asking hearings for Negroes also await court action. They involve a variety of charges resulting from racial demonstrations and include the case of a Louisiana Black Muslim.

INDICATED

He was indicted on an allegation he desecrated the United States flag. The Negro was charged with "displaying publicly a picture of the flag of the United States as representing a place of 'Hell, slavery and death.' "

Eight new appeals asking hearings on apportionment issues were docketed during the court's summer recess. The new appeals are from Oklahoma, Ohio, Washington state, Delaware, Florida, Michigan, Colorado and Queens in New York City.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, beginning his 11th year on the court, will supervise the handling of a record-breaking number of docketed cases. At the start of the new term they total almost 1,200 cases. At the same time last year the total was a few over 900.

The court's work load has more than doubled during Warren's 10-year regime. In the 1952-53 term, only 1,426 cases were docketed. With the number of justices remaining nine, each of the last 10 years has seen a sharp increase in appeals filed.

In the closing weeks of the last previous term, the court agreed to hear arguments in 95 cases.

Argument sessions begin Oct. 14 and the court has allotted 124½ hours to hear the 95 appeals already granted. By long tradition, Monday's session is devoted to brief opening ceremonies.

Among the appeals soon to be argued is that of Gov. Ross R. Barnett of Mississippi. He wants the court to rule he is entitled to a jury trial in the criminal contempt case pending against him and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. They were accused of refusing to obey lower court orders not to interfere with admission of James H. Meredith, Negro, to the University of Mississippi last year.

Other appeals to be argued raise these questions:

—Is the book "Tropic of Cancer" obscene? A Los Angeles jury and a state appellate court said it is and a book dealer must go to jail for selling a copy.

—May a Cleveland Heights, Ohio, theater operator be fined for showing a french film called "The Lovers?" Ohio courts said he may because the movie is obscene.

—Should the National Labor Relations Board alone enforce state bans on agency shop labor contracts? Florida courts ruled state tribunals have authority to do so.

—Does the Fifth Amendment's right against self-incrimination apply in state as well as in federal proceedings? A Connecticut court ruled it does not.

—Did a federal judge in Florida err in dismissing air piracy and kidnaping charges against two men accused of forcing a pilot to fly them to Cuba?

—May the Securities and Exchange Commission get an injunction to block alleged scalping by an investment advice firm? Federal courts in New York said it may not.

Stacks of new appeals filed during the summer, asking for hearings during the winter, included these cases on books and movies:

Conviction of a bookseller, under California's obscenity law, for sale of a book called "Fear of Incest"; conviction of a theater manager and his doorman for selling in Pasadena, Calif., an alleged obscene film entitled "First Fling"; a Florida court ban on a book "Pleasure was My Business" on the ground of obscenity.

Conviction of a New York bookseller for sale of a book "College for Sinners" and sale of pictures of nude females; a Kansas court order for destruction of 1,715 books seized at a newsstand and adjudged to be obscene.

The Justice Department appealed for a ruling on validity—under the antitrust laws—of acquisition by the Aluminum Co. of America of the stock and assets of the Rome Cable Corp., and the acquisition of Hazel-Atlas Glass Co. by Continental Can Co., Inc.

The department also asked review and reversal of a decision that a company official is immune from prosecution under the Sherman Anitrust Act because he testified during a congressional committee investigation of violations of antitrust laws.

Sixty employes of the University of Washington asked a hearing in their attack on a requirement that all employes of Washington state must say under oath that they are not Communist Party members. Two other persons in another appeal attack constitutionality of a ban on passports for Communist Party members.

REV. ARCHIE B. FAIRES

Rev. Faires Associate At Church Here

Beginning work as associate minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Monroe, on October 1 was the Rev. Archie B. Faires. The post also includes the responsibilities of minister of education.

Faires is a native of Richland County, South Carolina. He attended public schools in Wallace, North Carolina, and graduated from North Carolina State College with a degree in dairy husbandry. He graduated from Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia, in 1959.

During his seminary training, Faires received his Christian Education work from Dr. William Bean Kennedy, author of the Covenant Life Curriculum, which the church will begin studying this week. He also attended a national adult camp workshop in Texas during the past summer.

From 1959-63, Faires served as pastor of the Rayville Presbyterian Church. He is married and the father of four children.

FACE LIFTING

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) —The 108-year-old walls of First Presbyterian Church's main building are getting a face lifting. Workmen have begun the two-month job of sandblast-cleaning the stones and replacing any loose fillings between them.

The church was founded in 1823, and the present main building erected 32 years later. Its tiffany glass windows, depicting Bible stories, are said to be among the finest in the United States.

TRAFFIC SAFETY

RISING CITY, Neb. (AP) — You could get a ticket or a sermon from Elmer Shaw. That's because he's both the Rev. Mr. Shaw, pastor of the First Methodist churches in Rising City and Shelby, Neb., and Deputy Sheriff Shaw.

A former state trooper, the Rev. Mr. Shaw is serving as a deputy without pay, hoping particularly that he can do something about traffic safety in his dual role.

Church Founder Will Be Speaker At Homecoming

The founder of the First Assembly of God Church at Cypress and Crosley streets, West Monroe, the Rev. E. L. Tanner, will be speaker at morning worship services today during homecoming observances there.

This was announced by the Rev. F. D. Wall, pastor, who said the event will be open to former members and friends of the church, starting at 9:30 a.m.

Rev. Tanner founded the church in 1924 and served as its pastor until 1953. Rev. Wall has been pastor for six years.

ELLIS K. HUNT, a retired railroad man who has been a church choir member for more than forty years, and Walter G. Mangham, music minister at Monroe First Baptist Church, look over a copy of the hymn, "Lead Me, Saviour", written recently by Rev. L. T. Hastings, who served 24 years as pastor of the church. The choir sang the hymn in Sunday evening worship last week.

REV. L. E. TRAXLER SR., clerk of Ouachita Parish Baptist Association, looks at a uniform church letter form and anticipates the big job that lies ahead for him and 51 other associational clerks in Louisiana in tabulating vital statistical information reported this month by the churches. He is pastor of Southside Baptist Church in Monroe.

Vital Season Arrives For State Baptists

One of the most important times of the year has arrived for Louisiana Baptists.

It is association time and it will hold sway during most of October. It is a time when 1,300 churches in 52 associations assemble together for reports, worship and the transaction of business.

Most of the associations still meet for two days, but many have sought to streamline their programs. The procedure does not vary greatly and the order of business remains recognizable throughout the state.

VARY IN SIZE

The associations, however, vary in size from a few churches with little more than a thousand members to 42 churches with a membership of more than 40 thousand. Each church elects a stated number of messengers to transact business at the annual meeting. Many visitors also attend.

The annual associational meeting is a time for admitting new churches on recommendation of the proper committee which has seen to the meeting of requirements. It is a time for studying and changing or reaffirming policies.

Reports are heard from an array of committees. A representative of the state Baptist convention and representatives from some of the convention agencies, such as the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe and Acadia Baptist Academy at Eunice, are usually present.

REPORTS GATHERED

As reports are gathered from the churches in each associational meeting they are passed on to the state convention which in turn reports to the Southern Baptist Convention. In this way each convert, each church member, each dollar given and each Vacation Bible School are recorded throughout the SBC.

A high point in each day of the annual meeting is the worship hour. The session always opens with a devotional period, but the worship period, ordinarily preceding the noon meal, includes congregational singing, scripture, sermon and prayer.

Northeast Louisiana associations will meet as follows: Oct. 10, Caldwell at Cross Road Church; Oct. 10-11, Union at Haile Church; Oct. 10-11, Shady Grove at Hebron Church; Oct. 10, 11 and 12, Madison at Tallulah, Montrose and Waverly Churches; Oct. 14-15, Delta at Clayton and Ferriday Churches; Oct. 14-15, Morehouse at Oak Hill Church; Oct. 14, 15 and 16, Winn at Goldonna, Union Hill and Union Churches; Oct. 15, Jackson at Quitman Church; Oct. 15-16, Richland at Boeuf River and Start Churches; Oct. 17, Concord at Farmerville Church; Oct. 21-22, Deer Creek at Temple and South Central Churches; Oct. 21-22, Ouachita at Jonesville Church; Oct. 21-22, Ouachita Parish at Lakeshore Church; Oct. 21-22, Trenton at Bethel and Claiborne Churches; Oct. 22-23 and 24, Bayou Macon at Forest, Transylvania and New Zion Churches.

West Monroyan Among Revival Group Pastors

The pastor of a West Monroe Church will be among thirty six visiting pastors and musicians who will lead Baptist Churches and missions in Alaska in simultaneous revivals during the period of October 20 to November 3.

He is the Rev. Leland A. Langridge Jr., pastor of the Fair Park Baptist Church.

In addition to Louisiana, members of the revival movement will include those from Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Mississippi, New Mexico, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas and Wisconsin.

Directing the crusade will be C. Y. Dossey of Dallas, associate in the division of evangelism of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Dossey said the churches of Alaska range in size from a handful to more than a thousand members and they are scattered over that state's almost 600,000 square miles, extending as far north as Fort Yukon.

The visiting ministers and musicians, representing 10 states, will have their expenses to Alaska paid by their own churches for the most part, and the Alaska churches will pay expenses while they are there.

Edgewood Adds To Church Staff

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wafer have joined the staff of Edgewood Baptist Church in West Monroe as minister of music and pianist, it was announced by Rev. Don E. Wainwright, pastor.

Wafer had been band director at Ouachita Parish high school for the past eight years. Mr. and Mrs. Wafer previously served on the staffs of Highland Park and Lakeshore Baptist churches in Monroe.

During his seminary training, Faires received his Christian Education work from Dr. William Bean Kennedy, author of the Covenant Life Curriculum, which the church will begin studying this week. He also attended a national adult camp workshop in Texas during the past summer.

From 1959-63, Faires served as pastor of the Rayville Presbyterian Church. He is married and the father of four children.

FACE LIFTING

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) —The 108-year-old walls of First Presbyterian Church's main building are getting a face lifting. Workmen have begun the two-month job of sandblast-cleaning the stones and replacing any loose fillings between them.

The church was founded in 1823, and the present main building erected 32 years later. Its tiffany glass windows, depicting Bible stories, are said to be among the finest in the United States.

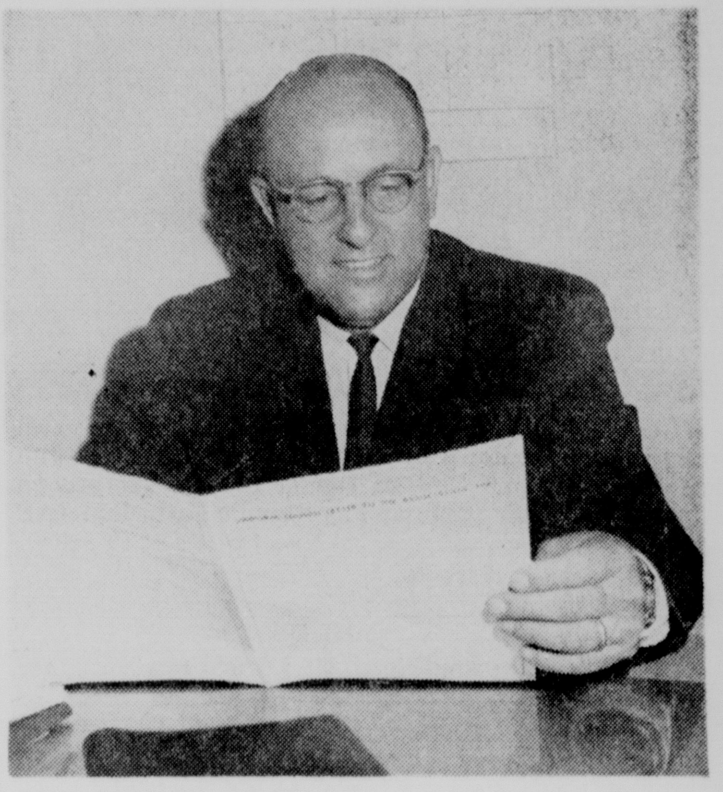
Church Founder Will Be Speaker At Homecoming

The founder of the First Assembly of God Church at Cypress and Crosley streets, West Monroe, the Rev. E. L. Tanner, will be speaker at morning worship services today during homecoming observances there.

This was announced by the Rev. F. D. Wall, pastor, who said the event will be open to former members and friends of the church, starting at 9:30 a.m.

Rev. Tanner founded the church in 1924 and served as its pastor until 1953. Rev. Wall has been pastor for six years.

Mangham, music minister at Monroe First Baptist Church, look over a copy of the hymn, "Lead Me, Saviour," written recently by Rev. L. T. Hastings, who served 24 years as pastor of the church. The choir sang the hymn in Sunday evening worship last week.



REV. L. E. TRAXLER SR., clerk of Ouachita Parish Baptist Association, looks at a uniform church letter form and anticipates the big job that lies ahead for him and 51 other associational clerks in Louisiana in tabulating vital statistical information reported this month by the churches. He is pastor of Southside Baptist Church in Monroe.

Vital Season Arrives For State Baptists

One of the most important times of the year has arrived for Louisiana Baptists.

It is association time and it will hold sway during most of October. It is a time when 1,300 churches in 52 associations assemble together for reports, worship and the transaction of business.

Most of the associations still meet for two days, but many have sought to streamline their programs. The procedure does not vary greatly and the order of business remains recognizable throughout the state.

VARY IN SIZE

The associations, however, vary in size from a few churches with little more than a thousand members to 42 churches with a membership of more than 40 thousand. Each church elects a stated number of messengers to transact business at the annual meeting. Many visitors also attend.

The annual associational meeting is a time for admitting new churches on recommendation of the proper committee which has seen to the meeting of requirements. It is a time for studying and changing or reaffirming policies.

Reports are heard from an array of committees. A representative of the state Baptist convention and representatives from some of the convention agencies, such as the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe and Acadia Baptist Academy at Eunice, are usually present.

REPORTS GATHERED

As reports are gathered from the churches in each associational meeting they are passed on to the state convention which in turn reports to the Southern Baptist Convention. In this way each convert, each church member, each dollar given and each Vacation Bible School are recorded throughout the SBC.

A high point in each day of the annual meeting is the worship hour. The session always opens with a devotional period, but the worship period, ordinarily preceding the noon meal, includes congregational singing, scripture, sermon and prayer.

Northeast Louisiana associations will meet as follows: Oct. 10, Caldwell at Cross Road Church; Oct. 10-11, Union at Haile Church; Oct. 10-11, Shady Grove at Hebron Church; Oct. 10, 11 and 12, Madison at Tallulah, Montrose and Waverly Churches; Oct. 14-15, Delta at Clayton and Ferriday Churches; Oct. 14-15, Morehouse at Oak Hill Church; Oct. 14, 15 and 16, Winn at Goldonna, Union Hill and Union Churches; Oct. 15, Jackson at Quitman Church; Oct. 15-16, Richland at Boeuf River and Start Churches; Oct. 17, Concord at Farmerville Church; Oct. 21-22, Deer Creek at Temple and South Central Churches; Oct. 21-22, Ouachita at Jonesville Church; Oct. 21-22, Ouachita Parish at Lakeshore Church; Oct. 21-22, Trenton at Bethel and Claiborne Churches; Oct. 22-23 and 24, Bayou Macon at Forest, Transylvania and New Zion Churches.

West Monroyan Among Revival Group Pastors

The pastor of a West Monroe Church will be among thirty six visiting pastors and musicians who will lead Baptist Churches and missions in Alaska in simultaneous revivals during the period of October 20 to November 3.

He is the Rev. Leland A. Langridge Jr., pastor of the Fair Park Baptist Church.

In addition to Louisiana, members of the revival movement will include those from Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Mississippi, New Mexico, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas and Wisconsin.

Directing the crusade will be C. Y. Dossey of Dallas, associate in the division of evangelism of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Dossey said the churches of Alaska range in size from a handful to more than a thousand members and they are scattered over that state's almost 600,000 square miles, extending as far north as Fort Yukon.

The visiting ministers and musicians, representing 10 states, will have their expenses to Alaska paid by their own churches for the most part, and the Alaska churches will pay expenses while they are there.

Edgewood Adds To Church Staff

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wafer have joined the staff of Edgewood Baptist Church in West Monroe as minister of music and pianist, it was announced by Rev. Don E. Wainwright, pastor.

Wafer had been band director at Ouachita Parish high school for the past eight years. Mr. and Mrs. Wafer previously served on the staffs of Highland Park and Lakeshore Baptist churches in Monroe.

Porkers Drop Texas Froggies

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas cashed a 56-yard pass play for a touchdown midway in the first quarter Saturday then held Texas Christian to a field goal until it could break away once again in the closing minutes for an 18-3 Southwest Conference football victory.

Quarterback Fred Marshall passed 32 yards to end Jerry Lamb, who made a spectacular catch over an opponent's shoulder and raced 24 yards to the goal.

From there until the fourth quarter TCU's Horned Frogs held the Razorbacks and added a 37-yard field goal in the second quarter by fullback Jimmy McAteer.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Statistics for the TCU-Arkansas football game:

First downs	12	9

Passes	12-27	5-17
Passes Intercepted by	1	2
Punts 4	9-42	9-40
Fumbles lost	1	0
Yards penalized	25	22

In the fourth quarter center Ronnie Caveness of Arkansas intercepted Randy Howard's pass on the TCU 28 to set up a Razorback touchdown drive.

Quarterback Billy Gray went over on a sneak after the Frogs' desperate goal line stand stopped Arkansas on three downs.

On the next kickoff, the Frogs' Marvin Chipman fumbled on his 26 and end Jim Finch recovered for Arkansas. Gray went over for the third Razorback touchdown on a seven-yard keeper play.

The Razorbacks scoring bursts came within two minutes. Caveness' interception came midway of the fourth quarter and there still was more than six minutes left when the Razorbacks got their third touchdown.

Both teams bogged down at times under the heat. The Frogs held the Razorbacks to two first down in the first half. Then they turned around and smothered the Texans so badly that the Frogs didn't make a first down in the last half until only two minutes were left.

The game was the first conference play of the season for both teams. It saw the Razorbacks bounce back after a 7-6 defeat by Missouri last week, which knocked them from among the nation's top 10 teams.

North Carolina Topples Clemson

By DEL BOOTH

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP)—Quarterback Jim Rossi and end Ray Barlow combined for a 78-yard scoring play in the second period and N. C. State made it stand for a 7-3 football victory over Clemson Saturday.

It was the first time the Wolfpack has beaten Clemson since 1957 and it ran Coach Earl Edwards' victory string to three this season.

Frank Pearce kicked a 22-yard field goal for Clemson's only score, in the second period.

Other than the scoring play, State never threatened against a tough Clemson line. But the Wolfpack proved equally tough inside its 20.

Tribe Fights Hard In 27-19 Setback

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

NATCHITOCHES — Northwestern's Demons outscored Northeast State in a wild offensive battle here Saturday night to gain a 27-19 Gulf States Conference victory in the league opener for both teams.

Both teams had been in relatively low scoring duels during their first two quarters.

The Tribesmen finished the night with 188 yards rushing and 140 through the air for a total of 328 yards. Meanwhile the Demons ran for 185 yards and passed for 106 for a 291 total. Northwestern had 17 firstdowns and Northeast 15.

The Demons opened the scoring first when former Holy Ridge star Claude Patrick rammed over from six yards out with 7:05 remaining in the first quarter. Ed Horton converted and the Demons were out in front quickly, 7-0.

Northeast had put on a gallant goal line stand seconds earlier, stopping the Demons at the three, but a fumble took place later and gave Northwestern the ball at the twelve. From here they swiftly scored behind the running of Patrick.

STATISTICS

	NE	NW
First downs	15	17
Yards rushing	188	185
Passes (A&C)	20-11	11-6
Yards passing	140	106
Passes Intercepted by	0	3
Total yards	328	291
Punts	2-38	4-39.2
Fumbles lost	3	2
Penalties	6-27	3-25

Northeast came back with a score of its own after freshman tackle Ron Sumpter recovered a Demon fumble at the Tribe 27 on the final play of the first quarter.

Halfback Ronnie Myrick pitched to former Byrd product Alton Thomas for the final five yards to climax the nine play, 73 yard scoring drive. Thomas, who was tremendous all night, made a diving catch on the crucial fourth down play, and after Willie Regan tacked on the PAT, the score stood 7-7.

And then, as if playing a casual game of pitch and catch, Northwestern took the ensuing kick-off and threw its way for a quick TD, covering 67 yards in only four plays. Halfback Glenn Talbert went the final 34 yards after getting a crushing block from Patrick that cleared the way. Horton missed the extra point attempt and NSC led 13-7.

Now it was Northeast's turn, and the Tribe bounced back quickly to tie the score again.

Senior signal caller, Mike Cooper, who connected on six of eight passes for 69 yards during the night, got things rolling on the first play, when he hit Thomas at the Indian 38. The halfback carried it 29 yards before being brought down on the NSC 37.

Later, on a third and six at the 33, Cooper again went to the air and big end Wendell Drost made a leaping catch to put the ball on the 15. Myrick scored on the next play. He started wide, then faked inside to elude two tacklers before putting on the speed to score standing up.

Regan's PAT attempt was wide, leaving the score 13-13.

Northwestern took the lead for good after the next series of plays. With Herbie Smith and Don Beasley alternating at the quarterback slot, the Demons marched 71 yards in eight plays to pay dirt.

A 31 yard pass play from Beasley to Garry Pittman was the long gainer. Fullback Bobby Parker scored seconds later from 3 yards away with 1:50 left.

On the final play before intermission, NLSC tackle Wayne Clement crashed in to knock the ball loose, grabbed it and ran 55 yards with the aid of two vicious blocks by teammates. But it was called back. Officials ruled the ball had touched the ground, therefore ruining any attempt for a run.

Early in the third quarter, after a series exchange in which the only threat was an attempted Demon field goal, Northeast took over on its 20 and crammed the ball down Northwestern's throat for a tally.

Again, as much of the night, wide plays with Thomas and Myrick carrying the mail ate up much of the yardage.

Thomas took a pitch-out at the 50 and sped for 30 yards for the big play in the series. Regan bolted over for the score from two yards out with 4:10 left in the fourth quarter.

The Demons' final tally came early in the fourth period.

After a Northeast fumble, one of three which the Indians lost during the night, Northwestern struck like lightning. They covered the 43 yards in just two plays to break the Indians' back.

On the first play, Pittman went wide to the left side, stiff armed a couple of Indians, and raced 31 yards to the six, to set up the score. Parker bulled and twisted his way for the final six yards. Horten kicked good, and that was the ball game from the scoring angle.

The Indians did move to the Demon 43 with two minutes left, but a pass interception snuffed out the threat and Northwestern ran out the clock.

In the individual rushing department, Regan ran for 60 yards on 15 carries, Myrick picked up 58 on 10 tries, and Thomas scooted for 58 on six attempts. Patrick carrying the mail ate up yards on 14 trips.

Defensively such boys as ends Jim Love and Carlysle Williams, cornerback Sherrel Smith, tackles Alden Fontenot, and Preston Hollier, guards Billy Ross Graves and Jewel McBroom and linebacker Tommy Beaube were outstanding.

Score by quarters:
Northwestern 7 13 0 7—27
Northeast 0 13 6 0—19
NW—Patrick 6, run; Talbert 34, run; Parker 3, run Parker 6, run; Horton 3 PAT's.
NE—Thomas, pass from Myrick, 5; Myrick 15, run; Regan 2, run; Regan 1 PAT.

UCLA Defeats Stanford, 10-9

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — UCLA sophomore halfback Bob Richardson raced an intercepted pass 47 yards to the Stanford five, setting up the Bruins' winning fourth quarter touchdown Saturday in a 10-9 victory.

Two plays after the spindly 160-pounder picked off the pass thrown by Dick Berg, UCLA halfback John White ran four yards to score and Larry Zeno booted the decisive point.

SEC GRID VICTORY, LOSS

Mississippi State Holds Volunteers For Slim Win

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Mississippi State shot halfback Ode Burrell up the gap 23 yards for a touchdown early in the second period Saturday and fought off off Tennessee thrusts after the intermission for a 7-0 victory in a Southeastern Conference football game.

Burrell's dash capped an 81-yard drive in which State quarterback Sonny Fisher kept Tennessee defenders off balance with smart selections of plays. Justin Canale kicked the extra point.

The triumph was State's first in the conference and gave the Mississippians a 2-0-1 record. The loss was Tennessee's second straight and left the Vols with a 1-2 mark.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Statistcis of the Mississippi State-Tennessee football game:

First downs	16	12
Rushing yardage	232	116

Passes	5-9	9-15
Passes intercepted by	4	0
Punts	4 6-42	7-31
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	67	30

Tennessee was bottled up all the way in the first half, except for one thrust to State's 21 on a 31-yard sprint by tailback Mallon Faircloth. But a new Vol team, inserted at this point, bogged and State began its touchdown drive.

The Bulldogs marched to Tennessee's 2 midway in the second period but Fisher was stopped and the ball went over.

Canale, who had kicked two field goals in earlier games, attempted two in the second period but both failed. The first was from the 9 and the second from the 31.

The Vols made repeated threats in the third and fourth quarters, but were unable to come up with a scoring punch.

The closest Tennessee came to the State goal was the 2. But on fourth and touchdown to go, tailback Bobby Morton was spilled for a six-yard loss. Bill McGuire tripped Morton when it appeared he might go all the way.

Pass interceptions, one by Fisher and another by safetyman James Carroll, halted two other Tennessee penetrations.

State dominated the first half completely and it was just the reverse after intermission, except that the Vols couldn't score.

The Bulldogs made 15 first downs in the first two periods and one in the final minute for a total of 16. Tennessee got only two in the first half and picked up 10 more after the rest period.

Minnesota Rips Army On Defense

By LEW FERGUSON

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota's crunching defense set up three touchdowns on two fumbles recoveries and a pass interception as the football Gophers defeated Army 24-8 Saturday.

The Gophers only had to go 20 and seven yards to score after Frank Marchlewski and Gene Rabel recovered fumbles. Minnesota drove 44 yards after the interception to score.

Army finally broke through the Minnesota defense for a fourth quarter touchdown, moving 38 yards in six plays with Ken Waldrop ramming the final three yards.

It was Army's sixth straight defeat at the hands of a Big Ten opponent. The Cadets suffered their first loss of 1963, while Minnesota was posting its first victory after losing to Nebraska.

The Gophers marched 56 yards in the late stages of the opening period before being halted at the Army two-yard line. Mike Reid then booted a 19-yard field goal for a 3-0 lead.

On the ensuing kickoff, Minnesota jarred John Seymour loose from the ball, Frank Marchlewski recovering on the Army 20. In six plays Minnesota scored as Reid rammed three yards off left tackle. He also converted.

Army then had the ball only three plays before Willie Costanza picked off a Carl Stichweh pass at the Cadet 44. The Gophers covered that distance in 13 plays, with Bob Sadek diving over center for the touchdown. Reid's kick made it 17-0 six minutes before the half.

Cleveland Tops Steelers; Rally In Last Stanza

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Browns came from behind in the final quarter Saturday night with some sensational passing by quarterback Frank Ryan to defeat the Pittsburgh Steelers 35-23 and cement their hold on top place in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

A crowd of 84,684, largest in Browns' history, saw a dazzling display by both sides as the undefeated teams battled for the conference lead.

Pittsburgh led four times during the torrid contest, but could not hold off Ryan as he passed to Gary Collins for 15-and 20-yard touchdowns, 19 yards to Rich Kreitling and scored one himself. Fullback Jim Brown, the league's leading scorer, who gained 175 yards in 21 tries, counted the other Cleveland marker on an eight-yard run. That nullified plenty of fireworks by the Steelers.

BOBBY PETRELLA (19) of Tennessee snags a five-yard pass to the Mississippi State 19 where he was halted by two State men, J. E. Locian, (35) and Larry Swearengen (22). It turned out to be one of six Vol scoring threats halted in MSU's 7-0 victory. In the background are Vol's Mallon Faircloth (43) and State's Justin Canale (62). (AP Wirephoto)

Southwestern Edges Tampa

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — End Jim McNutt, a defensive magician who pulled the big defensive play out of his headgear at prime moments, Saturday night paved the way for a 19-17 victory for Southwestern Louisiana over the university of Tampa.

In the third period, the 6-foot, 190-pounder from Corsicana, Tex., picked off a Tampa pass at the Spartan 24 to set up USL's final touchdown.

Trailing 19-3, Tampa struck back in the fourth period. Quarterback Val Johnson tossed a pass to Billy Howell on the flank, and the little halfback wove 36 yards for a touchdown.

Larry Maire bowled over for two extra points.

Moments later, a USL fumble on their own 16 gave the Spartans another chance. Six plays later, John Perry drove over from the one.

A pass for extra points failed, and Tampa trailed 19-17.

Pat Screen Directs Only TD In Clash

BATON ROUGE — Pat Screen, a sophomore quarterback with the daring of an astronaut, and a magnificent defense it wasn't suppose to have, carried Louisiana State University to a brilliant but close 7 to 6 victory over previously unbeaten Georgia Tech this hot Saturday night before a sellout crowd of 68,000.

It was one of the most magnificent victories ever registered by an LSU team. Tech hadn't been scored on in it's two previous games, but the Tigers changed that record in short order early in the first period when they drove 45 yards. After that it was a titantic defensive struggle with the torrid LSU defense holding the Yellow Jackets to two field goals, one of which was disputed vigorously, and despite every break in the book, including penalties and recovered fumbles that were not allowed.

The thrilling end came with unexpected swiftness with a minute and a half left in the game. LSU had punted to Tech on its 24 yard line. Two plays later the great Tech quarterback Billy Lothridge, who was not in Screen's class in this game, faded back to pass. End Billy Truax, a thorn on defense all night, deflected the ball and then interecteped on the Tech 19. from that point, LSU ran out the clock to win a bruising battle that left the roaring partisan crowd as well as the players limp and exhausted.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Statistics of the Georgia Tech-Louisiana State football game:

Passing yardage	70	14

Before tonight, LSU had broken even in its only two appearances this season. It defeated Texas A and M and lost to Rice last weekend.

But almost from the opening whistle, it was obvious the Tigers had come to play ball.

Tech received the kickoff, but couldn't move as the Tiger line composed of Robbie Hucklebridge, Willis Langley, Truax, Danny Neumann and Ralph Pere charged through almost with ease. Then after receiving the punt, the Tigers started a methodical march toward the goal. First halfback Joe Labruzzo, then Buddy Soefker, rotated, moving the ball to the 27. From there on a fourth down with four yards to go, the youthful Screen, who is almost as swift as an eagle on a football field, faked, then swung wide and dashed to the 21 for the first down. Two plays later he carried it to the 10. Then two plays later from the seven he faked into the line, then swung to his right and went into the end zone untouched. Sophomore end Doug Moreau booted the extra point.

In all the Tigers picked up 10 first downs to 12 for Tech but gained a total of 223 yards to 198 for Tech.

Tech roared back in the second period on the passing of Lothridge and the dashing running of halfback Joe Auer. Lothridge threw a surprise at the Tigers, when back in his own end zone presumably to pass, he threw a 27 yard pass to Auer for a first down and the Yellow Jackets were in business. Tech move to the LSU nine, but the magnificent Tiger defense held. Lothridge then booted a 26-yard field goal that was dispute by the fans vigorously. Even one official pushed out his hands as if to indicate it was wide, but the referee ruled it was good.

Late in the second period, Tech drove to the LSU three, but on third down, Lothridge missed his favorite receiver, Billy Martin in the end zone. He then booted another field goal, this one for 21 yards. The half ended with the score 7 to 6 in favor of LSU and that was the way it ended despite the pressure packed second half.

Midway of the second period Tech halfback Terry Haddock dashed 75 yards to score, but the officials ruled that he stepped out of bounds at his own 35.

Opening the third period, the Tigers, guided again by Screen, moved to the Tech 10 yard line. With fourth down and about a yard and a half to go, Screen tried it through the line but this magnificent try failed by inches and Tech held.

Later in the period the Tigers, this time with the Go team, started another drive, but halfback Danny LeBlanc fumbled at the Tech 40 and it was recovered by Auer.

The going really got rough in the fourth period. Taking the ball on their own 45, the Yellow Jackets moved to the LSU 31 yard line. Then after a brilliant defensive stand, Lothridge tried a field goal, which went wide after it was partially blocked. However, the referee ruled that an LSU player was over eager and called a personal foul on him. This gave Tech a first down and possession of the ball at the LSU 16. The penalty was roundly

Porkers Drop Texas Froggies

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas cashed a 56-yard pass play for a touchdown midway in the first quarter Saturday then held Texas Christian to a field goal until it could break away once again in the closing minutes for an 18-3 Southwest Conference football victory.

Quarterback Fred Marshall passed 32 yards to end Jerry Lamb, who made a spectacular catch over an opponent's shoulder and raced 24 yards to the goal.

From there until the fourth quarter TCU's Horned Frogs held the Razorbacks and added a 37-yard field goal in the second quarter by fullback Jimmy McAteer.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Statistics for the TCU-Arkansas football game:

In the fourth quarter center Ronnie Caveness of Arkansas intercepted Randy Howard's pass on the TCU 28 to set up a Razorback touchdown drive.

Quarterback Billy Gray went over on a sneak after the Frogs' desperate goal line stand stopped Arkansas on three downs.

On the next kickoff, the Frogs' Marvin Chipman fumbled on his 26 and end Jim Finch recovered for Arkansas. Gray went over for the third Razorback touchdown on a seven-yard keeper play.

The Razorbacks scoring bursts came within two minutes. Caveness' interception came midway of the fourth quarter and there still was more than six minutes left when the Razorbacks got their third touchdown.

Both teams bogged down at times under the heat. The Frogs held the Razorbacks to two first down in the first half. Then they turned around and smothered the Texans so badly that the Frogs didn't make a first down in the last half until only two minutes were left.

The game was the first conference play of the season for both teams. It saw the Razorbacks bounce back after a 7-6 defeat by Missouri last week, which knocked them from among the nation's top 10 teams.

North Carolina Topples Clemson

By DEL BOOTH

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP)—Quarterback Jim Rossi and end Ray Barlow combined for a 78-yard scoring play in the second period and N. C. State made it stand for a 7-3 football victory over Clemson Saturday.

It was the first time the Wolfpack has beaten Clemson since 1957 and it ran Coach Earl Edwards' victory string to three this season.

Frank Pearce kicked a 22-yard field goal for Clemson's only score, in the second period.

Other than the scoring play, State never threatened against a tough Clemson line. But the Wolfpack proved equally tough inside its 20.

Tribe Fights Hard In 27-19 Setback

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

NATCHITOCHES — Northwestern's Demons outscored Northeast State in a wild offensive battle here Saturday night to gain a 27-19 Gulf States Conference victory in the league opener for both teams.

Both teams had been in relatively low scoring duels during their first two quarters.

The Tribesmen finished the night with 188 yards rushing and 140 through the air for a total of 328 yards. Meanwhile the Demons ran for 185 yards and passed for 106 for a 291 total. Northwestern had 17 firstdowns and Northeast 15.

The Demons opened the scoring first when former Holy Ridge star Claude Patrick rammed over from six yards out with 7:05 remaining in the first quarter. Ed Horton converted and the Demons were out in front quickly, 7-0.

Northeast had put on a gallant goal line stand seconds earlier, stopping the Demons at the three, but a fumble took place later and gave Northwestern the ball at the twelve. From here they swiftly scored behind the running of Patrick.

STATISTICS

	NE	NW
First downs	15	17
Yards rushing	188	185
Passes (A&C)	20-11	11-6
Yards passing	140	106
Passes intercepted by	0	3
Total yards	328	291
Punts	2-38	4-39.2
Fumbles lost	3	2
Penalties	6-27	3-25

Northeast came back with a score of its own after freshman tackle Ron Sumpter recovered a Demon fumble at the Tribe 27 on the final play of the first quarter.

Halfback Ronnie Myrick pitched to former Byrd product Alton Thomas for the final five yards to climax the nine play, 73 yard scoring drive. Thomas, who was tremendous all night, made a diving catch on the crucial fourth down play, and after Willie Regan tacked on the PAT, the score stood 7-7.

And then, as if playing a casual game of pitch and catch, Northwestern took the ensuing kick-off and threw its way for a quick TD, covering 67 yards in only four plays. Halfback Glenn Talbert went the final 34 yards after getting a crushing block from Patrick that cleared the way. Horton missed the extra point attempt and NSC led 13-7.

Now it was Northeast's turn, and the Tribe bounced back quickly to tie the score again.

Senior signal caller, Mike Cooper, who connected on six of eight passes for 69 yards during the night, got things rolling on the first play, when he hit Thomas at the Indian 38. The halfback carried it 29 yards before being brought down on the NSC 37.

Later, on a third and six at the 33, Cooper again went to the air and big end Wendell Drost made a leaping catch to put the ball on the 15. Myrick scored on the next play. He started wide, then faked inside to elude two tacklers before putting on the speed to score standing up.

Regan's PAT attempt was wide, leaving the score 13-13.

Northwestern took the lead for good after the next series of plays. With Herbie Smith and Don Beasley alternating at the quarterback slot, the Demons marched 71 yards in eight plays to pay dirt.

A 31 yard pass play from Beasley to Garry Pittman was the long gainer. Fullback Bobby Parker scored seconds later from 3 yards away with 1:50 left.

On the final play before intermission, NLSC tackle Wayne Clement crashed in to knock the ball loose, grabbed it and ran 55 yards with the aid of two vicious blocks by teammates. But it was called back. Officials ruled the ball had touched the ground, therefore ruining any attempt for a run.

Early in the third quarter, after a series exchange in which the only threat was an attempted Demon field goal, Northeast took over on its 20 and crammed the ball down Northwestern's throat for a tally.

Again, as much of the night, wide plays with Thomas and Myrick carrying the mail ate up much of the yardage.

Thomas took a pitch-out at the 50 and sped for 30 yards for the big play in the series. Regan bolted over for the score from two yards out with 4:10 left in the fourth quarter.

The Demons' final tally came early in the fourth period.

After a Northeast fumble, one of three which the Indians lost during the night, Northwestern struck like lightning. They covered the 43 yards in just two plays to break the Indians' back.

On the first play, Pittman went wide to the left side, stiff armed a couple of Indians, and raced 31 yards to the six, to set up the score. Parker bulled and twisted his way for the final six yards. Horten kicked good, and that was the ball game from the scoring angle.

The Indians did move to the Demon 48 with two minutes left, but a pass interception snuffed out the threat and Northwestern ran out the clock.

In the individual rushing department, Regan ran for 60 yards on 15 carries, Myrick picked up 58 on 10 tries, and Thomas scooted for 58 on six attempts. Patrick carrying the mail ate up yards on 14 trips.

Defensively such boys as ends Jim Love and Carlysle Williams, cornerback Sherrel Smith, tackles Alden Fontenot, and Preston Hollier, guards Billy Ross Graves and Jewel McBroom and linebacker Tommy Beaube were outstanding.

Score by quarters:
Northwestern .... 7 13 0 7—27
Northeast .... 0 13 6 0—19

UCLA Defeats Stanford, 10-9

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — UCLA sophomore halfback Bob Richardson raced an intercepted pass 47 yards to the Stanford five, setting up the Bruins' winning fourth quarter touchdown Saturday in a 10-9 victory.

Two plays after the spindly 160-pounder picked off the pass thrown by Dick Berg, UCLA halfback John White ran four yards to score and Larry Zeno booted the decisive point.

SEC GRID VICTORY, LOSS

Mississippi State Holds Volunteers For Slim Win

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Mississippi State shot halfback Ode Burrell up the gap 23 yards for a touchdown early in the second period Saturday and fought off off Tennessee thrusts after the intermission for a 7-0 victory in a Southeastern Conference football game.

Burrell's dash capped an 81-yard drive in which State quarterback Sonny Fisher kept Tennessee defenders off balance with smart selections of plays. Justin Canale kicked the extra point.

The triumph was State's first in the conference and gave the Mississippians a 2-0- 1 record. The loss was Tennessee's second straight and left the Vols with a 1-2 mark.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Statistcis of the Mississippi State-Tennessee football game:

First downs	16	12
Rushing yardage	232	116

Passes	5-9	9-15
Passes intercepted by	4	0
Punts 4	6-42	7-31
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	67	30

Tennessee was bottled up all the way in the first half, except for one thrust to State's 21 on a 31-yard sprint by tailback Mallon Faircloth. But a new Vol team, inserted at this point, bogged and State began its touchdown drive.

The Bulldogs marched to Tennessee's 2 midway in the second period but Fisher was stopped and the ball went over.

Canale, who had kicked two field goals in earlier games, attempted two in the second period but both failed. The first was from the 9 and the second from the 31.

The Vols made repeated threats in the third and fourth quarters, but were unable to come up with a scoring punch.

The closest Tennessee came to the State goal was the 2. But on fourth and touchdown to go, tailback Bobby Morton was spilled for a six-yard loss. Bill McGuire tripped Morton when it appeared he might go all the way.

Pass interceptions, one by Fisher and another by safetyman James Carroll, halted two other Tennessee penetrations.

State dominated the first half completely and it was just the reverse after intermission, except that the Vols couldn't score.

The Bulldogs made 15 first downs in the first two periods and one in the final minute for a total of 16. Tennessee got only two in the first half and picked up 10 more after the rest period.

Minnesota Rips Army On Defense

By LEW FERGUSON

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota's crunching defense set up three touchdowns on two fumbles recoveries and a pass interception as the football Gophers defeated Army 24-8 Saturday.

The Gophers only had to go 20 and seven yards to score after Frank Marchlewski and Gene Rabel recovered fumbles. Minnesota drove 44 yards after the interception to score.

Army finally broke through the Minnesota defense for a fourth quarter touchdown, moving 38 yards in six plays with Ken Waldrop ramming the final three yards.

It was Army's sixth straight defeat at the hands of a Big Ten opponent. The Cadets suffered their first loss of 1963, while Minnesota was posting its first victory after losing to Nebraska.

The Gophers marched 56 yards in the late stages of the opening period before being halted at the Army two-yard line. Mike Reid then booted a 19-yard field goal for a 3-0 lead.

On the ensuing kickoff, Minnesota jarred John Seymour loose from the ball, Frank Marchlewski recovering on the Army 20. In six plays Minnesota scored as Reid rammed three yards off left tackle. He also converted.

Army then had the ball only three plays before Willie Costanza picked off a Carl Stichweh pass at the Cadet 44. The Gophers covered that distance in 13 plays, with Bob Sadek diving over center for the touchdown. Reid's kick made it 17-0 six minutes before the half.

Cleveland Tops Steelers; Rally In Last Stanza

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Browns came from behind in the final quarter Saturday night with some sensational passing by quarterback Frank Ryan to defeat the Pittsburgh Steelers 35-23 and cement their hold on top place in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

A crowd of 84,684, largest in Browns' history, saw a dazzling display by both sides as the undefeated teams battled for the conference lead.

Pittsburgh led four times during the torrid contest, but could not hold off Ryan as he passed to Gary Collins for 15-and 20-yard touchdowns, 19 yards to Rich Kreitling and scored one himself. Fullback Jim Brown, the league's leading scorer, who gained 175 yards in 21 tries, counted the other Cleveland marker on an eight-yard run. That nullified plenty of fireworks by the Steelers.

BOBBY PETRELLA (19) of Tennessee snags a five-yard pass to the Mississippi State 19 where he was halted by two State men, J. E. Locian, (35) and Larry Swearengen (22). It turned out to be one of six Vol scoring threats halted in MSU's 7-0 victory. In the background are Vol's Mallon Faircloth (43) and State's Justin Canale (62). (AP Wirephoto)

Southwestern Edges Tampa

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — End Jim McNutt, a defensive magician who pulled the big defensive play out of his headgear at prime moments, Saturday night paved the way for a 19-17 victory for Southwestern Louisiana over the university of Tampa.

In the third period, the 6-foot, 190-pounder from Corsicana, Tex., picked off a Tampa pass at the Spartan 24 to set up USL's final touchdown.

Trailing 19-3, Tampa struck back in the fourth period. Quarterback Val Johnson tossed a pass to Billy Howell on the flank, and the little halfback wove 36 yards for a touchdown.

Larry Maire bowled over for two extra points.

Moments later, a USL fumble on their own 16 gave the Spartans another chance. Six plays later, John Perry drove over from the one.

A pass for extra points failed, and Tampa trailed 19-17.

Pat Screen Directs Only TD In Clash

BATON ROUGE — Pat Screen, a sophomore quarterback with the daring of an astronaut, and a magnificent defense it wasn't suppose to have, carried Louisiana State University to a brilliant but close 7 to 6 victory over previously unbeaten Georgia Tech this hot Saturday night before a sellout crowd of 68,000.

It was one of the most magnificent victories ever registered by an LSU team. Tech hadn't been scored on in it's two previous games, but the Tigers changed that record in short order early in the first period when they drove 45 yards. After that it was a titantic defensive struggle with the torrid LSU defense holding the Yellow Jackets to two field goals, one of which was disputed vigorously, and despite every break in the book, including penalties and recovered fumbles that were not allowed.

The thrilling end came with unexpected swiftness with a minute and a half left in the game. LSU had punted to Tech on its 24 yard line. Two plays later the great Tech quarterback Billy Lothridge, who was not in Screen's class in this game, faded back to pass. End Billy Truax, a thorn on defense all night, deflected the ball and then interecteped on the Tech 19, from that point, LSU ran out the clock to win a bruising battle that left the roaring partisan crowd as well as the players limp and exhausted.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Statistics of the Georgia Tech-Louisiana State football game:

	GA. TECH	LSU
First downs	12	10
Rushing yardage	128	209
Passing yardage	70	14
Passes	6-11	2-5
Passes intercepted by	0	1
Punts	6-44	6-40
Fumbles lost	0	1
Yards penalized	20	69

Before tonight, LSU had broken even in its only two appearances this season. It defeated Texas A and M and lost to Rice last weekend.

But almost from the opening whistle, it was obvious the Tigers had come to play ball.

Tech received the kickoff, but couldn't move as the Tiger line composed of Robbie Hucklebridge, Willis Langley, Truax, Danny Neumann and Ralph Pere charged through almost with ease. Then after receiving the punt, the Tigers started a methodical march toward the goal. First halfback Joe Labruzzo, then Buddy Soefker, rotated, moving the ball to the 27. From there on a fourth down with four yards to go, the youthful Screen, who is almost as swift as an eagle on a football field, faked, then swung wide and dashed to the 21 for the first down. Two plays later he carried it to the 10. Then two plays later from the seven he faked into the line, then swung to his right and went into the end zone untouched. Sophomore end Doug Moreau booted the extra point.

In all the Tigers picked up 10 first downs to 12 for Tech but gained a total of 223 yards to 198 for Tech.

Tech roared back in the second period on the passing of Lothridge and the dashing running of halfback Joe Auer. Lothridge threw a surprise at the Tigers, when back in his own end zone presumably to pass, he threw a 27 yard pass to Auer for a first down and the Yellow Jackets were in business. Tech move to the LSU nine, but the magnificent Tiger defense held. Lothridge then booted a 26-yard field goal that was dispute by the fans vigorously. Even one official pushed out his hands as if to indicate it was wide, but the referee ruled it was good.

Late in the second period, Tech drove to the LSU three, but on third down, Lothridge missed his favorite receiver, Billy Martin in the end zone. He then booted another field goal, this one for 21 yards. The half ended with the score 7 to 6 in favor of LSU and that was the way it ended despite the pressure packed second half.

Midway of the second period Tech halfback Terry Haddock dashed 75 yards to score, but the officials ruled that he stepped out of bounds at his own 35.

Opening the third period, the Tigers, guided again by Screen, moved to the Tech 10 yard line. With fourth down and about yard and a half to go, Screen tried it through the line but this magnificent try failed by inches and Tech held.

Later in the period the Tigers, this time with the Go team, started another drive, but halfback Danny LeBlanc fumbled at the Tech 40 and it was recovered by Auer.

The going really got rough in the fourth period. Taking the ball on their own 45, the Yellow Jackets moved to the LSU 31 yard line. Then after a brilliant defensive stand, Lothridge tried a field goal, which went wide after it was partially blocked. However, the referee ruled that an LSU player was over eager and called a personal foul on him. This gave Tech a first down and possession of the ball at the LSU 16. The penalty was roundly

DON DRYSDALE, (center, no. 53) is mobbed by Dodger teammates as he leaves the field after pitching Los Angeles to a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees in the third game of the World Series. Yanks, now three down, face Sandy Koufax in what could be the final game today. (AP Wirephoto)

Don Drysdale Sends Yankees Reeling With 3rd Series Loss

By JACK HAND

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Drysdale, a tall, handsome part-time television actor, pitched the Los Angeles Dodgers to their third straight world Series victory over the reeling New York Yankees Saturday with a three - hit 1-0 triumph.

One more defeat today and the futile Yanks will go down the drain, victims of their own patented four-straight killer punch.

No club in 59 previous Series ever has been able to bounce back after losing three in a row. The Yanks, with a total of three runs in three games and a Sandy Koufax ahead don't look like the team to rewrite the book, even though they held the record for four-straight sweeps with six.

Once again the Dodgers pinned the Yanks to the mat by taking an early lead. In this case it was only one run but it did the trick with Drysdale.

Dodger speed, young Jim Bouton's wildness and the inability of the highly touted Yankee infield to come up with the big play at the right time added up to that lonely run.

With one out in the first, Jim Gilliam worked the 24-year - old Yankee right-hander to a 3 - 2 count and finally walked. Willie Davis lined out wickedly to Johnny Blanchard, filling in for the injured Roger Maris in right field.

Working carefully on Tommy Davis, Bouton let his fifth pitch bounce into the dirt away from catcher Elston Howard for a wild pitch. Gilliam quickly dashed to second.

Davis, hitting star of the Series, then smashed a single through the usually dependable Bobby Richardson that rolled into short right center, far enough to permit the speedy Gilliam to score the only run. Tommy's smash appeared to scoot off the edge of the infield grass and hopped off Richardson's foot.

The Dodgers were not smashing the ball, but the Yanks weren't doing a thing. They went quietly inning after inning as Big D blew them down. Not until the seventh did a single Dodger outfielder have a putout. In fact, they had three in all, all by Ron Fairly.

The futile Yanks gave the crowd of 55,912, largest in the history of plush Dodger Stadium, a thrill on the last out. Joe Pepitone tore into a Drysdale pitch and lofited it to deep right field near the Yankee bullpen. Fairly, who doubles as a first baseman or outfielder as the occasion demands, raced back and pulled it down about five feet short of home run territory.

New York had one big chance to get Drysdale. That opportunity came in the second inning when Mickey Mantle dropped a bunt single behind third base for his first hit of the Series, and Pepitone was hit by a Drysdale pitch. With men on first and second and nobody out. Big D was in trouble.

But Drysdale, a 6-6 giant, was upto the occasion. He made Howard go after a high hard one for a strikeout. Blanchard rolled out to Dick Tracewski, advancing the runners to second and third with two gone.

Clete Boyer was ordered walked intentionally by Manager Walt Alston, loading the bases. Bouton was the next batter and Drysdale struck him out on three pitches.

Drysdale, a 19-game winner who won 25 last year when he was awarded the Cy Young trophy as top pitcher in the majors, had been saved for the Dodgers' home opener so that left-handers Koufax and Johnny Podres, could pitch at Yankee Stadium. He came through with a strong game all the way, striking out nine men and walking only one. He fanned Mantle, Howard, Tom Tresh and Bouton two times each and also got Boyer on a third strike.

Besides Mantle's bunt single in the second, the only Yankee hits were singles by Tony Kubek in the sixth and eighth innings.

Bouton, a sturdy young man who graduated from the Yankee bullpen in May, had trouble with his control. But he deserved a better fate. The Dodgers got only four hits off him in his seven-inning string and all four were singles.

KOUFAX GOES TODAY

Shutout Win Over Yanks One Of Best Wins For Don

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'd have to put this right up there with the best games I've ever pitched," Don Drysdale said Saturday after shutting out the New York Yankees on three hits in the third game of the World Series 1-0 for the Dodgers.

"But I'll tell you I was a little worried for a second there in the ninth inning," Drysdale said, "When Pepitone hit that ball to right.

"I kept watching it carry and I didn't know how far it would go. Then I saw Fairly stop moving back and I knew that was it."

Fairly said he caught the ball about six feet in front of the box seat railing.

"I didn't think it would go out at first," Fairly said, "but then it started to carry and I started to worry."

Fairly's catch ended the game and sent the Dodgers into their clubhouse with a three-game jump on the defending world champions.

Neither Manager Walter Alston nor any of his players would predict the Dodgers will take it in four.

"But I'll tell you this," Drysdale said. "We've got one helluva pitcher going for us Sunday."

He was referring, of course, to Sandy Koufax, who beat the Yankees with a 15-strikeout performance in the Series opener.

Drysdale, who has been accused several times of throwing spitballs, said Yankee Coach Frank Crosetti complained in the sixth inning that he wasn't wiping off his right hand after touching his fingers to his mouth.

"I was rubbing my hand on my pants," Drysdale said, "but Crosetti kept yelling that he wanted me to rub my shirt. The umpire came over and told me that if I went to my mouth I should wipe my hand on my shirt regardless of whether I was going to the rosin bag. I said okay."

The incident brought to mind the time Drysdale was accused of using a spitter last season. His reply then: "My mother told me when I was just a little boy never to put dirty things in my mouth. And I've always lived by that."

Over in the gloomy Yankee dressing room, Manager Ralph Houk said he would pitch his left-handed ace, Whitey Ford Sunday and send Hector Lopez to right field. John Blanchard replaced the ailing Roger Maris there Saturday.

"They are pitching like we expected but we're not hitting as well as we should," he said. "This isn't the end. Sometimes that last game is the hardest, just like we have a tough time winning the first."

Jim Bouton, the losing pitcher, said "I didn't have my control. I walked too many. If you lose a tough one like that during the season it's bad, but now . . ." He shrugged in despair.

Houk praised Bobby Richardson for a great play in the seventh. After John Roseboro had singled and gone to third on Dick Tracewski's single, Richardson made a fine play on Drysdale's grounder and held Roseboro at third while he tossed out Drysdale at first.

Tracewski, who had moved to second on his single on the throw to third, apparently thought Roseboro had gone on home because he charged toward third base. First baseman Pepitone tossed to Tony Kubek. Tracewski turned to go back to second and then meekly trotted on to third where Roseboro was standing. Kubek tagged him to complete the double play.

"Richardson had Roseboro cold going home," said Houk. Tracewski must have been fooled. Roseboro would never have made it home safe."

On Tommy Davis' freak single in the first that brought in the winning run, Richardson said the ball apparently hit the mound and was deflected.

"The ball hit me on the shin," said Bobby. It glanced into right field and the all-important run came home.

Real Pitchers Battle Says Casey Stengel

(Special To The World)
By CASEY STENGEL

LOS ANGELES—We saw one of the great games in World Series history Saturday, a real pitchers' battle, and the Dodgers with big Don Drysdale tossin' his crossfire at those big Yankee bats and he stopped them cold while only one runner passes first base after the second inning.

As things are turning out the Yankees almost closed their own coffin right in the second inning when Mantle bloops a fine bunt over the third baseman's head and Pepitone gets hit by a pitch to put men on first and second with none out.

But then Drysdale fans Howard on an inside pitch. Blanchard moves both men up but he grounds out, then Alston gives the intentional walk to Boyer to get at Bouton and Drysdale fans him, too, again with an inside pitch.

That was where the Yankees died, in a beautiful park where they ain't such good hitters.

Drysdale murdered the right hand hitters with a crossfire that had the Yankee right - handers putting their front foot in the bucket, and there wuz no ice and champagne in that ole bucket.

Pepitone hit the ball further'n anybody but Fairly put his pants against the bullpen fence and it was all over in the ninth.

Bouton pitched a great game and at times was outpitchin' Drysdale but one of two wild pitches he made cost him. That was right at the start when Gilliam walks and goes to second on the wild toss. Then Tom Davis hits a carom shot off the mound and it skins Richardson's shins who chases it but Gilliam's running home with all the money in a 1-0 game.

So now we have the great Yankees three down and they gotta face the greatest pitcher of the year in Mr. Koufax with his 11 shutouts, and maybe he pitches as great a game as Drysdale who gives the easy pennant winners from the other league only three hits.

Louisiana Tech's Rally Nips Louisiana College

By RICK BRYAN
Morning World Sports Editor

RUSTON — Louisiana Tech used one of its patented last-ditch rallies to edge a rugged and hard fighting Louisiana College team, 12-6, before a capacity crowd of 7,000 in the Bulldogs' home opener here Saturday night.

Held to a 6-6 deadlock by the Wildcats through most of the game, Tech drove 44 yards in the fading minutes of the fourth quarter and scored from the two on fullback Wayne Nolan's second touchdown of the night with 1:29 left in the game.

Flanker - back Corky Corkern set up the winning touchdown by snaring a Phil Troutman pass at the Wildcat 44.

Until that time it had been touch and go for the Bulldogs in the first playing of this series since 1956.

In fact, the Wildcats scored first when Troutman hit end Dave Brockman in the end zone on a 31-yard pass play in the opening period.

Tech, which muffed numerous scoring opportunities in the game, tied the score with only 33 seconds left in the half on a three-yard plunge by Nolan. The husky Tallulah fullback set up the touchdown by taking a Billy Laird screen pass at the Wildcat 44 and rolling down to the seven.

The drive started when junior end David Lee recovered a blocked Wildcat punt attempt at the visitors' 44.

All three extra point tries failed.

The Bulldogs, trying to get their running game going after a resounding 27-6 loss to McNeese the week before, picked up 15 first downs but only 132 yards rushing.

Fair Park junior Jack Odom was the leader with 38 yards on 14 runs. Fullback Joel McDowell had 35 on 14, and Nolan rambled for 30 on nine.

Laird, doing all the throwing for Tech, completed eight of 15 throws for 134 yards.

Louisiana College picked up 100 yards on the ground with stellar fullback David Corley getting most of it. The former Pineville all-stater accumulated 57 yards in 13 tries. Troutman had 26 on nine and completed four of six passes for 87 yards.

Louisiana College scored the second time the Wildcats got their hands on the ball ,driving 76 yards in ten plays. A pair of third down and long pardage situations proved the keys in the drive.

With third and long yardage at the Tech 44, Bourg scampered around left end for 23 yards and a first down. Then, with a third at the Canine 31, Troutman lofted a long aerial to Brockneyer in the endzone. The ball was knocked up into the air by a Tech defender and Brockneyer hauled it down for the touchdown. Corley's kick with 5:04 left in the period was no good.

After an exchange of punts. Tech took over at the Louisiana College 45 and rambled to the six in nine plays. But Laird's pass was intercepted in the end zone by Troutman to kill the drive.

Just before the half, the Wildcats moved the ball out to midfield but were forced to punt. A big portion of the Tech line broke through to smother the kick attempt, and end David Lee came up with the ball at the Louisiana College 44.

On first down with 1:13 left in the half Laird hit Nolan on a screen pass and the big fullback rumbled down to the Louisiana College seven. Three plays later Nolan blasted over from the three. Hopkins kick with 33 seconds left was no good and the score was 6-6 at the half.

Tech drove from its own eight to the Wildcat 30 in the third quarter before the visitors stiffened and took over. After a kick, the Bulldogs got possession at their 47 and marched to the Louisiana College five before two incomplete passes ended the threat. A 28-yard pass from Laird to end Wayne Davis on third down was the big play in the drive.

On the next series Cordern intercepted Troutman's pass to set up the winning touchdown march. The drive took seven plays with McDowell. Nolan and Odom getting the ground yardage. A 15-yard penalty to the Wildcat 26 helped, and Laird threw a seven-yarder to Davis and then kept for nine himself.

Tech's biggest defensive trouble seemed to come on third down when Troutman again and again came up with a clutch long-gainer.

Tigers Edge Tech

booed as was two others earlier. However, an aroused Tiger team reared up and threw the Jackets back to the 25 on three plays. Lothridge again tried a field goal, but missed.

From that point an LSU victory was in sight and it became assured a few minutes later when Truax intercepted Lothridge's pass with a minute and a half left and the Tigers ran out the clock.

Twice late in the fourth period, after Tech had run out of time outs, Tech players were injured. The crowd again booed roundly. Both were able to walk from the field.

Ironically, this was the third straight year that an underdog Tiger team had knocked Tech from the ranks of the undefeated. In this game as in the previous two, the Yellow Jackets came to Baton Rouge undefeated and ranked high only to suffer the humiliating defeat in the place that Tech Coach Bobby Dodd calls the "snakepit."

Saturday night's game, however, ended the current LSU - Tech series for the foreseeable future, and probably no one is glader than Dodd.

In sparking the Tigers to the win, Screen picked up 95 yards in 16 attempts, about half of them through the supposedly tough Tech middle on delayed bucks. He completed two of four passes for another 14 yards.

Labruzzo was next to Screen with 30 yards in seven tries, while Soefker picked up 26 on eight attempts. Danny Neumann, the punter from Tallulah, did better against Tech, averaging 40 yards on six punts. Lothridge, who was described by Dodd as the best quarterback he had coached, was held to 16 yards in 10 tries. He was thrown for a total loss of 18 yards by the hard-charging LSU line. He connected on six of 11 pass attempts for 70 yards, however.

Auer, the elusive halfback, picked up 25 on 10 attempts, while fullback Ray Mendheim picked up 53 yards on seven attemps for Tech's best.

Ironically, Tech had won both of its previous games — against Florida and Clemson — on a wet field. But it was dry for this one in Tiger Stadium, but it was a wet eyed one in the Tech dressing room after it was over.

Coach Dodd said "LSU has a young, fine agressive ball club but they will probably lose one or two more games this season. They will, however, win some big ones. I always like to play in Baton Rouge because of the fine support LSU gives its team. We hope to get back with LSU in '69. Pat Screen is a fine speedster. I knew he was LSU's finest runner and he proved it tonight. I felt that our third down pass from behind our goal was the only thing that kept us in the game."

LSU's Coach Charlie McClendon said:

"I think that the finest thing about this ball game was the courage displayed by our team. They had a chance to quit many times and they played with their backs to the wall, but they didn't give up once. I felt that Bill Truax made a tremendous play on the final interception. But we had many big plays tonight. Our kids were faced with more adversity in one game than you find in several games, but they fought their way out. I couldn't be more proud of a team than I am of this one. It was one of the greatest displays of courage on a football field that I have seen in years."

Classy Generals Revive Pitts To Top California

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitt, stunned by Jim Blakeney's exciting 85 yard touchdown run on the opening kickoff, roared from behind on the classy quarterbacking of Fred Mazurek and Ken Lucas and a rugged defense to beat California 35-15 Saturday in an intersectional football game at Pitt Stadium.

It was the ninth-ranked Panther's third victory of the season—all against West Coast opposition—and the first time since 1958 that they have reeled that many triumps to open the season.

Four different backs raced across for Pitt touchdowns with sophomore speedster Eric Crabtree scoring twice, once on a scintillating 47-yard run in the second period and again on a 10-yard pass from Lucas in the third.

McNeese Takes Charge Early, Blasts Howard

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — McNeese State rammed across two touchdowns in the opening 7½ minutes and then cruised to a 28-0 victory over Howard College Saturday night.

Quarterback Tommy Thompson ran 25 yards two plays after McNeese guard Parker Hudson recovered a fumble at the Howard 34 early in the period.

Fullback Darryl Lester blasted a yard to cap a 61-yard drive for another touchdown midway through the opening quarter. McNeese took to the air for its other two scores.

Richard Guillory passed 26 yard to Earl Hicks in the second quarter and Thompson flipped a 9 yard scoring pitch to Robert Young in the third.

Guillory kicked all four extra points as McNeese chalked up its second victory in as many starts. Howard has won one and lost two.

Clark To Seek Sixth Roadway Grand Trophy

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP)—World champion Jim Clark of Scotland, seeking to become the first six-time winner in a decade, leads a 21-car field of the world's finest drivers in today's Grand Prix of the United States.

Not since Alberto Ascari of Italy captured six races in 1953 has any driver won six counting toward the championship in a single season. But Clark, who has won five races and placed second once this year in his Lotus, has the skill and the car to win his second U.S. Grand Prix in a row.

Clark's prime challengers are last year's world champion, Graham Hill of England in a BRM, and another Briton, John Surtees, in an Italian Ferrari. Other strong contenders, as they have been all year, are Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., and two-time world champion Jack Brabham of Australia, both driving Brabhams.

Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., another former world champion, will compete in an Italian ATS.

All of the European factory teams will compete in the 253-mile race, one of 10 counting the world driving championship.

Two-time Indianapolis 500 winner, Rodger Ward, will make his Grand Prix debut at the wheel of a Lotus-BRM.

The weatherman predicted bright skies with temperatures in the 70s for the race, which begins at 1 p.m., EST. A crowd of more than 50,000 is expected.

Two races remain on the 1963 schedule: The Grand Prix of Mexico on Oct. 27 and the South African Grand Prix Dec. 28.

Buffalo Defeats Oakland Raiders For 1st Victory

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills, riding on the arm of quarterback Jack Kemp, defeated the Oakland Raiders 12-0 Saturday night for their first American Football League victory of the season.

The slow-starting Bills, beaten three times and tied once, never were in trouble as Kemp repeatedly found a target in Bill Miller who caught 12 passes for 152 yards. One of the passes, for 24 yards, was good for the only touchdown—in the third period.

Oakland, which had split in four games, threatened only once. With 6:30 remaining, the raiders drove to the Buffalo 15 on successive passes from Tom Flores to Art Powell, Bo Roberson and two more to Powell.

The attack stalled at that point as Flores was tossed for a 10-yard loss and the Riaders were set back another 10 yards in penalties.

Mack Yoho put Buffalo ahead 3-0 with a 27-yard field goal in the first period. That score held until late in the third period, when Kemp connected with Miller on the Oakland six and Miller stumbled into the end zone.

With 31 seconds left in the period, Mike Stratton and Harry Jacobs chased Oakland's Cotton Davidson 10 yards back to his end zone, where they nailed him for a safety.

NOLAND SCORES TWICE

Louisiana Tech's Rally Nips Louisiana College

By RICK BRYAN
Morning World Sports Editor

RUSTON — Louisiana Tech used one of its patented last-ditch rallies to edge a rugged and hard fighting Louisiana College team, 12-6, before a capacity crowd of 7,000 in the Bulldogs' home opener here Saturday night.

Held to a 6-6 deadlock by the Wildcats through most of the game, Tech drove 44 yards in the fading minutes of the fourth quarter and scored from the two on fullback Wayne Nolan's second touchdown of the night with 1:29 left in the game.

Flanker - back Corky Corkern set up the winning touchdown by snaring a Phil Troutman pass at the Wildcat 44.

Until that time it had been touch and go for the Bulldogs in the first playing of this series since 1956.

In fact, the Wildcats scored first when Troutman hit end Dave Brockman in the end zone on a 31-yard pass play in the opening period.

Don Drysdale Sends Yankees Reeling With 3rd Series Loss

By JACK HAND

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Drysdale, a tall, handsome part-time television actor, pitched the Los Angeles Dodgers to their third straight world Series victory over the reeling New York Yankees Saturday with a three - hit 1 - 0 triumph.

One more defeat today and the futile Yanks will go down the drain, victims of their own patented four-straight killer punch.

No club in 59 previous Series ever has been able to bounce back after losing three in a row. The Yanks, with a total of three runs in three games and a Sandy Koufax ahead don't look like the team to rewrite the book, even though they held the record for four-straight sweeps with six.

Once again the Dodgers pinned the Yanks to the mat by taking an early lead. In this case it was only one run but it did the trick with Drysdale.

Dodger speed, young Jim Bouton's wildness and the inability of the highly touted Yankee infield to come up with the big play at the right time added up to that lonely run.

With one out in the first, Jim Gilliam worked the 24-year - old Yankee right-hander to a 3 - 2 count and finally walked. Willie Davis lined out wickedly to Johnny Blanchard, filling in for the injured Roger Maris in right field.

Working carefully on Tommy Davis, Bouton let his fifth pitch bounce into the dirt away from catcher Elston Howard for a wild pitch. Gilliam quickly dashed to second.

Davis, hitting star of the Series, then smashed a single through the usually dependable Bobby Richardson that rolled into short right center, far enough to permit the speedy Gilliam to score the only run. Tommy's smash appeared to scoot off the edge of the infield grass and hopped off Richardson's foot.

The Dodgers were not smashing the ball, but the Yanks weren't doing a thing. They went quietly inning after inning as Big D blew them down. Not until the seventh did a single Dodger outfielder have a putout. In fact, they had three in all, all by Ron Fairly.

The futile Yanks gave the crowd of 55,912, largest in the history of plush Dodger Stadium, a thrill on the last out. Joe Pepitone tore into a Drysdale pitch and lofited it to deep right field near the Yankee bullpen. Fairly, who doubles as a first baseman or outfielder as the occasion demands, raced back and pulled it down about five feet short of home run territory.

New York had one big chance to get Drysdale. That opportunity came in the second inning when Mickey Mantle dropped a bunt single behind third base for his first hit of the Series, and Pepitone was hit by a Drysdale pitch. With men on first and second and nobody out, Big D was in trouble.

But Drysdale, a 6-6 giant, was upto the occasion. He made Howard go after a high hard one for a strikeout. Blanchard rolled out to Dick Tracewski, advancing the runners to second and third with two gone.

Clete Boyer was ordered walked intentionally by Manager Walt Alston, loading the bases. Bouton was the next batter and Drysdale struck him out on three pitches.

Drysdale, a 19-game winner who won 25 last year when he was awarded the Cy Young trophy as top pitcher in the majors, had been saved for the Dodgers' home opener so that left-handers Koufax and Johnny Podres, could pitch at Yankee Stadium. He came through with a strong game all the way, striking out nine men and walking only one. He fanned Mantle, Howard, Tom Tresh and Bouton two times each and also got Boyer on a third strike.

Besides Mantle's bunt single in the second, the only Yankee hits were singles by Tony Kubek in the sixth and eighth innings.

Bouton, a sturdy young man who graduated from the Yankee bullpen in May, had trouble with his control. But he deserved a better fate. The Dodgers got only four hits off him in his seven-inning string and all four were singles.

Shutout Win Over Yanks One Of Best Wins For Don

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'd have to put this right up there with the best games I've ever pitched," Don Drysdale said Saturday after shutting out the New York Yankees on three hits in the third game of the World Series 1-0 for the Dodgers.

"But I'll tell you I was a little worried for a second there in the ninth inning," Drysdale said, "When Pepitone hit that ball to right.

"I kept watching it carry and I didn't know how far it would go. Then I saw Fairly stop moving back and I knew that was it."

Fairly said he caught the ball about six feet in front of the box seat railing.

"I didn't think it would go out at first," Fairly said, "but then it started to carry and I started to worry."

Fairly's catch ended the game and sent the Dodgers into their clubhouse with a three-game jump on the defending world champions.

Neither Manager Walter Alston nor any of his players would predict the Dodgers will take it in four.

"But I'll tell you this," Drysdale said. "We've got one helluva pitcher going for us Sunday."

He was referring, of course, to Sandy Koufax, who beat the Yankees with a 15-strikeout performance in the Series opener.

Drysdale, who has been accused several times of throwing spitballs, said Yankee Coach Frank Crosetti complained in the sixth inning that he wasn't wiping off his right hand after touching his fingers to his mouth.

"I was rubbing my hand on my pants," Drysdale said, "but Crosetti kept yelling that he wanted me to rub my shirt. The umpire came over and told me that if I went to my mouth I should wipe my hand on my shirt regardless of whether I was going to the rosin bag. I said okay."

The incident brought to mind the time Drysdale was accused of using a spitter last season. His reply then: "My mother told me when I was just a little boy never to put dirty things in my mouth. And I've always lived by that."

Over in the gloomy Yankee dressing room, Manager Ralph Houk said he would pitch his left-handed ace, Whitey Ford Sunday and send Hector Lopez to right field. John Blanchard replaced the ailing Roger Maris there Saturday.

"They are pitching like we expected but we're not hitting as well as we should," he said. "This isn't the end. Sometimes that last game is the hardest, just like we have a tough time winning the first."

Jim Bouton, the losing pitcher, said "I didn't have my control. I walked too many. If you lose a tough one like that during the season it's bad, but now . . ." He shrugged in despair.

Houk praised Bobby Richardson for a great play in the seventh. After John Roseboro had singled and gone to third on Dick Tracewski's single, Richardson made a fine play on Drysdale's grounder and held Roseboro at third while he tossed out Drysdale at first.

Tracewski, who had moved to second on his single on the throw to third, apparently thought Roseboro had gone on home because he charged toward third base. First baseman Pepitone tossed to Tony Kubek. Tracewski turned to go back to second and then meekly trotted on to third where Roseboro was standing. Kubek tagged him to complete the double play.

"Richardson had Roseboro cold going home," said Houk. Tracewski must have been fooled. Roseboro would never have made it home safe."

On Tommy Davis' freak single in the first that brought in the winning run, Richardson said the ball apparently hit the mound and was deflected.

"The ball hit me on the shin," said Bobby. It glanced into right field and the all-important run came home.

Real Pitchers Battle Says Casey Stengel

(Special To The World)
By CASEY STENGEL

LOS ANGELES—We saw one of the great games in World Series history Saturday, a real pitchers' battle, and the Dodgers with big Don Drysdale tossin' his crossfire at those big Yankee bats and he stopped them cold while only one runner passes first base after the second inning.

As things are turning out the Yankees almost closed their own coffin right in the second inning when Mantle bloops a fine bunt over the third baseman's head and Pepitone gets hit by a pitch to put men on first and second with none out.

But then Drysdale fans Howard on an inside pitch. Blanchard moves both men up but he grounds out, then Alston gives the intentional walk to Boyer to get at Bouton and Drysdale fans him, too, again with an inside pitch.

That was where the Yankees died, in a beautiful park where they ain't such good hitters.

Drysdale murdered the right hand hitters with a crossfire that had the Yankee right - handers putting their front foot in the bucket, and there wuz no ice and champagne in that ole bucket.

Pepitone hit the ball further'n anybody but Fairly put his pants against the bullpen fence and it was all over in the ninth.

Bouton pitched a great game and at times was outpitchin' Drysdale but one of two wild pitches he made cost him. That was right at the start when Gilliam walks and goes to second on the wild toss. Then Tom Davis hits a carom shot off the mound and it skins Richardson's shins who chases it but Gilliam's running home with all the money in a 1-0 game.

So now we have the great Yankees three down and they gotta face the greatest pitcher of the year in Mr. Koufax with his 11 shutouts, and maybe he pitches as great a game as Drysdale who gives the easy pennant winners from the other league only three hits.

Clark To Seek Sixth Roadway Grand Trophy

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP)—World champion Jim Clark of Scotland, seeking to become the first six-time winner in a decade, leads a 21-car field of the world's finest drivers in today's Grand Prix of the United States.

Not since Alberto Ascari of Italy captured six races in 1953 has any driver won six counting toward the championship in a single season. But Clark, who has won five races and placed second once this year in his Lotus, has the skill and the car to win his second U.S. Grand Prix in a row.

Clark's prime challengers are last year's world champion, Graham Hill of England in a BRM, and another Briton, John Surtees, in an Italian Ferrari. Other strong contenders, as they have been all year, are Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., and two-time world champion Jack Brabham of Australia, both driving Brabhams.

Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., another former world champion, will compete in an Italian ATS.

All of the European factory teams will compete in the 253-mile race, one of 10 counting the world driving championship.

Two-time Indianapolis 500 winner, Rodger Ward, will make his Grand Prix debut at the wheel of a Lotus-BRM.

The weatherman predicted bright skies with temperatures in the 70s for the race, which begins at 1 p.m., EST. A crowd of more than 50,000 is expected.

Two races remain on the 1963 schedule: The Grand Prix of Mexico on Oct. 27 and the South African Grand Prix Dec. 28.

Buffalo Defeats Oakland Raiders For 1st Victory

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills, riding on the arm of quarterback Jack Kemp, defeated the Oakland Raiders 12-0 Saturday night for their first American Football League victory of the season.

The slow-starting Bills, beaten three times and tied once, never were in trouble as Kemp repeatedly found a target in Bill Miller who caught 12 passes for 152 yards. One of the passes, for 24 yards, was good for the only touchdown—in the third period.

Oakland, which had split in four games, threatened only once. With 6:30 remaining, the raiders drove to the Buffalo 15 on successive passes from Tom Flores to Art Powell, Bo Roberson and two more to Powell.

The attack stalled at that point as Flores was tossed for a 10-yard loss and the Riaders were set back another 10 yards in penalties.

Mack Yoho put Buffalo ahead 3-0 with a 27-yard field goal in the first period. That score held until late in the third period, when Kemp connected with Miller on the Oakland six and Miller stumbled into the end zone.

With 31 seconds left in the period, Mike Stratton and Harry Jacobs chased Oakland's Cotton Davidson 10 yards back to his end zone, where they nailed him for a safety.

IN 28-7 WIN

Unbeaten Lions Feast On Owls

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) —Penn State's unbeaten Nittany Lions cashed in on two fumble recoveries and a pass interception Saturday for three touchdowns to beat Rice 28-7 in an intersectional football battle.

Four different backs—Tom Urbanik, Gary Klingensmith, Ed Stuckrath and Don Kunit — accounted for the scoring as the Lions unleashed their best ground attack this season.

Rice fumbles set up the first and third Penn State tallies, but it was Don Caum's interception of a Walt McReynolds pass deep in Nittany Lion territory in the third quarter that turned the tide.

With the score knotted 7-7, Caum snared the ball on the State 14 and raced back 25 yards to the 39.

Thirteen plays later, Klingensmith crashed over from the one for the lead State never relinquished. A fumble recovery by end Billy Bowes on the Rice three set up the Lion's third TD in the final period. Stuckrath plunged over from the one.

Penn State Coach Rip Engle then cleared his bench to give the whole team a chance to play.

Rice mustered its only scoring attack in the waning minutes of the first half, marching 80 yards in 10 plays. Wingback George Parry plunged over from the one.

Urbanik scored State's first six-pointer on a 17-yard romp up the middle on the first play after guard Bernie Sabol recovered a fumbled punt by Gene Fleming on the Rice 17.

Ron Coates kicked two extra points, and Frank Potter passed to Dave Monaughton for a two-point conversion after the last TD to account for all the State points.

Purdue Inflicts Second Defeat On Notre Dame

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers inflicted Notre Dame's second football defeat of the season 7-6- Saturday, the difference being Notre Dame's unsuccessful gamble for a two-point conversion and a one-pointer booted by Gary Hogan of Purdue.

Quarterback John Huarte passed to end Jim Kelly for the Notre Dame touchdown, 90 seconds before the first half ended, on a play covering 41 yards.

Huarte then tried to pass to halfback Tom McDonald for a two-point conversion and didn't come close. The Irish quarterback explained after the game that he had to pass instead of trying to kick the conversion because he injured his ankle on the touchdown play.

Purdue got its tying touchdown a third of the way through the final quarter on Ron Digravio's 7-yard pass to sophomore end Bb Hadrick.

James Lag missed a 20-yard field goal attempt for Purdue in the second quarter. Huarte tried a 38 yard placement for Notre Dame in the last minute, but it was blocked by center Pete Dudgeon.

End Dave Ellison recovered on the Irish field goal attempt, and the big senior also distinguished himself on the previous play. Notre Dame pounded to the Purdue 10, mostly on hard running by Ron Bliey, but Ellison cut through and threw Bliey for a 12-yard loss.

Ellison fumbled at the Notre Dame 11 in the third quarter after catching a Digravio pass and was hustling to redeem the error.

Oregon Smashes West Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Oregon's speedy Webfoots startled West Virginia with five quick touchdowns Saturday and coasted to a 35-0 football victory over the Mountaineers.

Quarterback Bob Berry ran for one Oregon Touchdown, passed for another and set the stage for two others with his passing and running.

Berry accounted for a total of 237 yards, including 227 yards on an 8-for-11 passing performance.

Oregon scored once late in the first quarter, then pummeled West Virginia with four more touchdowns in the second quarter. The second half was a scoreless standoff.

OLE MISS, 20-6

Dunn's Second Half Passes Fire Rebels

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Perry Lee Dunn, a 202-pound quarterback, threw two second half touchdown passes Saturday night to lead Mississippi to a 20-6 victory over the University of Houston.

Mississippi, the nation's No. 10 team, held only a 7-6 halftime lead after Houston turned a fumble recovery into a 19-yard touchdown drive but Dunn's passes were too much for the twice-defeated Cougars in the final 30 minutes.

Jim Weatherly engineered a 72-yard first period Rebel scoring drive and Dunn hit Mike Dennis with touchdown passes of 23 and 30 yards while directing the second half surges that carried 73 and 53 yards.

Weatherly not only scored from the two to end his drive but set up the touchdown with a beautiful 15-yard scamper around his right end.

Directing his blockers with his left hand, Weatherly actually had to run 67 yards to set up the score. A 22-yard run was erased by a penalty but he promptly called the same keeper play again and raced 45 yards before being knocked out of bounds at the Houston six.

Six plays later, Larry Smith fumbled and Tim Wright covered for Houston at the Rebel 19. Jack Skog's passes and the power running of Joe Lopasky gained a first down at the one. The Rebel defense refused to yield ground on three power plays but Skog passed two yards to Clem Beard on fourth down for the touchdown.

Starting with the second half kickoff, Dunn needed 11 plays in giving the Rebels a 13-6 lead. He kept the attack on the ground, however, until he found Dennis on the sideline for the 23-yard scoring play. Earlier, Dunn had contributed 29 yards to the drive with four keeper plays.

He needed only three plays to ice the game away in the final period. Fred Roberts started the 53-yard drive with an eight-yard gain over his right side. Dunn then hit Reed Davis with a 15-yard pass to the Houston 30. On the next play he found Dennis in the end zone.

COME FROM BEHIND

Longhorns Top Cowboys, 34-7

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texas, the nation's third-ranked team, surrendered a first quarter touchdown Saturday night, then stormed back for a 34-7 football victory over Oklahoma State.

Behind for the first time this season when the Cowboys struck at the start, Texas shrugged it off with an overpowering attack, took back the advantage and outplayed Oklahoma State decisively the rest of the game. Texas led 20-7 at the half and coasted in.

An interested spectator was Coach Bud Wilkinson of the Oklahoma Sooners, who meet the Longhorns in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas next Saturday in their traditional battle. Oklahoma had an open date this week after gaining the national No. 1 spot last week with 17-12 defeat of Southern California.

Saturday night's score gave the Longhorns a total of 104 points this year compared to 14 for three opponents.

The Longhorns scored first.

Texas tacklers jarred OSU back Larry Elliott loose from the ball on the opening kickoff but could not make it across the goal line and Tony Crosby angled in a 32-yard field goal. Oklahoma State then lit the Cowboys' bright spark of the game with a 70-yard drive.

Third - stringer fullback Walt Garrison squirmed 48 yards through Texas tacklers to score. Charles Durkee kicked the point.

Texas came back into the lead late in the first quarter when the Longhorns punted but the ball touched an OSU man and Knox Nunnally recovered on the 20.

Four plays later Tommy Ford barrelled through from the four and Crosby kicked another point.

Texas scored again in the second when Phil Harris took a pitch-out and went over from the six. Crosby's second field goal followed a blocked punt by tackle Clayton Lacy. The kick went 33 yards to make Crosby's fourth consecutive field goal this season with no misses.

Three minutes into the second half Texas had another score. A four yard OSU punt gave Texas the ball in midfield and Ford squirted through to the 30. Several plays later quarterback Duke Carlisle could not find a receiver so he kept and went over from the 11.

Another Longhorn score late in the third was set up by Harold Phillip's 25 yard run to the five. Hix Green went over from the three.

The Cowboys came within three yards of one more touchdown in the final seconds of the game but Longhorn Anthony King intercepted a pass in the end zone to snuff out the threat.

Houston Contest Could Answer 'Chief' Question

By United Press International

The Kansas City Chiefs make their regular season home debut Sunday afternoon against the Houston Oilers, and the occasion will be a moment of truth for the Chiefs in more ways than one.

In another American Football League contest Sunday, the undefeated San Diego Chargers clash at Denver with the Broncos.

The Kansas City game will determine if the Chiefs were wise in moving from Dallas this year. Owner Lamar Hunt made the shift because his club, then the Texans, could not draw a crowd.

In two exhibition contests at Kansas City, the Chiefs drew 5,721 against the Buffalo Bills and 6,865 against Denver.

Also at stake will be Kansas City's chances of repeating as AFL champion. The Chiefs dethroned Houston last season. The Oilers won the title in 1961 and 1960, the year the AFL was founded.

Kansas City and Houston, the only teams ever to win the AFL

Browns Conquer Steelers, 35-23, On Ryan Passes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Browns came from behind in the final quarter Saturday night with some sensational passing by quarterback Frank Ryan to defeat the Pittsburgh Steelers 35-23 and cement their hold on top place in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

A crowd of 84,684, largest in Browns' history, saw a dazzling display by both sides as the undefeated teams battled for the conference lead.

Pittsburgh led four times during the torrid contest, but could not hold off Ryan as he passed to Gary Collins for 15 and 20 yard touchdowns, 19 yards to Rich Kreitling and scored one himself. Fullback Jim Brown, the league's leading scorer, who gained 175 yards in 21 tries, counted the other Cleveland marker on an eight-yard run. That nullified plenty of fireworks by the Steelers.

Left-footed Lou Michaels, pro football's No. 1 place kicker, booted three field goals, two from eight yards and one from 18, while quarterback Ed Brown, enjoying probably his greatest passing day hit Buddy Dial with touchdown passes of 24 and 41 yards.

The Steelers quarterback completed 18 of 35 passes for 289 yards. Ryan hit on nine of 21 for 148 yards and picked up 54 more on eight runs.

The Steelers outgained Cleveland 400 yards to 357 but could not stave off the red-hot Browns.

Texas Tech Wins First SWC Tilt Over Texas A&M

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Tech Red Raiders scored their first Southwest Conference football victory in two years Saturday night with a 10-0 win over Texas A&M.

Tech scored its points in the first quarter on a 37-yard field goal by H. L. Daniels, and a 46-yard pass from Ben Elledge to David Parks.

Daniels' field goal was the 10th of his career and it tied the the Southwest Confreence record set by Wesley Bradshaw of Baylor in 1921-22.

Tech displayed a potent defense in holding the Aggies scoreless. Texas A&M, in losing its third game of the year, drove to the Raider eight-yard line, but was pushed back to the 25 where a field goal was short.

Fumbles killed two Aggie threats as Dan McIlhaney dropped the ball on the Tech 35 and John Agan recovered for Tech. In the final minute of play the Aggies marched from their own nine to the Tech five where Parks recovered a loose ball.

Missouri Tops Idaho, 24-0

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri's flashy sophomore backs and a stingy defense supplied the punch as the Tigers outclassed Idaho 24-0 in an intersectional football game Saturday.

The Tigers marched 75 yards with the opening kickoff and continued to dominate play. Idaho never got closer than the Missouri 21-yard line until late in the fourth period when the Tigers had dug deep into their reserves.

The total yardage statistics tell the story: Missouri 259, Idaho 104. The Tigers also had a 16-4 bulge in the first downs.

Two Long Runs By Nelson Are 'Bama Features

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Senior halfback Benny Nelson ripped off two long touchdown runs Saturday night to pace Alabama to a 21-6 victory over Vanderbilt in a Southeastern Conference football game.

The first was a 50 yard scamper which put the highly favored Crimson Tide ahead midway of the opening period.

The second was a 97-yard burst up the middle of the field on the second half kickoff. The 180-pound speedster caught the ball on his three, shook off two or three tacklers around his 20 and then broke loose behind a mass of blockers to coast home in the longest run of the season here.

Nelson's second score put Alabama two touchdowns ahead of the Commodores, who had moved up 7-6 behind the No. 2 ranked Tide midway of the second quarter. Fullback Mike Fracchia scored from the one late in the second period to put the Tide ahead 14-6 at the half.

Vanderbilt had closed the gap to one point on a beautiful pass from quarterback Jon Cleveland, senior from Tuscumbia, Ala., to Toby Wilt for a 25-yard touchdown pass play. Jerry Martin blocked Wilt's attempted placement.

Illinois Gets Upset Victory Over Northwestern U.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois stifled three long goalward drives by Northwestern in the last quarter Saturday to beat the fifth-ranked Wildcats, 10-9, on a razzle-dazzle touchdown pass and Jim Plankenhorn's 21 yard field goal.

Previously unbeaten Northwestern was a touchdown favorite in this important Big Ten football battle opening Illini league play.

Northwestern's great passer, Tommy Myers, hurled a 29-yard scoring pass to Tom O'Grady in the opening 40 seconds of the second period to give the Wildcats' a 6-0 lead.

Center Joe Cerne's high snapback prevented Northwestern from converting after its touchdown.

With 3½ minutes left in the first half, Illinois got the ball on Northwestern's 32 when Ron Rector's fizzled punt went only five yards. On the first play, sophomore quarterback Fred Custardo shot a flat pass to Ron Fearn, who then heaved 32 yards to Jim Warren in the end zone for the Illini touchdown. Plankenhorn booted the point.

Myers mixed up running with two pass completions to George Burman in the third period as the Wildcats thrust 43 yards. After a seven-yard shot from Myers to Burman was ruled caught out of the end zone, Pete Stamison booted a 24-yard field goal putting the Wildcats ahead 9-7.

After the ensuing kickoff, Illinois' sophomore backs, led by Custardo, Sam Price and Jim Grabowski, moved 58 yards to Northwestern's four. During the push, a pass interference call on a fourth-down-and-six yards to go situation gave the Illini an automatic first down and kept the threat alive.

Plankenhorn was called in for a field goal attempt at a danger ous angle. It sailed perfectly through the uprights from 21 yards out.

New-Look Jets Beat Patriots In AFL Game

NEW YORK (AP)—New York's new-look Jets picked off five Boston passes Saturday night, converted three of them into scoring thrusts and beat the surprised Patriots 31-24 in an American Football League game.

The victory, before a crowd of 16,769 in the ancient Polo Grounds, was the third straight for the revamped and renamed Jets. It atoned for a 38-14 loss in the season opener at Boston, New York's only loss, and kept the Jets atop the Eastern Division with a 3-1 mark.

New York's Dick Wood and Boston's Tom Yewcic each threw three touchdown passes, but the five pass interceptions, a lost Boston fumble and a key penalty that set up New York's first touchdown made the difference.

The Jets jumped out to a 14-0 first period lead and were never headed. The Patriots, plagued by their own mistakes, finally got rolling in the final quarter, striking back from a 31-10 deficit and were driving for the equalizing touchdown from the New York 10 when time ran out.

Syracuse Tops Holy Cross 48-0

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse, sparked by quarterback Walley Mahle, combined a surprisingly effective passing attack with superior ground power Saturday and overwhelmed Holy Cross 48-0.

The lanky, hard-running quarterback's sudden emergence as a passer gave the heavily favored Orange its best offensive performance of the season.

Mahle threw a 48-yard touchdown pass to right-half Nat Duckett to open the second quarter and demonstrated his renown roll-out ability by scampering practically unaided for a 19-yard third period score.

The outclassed Crusaders put on an intensive but ill-fated aerial assault against the heavier, hard-charging foe. A second-period screen pass by Holy Cross quarterback John Wheaton was picked off by Orange end Jim Cripps. Five plays later rookie Syracuse halfback Charlie Brown scored from the 3.

After a sluggish start, Syracuse began its scoring rampage at 11:34 of the first quarter. Third-string tackle John Paglio, a starter last year, blocked a Wheaton punt on the 5.

IN 28-7 WIN

Unbeaten Lions Feast On Owls

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Penn State's unbeaten Nittany Lions cashed in on two fumble recoveries and a pass interception Saturday for three touchdowns to beat Rice 28-7 in an intersectional football battle.

Four different backs—Tom Urbanik, Gary Klingensmith, Ed Stuckrath and Don Kunit — accounted for the scoring as the Lions unleashed their best ground attack this season.

Rice fumbles set up the first and third Penn State tallies, but it was Don Caum's interception of a Walt McReynolds pass deep in Nittany Lion territory in the third quarter that turned the tide.

With the score knotted 7-7, Caum snared the ball on the State 14 and raced back 25 yards to the 39.

Thirteen plays later, Klingensmith crashed over from the one for the lead State never relinquished. A fumble recovery by end Billy Bowes on the Rice three set up the Lion's third TD in the final period. Stuckrath plunged over from the one.

Penn State Coach Rip Engle then cleared his bench to give the whole team a chance to play.

Rice mustered its only scoring attack in the waning minutes of the first half, marching 80 yards in 10 plays. Wingback George Parry plunged over from the one.

Urbanik scored State's first six-pointer on a 17-yard romp up the middle on the first play after guard Bernie Sabol recovered a fumbled punt by Gene Fleming on the Rice 17.

Ron Coates kicked two extra points, and Frank Potter passed to Dave Monaughton for a two-point conversion after the last TD to account for all the State points.

Purdue Inflicts Second Defeat On Notre Dame

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers inflicted Notre Dame's second football defeat of the season 7-6- Saturday, the difference being Notre Dame's unsuccessful gamble for a two-point conversion and a one-pointer booted by Gary Hogan of Purdue.

Quarterback John Huarte passed to end Jim Kelly for the Notre Dame touchdown, 90 seconds before the first half ended, on a play covering 41 yards.

Huarte then tried to pass to halfback Tom McDonald for a two-point conversion and didn't come close. The Irish quarterback explained after the game that he had to pass instead of trying to kick the conversion because he injured his ankle on the touchdown play.

Purdue got its tying touchdown a third of the way through the final quarter on Ron Digravio's 7-yard pass to sophomore end Bb Hadrick.

James Lng missed a 20-yard field goal attempt for Purdue in the second quarter. Huarte tried a 38 yard placement for Notre Dame in the last minute, but it was blocked by center Pete Dudgeon.

End Dave Ellison recovered on the Irish field goal attempt, and the big senior also distinguished himself on the previous play. Notre Dame pounded to the Purdue 10, mostly on hard running by Ron Bliey, but Ellison cut through and threw Bliey for a 12-yard loss.

Ellison fumbled at the Notre Dame 11 in the third quarter after catching a Digravio pass and was hustling to redeem the error.

Oregon Smashes West Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Oregon's speedy Webfoots startled West Virginia with five quick touchdowns Saturday and coasted to a 35-0 football victory over the Mountaineers.

Quarterback Bob Berry ran for one Oregon Touchdown, passed for another and set the stage for two others with his passing and running.

Berry accounted for a total of 237 yards, including 227 yards on an 8-for-11 passing performance.

Oregon scored once late in the first quarter, then pummeled West Virginia with four more touchdowns in the second quarter. The second half was a scoreless standoff.

OLE MISS, 20-6

Dunn's Second Half Passes Fire Rebels

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Perry Lee Dunn, a 202-pound quarterback, threw two second half touchdown passes Saturday night to lead Mississippi to a 20-6 victory over the University of Houston.

Mississippi, the nation's No. 10 team, held only a 7-6 halftime lead after Houston turned a fumble recovery into a 19-yard touchdown drive but Dunn's passes were too much for the twice-defeated Cougars in the final 30 minutes.

Jim Weatherly engineered a 72-yard first period Rebel scoring drive and Dunn hit Mike Dennis with touchdown passes of 23 and 30 yards while directing the second half surges that carried 73 and 53 yards.

Weatherly not only scored from the two to end his drive but set up the touchdown with a beautiful 45-yard scamper around his right end.

Directing his blockers with his left hand, Weatherly actually had to run 67 yards to set up the score. A 22-yard run was erased by a penalty but he promptly called the same keeper play again and raced 45 yards before being knocked out of bounds at the Houston six.

Six plays later, Larry Smith fumbled and Tim Wright covered for Houston at the Rebel 19. Jack Skog's passes and the power running of Joe Lopasky gained a first down at the one. The Rebel defense refused to yield ground on three power plays but Skog passed two yards to Clem Beard on fourth down for the touchdown.

Starting with the second half kickoff, Dunn needed 11 plays in giving the Rebels a 13-6 lead. He kept the attack on the ground, however, until he found Dennis on the sideline for the 23-yard scoring play. Earlier, Dunn had contributed 29 yards to the drive with four keeper plays.

He needed only three plays to ice the game away in the final period. Fred Roberts started the 53-yard drive with an eight-yard gain over his right side. Dunn then hit Reed Davis with a 15-yard pass to the Houston 30. On the next play he found Dennis in the end zone.

Houston Contest Could Answer 'Chief' Question

By United Press International

The Kansas City Chiefs make their regular season home debut Sunday afternoon against the Houston Oilers, and the occasion will be a moment of truth for the Chiefs in more ways than one

In another American Football League contest Sunday, the undefeated San Diego Chargers clash at Denver with the Broncos.

The Kansas City game will determine if the Chiefs were wise in moving from Dallas this year. Owner Lamar Hunt made the shift because his club, then the Texans, could not draw a crowd.

In two exhibition contests at Kansas City, the Chiefs drew 5,721 against the Buffalo Bills and 6,865 against Denver.

Also at stake will be Kansas City's chances of repeating as AFL champion. The Chiefs dethroned Houston last season. The Oilers won the title in 1961 and 1960, the year the AFL was founded.

Texas Tech Wins First SWC Tilt Over Texas A&M

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Tech Red Raiders scored their first Southwest Conference football victory in two years Saturday night with a 10-0 win over Texas A&M.

Tech scored its points in the first quarter on a 37-yard field goal by H. L. Daniels, and a 46-yard pass from Ben Elledge to David Parks.

Daniels' field goal was the 10th of his career and it tied the the Southwest Confreence record set by Wesley Bradshaw of Baylor in 1921-22.

Tech displayed a potent defense in holding the Aggies scoreless. Texas A&M, in losing its third game of the year, drove to the Raider eight-yard line, but was pushed back to the 25 where a field goal was short.

Fumbles killed two Aggie threats as Dan McIllhaney dropped the ball on the Tech 35 and John Agan recovered for Tech. In the final minute of play the Aggies marched from their own nine to the Tech five where Parks recovered a loose ball.

Missouri Tops Idaho, 24-0

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri's flashy sophomore backs and a stingy defense supplied the punch as the Tigers outclassed Idaho 24-0 in an intersectional football game Saturday.

The Tigers marched 75 yards with the opening kickoff and continued to dominate play. Idaho never got closer than the Missouri 21-yard line until late in the fourth period when the Tigers had dug deep into their reserves.

The total yardage statistics tell the story: Missouri 259, Idaho 104. The Tigers also had a 16-4 bulge in the first downs.

COME FROM BEHIND

Longhorns Top Cowboys, 34-7

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texas, the nation's third-ranked team, surrendered a first quarter touchdown Saturday night, then stormed back for a 34-7 football victory over Oklahoma State.

Behind for the first time this season when the Cowboys struck at the start, Texas shrugged it off with an overpowering attack, took back the advantage and outplayed Oklahoma State decisively the rest of the game. Texas led 20-7 at the half and coasted in.

An interested spectator was Coach Bud Wilkinson of the Oklahoma Sooners, who meet the Longhorns in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas next Saturday in their traditional battle. Oklahoma had an open date this week after gaining the national No. 1 spot last week with 17-12 defeat of Southern California.

Saturday night's score gave the Longhorns a total of 104 points this year compared to 14 for three opponents.

The Longhorns scored first.

Texas tacklers jarred OSU back Larry Elliott loose from the ball on the opening kickoff but could not make it across the goal line and Tony Crosby angled in a 32-yard field goal. Oklahoma State then lit the Cowboys' bright spark of the game with a 70-yard drive.

Third - stringer fullback Walt Garrison squirmed 48 yards through Texas tacklers to score. Charles Durkee kicked the point.

Texas came back into the lead late in the first quarter when the Longhorns punted but the ball touched an OSU man and Knox Nunnally recovered on the 20.

Four plays later Tommy Ford barrelled through from the four and Crosby kicked another point.

Texas scored again in the second when Phil Harris took a pitchout and went over from the six. Crosby's second field goal followed a blocked punt by tackle Clayton Lacy. The kick went 33 yards to make Crosby's fourth consecutive field goal this season with no misses.

Three minutes into the second half Texas had another score. A four yard OSU punt gave Texas the ball in midfield and Ford squirted through to the 30. Several plays later quarterback Duke Carlisle could not find a receiver so he kept and went over from the 11.

Another Longhorn score late in the third was set up by Harold Phillip's 25 yard run to the five. Hix Green went over from the three.

The Cowboys came within three yards of one more touchdown in the final seconds of the game but Longhorn Anthony King intercepted a pass in the end zone to snuff out the threat.

Browns Conquer Steelers, 35-23, On Ryan Passes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Browns came from behind in the final quarter Saturday night with some sensational passing by quarterback Frank Ryan to defeat the Pittsburgh Steelers 35-23 and cement their hold on top place in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

A crowd of 84,684, largest in Browns' history, saw a dazzling display by both sides as the undefeated teams battled for the conference lead.

Pittsburgh led four times during the torrid contest, but could not hold off Ryan as he passed to Gary Collins for 15 and 20 yard touchdowns, 19 yards to Rich Kreitling and scored one himself. Fullback Jim Brown, the league's leading scorer, who gained 175 yards in 21 tries, counted the other Cleveland marker on an eight-yard run. That nullified plenty of fireworks by the Steelers.

Left-footed Lou Michaels, pro football's No. 1 place kicker, booted three field goals, two from eight yards and one from 18, while quarterback Ed Brown, enjoying probably his greatest passing day hit Buddy Dial with touchdown passes of 24 and 41 yards.

The Steelers quarterback completed 18 of 35 passes for 289 yards. Ryan hit on nine of 21 for 148 yards and picked up 54 more on eight runs.

The Steelers outgained Cleveland 400 yards to 357 but could not stave off the red-hot Browns.

Two Long Runs By Nelson Are 'Bama Features

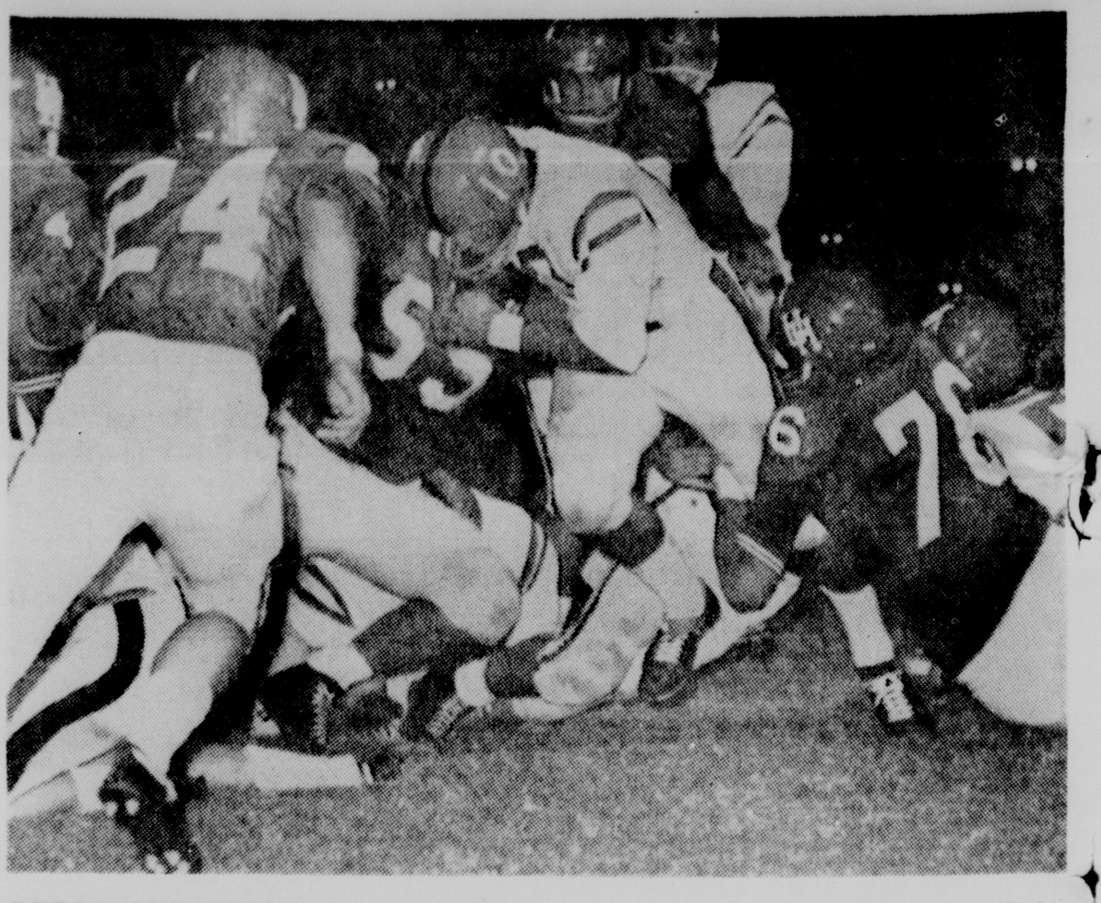
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Senior halfback Benny Nelson ripped off two long touchdown runs Saturday night to pace Alabama to a 21-6 victory over Vanderbilt in a Southeastern Conference football game.

The first was a 50 yard scamper which put the highly favored Crimson Tide ahead midway of the opening period.

The second was a 97-yard burst up the middle of the field on the second half kickoff. The 180-pound speedster caught the ball on his three, shook off two or three tacklers around his 20 and then broke loose behind a mass of blockers to coast home in the longest run of the season here.

Nelson's second score put Alabama two touchdowns ahead of the Commodores, who had moved up 7-6 behind the No. 2 ranked Tide midway of the second quarter. Fullback Mike Fracchia scored from the one late in the second period to put the Tide ahead 14-6 at the half.

Vanderbilt had closed the gap to one point on a beautiful pass from quarterback Jon Cleveland, senior from Tuscumbia, Ala., to Toby Wilt for a 25-yard touchdown pass play. Jerry Martin blocked Wilt's attempted placement.



PERRY LEE DUNN (10), Ole Miss quarterback, drives through his left tackle Saturday night to pick up two yards and a first down before he was caught by the leg by University of Houston's Ken Bergquist (76). Also getting their hands on Dunn were Bobby Reynolds (55) and Morris Wilson (24). The action was in the first quarter of the intersectional game. (AP Wirephoto)

Illinois Gets Upset Victory Over Northwestern U.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois stifled three long goalward drives by Northwestern in the last quarter Saturday to beat the fifth-ranked Wildcats, 10-9, on a razzle-dazzle touchdown pass and Jim Plankenhorn's 21 yard field goal.

Previously unbeaten Northwestern was a touchdown favorite in this important Big Ten football battle opening Illini league play.

Northwestern's great passer, Tommy Myers, hurled a 29-yard scoring pass to Tom O'Grady in the opening 40 seconds of the second period to give the Wildcats' a 6-0 lead.

Center Joe Cerne's high snapback prevented Northwestern from converting after its touchdown.

With 3½ minutes left in the first half, Illinois got the ball on Northwestern's 32 when Ron Rector's fizzled punt went only five yards. On the first play, sophomore quarterback Fred Custardo shot a flat pass to Ron Fearn, who then heaved 32 yards to Jim Warren in the end zone for the Illini touchdown. Plankenhorn booted the point.

Myers mixed up running with two pass completions to George Burman in the third period as the Wildcats thrust 43 yards. After a seven-yard shot from Myers to Burman was ruled caught out of the end zone, Pete Stamison booted a 24-yard field goal putting the Wildcats ahead 9-7.

After the ensuing kickoff, Illinois' sophomore backs, led by Custardo, Sam Price and Jim Grabowski, moved 58 yards to Northwestern's four. During the push, a pass interference call on a fourth-down-and-six yards to go situation gave the Illini an automatic first down and kept the threat alive.

Plankenhorn was called in for a field goal attempt at a dangerous angle. It sailed perfectly through the uprights from 21 yards out.

New-Look Jets Beat Patriots In AFL Game

NEW YORK (AP)—New York's new-look Jets picked off five Boston passes Saturday night, converted three of them into scoring thrusts and beat the surprised Patriots 31-24 in an American Football League game.

The victory, before a crowd of 16,769 in the ancient Polo Grounds, was the third straight for the revamped and renamed Jets. It atoned for a 38-14 loss in the season opener at Boston, New York's only loss, and kept the Jets atop the Eastern Division with a 3-1 mark.

NEW YORK (AP)—Statistics of the Boston-New York American Football League game:

New York's Dick Wood and Boston's Tom Yewcic each threw three touchdown passes, but the five pass interceptions, a lost Boston fumble and a key penalty that set up New York's first touchdown made the difference.

The Jets jumped out to a 14-0 first period lead and were never headed. The Patriots, plagued by their own mistakes, finally got rolling in the final quarter, striking back from a 31-10 deficit and were driving for the equalizing touchdown from the New York 10 when time ran out.

Syracuse Tops Holy Cross 48-0

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse, sparked by quarterback Walley Mahle, combined a surprisingly effective passing attack with superior ground power Saturday and overwhelmed Holy Cross 48-0.

The lanky, hard-running quarterback's sudden emergence as a passer gave the heavily favored Orange its best offensive performance of the season.

Mahle threw a 48-yard touchdown pass to right-half Nat Duckett to open the second quarter and demonstrated his renown roll-out ability by scampering practically unaided for a 19-yard third period score.

The outclassed Crusaders put on an intensive but ill-fated aerial assault against the heavier, hard-charging foe. A second-period screen pass by Holy Cross quarterback John Wheaton was picked off by Orange end Jim Cripps. Five plays later rookie Syracuse halfback Charlie Brown scored from the 3.

After a sluggish start, Syracuse began its scoring rampage at 11:34 of the first quarter. Third-string tackle John Paglio, a starter last year, blocked a Wheaton punt on the 5.

Fish Stocking In D'Arbonne

With Sam Hanna

Program To Start

D'Arbonne Lake, the 16,000-acre man-made lake at Farmerville, is a dry gulch today, but by May the fishing should be fair.

That's hard to believe, especially if you've seen the dry, raw hills of Union Parish where the lake will be dedicated next Sunday.

But the fishing will be available by the spring because the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission plans to stock the lake right away.

Of course, there must be water first.

Jim Davis, fisheries biologist here, explained that fish from three state hatcheries will be used to stock D'Arbonne. Millions of fish will be used.

For instance, 212 million fingerling bluegills about as long as your finger will be placed in the lake. And that's not all.

Jim says the commission will stock it with 20,000 adult largemouth bass, 70,000 yearling crappie and 100,000 channel catfish.

The stocking program will take about four months.

By next May, he forecasts that the fishing will be fair. You can realize that the fish won't be too large, except in rare cases.

But by the winter of 1964 and the spring of 1965, if things go right, D'Arbonne Lake will be yielding white perch weighing 1½-pounds and bass in the neighborhood of four and five pounds.

This is not hard to understand, because Bussey Brake at Bastrop has proved what a fishing stocking program can mean to an entire area.

After its stocking program was completed, Bussey was opened to the public April 30, 1960. A creel census conducted by Davis and his staff from then until April of 1963 showed that Bussey yielded 80 to 96 pounds of fish per acre on an annual basis.

Davis says he doesn't know of any other impoundment area in the United States with a record like this.

D'Arbonne probably won't be that good, simply because it's going to be a lot bigger than Bussey. But the fishing will be available — thanks to the modern way of managing our natural resources.

Dry D'Arbonne will be dedicated in October, fished in May.

Dove Season Opens

Louisiana sportsmen are now enjoying the benefits of the outdoors with the opening of the squirrel season yesterday, plus the continuation of fairly good fishing.

On top of that the second split of the dove season opens October 12th, which is this coming Saturday, from noon then until November 3rd.

Again the daily bag limit will be 10 and the possession limit 20. Shooting hours are from noon until sunset.

Surveys conducted by the commission's fish and game division, headed by chief Joe L. Herring, disclosed that hunters had good success during the first split.

During the second period there should be a wider distribution of doves.

That's Saturday at noon.

First Duck Count

Waterfowl biologist Clark Hoffpauir has conducted the commission's first duck count of the season, coming up with a total of 574,221 ducks.

This was September 20-24th.

Southwest Louisiana, as usual, contained the greatest number of ducks. Southeast Louisiana had over 200,000 which means that the southwest portion of the state had most of the remaining number.

Bluewing teal predominated over other species, which is normal for this time of the year. However, other ducks noted in the survey included mallards, gadwalls, widgeons, shovellers, pintails and mottled ducks.

From now on there will be a trickle of ducks coming into Louisiana, until the big flights move in around the first of November.

Louisiana's duck season opens the day after Thanksgiving.

Woods Are Dry

State forestry officials are urging hunters to the careful in the woods during these first days of the squirrel season that will continue through January 10th.

Of course this goes for the rabbit season too, which will last until February 15th.

Foresters are concerned naturally because the woods are dry. In fact, state foresters are flying the Delta now to spot forest fires quickly.

So far the area has been fortunate during this drought, but this will not be the case if a careless hunter drops a burning cigarette in the woods or leaves a campfire burning.

Forest fires can do tons of damage dollar-wise to the timber industry, as well as destroying wildlife at a time when both are needed badly.

Unless there is some rainfall, the woods conditions will remain dry for the next several weeks, since our rainy season doesn't usually begin until early December.

Not too many years ago the state was forced to close the squirrel season because of a drought. You can help this year by being careful.

Little Man's Corner

The fishing was better, but the little men were busy picking cotton, few of them making news afield.

Jim Davis, who has been the fisheries biologist here for the past eight years for the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, attended a Southeastern Conference for wildlife personnel at Hot Springs.

He was elected secretary-treasurer of the Southern Division of the American Fisheries Society.

Jim also has the distinction of being the only fisheries biologist in the Southeast with a female fisheries biologist for an assistant. She is Janice S. Hughes, native of Morehouse and graduate of Northeast State College.

And if you enjoy reading about the outdoors, friend Grits Gresham has scored his biggest hit in his many years as an outdoor writer. Grits has two articles in this month's edition of Argosy magazine — one about whitewing dove hunting in Arizona and the other about ducks and bucks around Stuggart, Arkansas.

He's good reading.

Meantime, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Swayer of Monroe caught the limit of bass in Lake Concordia at Ferriday. M. W. Dent of Sicily Island got the limit there also.

W. C. Warren, who lives on Lake Concordia, caught his limit of bream in Lake St. John and the limit of white perch in the Blue Hole on shiners.

J. A. Gulledge of St. John landed the limit of bream there.

Fishermen getting their limits of bass in the Red River barpits downstream from Vidalia included Herb Cater, Willie Goss and J. D. Cross of Vidalia and Bob Price of Ferriday.

A Winnfield fisherman, R. L. Fluitt, landed a big catch of white perch in Little River near Jena. And a Winnsboro top bass fisherman, Fred (Bubba) Nielsen, caught a good string of bass in Mosquitto Lake in Tensas Swamp.

From Lake Providence, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cooper caught a few white perch in Old River near Lake Providence. Ivy Payne of Monroe caught a 65-pound buffalo in Black Bayou.

Georgia Downs South Carolina

Athens, Ga. (AP) — Halfback Larry Rakestraw and place-kicker Bill McCullough led the Georgia Bulldogs to a 27-7 football victory over South Carolina Saturday.

Rakestraw passed for one touchdown and set up the other Georgia scores by steadily hitting receivers who out-maneuvered the South Carolina defense.

McCullough kicked field goals of 25 and 39 yards. His second came with one second remaining in the first half. He missed a third try of 50 yards in the last period.

South Carolina was unable to generate a scoring offense until the fourth quarter when the Gamecocks capitalized on Georgia's failure to get a punt away and drove from the Georgia 46 for a touchdown in 12 plays.

Rakestraw completed three passes for 48 yards in Georgia's first drive of 80 yards for a touchdown in the initial period. Halfback Bob Taylor carried the ball over from the 2.

Late in the first quarter Georgia guard Jim Smith recovered a Gamecock fumble at the South Carolina 31. Six plays later McCullough kicked a 25-yard field goal to give Georgia a 10-0 lead with only a few minutes elapsed in the second period.

Georgia got a break just before the half ended when South Carolina was penalized for interference with a fair catch to the Gamecock 22. There was time for one play.

With one second remaining, McCullough kicked a 39-yard field goal to give the Bulldogs a 13-0 lead at halftime.

Georgia took the second half kickoff and marched 70 yards to a touchdown. On first down at the 16, Rakestraw passed to end Barry Wilson for Georgia's second touchdown.

Georgia drove for its third touchdown in the third quarter behind Rakestraw's passing and running.

South Carolina finally got going in the fourth period. Georgia's second - string quarterback Preston Ridlehuber was unable to get a punt away and the Gamecocks took over on the Georgia 46.

Southern Methodist Trips Air Force With 10-0 Win

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A savage defense set up the opportunities and the passing of Danny Thomas and the kicking of John Richey carried through Saturday as Southern Methodist knocked Air Force Academy from football's unbeaten ranks 10-0. It was a jarring upset.

A blocked kick led to Richey's 26-yard field goal in the first period. A fumble recovery set SMU on the way to a touchdown in the second period with Thomas passing for 49 yards in sparking a 68-yard touchdown drive. The SMU pass defense and ball-hawking linemen held Air Force at bay.

DALLAS (AP)—Statistics of the Air Force-Southern Methodist football game:

Yards penalized	35	52

Southern Methodist won its first game in the last seven and did it impressively as a crowd of 30,000 looked on in the Cotton Bowl.

Terry Isaacson, the Air Force star, was a threat all the way but it was his pass that Tommy Caughran intercepted in the second period and scatted back 70 yards to wipe out the most serious threat of a score made by the Fly Boys.

The Southern Methodist touchdown was by John Roderick, the 9.4 track man who came out for football only this year. He made it with a two-yard run. Richey added the extra point.

Thomas' 19-yard shot to Richey and a 30-yard pass to John Graves were the big punches in the touchdown drive.

Devils Shatter Maryland, 30-12 In Final Period

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Frustrated Duke threw off the shackles of a stubborn Maryland defense and came from behind with three touchdowns in the final quarter Saturday for a 30-12 victory that kept the Blue Devils on the high road to a fourth straight Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

A 60-yard touchdown pass from sophomore Scotty Glacken to end Stan Crisson brought the Blue Devils from a 12-10 deficit and put them ahead for keeps in the nationally televised game, the football feature of the 15th National Tobacco Festival.

After Glacken's bomb, the Blue Devils added points on Jay Wilkinson's five-yard touchdown run and a spectacular 76-yard touchdown punt return by sophomore halfback John Gutekunst.

The triumph in the festival game before 20,000 spectators kept the Blue Devils unbeaten in three starts. Fired-up Maryland, which for a long time this sunny afternoon looked like an upset winner, went down to its third straight setback.

Maryland, losing a bit of its punch early in the second period when a bruised hip temporarily sidelined star quarterback Dick Shiner, trailed at halftime 10-6. But the Terps, with Shiner cast in a starring role and scoring the go-ahead touchdown on a three-yard plunge, took a 12-10 lead into the riotous fourth period.

Twice earlier, the rugged Duke defense had held the Terps at bay — first on a drive which reached the Blue Devils' 23, again on a push that reached the 19.

Yet for all these defensive heroics, the Blue Devils—who had scored 10 points in the opening period—didn't get back on the track on offense until they trailed.

When they finally found their second wind on attack, the result was devastating. Glacken, Wilinson, Billy Futrell and Mike Curtis spearheaded the three last-quarter touchdown drives that kept Duke undefeated.

Glacken not only passed for a touchdown but collected Duke's first six points on a seven-yard run.

Cornell Routes

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—Cornell, with quarterback Gary Wood scoring on an 89-yard kickoff return and leading two scoring drives, routed Lehigh 24-0 Saturday for its first victory.

Wood raced back the second half kickoff all the way as part of a big day for the senior quarterback. Pete Gogolak chipped in with a 50-yard field goal—a school record, converted three times and punted for a 39.2 average.

PASSING AND RUNNING

Roger Staubach Leads Navy Win

By BERNIE KENNEDY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Quarterback Roger Staubach threw unerringly and helped shred Michigan's defenses with his own running as unbeaten Navy trampled Michigan 26-13 here Saturday.

Staubach, who entered the game as the nation's total offense leader completed 14 of 16 passes for 237 yards.

His passes accounted for two touchdowns and he scored a third himself as the sixth-ranked Middie broke the game open with two touchdowns in the second quarter and two more in the third.

Staubach's longest aerial in the first half, in which he completed eight of eight, was a 54-yard payoff pitch to halfback John SAI.

Michigan marched 80 yards in eight plays midway in the third quarter for its first score. Substitute quarterback Bob Chandler passed to end John Henderson for the final 37 yards. With one second left in the game Chandler again hit Henderson from the 20 to cap an 83-yard drive.

The Middies wasted no time getting their first Wolverine touchdown back, however, going 80 yards on its next drive with Staubach passing to end Neil Henderson from the seven. Henderson went into the end zone, circled back to take the ball on the one, then squeezed in just inside the goal line flag.

Ed Orr intercepted a frosty Evashevski pass on the Michigan 20 at the start of the third quarter and returned it to the five-yard stripe. Three plays later fullback Pat Donnelly punched over from the one.

Navy's first touchdown came as a result of a poor punt by Michigan's Bob Stagg. The ball slid off Stagg's foot and bounced out on the Wolverine 33.

Staubach passed to end Jim Campbell on the 18. Two running plays and a personal foul brought the ball to the five and Staubach rolled around left end to score.

Michigan failed to move on the next series and punted into the end zone. Five running plays brought the ball to the Navy 46. From there, Staubach stepped back, threw to SAI on the 25 and the fleet Navy back zipped in.

Iowa Hawkeyes Rip Washington As Riddle Hurls

SEATTLE (UPI)— Iowa quarterback Fred Riddle passed 44 yards for one touchdown Saturday and scored another himself to pace the Hawkeyes to a 17-7 victory over winless Washington.

A disappointed crowd of 55,200 saw Riddle hit right halfback Paul Krause with the long-scoring pass in the second period. In the fourth period Riddle sneaked over from less than one yard out for what proved to be the winning touchdown.

Washington's Charlie Browning had tied things up with an 11-yard smash later in the third period.

Hawkeye place kicking specialist Jay Roberts gave Iowa a safety margin with a 39-yard field goal in the final period.

Riddle's touchdown was set up when Washington was called for pass interference against left end Cloyd Webb, giving Iowa the ball on Washington's one.

Browning brought the crowd to its feet in the first period when he swept around right end for an 18-yard dash into the end zone, but holding penalty nullified the touchdown.

MIRACLE COMEBACK

Arnold Palmer Sinks Long Bird; Gains Tie

By WILL GRIMSLEY

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Miracle comebacker Arnold Palmer birdied the 125-yard ninth hole with a wedge shot that almost dropped for a hole-in-one Saturday and went into a tie with Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., after 45 holes in the 72-hole $125,000 Whitemarsh Open Golf Tournament.

Through that point, they had scores of 175, five under par.

Palmer, cheered on by his yelling gallery known as Arnie's Army, played the front nine of the 6,807-yard, par 36-36—72 Whitemarsh Valley course in 34, two under par, while none of the other front-runners was able to match par.

Two strokes back of the coleaders with 177 was Al Balding, the lanky Canadian PGA champion, shooting a 39, and then came Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., and Gene Littler of San Diego, tied at 178.

Rodgers, who shared the halfway point lead with Balding, blew to a four-over-par 40, starting with a three-putt green and suddenly hitting his shots all over the premises, while Littler, former U.S. Open champion, shot a 37.

A crowd of 9,000 poured over the course in bright, sunny weather—despite competition from the World Series and college football games—and it seemed most of the spectators were cheering for their idol, the popular Palmer.

"If you can't win with that kind of support, you ought to quit," a spectator was heard to say after Palmer sent a wedge shot flying at the pin on the short ninth hole, sending up a ground-shaking roar.

The ball dribbled past the cup and stopped just 12 inches away.

Palmer, whose rallies have become legend in this sport, put the pressure to his rivals quickly.

Scenting the $26,000 first prize to add to his record money winning cache of $101,555, he birdied two of the first three holes, putting his approach shot within eight feet of the cup on the first and sinking a 12-footer at the 580-yard third.

Balding was waiting on the first tee, with Littler and Tommy Jacobs, when he heard a loud cheer go up after Palmer's putt on the third green.

"Here comes that man again," Balding said, blanching.

Young Jacobs, who started the day tied with Rudolph at 139, one stroke out of the lead, skied to a scattershot 40 and trailed at 179.

Palmer went over par on only one hole on the outgoing nine, three-putting the sixth from the fringe and missing a six-footer.

Gator Offense Tops Richmond In Close Fight

By F. T. MACFEELY

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Florida organized its football offensive long enough to beat a supposedly outclassed Richmond 35-28 Saturday, but had to overtake a 10-point lead to do it.

In posting their first victory of the season, the Gators continued to make the same kind of mistakes that aren't expected of a team as good as they're believed to be.

Richmond scored the first 10 points with the help of an interception and a fumble, and big Ronnie Smith had the Spiders rolling through the air to three touchdowns in the final quarter.

Florida was fortunate that quarterback Tom Shannon had sparked five touchdown drives in between and had enough cushion to withstand the final Richmond rush.

Shannon ran for two touchdowns and passed 39 yards to sophomore end Charles Casey for another.

Fullback Larry Dupree, who scored his first touchdown of the season on a short run, and a flock of sophomore backs ate up Richmond real estate with a strong running attack.

14-13 TRIUMPH

Auburn Eases Past Kentucky

By DON MARTIN
United Press International

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI)—Auburn fullback Larry Rawson batted down a conversion pass attempt late in the third quarter Saturday to preserve a 14-13 victory over Kentucky's sensational sophomores.

Wildcat soph quarterback Rick Norton bulleted a four-yarder to sophomore end Rick Kester but Rawson leaped from a tangle of players to spear the ball with his right hand and victory was denied the eight-point underdogs.

Minutes later, the aroused Wildcats stalled another Auburn scoring drive and an against-the-wind field goal attempt by Woody Woodall was off to the left from 31 yards out.

Kentucky missed another scoring opportunity midway in the fourth quarter after Wildcat tackle Herschel Turner pounced on a fumble by quarterback Jimmy Sidle on the Auburn 10. The gritty Tiger defense broke up three Norton passes and John Andrighetti's 34 - yard downwind field goal attempt was short.

It was an entirely different story in the first half. Auburn racked up touchdowns in the first and second quarters and just missed scoring on two other occasions. The Tiger line—lighest in school history—held the Wildcats to just three first downs and 12 yards rushing.

Sidle's slithering slants through and around the Wildcat line gave Auburn its first score with less than five minutes gone in the first quarter. Running the pass option play with perfection, Sidle skirted left end, cutback into the center of the field and dashed 23 yards into the end zone after shrugging off the last tackler. Woodall's kick was good.

Auburn halfback Tucker Frederickson intercepted a Norton pass on the Tiger 32 and raced to the Kentucky 32. Ten plays later Sidle floated a pass to Rawson on the one. Frederickson crunched across and Woodall made the kick.

With only 41 seconds left in the first half, Norton found soph Rodger Bird, a thorn in Auburn's side all day, 20 yards past the nearest Tiger defensive man on a 61-yard pass play. Andrighetti's conversion was good.

Kentucky's last score came on a 84-yard march highlighted by Norton's passing and Bird's running. Norton hit Kestner for the final 12 yards.

Memphis State Defeats Tulsa In Second Half

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Memphis State's Tigers snarled back from a half-time deficit with second-half touchdowns for a 28-15 football victory over Tulsa Saturday.

A fired-up Hurricane team scored the first touchdown from scrimmage recorded this season against the Memphis State top unit.

Tulsa dominated the first half, but the Tigers came back after intermission to turn a recovered fumble, a short punt and an intercepted pass into touchdowns.

Memphis State scored the second time it got the ball, driving 55 yards in eight plays. Tulsa came back with a 57-yard march and Bill Goods booted a 41-yard field goal when the drive stalled.

Tulsa's Jeff Jordan later intercepted Russ Vollmer's pass and ran 97 yards to put Tulsa ahead 9-7.

Memphis State went ahead early in the escond half after Ralph Ciccerelli recovered Bill Van Burkleo's fumble a tthe Tulsa 40. Dave Casinelli dashed the final 12 yards. Minutes later, a short punt gave the Tigers the ball at the Memphis State 47 and Vollmer went across from 12 yards out.

Fish Stocking In D'Arbonne

With Sam Hanna

Program To Start

D'Arbonne Lake, the 16,000-acre man-made lake at Farmerville, is a dry gulch today, but by May the fishing should be fair.

That's hard to believe, especially if you've seen the dry, raw hills of Union Parish where the lake will be dedicated next Sunday.

But the fishing will be available by the spring because the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission plans to stock the lake right away.

Of course, there must be water first.

Jim Davis, fisheries biologist here, explained that fish from three state hatcheries will be used to stock D'Arbonne. Millions of fish will be used.

For instance, 212 million fingerling bluegills about as long as your finger will be placed in the lake. And that's not all.

Jim says the commission will stock it with 20,000 adult largemouth bass, 70,000 yearling crappie and 100,000 channel catfish.

The stocking program will take about four months.

By next May, he forecasts that the fishing will be fair. You can realize that the fish won't be too large, except in rare cases.

But by the winter of 1964 and the spring of 1965, if things go right, D'Arbonne Lake will be yielding white perch weighing 1½-pounds and bass in the neighborhood of four and five pounds.

This is not hard to understand, because Bussey Brake at Bastrop has proved what a fishing stocking program can mean to an entire area.

After its stocking program was completed, Bussey was opened to the public April 30, 1960. A creel census conducted by Davis and his staff from then until April of 1963 showed that Bussey yielded 80 to 96 pounds of fish per acre on an annual basis.

Davis says he doesn't know of any other impoundment area in the United States with a record like this.

D'Arbonne probably won't be that good, simply because it's going to be a lot bigger than Bussey. But the fishing will be available — thanks to the modern way of managing our natural resources.

Dry D'Arbonne will be dedicated in October, fished in May.

Dove Season Opens

Louisiana sportsmen are now enjoying the benefits of the outdoors with the opening of the squirrel season yesterday, plus the continuation of fairly good fishing.

On top of that the second split of the dove season opens October 12th, which is this coming Saturday, from noon then until November 3rd.

Again the daily bag limit will be 10 and the possession limit 20. Shooting hours are from noon until sunset.

Surveys conducted by the commission's fish and game division, headed by chief Joe L. Herring, disclosed that hunters had good success during the first split.

During the second period there should be a wider distribution of doves.

That's Saturday at noon.

First Duck Count

Waterfowl biologist Clark Hoffpauir has conducted the commission's first duck count of the season, coming up with a total of 574,221 ducks.

This was September 20-24th.

Southwest Louisiana, as usual, contained the greatest number of ducks. Southeast Louisiana had over 200,000 which means that the southwest portion of the state had most of the remaining number.

Bluewing teal predominated over other species, which is normal for this time of the year. However, other ducks noted in the survey included mallards, gadwalls, widgeons, shovellers, pintails and mottled ducks.

From now on there will be a trickle of ducks coming into Louisiana, until the big flights move in around the first of November.

Louisiana's duck season opens the day after Thanksgiving.

Woods Are Dry

State forestry officials are urging hunters to the careful in the woods during these first days of the squirrel season that will continue through January 10th.

Of course this goes for the rabbit season too, which will last until February 15th.

Foresters are concerned naturally because the woods are dry. In fact, state foresters are flying the Delta now to spot forest fires quickly.

So far the area has been fortunate during this drought, but this will not be the case if a careless hunter drops a burning cigarette in the woods or leaves a campfire burning.

Forest fires can do tons of damage dollar-wise to the timber industry, as well as destroying wildlife at a time when both are needed badly.

Unless there is some rainfall, the woods conditions will remain dry for the next several weeks, since our rainy season doesn't usually begin until early December.

Not too many years ago the state was forced to close the squirrel season because of a drought. You can help this year by being careful.

Little Man's Corner

The fishing was better, but the little men were busy picking cotton, few of them making news afield.

Jim Davis, who has been the fisheries biologist here for the past eight years for the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, attended a Southeastern Conference for wildlife personnel at Hot Springs.

He was elected secretary-treasurer of the Southern Division of the American Fisheries Society.

Jim also has the distinction of being the only fisheries biologist in the Southeast with a female fisheries biologist for an assistant. She is Janice S. Hughes, native of Morehouse and graduate of Northeast State College.

And if you enjoy reading about the outdoors, friend Grits Gresham has scored his biggest hit in his many years as an outdoor writer. Grits has two articles in this month's edition of Argosy magazine — one about whitewing dove hunting in Arizona and the other about ducks and bucks around Stuggart, Arkansas.

He's good reading.

Meantime, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Swayer of Monroe caught the limit of bass in Lake Concordia at Ferriday. M. W. Dent of Sicily Island got the limit there also.

W. C. Warren, who lives on Lake Concordia, caught his limit of bream in Lake St. John and the limit of white perch in the Blue Hole on shiners.

J. A. Gulledge of St. John landed the limit of bream there.

Fishermen getting their limits of bass in the Red River barpits downstream from Vidalia included Herb Cater, Willie Goss and J. D. Cross of Vidalia and Bob Price of Ferriday.

A Winnfield fisherman, R. L. Fluitt, landed a big catch of white perch in Little River near Jena. And a Winnsboro top bass fisherman, Fred (Bubba) Nielsen, caught a good string of bass in Mosquitto Lake in Tensas Swamp.

From Lake Providence, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cooper caught a few white perch in Old River near Lake Providence. Ivy Payne of Monroe caught a 65-pound buffalo in Black Bayou.

Georgia Downs South Carolina

Athens, Ga. (AP) — Halfback Larry Rakestraw and place-kicker Bill McCullough led the Georgia Bulldogs to a 27-7 football victory over South Carolina Saturday.

Rakestraw passed for one touchdown and set up the other Georgia scores by steadily hitting receivers who out-maneuvered the South Carolina defense.

McCullough kicked field goals of 25 and 39 yards. His second came with one second remaining in the first half. He missed a third try of 50 yards in the last period.

South Carolina was unable to generate a scoring offense until the fourth quarter when the Gamecocks capitalized on Georgia's failure to get a punt away and drove from the Georgia 46 for a touchdown in 12 plays.

Rakestraw completed three passes for 48 yards in Georgia's first drive of 80 yards for a touchdown in the initial period. Halfback Bob Taylor carried the ball over from the 2.

Late in the first quarter Georgia guard Jim Smith recovered a Gamecock fumble at the South Carolina 31. Six plays later McCullough kicked a 25-yard field goal to give Georgia a 10-0 lead with only a few minutes elapsed in the second period.

Georgia got a break just before the half ended when South Carolina was penalized for interference with a fair catch to the Gamecock 22. There was time for one play.

With one second remaining, McCullough kicked a 39-yard field goal to give the Bulldogs a 13-0 lead at halftime.

Georgia took the second half kickoff and marched 70 yards to a touchdown. On first down at the 16, Rakestraw passed to end Barry Wilson for Georgia's second touchdown.

Georgia drove for its third touchdown in the third quarter behind Rakestraw's passing and running.

South Carolina finally got going in the fourth period. Georgia's second - string quarterback Preston Ridlehuber was unable to get a punt away and the Gamecocks took over on the Georgia 46.

Southern Methodist Trips Air Force With 10-0 Win

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A savage defense set up the opportunities and the passing of Danny Thomas and the kicking of John Richey carried through Saturday as Southern Methodist knocked Air Force Academy from football's unbeaten ranks 10-0. It was a jarring upset.

A blocked kick led to Richey's 26-yard field goal in the first period. A fumble recovery set SMU on the way to a touchdown in the second period with Thomas passing for 49 yards in sparking a 68-yard touchdown drive. The SMU pass defense and ball-hawking linemen held Air Force at bay.

DALLAS (AP)—Statistics of the Air Force-Southern Methodist football game:

	AIR FORCE	SMU
First downs	17	10
Rushing yardage	149	138
Passing yardage	86	93
Passes	8-24	6-13
Passes intercepted by	1	2
Punts	6-32.0	4-49.5
Fumbles lost	4	5
Yards penalized	35	52

Southern Methodist won its first game in the last seven and did it impressively as a crowd of 30,000 looked on in the Cotton Bowl.

Terry Isaacson, the Air Force star, was a threat all the way but it was his pass that Tommy Caughran intercepted in the second period and scatted back 70 yards to wipe out the most serious threat of a score made by the Fly Boys.

The Southern Methodist touchdown was by John Roderick, the 9.4 track man who came out for football only this year. He made it with a two-yard run. Richey added the extra point.

Thomas' 19-yard shot to Richey and a 30-yard pass to John Graves were the big punches in the touchdown drive.

Devils Shatter Maryland, 30-12 In Final Period

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Frustrated Duke threw off the shackles of a stubborn Maryland defense and came from behind with three touchdowns in the final quarter Saturday for a 30-12 victory that kept the Blue Devils on the high road to a fourth straight Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

A 60-yard touchdown pass from sophomore Scotty Glacken to end Stan Crisson brought the Blue Devils from a 12-10 deficit and put them ahead for keeps in the nationally televised game, the football feature of the 15th National Tobacco Festival.

After Glacken's bomb, the Blue Devils added points on Jay Wilkinson's five-yard touchdown run and a spectacular 76-yard touchdown punt return by sophomore halfback John Gutekunst.

The triumph in the festival game before 20,000 spectators kept the Blue Devils unbeaten in three starts. Fired-up Maryland, which for a long time this sunny afternoon looked like an upset winner, went down to its third straight setback.

Maryland, losing a bit of its punch early in the second period when a bruised hip temporarily sidelined star quarterback Dick Shiner, trailed at halftime 10-6. But the Terps, with Shiner cast in a starring role and scoring the go-ahead touchdown on a three-yard plunge, took a 12-10 lead into the riotous fourth period.

Twice earlier, the rugged Duke defense had held the Terps at bay — first on a drive which reached the Blue Devils' 23, again on a push that reached the 19.

Yet for all these defensive heroics, the Blue Devils—who had scored 10 points in the opening period—didn't get back on the track on offense until they trailed.

When they finally found their second wind on attack, the result was devastating. Glacken, Wilinson, Billy Futrell and Mike Curtis spearheaded the three last-quarter touchdown drives that kept Duke undefeated.

Glacken not only passed for a touchdown but collected Duke's first six points on a seven-yard run.

Cornell Routes

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—Cornell, with quarterback Gary Wood scoring on an 89-yard kickoff return and leading two scoring drives, routed Lehigh 24-0 Saturday for its first victory.

Wood raced back the second half kickoff all the way as part of a big day for the senior quarterback. Pete Gogolak chipped in with a 50-yard field goal—a school record, converted three times and punted for a 39.2 average.

PASSING AND RUNNING

Roger Staubach Leads Navy Win

By BERNIE KENNEDY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Quarterback Roger Staubach threw unerringly and helped shred Michigan's defenses with his own running as unbeaten Navy trampled Michigan 26-13 here Saturday.

Staubach, who entered the game as the nation's total offense leader completed 14 of 16 passes for 237 yards.

His passes accounted for two touchdowns and he scored a third himself as the sixth-ranked Middie broke the game open with two touchdowns in the second quarter and two more in the third.

Staubach's longest aerial in the first half, in which he completed eight of eight, was a 54-yard payoff pitch to halfback John SAI.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Statistics of the Navy-Michigan football game:

Michigan marched 80 yards in eight plays midway in the third quarter for its first score. Substitute quarterback Bob Chandler passed to end John Henderson for the final 37 yards. With one second left in the game Chandler again hit Henderson from the 20 to cap an 83-yard drive.

The Middies wasted no time getting their first Wolverine touchdown back, however, going 80 yards on its next drive with Staubach passing to end Neil Henderson from the seven. Henderson went into the end zone, circled back to take the ball on the one, then squeezed in just inside the goal line flag.

Ed Orr intercepted a frosty Evashevski pass on the Michigan 20 at the start of the third quarter and returned it to the five-yard stripe. Three plays later fullback Pat Donnelly punched over from the one.

Navy's first touchdown came as a result of a poor punt by Michigan's Bob Stagg. The ball slid off Stagg's foot and bounced out on the Wolverine 33.

Staubach passed to end Jim Campbell on the 18. Two running plays and a personal foul brought the ball to the five and Staubach rolled around left end to score.

Michigan failed to move on the next series and punted into the end zone. Five running plays brought the ball to the Navy 46. From there, Staubach stepped back, threw to SAI on the 25 and the fleet Navy back zipped in.

Iowa Hawkeyes Rip Washington As Riddle Hurls

SEATTLE (UPI)— Iowa quarterback Fred Riddle passed 44 yards for one touchdown Saturday and scored another himself to pace the Hawkeyes to a 17-7 victory over winless Washington.

A disappointed crowd of 55,200 saw Riddle hit right halfback Paul Krause with the long-scoring pass in the second period. In the fourth period Riddle sneaked over from less than one yard out for what proved to be the winning touchdown.

Washington's Charlie Browning had tied things up with an 11-yard smash later in the third period.

Hawkeye place kicking specialist Jay Roberts gave Iowa a safety margin with a 39-yard field goal in the final period.

Riddle's touchdown was set up when Washington was called for pass interference against left end Cloyd Webb, giving Iowa the ball on Washington's one.

Browning brought the crowd to its feet in the first period when he swept around right end for an 18-yard dash into the end zone, but holding penalty nullified the touchdown.

MIRACLE COMEBACK

Arnold Palmer Sinks Long Bird; Gains Tie

By WILL GRIMSLEY

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Miracle comebacker Arnold Palmer birdied the 125-yard ninth hole with a wedge shot that almost dropped for a hole-in-one Saturday and went into a tie with Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., after 45 holes in the 72-hole $125,000 Whitemarsh Open Golf Tournament.

Through that point, they had scores of 175, five under par.

Palmer, cheered on by his yelling gallery known as Arnie's Army, played the front nine of the 6,807-yard, par 36-36—72 Whitemarsh Valley course in 34, two under par, while none of the other front-runners was able to match par.

Two strokes back of the coleaders with 177 was Al Balding, the lanky Canadian PGA champion, shooting a 39, and then came Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., and Gene Littler of San Diego, tied at 178.

Rodgers, who shared the halfway point lead with Balding, blew to a four-over-par 40, starting with a three-putt green and suddenly hitting his shots all over the premises, while Littler, former U.S. Open champion, shot a 37.

A crowd of 9,000 poured over the course in bright, sunny weather—despite competition from the World Series and college football games—and it seemed most of the spectators were cheering for their idol, the popular Palmer.

"If you can't win with that kind of support, you ought to quit," a spectator was heard to say after Palmer sent a wedge shot flying at the pin on the short ninth hole, sending up a ground-shaking roar.

The ball dribbled past the cup and stopped just 12 inches away.

Palmer, whose rallies have become legend in this sport, put the pressure to his rivals quickly.

Scenting the $26,000 first prize to add to his record money winning cache of $101,555, he birdied two of the first three holes, putting his approach shot within eight feet of the cup on the first and sinking a 12-footer at the 580-yard third.

Balding was waiting on the first tee, with Littler and Tommy Jacobs, when he heard a loud cheer go up after Palmer's putt on the third green.

"Here comes that man again," Balding said, blanching.

Young Jacobs, who started the day tied with Rudolph at 139, one stroke out of the lead, skied to a scattershot 40 and trailed at 179.

Palmer went over par on only one hole on the outgoing nine, three-putting the sixth from the fringe and missing a six-footer.

Gator Offense Tops Richmond In Close Fight

By F. T. MACFEELY

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Florida organized its football offensive long enough to beat a supposedly outclassed Richmond 35-28 Saturday, but had to overtake a 10-point lead to do it.

In posting their first victory of the season, the Gators continued to make the same kind of mistakes that aren't expected of a team as good as they're believed to be.

Richmond scored the first 10 points with the help of an interception and a fumble, and big Ronnie Smith had the Spiders rolling through the air to three touchdowns in the final quarter.

Florida was fortunate that quarterback Tom Shannon had sparked five touchdown drives in between and had enough cushion to withstand the final Richmond rush.

Shannon ran for two touchdowns and passed 39 yards to sophomore end Charles Casey for another.

Fullback Larry Dupree, who scored his first touchdown of the season on a short run, and a flock of sophomore backs ate up Richmond real estate with a strong running attack.

14-13 TRIUMPH

Auburn Eases Past Kentucky

By DON MARTIN
United Press International

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI)—Auburn fullback Larry Rawson batted down a conversion pass attempt late in the third quarter Saturday to preserve a 14-13 victory over Kentucky's sensational sophomores.

Wildcat soph quarterback Rick Norton bulleted a four-yarder to sophomore end Rick Kester but Rawson leaped from a tangle of players to spear the ball with his right hand and victory was denied the eight-point underdogs.

Minutes later, the aroused Wildcats stalled another Auburn scoring drive and an against-the-wind field goal attempt by Woody Woodall was off to the left from 31 yards out.

Kentucky missed another scoring opportunity midway in the fourth quarter after Wildcat tackle Herschel Turner pounced on a fumble by quarterback Jimmy Sidle on the Auburn 10. The gritty Tiger defense broke up three Norton passes and John Andrighetti's 34 - yard downwind field goal attempt was short.

It was an entirely different story in the first half. Auburn racked up touchdowns in the first and second quarters and just missed scoring on two other occasions. The Tiger line—lighest in school history—held the Wildcats to just three first downs and 12 yards rushing.

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—Statistics of the Kentucky-Auburn game:

	KENTUCKY	AUBURN
First downs	12	19
Rushing yardage	102	223
Passing yardage	115	89
Passes	7-19	7-21
Passes intercepted by	2	2
Punts	8.38.7	4-51.5
Fumbles lost	0	2
Yards penalized	84	55

Sidle's slithering slants through and around the Wildcat line gave Auburn its first score with less than five minutes gone in the first quarter. Running the pass option play with perfection, Sidle skirted left end, cutback into the center of the field and dashed 23 yards into the end zone after shrugging off the last tackler. Woodall's kick was good.

Auburn halfback Tucker Frederickson intercepted a Norton pass on the Tiger 32 and raced to the Kentucky 32. Ten plays later Sidle floated a pass to Rawson on the one. Frederickson crunched across and Woodall made the kick.

With only 41 seconds left in the first half, Norton found soph Rodger Bird, a thorn in Auburn's side all day, 20 yards past the nearest Tiger defensive man on a 61-yard pass play. Andrighetti's conversion was good.

Kentucky's last score came on a 84-yard march highlighted by Norton's passing and Bird's running. Norton hit Kestner for the final 12 yards.

Auburn	7	7	0	0—14
Kentucky	0	7	6	0—13

Scoring:

Aub — Sidle 23 run (Woodall kick)

Aub — Frederickson 1 run (Woodall kick)

KY — Bird 61 pass from Norton (Andrighetti kick)

KY — Kestner 12 pass from Norton (pass failed)

Memphis State Defeats Tulsa In Second Half

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Memphis State's Tigers snarled back from a half-time deficit with second-half touchdowns for a 28-15 football victory over Tulsa Saturday.

A fired-up Hurricane team scored the first touchdown from scrimmage recorded this season against the Memphis State top unit.

Tulsa dominated the first half, but the Tigers came back after intermission to turn a recovered fumble, a short punt and an intercepted pass into touchdowns.

Memphis State scored the second time it got the ball, driving 55 yards in eight plays. Tulsa came back with a 57-yard march and Bill Goods booted a 41-yard field goal when the drive stalled.

Tulsa's Jeff Jordan later intercepted Russ Vollmer's pass and ran 97 yards to put Tulsa ahead 9-7.

Memphis State went ahead early in the escond half after Ralph Ciccerelli recovered Bill Van Burkleo's fumble a tthe Tulsa 40. Dave Casinelli dashed the final 12 yards. Minutes later, a short punt gave the Tigers the ball at the Memphis State 47 and Vollmer went across from 12 yards out.

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

We can start near the home tone of the scale this week and see plenty of activity within reach. The Northeast Concerts Association is already holding the opera "Tosca" up as its opening attraction while Little Theatre of Monroe is calling it a special occasion with the production of "Auntie Mame." There are also two student presentations on deck, one at Northeast and the other at La. Tech in Ruston.

"Tosca," a traveling production of the Boris Goldovsky group, will appear in a Sunday matinee on November 10 at Neville auditorium as the opening number in this season's Northeast Concerts series. This opera will be sung in English. Though obviously a melodrama, this work by Puccini unfolds a story of intrigue, double-crossing, revolution and irony about which Americans need to know more.

Later in the season, at a date not yet established, the Northeast group hopes to book "Camelot," a musical in the lighter vein.

LITTLE THEATRE

The production of "Auntie Mame," opening at Little Theatre's Strauss Playhouse Friday October 18, will mark the 150th play presented by that organization since its founding here in the 1930's.

There are those who recall the very first play done by the Little Theatre organization here on July 14, 1932, to be exact. This was "The Whole Town's Talking," and several members of the original cast have indicated they might be able to attend "Auntie Mame."

Little Theatre will also institute a new policy this year of playing only during the weekends. For example, "Auntie Mame" will run for six days in a broken schedule: October 18-19-20, then on the following weekend, October 25-26-27. The idea resulted from overfilling the house during weekend performances last season, resulting in smaller audiences on weekday evenings.

FOLLOW-UP

Additional performances of Louisiana Tech's summer student success, "Oklahoma," are slated for the school's homecoming weekend, October 10-11. Tech alumni will be admitted free at the October 11 production. The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical will feature Lee Davis of Midland, Texas, in the role of Curley, and Jerlynne Lott of Jackson, Mississippi, as Laurey.

Getting started early last week, choreographer Gail Shoudy for the Northeast Redskins on Parade student review called for tryouts of those wishing to participate in the chorus line. The show itself is scheduled for November 21-22, but Gail is wise in getting the lineup on the chorus line ahead of time.

This year's "Redskins" marks the 26th annual review of student skits and will be directed by Bill Wells.

PIANISTS

Judges chose a winner and first alternate at the district auditions of high school pianists held last week at Northeast. The auditions are sponsored by the Louisiana Music Teachers Association and winners are eligible to compete in state auditions, set for October 31-November 2, also at Northeast.

Suzanne Walter of Winnsboro was first place winner and first alternate was Richard Smith of Bogue Chitto, Mississippi. Each student performed pieces representing classic, romantic and modern periods of musical literature. Miss Walter is a student of Mrs. C. L. Moore, and Smith is a student of J. Hamilton Monroe.

This summary, aside from the growing number of fine folk-singing groups evidenced at last weekend's Columbia Art Festival, just about clears our vision for a good look at early season cultural events. How do folk singers fit the scale pattern of higher culture?

Well, the young folks got their guitars when Elvis swept the country, but he and his imitators boiled the picture down to one or two chords. The people trying the folk songs have a whole vocabulary of chords to sing along with. And they're developing a keen sense of harmony in the process.

Variety Club Sponsors Golf For United Fund

The Variety Club of Monroe, will sponsor a benefit golf tournament at the Selman Field Golf Course, Sunday, October 13, for the United Givers Fund.

T. T. Robinson, president of the club, stated that more than 100 golfers are expected to participate. First flight will begin at 9 a.m.

Trophies and prizes, to be provided by the Variety Club, will be given to winners in all three flights: Championship, First and second flights.

For more information, golfers are urged to contact Robinson at FA 5-4021, or check at the Club house.

Refreshments will be served during the day.

Salvation Army Minister Will Speak Locally

A Salvation Army minister from Florida, Major William Kolloch, will speak at 7 p.m. services today at Southside Methodist Church here, it was announced by the Rev. Lea Joyner, pastor.

Major Killoch is an uncle of Jack Hesketh, church choir director.

The church will also take part today in the worldwide communion observance at three services, 8:30 a.m., 10:50 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

We can start near the home tone of the scale this week and see plenty of activity within reach. The Northeast Concerts Association is already holding the opera "Tosca" up as its opening attraction while Little Theatre of Monroe is calling it a special occasion with the production of "Auntie Mame." There are also two student presentations on deck, one at Northeast and the other at La. Tech in Ruston.

"Tosca," a traveling production of the Boris Goldovsky group, will appear in a Sunday matinee on November 10 at Neville auditorium as the opening number in this season's Northeast Concerts series. This opera will be sung in English. Though obviously a melodrama, this work by Puccini unfolds a story of intrigue, double-crossing, revolution and irony about which Americans need to know more.

Later in the season, at a date not yet established, the Northeast group hopes to book "Camelot," a musical in the lighter vein.

LITTLE THEATRE

The production of "Auntie Mame," opening at Little Theatre's Strauss Playhouse Friday October 18, will mark the 150th play presented by that organization since its founding here in the 1930's.

There are those who recall the very first play done by the Little Theatre organization here on July 14, 1932, to be exact. This was "The Whole Town's Talking," and several members of the original cast have indicated they might be able to attend "Auntie Mame."

Little Theatre will also institute a new policy this year of playing only during the weekends. For example, "Auntie Mame" will run for six days in a broken schedule: October 18-19-20, then on the following weekend, October 25-26-27. The idea resulted from overfilling the house during weekend performances last season, resulting in smaller audiences on weekday evenings.

FOLLOW-UP

Additional performances of Louisiana Tech's summer student success, "Oklahoma," are slated for the school's homecoming weekend, October 10-11. Tech alumni will be admitted free at the October 11 production. The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical will feature Lee Davis of Midland, Texas, in the role of Curley, and Jerlynne Lott of Jackson, Mississippi, as Laurey.

Getting started early last week, choreographer Gail Shoudy for the Northeast Redskins on Parade student review called for tryouts of those wishing to participate in the chorus line. The show itself is scheduled for November 21-22, but Gail is wise in getting the lineup on the chorus line ahead of time.

This year's "Redskins" marks the 26th annual review of student skits and will be directed by Bill Wells.

PIANISTS

Judges chose a winner and first alternate at the district auditions of high school pianists held last week at Northeast. The auditions are sponsored by the Louisiana Music Teachers Association and winners are eligible to compete in state auditions, set for October 31-November 2, also at Northeast.

Suzanne Walter of Winnsboro was first place winner and first alternate was Richard Smith of Bogue Chitto, Mississippi. Each student performed pieces representing classic, romantic and modern periods of musical literature. Miss Walter is a student of Mrs. C. L. Moore, and Smith is a student of J. Hamilton Monroe.

This summary, aside from the growing number of fine folk-singing groups evidenced at last weekend's Columbia Art Festival, just about clears our vision for a good look at early season cultural events. How do folk singers fit the scale pattern of higher culture?

Well, the young folks got their guitars when Elvis swept the country, but he and his imitators boiled the picture down to one or two chords. The people trying the folk songs have a whole vocabulary of chords to sing along with. And they're developing a keen sense of harmony in the process.

Variety Club Sponsors Golf For United Fund

The Variety Club of Monroe, will sponsor a benefit golf tournament at the Selman Field Golf Course, Sunday, October 13, for the United Givers Fund.

T. T. Robinson, president of the club, stated that more than 100 golfers are expected to participate. First flight will begin at 9 a.m.

Trophies and prizes, to be provided by the Variety Club, will be given to winners in all three flights; Championship, First and second flights.

For more information, golfers are urged to contact Robinson at FA 5-4021, or check at the Club house.

Refreshments will be served during the day.

MISS CAROLYN JEAN BOYCE

Announcement Tea Reveals Engagement Of Carolyn Jean Boyce

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Carolyn Jean Boyce, daughter of Mrs. Sholars Boyce, to Thomas Steen Trawick, son of Mrs. Tola Oren Trawick and the late Mr. Trawick, all of Monroe, was revealed at an announcement tea Saturday afternoon, October 5.

The wedding will be an event of November 23, to be solemnized at 10 a.m. in St. Paul's Methodist Church of Monroe. Officiating clergymen will be Dr. Benjamin Ray Oliphint and Rev. Robert Benjamin Holladay.

Miss Boyce has chosen Miss Norma Crowell of Monroe, to serve as maid of honor and serving as best man will be Eugene Dowdy of West Monroe. Ushers will include Joe Cummins, Monroe; Warren Antley and Sims Bennett, both of West Monroe; Jay Cummins, Alexandria and Gaylon Cox of Homer.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Neville high school and of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and is a member of Phi Mu sorority. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. John Sholars, Monroe and the late Mr. Sholars and of Mrs. Leslie Boyce, Orange, Texas, formerly of Monroe and the late Mr. Boyce.

Mr. Trawick was graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Northeast Louisiana State College and Oklahoma Baptist University. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hamilton and the late Mr. and Mrs. James O. Trawick.

Hostesses for the announcement tea held yesterday were Mrs. Howard Wilson Lance, Mrs. Robert Benjamin Holladay and Mrs. Claude William Dodgen, who entertained at the Lance home, 611 Stubbs from 3 until 5 p.m.

The honoree, wearing a pistachio brocade dress and carrying a nosegay of white chrysanthemums, received with her mother, who wore a cranberry silk dress; and the mother of the prospective bridegroom, who was attired in a dress of cranberry and pink silk. Also in the receiving line were Mrs. John Sholars, grandmother of the bride-elect, wearing an aqua wool, and the hostesses. Mrs. Lance chose for the occasion a blue chiffon gown, while Mrs. Holladay's frock was of green chiffon and Mrs. Dodgen selected a blue brocade model.

Miss Myla Lance greeted guests at the door and Miss Susan Cochran presided at the guest book table, which held a five-branched silver candelabra, holding white tapers and entwined with pompons. At the base of the candelabra were two white cherubs holding miniature bride's bouquets.

Central decor for the serving table which was overlaid with a white cutwork cloth, was an antique silver and Waterford crystal epergne in the center of which was a bride's bouquet of white miniature chrysanthemums. Four arms of the epergne encircling the centerpiece, held matching colonial wedding bouquets of the white mums, with lace ruffles and white satin streamers.

Presiding at the silver coffee, tea and punch services were Mrs. Benjamin Ray Oliphint, Mrs. Van Elfred Leigh, Mrs. George P. Forman and Mrs. A. S. Gunter. Tea girls were Misses Peggy and Nancy Leigh and assisting with courtesies were Mrs. Marguerite Malone and Mrs. Marie Dell Horuff. All assisting were identified by corsages of white chrysanthemums.

A large number of guests called during the appointed hours.

Fashions Go Casual By Day, Formal For Night

Fashion's big thrust for fall, 1963, is tailored, casual for daytime and feminine, formal for night. The big news: the dramatic change from day to evening—on the one hand, casual and relaxed; on the other, dramatic, sultry. These are the findings of Women's Wear Daily fashion editors after viewing manufacturers' fall and winter collections.

For day, the three-part costume is a basic entry, often involving jacket, vest, blouse and skirt and an interplay of fabrics, textures, colors -- tweed with satin, tweed with chiffon, tweed with fur, to name only a few. Another combination: One- or two-piece dress and related coat; it really doesn't have to match.

Everything for day is in a casual mood, from the raglan shoulders of dresses, suits, coats, to the importance of the raincoat look (whipcord, tweed). Goodbye to the nothing dress — there's detailing, more softness within the casual framework.

The long dress fashion is one of the strongest in years —sometimes in a casual mood, sometimes the ultimate in feminine, romantic glamour. The sweep to floor lengths brings with it the return of the long dinner suit — for the theatre, too. And the overblouse - tunic develops fresh significance for fall paired with a long skirt. Carry the story into evening with a sweeping floor length coat — in velvet, wool, brocatelle — gently princess in shape.

Colors are rich, vibrant, deep—ruby, turquoise, plum green. Colors for evening generally take one of two turns — pale and soft and delicate or strong and exhilarating; in either case a change from the somber tones of day tweeds, lacy wools. Checks, stripes and plaids are also important.

Velvet is in first place in fall fabrics, followed by fluffy mohairs, many - colored (but quiet) (plum-purple-aubergine range).

Picnic Outing, Annual Garden Tea Given By Northeast Women's Club

Two events during the week, including a gay picnic outing Saturday, October 5 and a garden tea last Sunday, were given by the Northeast Louisiana State College Women's Club to entertain the college faculty, staff and families. The events serve as an introduction to the year's activities for new faculty and staff members.

Signs led the way to Bancroft Camp which was the scene yesterday of the picnic outing for more than 150 members of Northeast faculty, staff and their families. As guests arrived they were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Davis Bingham and Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Adams and each presented a name tag depicting the camp atmosphere.

Country music provided the background for the affair which featured games of softball, badminton, horse shoes and croquet and square dancing. Mrs. Billy Creed and Mrs. Larry McClure provided entertainment for the afternoon.

An old-fashioned smorgasbord supper was served from a buffet table, which was centered with a vertical line arrangement of fall foliage combined with pyracantha berries. Following supper Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rawson showed movies to the young guests while their parents were entertained with bingo games and square dancing. Climax of the evening was a group song fest and marshmallow roast by the children around a huge bonfire.

Chairmen for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Davis Bingham with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rawson and Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Adams, co-chairmen. Others assisting on the committee in charge were Dr. and Mrs. Clint Hanna, Dr. and Mrs. James Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Creed, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Rod Hickman, Dr. and Mrs. Nollie Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Ingram, Dr. and Mrs. Larry McClure, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Murdock, Dr. and Mrs. Merriel Nicklas, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Olmstead, Mr. and Mrs. James O'Neal, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phillips, Miss May Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rynes, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Vines, Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Whitworth, Mr. and Mrs. Louden Yantis and Dr. and Mrs. John Goorley.

The gardens at the home of President and Mrs. George T. Walker provided the setting for the annual garden tea Sunday, from 4 until 6 p.m. Given by the Northeast Louisiana State College Women's club, the tea was in honor of new faculty women, faculty wives and women staff members at the college. The event is the climax for the numerous neighborhood coffees given during the past week.

Serving as hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Walker and officers of the club, including Mrs. Daniel Dupree, president; Mrs. Charles DePoe, first vice-president; Mrs. Joe Barry Mullins, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Martin, reporter and Mrs. W. C. Bentrup, parliamentarian.

Guests were greeted on arrival by Mrs. Waddy Moore and Mrs. Frank Martin and welcomed by Mrs. Dupree, chairman and Mrs. Walker, co-chairman. Identification tags were presented by Mrs. DePoe, Mrs. Maud Bentrup and Mrs. Joseph Millwee.

Centering the refreshment table on the patio was a pyramid arrangement of Fuji chrysanthemums and pompons, accented with leather leaf in a silver footed compote. Presiding at the silver punch bowls at either end of the table were honorary members of the club, Mrs. Deloris Payne, Mrs. Pauline Hyman, Mrs. Lenice Stephan and Mrs. Josie Palmer. A variety of party refreshments were served by Mrs. Eris Ginn, Mrs. Robert DeMoss, Mrs. Neil Covington and Mrs. Paul Rawson.

Near the patio were tables depicting interest groups of the organization which were presided over by Mrs. Paul Harmond, book review chairman; Mrs. Neil Douglas, party bridge; Mrs. Marcus Mapp, duplicate bridge; Mrs. William Creed, bowling; First Aid Group (Red Cross) Mrs. Robert Groseclose and Gray Ladies, Mrs. Joseph Millwee. Collecting dues and distributing year books for the club were Mrs. Joe Barry Mullins, treasurer and her assistants, Mrs. William Mobberly and Mrs. Edward Schutz.

Others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. A. R. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Eloy Fominaya, Mrs. Edward Whatley and Mrs. Davis Bingham.

Picnic Outing, Annual Garden Tea Given By Northeast Women's Club

Two events during the week, including a gay picnic outing Saturday, October 5 and a garden tea last Sunday, were given by the Northeast Louisiana State College Women's Club to entertain the college faculty, staff and families. The events serve as an introduction to the year's activities for new faculty and staff members.

Signs led the way to Bancroft Camp which was the scene yesterday of the picnic outing for more than 150 members of Northeast faculty, staff and their families. As guests arrived they were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Davis Bingham and Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Adams and each presented a name tag depicting the camp atmosphere.

Country music provided the background for the affair which featured games of softball, badminton, horse shoes and croquet and square dancing. Mrs. Billy Creed and Mrs. Larry McClure provided entertainment for the afternoon.

An old-fashioned smorgasbord supper was served from a buffet table, which was centered with a vertical line arrangement of fall foliage combined with pyracantha berries. Following supper Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rawson showed movies to the young guests while their parents were entertained with bingo games and square dancing. Climax of the evening was a group song fest and marshmallow roast by the children around a huge bonfire.

Chairmen for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Davis Bingham with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rawson and Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Adams, co-chairmen. Others assisting on the committee in charge were Dr. and Mrs. Clint Hanna, Dr. and Mrs. James Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Creed, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Rod Hickman, Dr. and Mrs. Nollie Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Ingram, Dr. and Mrs. Larry McClure, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Murdock, Dr. and Mrs. Merriel Nicklas, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Olmstead, Mr. and Mrs. James O'Neal, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phillips, Miss May Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rynes, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Vines, Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Whitworth, Mr. and Mrs. Louden Yantis and Dr. and Mrs. John Goorley.

The gardens at the home of President and Mrs. George T. Walker provided the setting for the annual garden tea Sunday, from 4 until 6 p.m. Given by the Northeast Louisiana State College Women's club, the tea was in honor of new faculty women, faculty wives and women staff members at the college. The event is the climax for the numerous neighborhood coffees given during the past week.

Serving as hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Walker and officers of the club, including Mrs. Daniel Dupree, president; Mrs. Charles DePoe, first vice-president; Mrs. Joe Barry Mullins, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Martin, reporter and Mrs. W. C. Bentrup, parliamentarian.

Guests were greeted on arrival by Mrs. Waddy Moore and Mrs. Frank Martin and welcomed by Mrs. Dupree, chairman and Mrs. Walker, co-chairman. Identification tags were presented by Mrs. DePoe, Mrs. Maud Bentrup and Mrs. Joseph Millwee.

Centering the refreshment table on the patio was a pyramid arrangement of Fuji chrysanthemums and pompons, accented with leather leaf in a silver footed compote. Presiding at the silver punch bowls at either end of the table were honorary members of the club, Mrs. Deloris Payne, Mrs. Pauline Hyman, Mrs. Lenice Stephan and Mrs. Josie Palmer. A variety of party refreshments were served by Mrs. Eris Ginn, Mrs. Robert DeMoss, Mrs. Neil Covington and Mrs. Paul Rawson.

Near the patio were tables depicting interest groups of the organization which were presided over by Mrs. Paul Harmond, book review chairman; Mrs. Neil Douglas, party bridge; Mrs. Marcus Mapp, duplicate bridge; Mrs. William Creed, bowling; First Aid Group (Red Cross) Mrs. Robert Groseclose and Gray Ladies, Mrs. Joseph Millwee. Collecting dues and distributing year books for the club were Mrs. Joe Barry Mullins, treasurer and her assistants, Mrs. William Mobberly and Mrs. Edward Schutz.

Others assisting in the courteses were Mrs. A. R. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Eloy Fominaya, Mrs. Edward Whatley and Mrs. Davis Bingham.

Driver Fatigue Worst Hazard On Long Trips

Autumn travel by car can be a rewarding and exciting experience, whether it's a cross-country vacation trek or a long week-end visit to distant relatives. Wih a car you have freedom to stay longer in some favorite spot or to explore the byways and discover a quaint old mill, a country store, a waterfall.

Along with all the pleasures of such a trip, there are hazards to avoid. One of the most dangerous in long trips is driver fatigue, according to Jean Kinkead, women's consultant to insurance companies, and it is the cause of a good many highway accidents. However, this unhappy condition can be avoided, Miss Kinkead suggests, by the observance of a few simple precautions.

First of all, start your trip early in the morning when the air is fresh, you are fresh and the roads are clear so you can see the countryside. By early afternoon you will probably complete 300 miles and you'll be able to find accommodations more easily.

Use the Army rule for convoys — a ten-minute break every two hours. All drivers will benefit from this practice and without impairing mileage. Research has shown that 10 hours daily with stops for gas, exercise and refreshments is the limit of comfortable motoring.

If you have another driver in the car, change about every 100 miles. Driving a car is stimulating, but only up to a point. After that, it may become boring and fatiguing. Don't wait for leg strain or drowsiness to tell you it's time to change. If driving alone, stop to stretch and relax to avoid excessive fatigue.

Besides the driver's failure to rest, there are other causes of sleepiness. According to statistics, twice as many sleepouts occur during bright daylight hours from the reflection on the roads. The remedy for this is a good pair of sunglasses or a non-glare windshiled.

Carbon monoxide can be serious on a long drive. Prolonged exposure to even small concentrations induces sleepiness. So be sure to have exhaust checked, and, of course, have periodic stops for fresh air.

Poor posture is another culprit. The soft, sofa-like seats of modern cars invite slumping. An adjustable back rest helps avoid fatigue and nervous strain.

Some drivers find that the throttle foot goes to sleep. This, too, is caused by poor seating position. Wiggling the toes, as many race drivers do, is a help. If foot goes to sleep, stop at first rest area; massage thigh and calf.

Stale air causes sleepiness. If you feel drowsy, adjust wind wing to send a blast of air square in the face. When you get to stop, wash hands, wrists, face and neck with cold water. Then after coffee, tea or a cool drink you should be ready for the road again.

It's wise to avoid heavy eating on an automobile trip. That will cause drowsiness. Chewing gum is recommended as are chocolate bars which provide quick energy. Never resort to artificial stimulants such as anti-sleep pills. Such drugs can play havoc with reflexes.

Remember, the peak fatigue hours are from 10 to 11 in the morning and from 3 to 4 in the afternoon.

The only remedy for that drowsy feeling is to stop at the earliest chance and don't start again until you're rested — have a happy trip!

Little Girls Tripping Over Own Long Skirts

Kids don't need to swipe their mothers' dresses or wait until they have achieved at least a sub-deb status to wear long dresses anymore.

When Mrs. John F. Kennedy started the long dress trend, she started one that reached all the way to the pre-school crowd. The floor length skirt steadily moved back from young adult, to teen, to pre-teen, until now Caroline's counterparts are in them.

For the at-home kid entertaining at a mud-pie barbecue are wild floral-printed muumuus. Or if it is a birthday cake and fruit cocktails occasion brocades and velvets are in order.

The floor sweeping idea even extends to pants with long culottes in velvet, and laced, satin, sashed jump suits.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD ALLEN NAFF

Naff-Berry Vows Read In Gordon Avenue Church

Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, Monroe, was scene of the ceremony Saturday, September 28 which united in marriage Miss Charlotte Anne Berry of Memphis, Tennessee and Edward Allen Naff, Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. H. L. Beard, Memphis, Tenn. and F. H. Berry of Huntsville, Ala. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Naff, 531 Mississippi, Monroe.

Rev. Lamount Rouse performed the double ring ceremony at 5 p.m. in the presence of family members. Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Charles Stratford, organist and Miss Nina Jo Osburn, soloist.

Mr. Berry gave his daughter in marriage. The bride wore a white wool suit, accented at the neck with an ice blue chiffon scarf. Her accessories included a veiled white satin hat, white brocade shoes and white gloves. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with ice blue streamers atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Edward Horne, Monroe, aunt of the bride, served as matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a powder blue wool sheath with matching veiled hat, black slippers and white gloves and carried one long stemmed blue carnation.

Mr. Naff attended his son as best man and ushers were Ray Thorn and Jerry Holdiness.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Beard selected a black and brown wool suit with black pillbox and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Naff, mother of the groom, wore a three - piece ensemble of peacock blue with matching hat, black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church annex. A centerpiece of white carnations with blue accents and green fern was used on the bride's table, which was overlaid with a linen cutwork cloth made by the bride's grandmother. Branched candelabra holding white tapers flanked the central arrangement. Mrs. A. C. Williams served the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Clifton Williams presided at the crystal punch bowl. The guest book was in charge of Miss Sharon Bernhardt, Memphis, Tenn.

After a wedding trip to Memphis, the couple has established a home at 310 Isabelle in Monroe. Mrs. Naff was graduated from Whitehaven high school, Memphis, Tenn., with the class of 1963 and is a member of Delta Beta Sigma. Mr. Naff graduated from Neville high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

Out-of-town family members who attended were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Beard, Gary and Debbie, Memphis; Miss Sharon Bernhardt, Memphis; F. H. Berry, Huntsville, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Naff, Mrs. John J. Edwards, and Charles Whitworth of Bastrop.

All seasons are lovely in these our Twin Cities; none more so than Fall. In addition to Nature's beauties, there are those of the new wardrobe. After summer's informalities, Milady delights in dressier occasions. And if suits come, can holiday party dresses be far behind?

Wednesday morning, there were two lovely coffees: one honoring a new comer, one visitors to the city. KATHERINE FOSTER, ELLEN MINTZ, HELEN ROBERTS, and CAROL KENNEDY entertained between ten and twelve at the Foster home on Deborah drive, honoring newcomer ALPHA SPENCE. The honoree wore for the party a peacock blue shift with light blue blouse and a cymbidium orchid corsage. Katherine chose a white wool with black trim, and Helen was attired in an autumn plaid in shades of brown and orange. Carol wore a white crepe blouse with her sapphire blue shift. Ellen was stunning in a mustard silk sheath topped with a sleeveless black duster.

Flowers in coral tones were noted throughout the reception rooms of the Foster home. In the living room, coral celosia was combined with spice carnations in an interesting curve arrangement on the mantel. Tropicana roses and artificial orange grapes in a silver epergne centered the dining table. On the buffet were dried eucalyptus branches arranged with coral celosia.

In the family dining room, a second refreshment table was centered with a pyramid of fresh fruit and yellow chrysanthemums Dainties served with coffee and sherry included miniature sweet rolls, hot shrimp dip, cinnamon sticks, and hot biscuits with ham. Several hundred ladies called to meet Alpha.

Bayou DeSiard country club was scene of one of the outstanding parties of the season Wednesday morning when MABEL RATLIFF honored her houseguests at a coffee. Mabel's visitors were her sisters, GEORGINE HOLMES of Winnfield, and MINNIE FLOURNOY of Shreveport.

A massive harvest arrangement was placed on the yellow-covered round table which centered the ballroom. Candles shaped like pumpkins, gourds, and ears of corn were included with real vegetables, fresh fruits, and yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. Each of the four refreshment tables which extended from the center table was centered with a smaller arrangement incorporating chrysanthemums, fruits, and votive lights.

Coffee was served from two of the tables, with trays of goodies set out on all four. The party menu included hot biscuits with ham, pigs-in-blankets, a chafing dish of hot crab dip, turkey salad and chopped ham sandwiches, fried ravioli, hot cheese dip, miniature pecan and mince pies, cheese straws, and salted pecans.

For these parties, ladies were all lovely in fall outfits. We noted in particular JEANNE DOWNING in a sand beige wool dress with wrapped turban in shades of beige and black . . . . BETTY B. JACKSON wearing red silk with a pink velvet headband. . . CHERIE LONG in a sea green outfit with matching silk cape . . and FLO KELLY in a red silk suit . . . DOT ROREX chose olive green in a shift with matching hat in the new mannish shape WAENA MAYO topped a turquoise silk sheath with a sleeveless duster of matching mohair . . . BETTY LANGLEY's hat exactly matched the satin binding on her cranberry red wool . . . JODIE CLINE wore a light blue wool with blue feather hat of the identical shade . . . The shift line was seen in TOMMIE SARTOR's blue with its double-buttoned belt at the hip line.

Another coffee on the calender this week was the Appreciation Party given Friday by the Junior Charity League. Business men, civic leaders, and or husbands of League members are invited to this party, which is planned to acquaint the men with projects sponsored by the group. A series of displays showing the League's work were set up in the Louis Locke room for Friday's party.

We hear that the League is planning other Follies, to be given February 19 and 20, 1964. These programs provide an entertaining evening while raising funds for community service right here in Ouachita parish. The visitors mentioned above. Minnie Flournoy and Georgine Holmes, have been honored at several parties during their visit here with their sister, Mabel Ratliff. On Wednesday, BERNICE WOODS invited a group for luncheon at her home on Pargoud boulevard. Hors d' ouevres were served in the living room before luncheon on the lanai. Three tables for four were each centered with a bouquet of ruby chrysanthemums. Later coffee was served on the covered terrace overlooking the bayou.

MARY LEE MILAM was hostess at a small sherry party on Thursday morning at her home on Island Drive. Roses in varying shades of pink decorated the living room. On the dining table was a tiered wicker compote filled with yellow chrysanthemums and fresh fruit. Shrimp dip with patty shells and salted nuts were served with sherry to about twelve who attended.

Bayou DeSiard country club's porch was scene of a luncheon planned by ALLYNE PETTY for Thursday, also honoring Minnie and Georgine. The green-covered table was centered with a horizontal arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums with pyracantha berries. Hot tomato juice was served, followed by creamed chicken in pastry shells, asparagus, and rosebud beets, and for dessert, lemon tarts. Place cards ornamented with yellow flowers marked places for twelve guests.

Later that afternoon, the visitors were treated to a trip up the river. 'Twas a glorious day and this was a delight. GERRY SPERRY was hostess.

Friday's hostesses were GARY SMITH and SARA M'SHERRY who entertained at luncheon at the Smith residence on Pargoud boulevard. Eight guests were seated at a table decorated with chrysanthemums arranged with maidenhair fern. The menu included shrimp Newberg, stuffed potatoes, tomato aspic, and hot biscuits, with a lemon refrigerated dessert . . . . Minnie and Georgine left for their respective homes on Friday afternoon.

Another visitor in town last weekend was ADELAIDE PARKER WYATT, former Monroyan who now lives in Bay St. Louis. Adelaide made a quick trip, arriving in the early hours of Saturday morning and leaving Sunday afternoon. She spent Saturday with the JAMES MOORES: Sunday with the AMOS SHELTONS.

REVELERS' CLUB MEMBERS are looking ahead to Friday, October 25, and the group's fall dance. Rumor hath it that 'twill be a real Hallowe'en party, with those attending wearing suitable costumes. Our poem for today, entitled "A Prayer for Every Day" is by Mary Carolyn Davies:

Make me too brave to lie or be unkind.
Make me too understanding, too,
to mind
The little hurts companions give,
and friends,
The careless hurts that no one
quite intends.
Make me too thoughtful to hurt
others so.
Help me to know
The inmost hearts of those for whom I care,
Their secret wishes, all the loads
they bear,
That I may add my courage to their own.
May I make lonely folks feel less alone,
And happy ones a little happier
yet.
May I forget
What ought to be forgotten; and recall
Unfailing, all
That ought to be recalled, each kindly thing,
Forgetting what might sting.
To all upon my way,
Day after day,
Let me be joy, be hope! Let my life sing!

Brides Adopt Romantic Look

However alert to current fashions she may be on all other occasions, today's bride cherishes a liking for romantic traditions of yesteryear when it comes to her wedding gown.

This fall's turn to the classic as an inspiration for all fashion means that the bride may have the best of both worlds — yesterday's traditions plus the today look in styling. Classic simplicity rules in bridal gowns, with romance and elegance provided by superb shaping and fabulous fabrics.

High - rising waistlines reminiscent of the empire look, softly belled skirts with a suggestion of the A line, softened sheath effects give the bride the traditional loveliness she likes. Thoroughly romantic and fashionable, too, are long, slim sleeves. Princess lines and coat dress shapes how till other intances of the simply elegant bridal trend.

Velvets, brocades, damasks, crepes, satins, taffets and peaus are opulently appropriate for wedding gowns. In keeping with the classic trend, cording often replaces embroidery.

A surprise is the Spanish influence, in gowns that look very regal but neither ornate nor fussy.

For bridal wear that will be not only treasured but worn on other occasions, too, many wedding dresses are convertible. Boleros, jackets and capes come off to reveal bare - topped ball gowns, while skirts detach to create street - length sheaths.

Ever - popular white is tempered with ivory in some styles.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD ALLEN NAFF

Naff-Berry Vows Read In Gordon Avenue Church

Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, Monroe, was scene of the ceremony Saturday, September 28 which united in marriage Miss Charlotte Anne Berry of Memphis, Tennessee and Edward Allen Naff, Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. H. L. Beard, Memphis, Tenn. and F. H. Berry of Huntsville, Ala. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Naff, 531 Mississippi, Monroe.

Rev. Lamount Rouse performed the double ring ceremony at 5 p.m. in the presence of family members. Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Charles Stratford, organist and Miss Nina Jo Osburn, soloist.

Mr. Berry gave his daughter in marriage. The bride wore a white wool suit, accented at the neck with an ice blue chiffon scarf. Her accessories included a veiled white satin hat, white brocade shoes and white gloves. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with ice blue streamers atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Edward Horne, Monroe, aunt of the bride, served as matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a powder blue wool sheath with matching veiled hat, black slippers and white gloves and carried one long stemmed blue carnation.

Mr. Naff attended his son as best man and ushers were Ray Thorn and Jerry Holdiness.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Beard selected a black and brown wool suit with black pillbox and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Naff, mother of the groom, wore a three - piece ensemble of peacock blue with matching hat, black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church annex. A centerpiece of white carnations with blue accents and green fern was used on the bride's table, which was overlaid with a linen cutwork cloth made by the bride's grandmother. Branched candelabra holding white tapers flanked the central arrangement. Mrs. A. C. Williams served the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Clifton Williams presided at the crystal punch bowl. The guest book was in charge of Miss Sharon Bernhardt, Memphis, Tenn.

After a wedding trip to Memphis, the couple has established a home at 310 Isabelle in Monroe. Mrs. Naff was graduated from Whitehaven high school, Memphis, Tenn., with the class of 1963 and is a member of Delta Beta Sigma. Mr. Naff graduated from Neville high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

Out-of-town family members who attended were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Beard, Gary and Debbie, Memphis; Miss Sharon Bernhardt, Memphis; F. H. Berry, Huntsville, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Naff, Mrs. John J. Edwards, and Charles Whitworth of Bastrop.

SURPRISE FLAVOR

There's a surprise flavor combination in this delicious salad. Drain a 15 ounce can of red kidney beans; add a cup of cubed Cheddar cheese, 1 cup diced celery and sections of 3 medium-size oranges. Measure 1-3 cup mayonnaise, add ¼ cup sweet pickle relish, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, ¼ teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Toss lightly with other ingredients, chill and serve.

All seasons are lovely in these our Twin Cities; none more so than Fall. In addition to Nature's beauties, there are those of the new wardrobe. After summer's informalities, Milady delights in dressier occasions. And if suits come, can holiday party dresses be far behind?

Wednesday morning, there were two lovely coffees: one honoring a new comer, one visitors to the city. KATHERINE FOSTER, ELLEN MINTZ, HELEN ROBERTS, and CAROL KENNEDY entertained between ten and twelve at the Foster home on Deborah drive, honoring newcomer ALPHA SPENCE. The honoree wore for the party a peacock blue shift with light blue blouse and a cymbidium orchid corsage. Katherine chose a white wool with black trim, and Helen was attired in an autumn plaid in shades of brown and orange. Carol wore a white crepe blouse with her sapphire blue shift. Ellen was stunning in a mustard silk sheath topped with a sleeveless black duster.

Flowers in coral tones were noted throughout the reception rooms of the Foster home. In the living room, coral celosia was combined with spice carnations in an interesting curve arrangement on the mantel. Tropicana roses and artificial orange grapes in a silver epergne centered the dining table. On the buffet were dried eucalyptus branches arranged with coral celosia.

In the family dining room, a second refreshment table was centered with a pyramid of fresh fruit and yellow chrysanthemums Dainties served with coffee and sherry included miniature sweet rolls, hot shrimp dip, cinnamon sticks, and hot biscuits with ham. Several hundred ladies called to meet Alpha.

Bayou DeSiard country club was scene of one of the outstanding parties of the season Wednesday morning when MABEL RATLIFF honored her houseguests at a coffee. Mabel's visitors were her sisters, GEORGINE HOLMES of Winnfield, and MINNIE FLOURNOY of Shreveport.

A massive harvest arrangement was placed on the yellow-covered round table which centered the ballroom. Candles shaped like pumpkins, gourds, and ears of corn were included with real vegetables, fresh fruits, and yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. Each of the four refreshment tables which extended from the center table was centered with a smaller arrangement incorporating chrysanthemums, fruits, and votive lights.

Coffee was served from two of the tables, with trays of goodies set out on all four. The party menu included hot biscuits with ham, pigs-in-blankets, a chafing dish of hot crab dip, turkey salad and chopped ham sandwiches, fried ravioli, hot cheese dip, miniature pecan and mince pies, cheese straws, and salted pecans.

For these parties, ladies were all lovely in fall outfits. We noted in particular JEANNE DOWNING in a sand beige wool dress with wrapped turban in shades of beige and black . . . . BETTY B. JACKSON wearing red silk with a pink velvet headband. . . CHERIE LONG in a sea green outfit with matching silk cape . . and FLO KELLY in a red silk suit . . . DOT ROREX chose olive green in a shift with matching hat in the new mannish shape . . WAENA MAYO topped a turquoise silk sheath with a sleeveless duster of matching mohair . . . BETTY LANGLEY's hat exactly matched the satin binding on her cranberry red wool . . . JODIE CLINE wore a light blue wool with blue feather hat of the identical shade . . . The shift line was seen in TOMMIE SARTOR's blue with its double-buttoned belt at the hip line.

Another coffee on the calender this week was the Appreciation Party given Friday by the Junior Charity League. Business men, civic leaders, and or husbands of League members are invited to this party, which is planned to acquaint the men with projects sponsored by the group. A series of displays showing the League's work were set up in the Louis Locke room for Friday's party.

We hear that the League is planning other Follies, to be given February 19 and 20, 1964. These programs provide an entertaining evening while raising funds for community service right here in Ouachita parish. On previous occasions, the League has used proceeds from Follies nights for special gifts to the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, Cerebral Palsy school Mental Guidance center. Norell Likes Belts For Costumes

AP Newsfeatures

Despite fickle fashion's shifty attitude recently, belts are a cinch to be around dresses for a long time, if Norman Norell has anything to do with it.

And the dean of American couturier has. His swingy, belted suit from last season's collection became a national uniform in all price ranges. Almost every suit had to have a belt because his did.

This year, although Norell has created an easy, waistless silhouette with a tier of a skirt, he is still belting his suits, to the delight of the Belt Association.

"Some dresses need belts, others do not. This has always been true," Norell wrote to the association's executive director, Herbert Novick. "Belts are always a part of my collection."

These are comforting words to the industry, whatever Norell does others will follow suit. Thus, while the shift, skimmer, chemise, muumuu, and Lillie, may have their day, the waistline is still here to stay.

Pearls In Hair New Fall Trend

Hair won't be bare this fall and winter.

Teen-agers have long been addicted to barrettes and bows.

Now women of fashion will be wearing ornaments in their hair for evening.

Pearl necklaces wound through coiffures made an appearnce last spring. The latest hair styles feature back interest that is set off by a cultured pearl ornament.

Charles of the Ritz has designed a hairdo to point up what can be done with that added bit of elegance, a gem or pearl.

The style is pompadour with low, feathery bangs, a flattering coif for daytime wear. At night, with the hair smooth at the back and worn close to the nape of the neck, it provides a perfect setting for a glamourous ornament.

MISS PAMELA HEARNE

Pamela Hearne Engaged To Richard Rousseau

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Pamela Hearne and Richard Rousseau, both students at Northeast Louisiana State College, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McElroy of Rayville. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. C. W. Rousseau, 500 Parkwood Drive, West Monroe and the late Mr. Rousseau.

The wedding is planned for October 25 to be solemnized at 11 a.m. in Our Lady of Fatima church, Monroe. Father Vitus Duschinsky will perform the ceremony.

Miss Hearne has chosen her sister, Miss Becky Hearne as maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Renee Rousseau, sister of the future bridegroom and Miss Sarah Johnston.

Chester Rousseau will attend his brother as best man and serving as ushers will be Terry Martin and Herschel Ryan.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. C. E. Hearne of West Monroe, and is a graduate of West Monroe high school. Mr. Rousseau was graduated from Neville high school, and is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity at Northeast.

Following their marriage the couple will reside in Monroe while continuing studies at Northeast.

Mohair Sweater Hottest Item In Wardrobe

The very hottest sweater to own for fall is in mohair. The fuzzy-surface wool takes first place in both pullovers and jackets, with many a sportive look costume being made up of a tweed skirt and a colorful mohair sweater jacket.

But if mohair is "in" all over this country, it's "out" in the country where it was born, Italy. Italian sweater designers, even ahead of the pack, shrug at mohair, say it has run its course.

Fortunately, avant-garde designers are always two years at least ahead of their public, which naturally takes time to catch on to a new item.

Watch for mohair to move into dresses and two-piece costumes in a big way, particularly in combinations with jersey or flannel. Mohair is too pretty to die a quick death in fashion.

SAUCE FOR GAME

The hunter's prize may need a little embellishment and here's a sauce that will do the job. It's good with game, chicken or duck. To prepare this sauce, mix a 6-ounce can of orange juice concentrate with ¾ cup currant jelly, 1 teaspoon dry mustard and ¼ teaspoon each ginger and Tabasco. Keep the sauce warm over a low burner.

Norell Likes Belts For Costumes

AP Newsfeatures

Despite fickle fashion's shifty attitude recently, belts are a cinch to be around dresses for a long time, if Norman Norell has anything to do with it.

And the dean of American couturier has. His swingy, belted suit from last season's collection became a national uniform in all price ranges. Almost every suit had to have a belt because his did.

This year, although Norell has created an easy, waistless silhouette with a tier of a skirt, he is still belting his suits, to the delight of the Belt Association.

"Some dresses need belts, others do not. This has always been true," Norell wrote to the association's executive director, Herbert Novick. "Belts are always a part of my collection."

These are comforting words to the industry, whatever Norell does others will follow suit. Thus, while the shift, skimmer, chemise, muumuu, and Lillie, may have their day, the waistline is still here to stay.

Pearls In Hair New Fall Trend

Hair won't be bare this fall and winter.

Teen-agers have long been addicted to barrettes and bows.

Now women of fashion will be wearing ornaments in their hair for evening.

Pearl necklaces wound through coiffures made an appearnce last spring. The latest hair styles feature back interest that is set off by a cultured pearl ornament.

Charles of the Ritz has designed a hairdo to point up what can be done with that added bit of elegance, a gem or pearl.

The style is pompadour with low, feathery bangs, a flattering coif for daytime wear. At night, with the hair smooth at the back and worn close to the nape of the neck, it provides a perfect setting for a glamourous ornament.

MISS PAMELA HEARNE

Pamela Hearne Engaged To Richard Rousseau

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Pamela Hearne and Richard Rousseau, both students at Northeast Louisiana State College, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McElroy of Rayville. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. C. W. Rousseau, 500 Parkwood Drive, West Monroe and the late Mr. Rousseau.

The wedding is planned for October 25 to be solemnized at 11 a.m. in Our Lady of Fatima church, Monroe. Father Vitus Duschinsky will perform the ceremony.

Miss Hearne has chosen her sister, Miss Becky Hearne as maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Renee Rousseau, sister of the future bridegroom and Miss Sarah Johnston.

Chester Rousseau will attend his brother as best man and serving as ushers will be Terry Martin and Herschel Ryan.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. C. E. Hearne of West Monroe, and is a graduate of West Monroe high school. Mr. Rousseau was graduated from Neville high school, and is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity at Northeast.

Following their marriage the couple will reside in Monroe while continuing studies at Northeast.

Mohair Sweater Hottest Item In Wardrobe

The very hottest sweater to own for fall is in mohair. The fuzzy-surface wool takes first place in both pullovers and jackets, with many a sportive look costume being made up of a tweed skirt and a colorful mohair sweater jacket.

But if mohair is "in" all over this country, it's "out" in the country where it was born, Italy. Italian sweater designers, even ahead of the pack, shrug at mohair, say it has run its course.

Fortunately, avant-garde designers are always two years at least ahead of their public, which naturally takes time to catch on to a new item.

Watch for mohair to move into dresses and two-piece costumes in a big way, particularly in combinations with jersey or flannel. Mohair is too pretty to die a quick death in fashion.

SAUCE FOR GAME

The hunter's prize may need a little embellishment and here's a sauce that will do the job. It's good with game, chicken or duck. To prepare this sauce, mix a 6-ounce can of orange juice concentrate with ¾ cup currant jelly, 1 teaspoon dry mustard and ¼ teaspoon each ginger and Tabasco. Keep the sauce warm over a low burner.

Lower Heels, Simple Lines Keynote Footwear

Two important style trends in shoes will be catching the interest of shoppers this fall. The first of these is the "sportive" influence, designed to complement the youthful look of casual elegance in fall clothes, especially the new city tweeds. Lower heels and simple lines will set the pace for daytime footwear, with special emphasis on varied and interesting textures and antiqued, or shaded, color treatments. Muted tones, particularly in the full range of browns, will predominate, with a generous showing of bright autumn-leaf reds and coppers. The graceful shape of this new look is derived from tapered, crescent and nipped toes, wider setback and stacked heels, and cutout sides and backs.

The second outstanding trend is toward a dressier look in flats, highlighted by the little-girl influence of T-straps and instep straps. Here again, the cutout look is very important, as is the gently shaped toe, giving a slimmer, more delicate look to fall flats.

The many shades of brown, from nude-beige to mahogany, are favored for back-to-school shoes and casuals, along with always-important black. The full range of materials will be seen in fall casuals, including smooth kid, unlined crushed glove leather, waxhides, suedes, patent and manmade patent-like materials, reptiles and reptile-grained leathers. Heels will range from the lowest skimmers, through cowboy heels, to the new tapered higher-than-flat candy cane shape. The boot style, popular for several seasons, takes on a new look this fall with slimmer shaping and a variety of heights, from ankle-bone to calf-high. Because the new boot shapes will hug the foot and leg for a more flattering line, many are fitted with easy-on elasticized side gores.

Fall dress shoes run the gamut from easy-walking stacked heel softies to the most delicate pumps set on the slimmest high heels. The less-shoe look of open sides and backs gives many fall dress shoe styles a light, airy feeling, well suited to the gay mood of fall fashion. Square and squared-oval throat lines complement crescent and tapered toes. Dress shoes, too, will be available in a wide variety of materials, with reptile and patent looks featured.

Emphasis this fall will be placed on the line of the shoe itself, with ornaments appearing very rarely. Instead, extensive perfing and patch patterns, combining two or more colors, will constitute the principal decoration for smooth - leather and patent shoes. For the most part, reptiles and rough-textured leathers will be left as plain as possible, allowing the texture of the material to come to the fore.

Bicycle Good For Year Round Figure Control

If you spent a pleasant spring and summer in energetic, calorie burning activities, why not plan to continue them through the winter and guarantee your good physical conditioning for another year?

Merely because fall is here, with leaves scampering down the road before the slightest vagrant breeze, is no reason to retire to the living room and await the first faint blushes of spring.

You should plan to be active the year-round. Build your vitality by being active. Sluggish, fatty muscles consume more exygen than a lean, taut, conditioned body. They rob you of energy.

Granted, gardening, tennis, most swimming and host of other activities are not possible in winter. But you can take long walks on regular schedules. Or you can ride a bike. Both are excellent exercise.

However, riding, because it defeats boredom by moving the cyclist, swiftly through a neighborhood, is probably more interesting to most people.

Bike riding is becoming a universal, year-round sport. It is enjoyed by children, collegians, young adults and adults. It is a wonderful conditioner for athletes or the occasional rider. Cycling can be enjoyed at any time during the year, alone or with others, on any reasonable flat surface.

Best of all, and one of the main reasons for its popularity, is that it can be as strenuous or as gentle as the rider likes.

Riding melts fat from arm, calf and thigh muscles and encourages them to take on the contours intended by nature. Deep breathing is encouraged and the stomach and abdominal muscles become flat and firm. Thus the two wheeler becomes an important means of year-round figure control.

The deep breathing oxygenates the blood, sends it coursing joyfully through the veins to consume impurities. The body's 7,000 pores are cleansed as it responds to your demands.

Best of all, since the bike has become a prime means of transportation on the nation's campuses, styles are available to outfit any rider in high fashion garb.

In some areas, women have formed cycling clubs for regular jaunts through the neighborhood. One trailer camp in Florida boasts a cycling club with the average age well into the fifties.

Tandem cycling has become popular among mature couples who enjoy a moderate amount of weekend riding and among young adults who have utilized the popular two-seater as a means of getting to a favorite week-end campsite or recreation area. Demand has picked up to the point where four factories are producing the bike. Two years ago, one was supplying them in mumbers sufficient to meet the demand.

Cycling is one exercise which is heartily approved by health and medical authorities.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, former President Eisenhower's personal heart physician and internationally-known specialist, has said: "Bicycling is an aid to good muscle tone much needed by the American people today. . .Bicycling is one of the best aids to physical fitness and health."

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Cheryl Edmonson to Kenneth E. Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Fowler Jr., of Oak Grove, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Edmonson of Forest. The wedding will be an event of November 1 at 7 p.m. in Forest Baptist Church with Rev. H. G. Hammons officiating.

Lower Heels, Simple Lines Keynote Footwear

Two important style trends in shoes will be catching the interest of shoppers this fall. The first of these is the "sportive" influence, designed to complement the youthful look of casual elegance in fall clothes, especially the new city tweeds. Lower heels and simple lines will set the pace for daytime footwear, with special emphasis on varied and interesting textures and antiqued, or shaded, color treatments. Muted tones, particularly in the full range of browns, will predominate, with a generous showing of bright autumn-leaf reds and coppers. The graceful shape of this new look is derived from tapered, crescent and nipped toes, wider setback and stacked heels, and cutout sides and backs.

The second outstanding trend is toward a dressier look in flats, highlighted by the little-girl influence of T-straps and instep straps. Here again, the cutout look is very important, as is the gently shaped toe, giving a slimmer, more delicate look to fall flats.

The many shades of brown, from nude-beige to mahogany, are favored for back-to-school shoes and casuals, along with always-important black. The full range of materials will be seen in fall casuals, including smooth kid, unlined crushed glove leather, waxhides, suedes, patent and manmade patent-like materials, reptiles and reptile-grained leathers. Heels will range from the lowest skimmers, through cowboy heels, to the new tapered higher-than-flat candy cane shape. The boot style, popular for several seasons, takes on a new look this fall with slimmer shaping and a variety of heights, from ankle-bone to calf-high. Because the new boot shapes will hug the foot and leg for a more flattering line, many are fitted with easy-on elasticized side gores.

Fall dress shoes run the gamut from easy-walking stacked heel softies to the most delicate pumps set on the slimmest high heels. The less-shoe look of open sides and backs gives many fall dress shoe styles a light, airy feeling, well suited to the gay mood of fall fashion. Square and squared-oval throat lines complement crescent and tapered toes. Dress shoes, too, will be available in a wide variety of materials, with reptile and patent looks featured.

Emphasis this fall will be placed on the line of the shoe itself, with ornaments appearing very rarely. Instead, extensive perfing and patch patterns, combining two or more colors, will constitute the principal decoration for smooth - leather and patent shoes. For the most part, reptiles and rough-textured leathers will be left as plain as possible, allowing the texture of the material to come to the fore.

Bicycle Good For Year Round Figure Control

If you spent a pleasant spring and summer in energetic, calorie burning activities, why not plan to continue them through the winter and guarantee your good physical conditioning for another year?

Merely because fall is here, with leaves scampering down the road before the slightest vagrant breeze, is no reason to retire to the living room and await the first faint blushes of spring.

You should plan to be active the year-round. Build your vitality by being active. Sluggish, fatty muscles consume more exygen than a lean, taut, conditioned body. They rob you of energy.

Granted, gardening, tennis, most swimming and host of other activities are not possible in winter. But you can take long walks on regular schedules. Or you can ride a bike. Both are excellent exercise.

However, riding, because it defeats boredom by moving the cyclist, swiftly through a neighborhood, is probably more interesting to most people.

Bike riding is becoming a universal, year-round sport. It is enjoyed by children, collegians, young adults and adults. It is a wonderful conditioner for athletes or the occasional rider. Cycling can be enjoyed at any time during the year, alone or with others, on any reasonable flat surface.

Best of all, and one of the main reasons for its popularity, is that it can be as strenuous or as gentle as the rider likes.

Riding melts fat from arm, calf and thigh muscles and encourages them to take on the contours intended by nature. Deep breathing is encouraged and the stomach and abdominal muscles become flat and firm. Thus the two wheeler becomes an important means of year-round figure control.

The deep breathing oxygenates the blood, sends it coursing joyfully through the veins to consume impurities. The body's 7,000 pores are cleansed as it responds to your demands.

Best of all, since the bike has become a prime means of transportation on the nation's campuses, styles are available to outfit any rider in high fashion garb.

In some areas, women have formed cycling clubs for regular jaunts through the neighborhood. One trailer camp in Florida boasts a cycling club with the average age well into the fifties.

Tandem cycling has become popular among mature couples who enjoy a moderate amount of weekend riding and among young adults who have utilized the popular two-seater as a means of getting to a favorite week-end campsite or recreation area. Demand has picked up to the point where four factories are producing the bike. Two years ago, one was supplying them in mumbers sufficient to meet the demand.

Cycling is one exercise which is heartily approved by health and medical authorities.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, former President Eisenhower's personal heart physician and internationally-known specialist, has said: "Bicycling is an aid to good muscle tone much needed by the American people today. . .Bicycling is one of the best aids to physical fitness and health."

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Cheryl Edmonson to Kenneth E. Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Fowler Jr., of Oak Grove, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Edmonson of Forest. The wedding will be an event of November 1 at 7 p.m. in Forest Baptist Church with Rev. H. G. Hammons officiating.

Ladies Need More Room For Shoulders

Shoulder - to - shoulder women are going to take up more space on this earth next season, says American designer Ed Baynard.

He introduced padded shoulders into his custom designed suits even before Paris did, a fashion trade paper conceded. Furthermore, he expects many other designers to follow suit.

"Padded shoulders have to come in to compensate for a full relaxed, flat hipline . . . a fit that acknowledges a thickened American waistline."

B&PW Club To Observe Business Women's Week

"Responsibility of Full Partnership" is the theme for the 36th National Business Women's Week, October 6 through October 12, which is being observed locally by the Monroe Business and Professional Women's Club. This theme emphasizes the full partnership among men and women in the business and professional world.

Mrs. Mary Boyle, local chairman for National Business Women's Week has announced the agenda scheduled. Inaugurating the week's activities today the club will hold a Sunday breakfast at the Penn Hotel, with Mrs. Elizabeth Burdeaux as chairman of the breakfast committee.

Principal speaker will be Mrs. Helen Agnew, past national president of Quota International and active worker in women's clubs and civic organizations in the city. Mrs. Eula Cato of Gretna, Louisiana Federation president, will be an honored guest at the breakfast, following which the members will attend services at Jesus the Good Shepherd Catholic Church.

On Sunday afternoon many of the members will attend a tea in Shreveport, being given by District 3 of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. Tuesday evening, October 9, representatives from the local club will attend a reception to be given by the Bogalusa B&PW Club, honoring the national president, who will be in Bogalusa while on tour from the Great Lakes to the Gulf.

A banquet will be held by the local club on Thursday evening, October 10 at Bayou DeSiard Country Club at which Miss Ruth Whatley, president of the local club will preside. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Esther Terry of De Ridder, third vice-president for state federation. Banquet committee chairman in Mrs. Rubie McElroy.

In announcing plans for the observance, Mrs. Boyle pointed out there are approximately 24.5 million women in the nation's labor force, which is one-third of the nation's work force. The most spectacular trend in women's recent employment expansion is the increase in women clerical workers from 2½ million in 1940 to almost seven million in 1962. The upward trend in white collar employment is expected to progress fastest in the professional and technical fields. The objective of business and professional women is to help women develop their individual talents to the fullest extent possible.

Women have and are continuing to make great strides forward in Government. Currently in the 88th Congress there are two women in the Senate and 11 in the House. In 1961 there was at least one woman in the Legislature of every state except Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Wisconsin and at present 900 women hold high level appointive position in the state. It is estimated that about 20,000 women serve in such county positions as judge, justice of the peace, county clerk, tax collector, treasurer and superintendent of schools, as well as various municipal posts, including city clerk, city managers and mayors.

She stated that mature women make a decided contribution to the nation's work force. In 1940, women 45 years of age and over equaled just 22 per cent of all women workers and by 1962 their proportion had increased to 39 per cent. Occupations in which a large percentage of the workers are women include retail advertising, fashion promotion, journalism, stenographers, typists, bookkeepers, nurses, medical and other professional health workers, sales workers, managers and operatives in non-durable goods departments.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs received recognition for their efforts through legislation in the signing of the Equal Pay Law in June of this year, by President Kennedy.

There are 170,000 members in 3,555 local Business and Professional Women's clubs under 53 state Federations, including all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Business and Professional Women's Clubs stem from the National Business Women's Committee which was established in 1918 by the War Work Council of the YWCA. In 1919 the National Business Women's Committee recommended that state federations be established and a national convention was held in Missouri at which the National Federation of B&P W clubs was established.

The first observance of National Business Women's Week was in April, 1928 and since that date has become nation-wide. During the week the President of the United States, governors, mayors and other municipal officials and business leaders acknowledge the achievements and contributions of business and professional women by issuing proclamations, arranging window displays and participating in special events sponsored by state federations and local clubs.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Janet Leigh, as usual, came up with some interesting ideas the other day! She said, "People change their personality with the years and their surroundings should change with them, even if it is just a few added lamps or ash trays every few years. But take time when you are redecorating."

Miss Leigh enjoys using her own decorating talent without the help of a professional. She starts with walls and carpets in neutral beige, "because I can use striking prints and unusual pieces without danger of overdoing." One of her successful ideas was an old carved Victorian chair which Hedda Hopper was about to throw out. Miss Leigh rescued it, painted it an antique white and used beige upholstery, thus producing a charming and comfortable conversation piece. The red brick from her fireplace was salvaged from an old courthouse while her highly polished dining table of fine Douglas fir was made from beams carted from a demolished warehouse.

Janet Leigh's first house was formal modern. She wanted a change, but didn't know what until she saw and fell in love with an interior set designed for her film "Wives and Lovers." She said, "The set has a warm, open comfortable feeling, with walls of reddish brick and redwood siding, and big plumpy sofas. I copied it almost exaclty."

It's a novel idea to get decorating ideas from a movie set but Miss Leigh says that it is an excellent one. She continued, "Set designers are excellent decorators and their brains can be picked for the price of a movie."

It certainly is true that we all require some change in pace and in scenery if we are to remain youthful in our outlook. Well-loved furniture and habits are fine, but they should be punctuated with new items and new interests.

When it comes to clothes, Miss Leigh believes that money goes much further with simplicty and basic colors. She recalls a dress she bought when she was a struggling starlet in Hollywood. She said, "I had little money and I spent it all on a magnificent crimson cocktail dress. By

Janet Leigh's first house was formal modern. She wanted a change, but didn't know what until she saw and fell in love with an interior set designed for her film "Wives and Lovers." She said, "The set has a warm, open comfortable feeling, with walls of reddish brick and redwood siding, and big plumpy sofas. I copied it almost exaclty."

It's a novel idea to get decorating ideas from a movie set but Miss Leigh says that it is an excellent one. She continued, "Set designers are excellent decorators and their brains can be picked for the price of a movie."

It certainly is true that we all require some change in pace and in scenery if we are to remain youthful in our outlook. Well-loved furniture and habits are fine, but they should be punctuated with new items and new interests.

When it comes to clothes, Miss Leigh believes that money goes much further with simplicty and basic colors. She recalls a dress she bought when she was a struggling starlet in Hollywood. She said, "I had little money and I spent it all on a magnificent crimson cocktail dress. By

YOUR PROBLEMS

Going Steady At 14 Is Unwise, Unhealthy

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 14-year-old girl, and a little nutty. If you can explain why I am like I am, I'll be grateful forever.

I'm going steady with the best-looking kid in the school. Freddie has everything a girl could possibly want. He's smart, handsome, popular and he has flipped over me. But the problem is my crazy feelings.

Sometimes when we are together I am bored and wish he would go home. After he leaves I miss him like crazy and I wish he'd come back.

Last week we were at a flea-hop (that's a dance) and there were two fellows there that looked good to me. I kept wishing I wasn't going steady with Freddie. When I saw Freddie dancing with another girl, and holding her close, I almost jumped out of my skin.

Why am I hot and cold, low and high? Do you think I'm mentally ill? BRENDA

Dear Brenda: The high-low, hot-cold routine means you have not yet matured emotionally.

At 14 you should not be going steady with anyone — no matter how dreamy. It's unwise and unhealthy for a girl your age to have a heavy emotional investment in any one fellow.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I bought a home near the high school because we have three children of high school age and I was sick and tired of driving kids back and forth. Unfortunately, the house has two extra bedrooms.

Now it seems my husband's sister wishes to unload her high school girl on us because they live on the other side of town and the bus line does not run within seven blocks of them. In addition to this, my own brother wants us to keep his two sons (weekdays only, he said) because we live near school and his wife must have an operation which will put her off her feet for three months.

Bluntly speaking, my own three teenagers are more than I can handle and I don't want the responsibility of three more. My husband says it's up to me. My mother warns if I refuse I'll be branded by the family as selfish and mean. Help, please. —ON THE SPOT

Dear Sport: Rooming and boarding high school children is an enormous responsibility, not to mention the additonal work.

If you do not want to do it, be as blunt with them as you were with me and say no. This makes more sense than knuckling under for fear of what the relatives will say or think.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter in your column today from the mother in a T. B. hospital. Since I have lived through the experience I wanted to let her know how my case turned out.

My boys were 7 and 9 years of age. My husband had his own trucking business and was away from home a great deal. When the doctor told me I would have to be hospitalized for several months I didn't see how we could manage. We could only obtain part-time help and most of that proved inefficient. However, it is amazing how self-sufficient children can be when put to the test.

I returned home well and happy after 10 months. Three years later we had a baby girl. I rejoice that I stayed away from my family for 10 months and did not risk infecting them. Incidentally, the boys learned to do a great many things for themselves and will be better husbands because of it. —MRS. O. A. P.

Dear Mrs. P.: Many thanks for your fine letter. I appreciate your taking the time to share your experience with us.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of Monroe Morning World enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Northeast Graduates Exchange Wedding Vows

Pedestal baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums formed a setting for the wedding of Miss Martha Ann Brown and Edward Gibbs Tisdale II, both graduates of Northeast Louisiana State College, which was solemnized in the Rayville Presbyterian Church. Pews were marked with clusters of English ivy, orange blossoms and white satin bows, to complete the scene.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dent Frasier Brown of Rayville and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gibbs Tisdale of Camden, Ark., formerly of Bastrop.

Rev. Archie B. Faries performed the double ring ceremony on September 20 at 4 p.m. following a program of nuptial music by Mrs. F. L. Greaves Jr.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a Patrician blue wool suit with grey mink collar and matching hat of grey mink. She carried a bouquet of white cymbidium orchids and stephanotis atop a white Bible with ropes of pearls.

Mrs. Richard Perry Cate of Houston, Texas, who served as matron of honor, wore a gold knit suit with French ribbon knit jacket, complemented by a matching feather hat. Her bouquet was a French nosegay of bronze chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man was Phillip Carpenter of Bastrop and ushers were F. L. Greaves Jr., Guy Parker, of Mer Rouge.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Brown was wearing a green suit with matching accessories and a corsage of green chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother chose a teal blue dress with a corsage of blue carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, where arrangements of pink Tiffany roses were used throughout. White roses and white dahlias combined with white tapers were used in a silver epergne as a centerpiece for the bride's table. Miss Ola Cooper and Mrs. Robert W. Taylor served the wedding cake and Mrs. W. A. Cooper and Mrs. Mark H. Brown of Monroe, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. H. B. Harrigill was at the bride's book and others assisting were Mrs. F. L. Greaves and Mrs. M. E. Cooper.

The couple left later for a wedding trip to Hot Springs.

Mr. Tisdale will leave in the near future for officers training school at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, where his bride will join him later. Mrs. Tisdale, a member of Chi Omega sorority, attended Centenary College, Shreveport and was graduated from Northeast Louisiana State College. The bridegroom is also a graduate of Northeast, where he received his bachelor of arts degree in commercial art.

On the evening preceding the wedding a rehearsal dinner was given for the couple in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Frank L. Greaves Sr., with other aunts as co-hostesses. They are Mrs. Wesley Taylor, Miss Ola Cooper, Mrs. W. A. Cooper and Mrs. Edward Cooper.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD GIBBS TISDALE II

Smooth, Small Coiffures Are 'In' For Fall

Smooth, small hairstyles are with us again. Teasing is passe'; the natural look "in." The new trend in hairstyles is an outgrowth of this year's emphasis on simplicity in fashion.

Part of fashion's "Total New Look," for Fall, the newest in coiffures call for an "elegant sportive look," an over-all picture that asks to be labeled "thoroughbred."

In keeping with the quietly elegant look the coif is smoothly swept back from the forehead and lifted at the crown, the hairdo gives the impression of an elongated oval. Perfect symmetry is achieved by width through the temples tapering into head-hugging waves at the ears. Thus, though the "head-on" view is one of width, the silhouette with its deep waves which hug the edge of the hairline forms the "small head" look, so popular this year.

Dieters Tire Of Barbs From Jeering Section

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—The plump of the land get plumb tired of the jeering section when on a diet.

Samples of verbal oddments the fat of the land tire of hearing while trying to shed the spare tire via monitoring what goes into the mouth:

—You're not that fat. Here, have another jelly dough-nut.

—Didn't your doctor tell you? Some people are just naturally robust — and look better a bit overweight.

—It won't hurt to cheat a bit on that dismal diet the doctor gave you. Here, have some mashed potatoes — with gravy. Why I'll bet he even feeds his parakeets mashed potatoes and look how thin they stay.

—That diet the doctor gave you is all wrong. Too much suffering in it. Why I once knew a woman who lost 20 pounds in two weeks and she wasn't even on a medically prescribed diet. She had something wrong with her stomach and couldn't eat for two weeks.

—Now stop torturing yourself. Look in the mirror. What's the difference, as the eye sees it, between the way you look in a size 16 and the way you look in a size 14? Just a little blubber—which you conceal with the extra folds of the 16. To the onlookers who don't know about your blubber, you look perfectly presentable. Stop trying to get down to a 14.

—Are you sure your doctors knows what he's doing? I've never heard of a diet like that.

—Fat people are jolly. Why do you want to lose weight and risk the chance of becoming a sour-puss?

—Oh, come on, eat up. Haven't you heard about that new diet? You stay on a diet for three days and on the fourth day you eat anything and everything you can! Consider this the fourth day.

—So you've been on this diet for five days and you've gained? It just goes to prove. Some people are meant to be fat.

—Look. Life's this way. Some are fat. Some are lean. If you don't have friends who like you fat, how can you expect to have friends who will stick with you through the lean? Be sensible.

Killed Cousin

—Oh? You're taking that new melt-the-fat compound? You know that second cousin of mine we buried last week? She was on that for four weeks.

—The doctor's allowing you 1,000 calories a day? Doesn't he know the latest thing is starvation diets — under medical supervision, of course.

—Come on. Forget you're on a diet. Have just one more piece of pie. No one will know only the scale will notice.

—Eat tonight and starve all next week. Here, have another piece of cheesecake.

—Are you sure you want another ice tea? It's your sixth, you know — and we have plenty of cocktails.

Young Set Goes Shifty

Reports from all over the country indicate that the youngest fashionables have gone shifty. Fashion cameras stationed at schools in various sections showed that the full skirt has all but vanished.

Jumpers, two-piece shifts and knit jacket costumes are very much in for small feminine fry. Plaids are popular, especially when they're big and colorful. Sweaters and skirts, once considered classics, are high fashion this season.

Most avant-garde of young fashions is the mock jumper tent dress, in plaid with black knit turtle-neck and long sleeves. Wrap skirts replace more traditional pleat styles.

The younger set has gone sportive, glad to feel so comfortable in easy and loose fashions.

Suits Leading Varied Life In Autumn Fashion

Suits move into many realms this fall, as they are designed for sportswear, afternoon, cocktail and even formal evening wear, reflecting the many, varied activities of today's woman. They range from the country look in deep-textured tweeds to long-skirted evening suits in sumptuous, new crinkled, blistered or carved fabrics.

Designed in wool coating for all-winter comfort sans coat, in featherweight worsteds for early autumn and later, under cover, suits are multi-purpose in function, limitless in styling, notes the National Board of the Coat and Suit industry.

New suits are ingeniously shaped for the skimming look, the easy elegance depending on two factors — careful structure beneath and seam treatments which also give fashion a new dimension.

Costume suits are important than ever in new fashion schemes. A jerkin or sleeveless "woolover" appears under a wool suit, a cape-jacket with slim skirt or dress. For afternoon opulence, two weights of royal blue mohair are used in one ensemble, lightweight for the skimming dress, heavier weight for the full-length coat.

Emphasis is on high-rising lines for young flattery, more restrained, however, than the empire line of seasons back. Interest is mainly focused in front, while backs may be free-flowing or straight and eased. Skirts are slim and graceful.

Jackets tend to be longer and are either single or double-breasted. For those who feel that their figures look best in shorter lengths, there is a good selection of hip-level models.

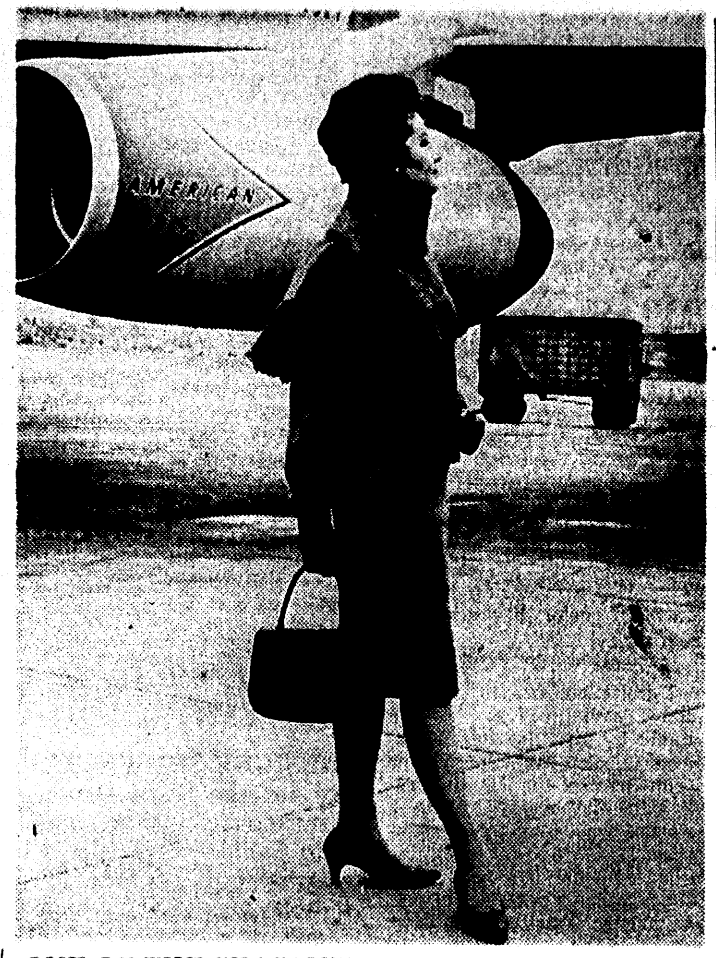
From the truly sportive down to the leather patches on a hacking jacket to the special occasion suits in handsome ribbed worsteds, there are fashions for every taste.

Fur trim is in evidence, too. Women can take their pick of mink in many luscious tones — light and luminous to rich dark ranch mink. Beaver and nutria in natural or black, leopard and civet cat, fox and lynx, elegant sable provide suit flattery. Practical and luxurious are the new detachable boas, a Dietrich-like one in Canadian silver fox.

Sleeves come down to meet once-exposed wrists. Shoulders, although slightly wider, are natural and soft, generally raglan. Jackets have interesting vents, newsy tabs, cape treatments — and buttons, buttons, buttons, bold and far from diminutive in every shape under an autumn sky.

Fabrics are newly textured and surface interest abounds. Mohair loops and lush mohair tweeds often show brilliant contrasts. Flannels make a come-back, as do meltons, rich and smooth. Bubble cloth is foamy light and warm. Checks from miniature to magnum pattern many fabrics.

Reds are first in the color scheme, followed closely by wood tones, topaz, and camel tones to jet brown. Gay and heady are the blues, from teal to royal and light, bright navy. Goldenrods and greens are in the spectrum.



ONE OF THE SEASON'S outstanding suits for travel and multiple-occasion wear, this Zelinka-Matlick original illustrates a whole covey of trends for '63. Wide straight-cut stole, richly fringed with wool yarn, 'fisherman sleeves', seam detail etched deep into the fabric, all are salient details in the style scene this Fall. Suit color is vibrant, fashion-favored "cranberry red," in monotone tweed of finest American wool.

14 Karat Vegetables For Wearing

Ladies too rich to do their own marketing are nevertheless now shopping for vegetables with the shrewdness of a careful housewife — but in jewelry and department stores.

The celery, asparagus, artichokes, mushrooms and cocktail onions are all 14 Karat, guaranteed to survive without refrigerations and impossible to eat.

These are gold pins created by Arthur Doucette, young assistant to fashion designer Bill Blass, to be worn with the sportive elegance of today's daytime clothes.

With a Florentine finish, each costs enough to buy a week's groceries for a family of eight.

Eyesores Can Be Corrected With Thought

There's a little bit of Mr. Blanding — that man who built the dream house that was a disaster right from the ground up — in everybody's home. But for most home owners, construction problems are few and often easy to correct — an ugly radiator, an irregular floor, high ceiling, narrow windows.

Alice D. Kenny, decorator for the model homes of Levitt communities, offers advice on how to improve interiors in several areas.

1. The ugly radiator. Build a wooden cover with an open front. Have separate units of the same height and depth on either side to give a good line to the wall. To make them less obtrusive, paint the units to match the color of the wall.

2. The too-high ceiling. Break the height of a room with paneling, wallpaper or even two colors of paint, making a deep cornice of a contrasting color around the top of the room.

3. The too-low ceiling. Strive for vertical lines to give the illusion of height. Use striped wallpaper or draperies, and hang draperies from the ceiling rather than the window line.

Three pictures hung one above the other will lead the eye upward. Avoid squatty furniture.

Dieters Tire Of Barbs From Jeering Section

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—The plump of the land get plumb tired of the jeering section when on a diet.

Samples of verbal oddments the fat of the land tire of hearing while trying to shed the spare tire via monitoring what goes into the mouth:

—You're not that fat. Here, have another jelly dough-nut.

—Didn't your doctor tell you? Some people are just naturally robust — and look better a bit overweight.

—It won't hurt to cheat a bit on that dismal diet the doctor gave you. Here, have some mashed potatoes — with gravy. Why I'll bet he even feeds his parakeets mashed potatoes and look how thin they stay.

—That diet the doctor gave you is all wrong. Too much suffering in it. Why I once knew a woman who lost 20 pounds in two weeks and she wasn't even on a medically prescribed diet. She had something wrong with her stomach and couldn't eat for two weeks.

—Now stop torturing yourself. Look in the mirror. What's the difference, as the eye sees it, between the way you look in a size 16 and the way you look in a size 14? Just a little blubber which you conceal with the extra folds of the 16. To the onlookers who don't know about your blubber, you look perfectly presentable. Stop trying to get down to a 14.

—Are you sure your doctors knows what he's doing? I've never heard of a diet like that.

—Fat people are jolly. Why do you want to lose weight and risk the chance of becoming a sourpuss?

—Oh, come on, eat up. Haven't you heard about that new diet? You stay on a diet for three days and on the fourth day you eat anything and everything you can! Consider this the fourth day.

—So you've been on this diet for five days and you've gained? It just goes to prove. Some people are meant to be fat.

—Look. Life's this way. Some are fat. Some are lean. If you don't have friends who like you fat, how can you expect to have friends who will stick with you through the lean? Be sensible.

Killed Cousin

—Oh? You're taking that new melt-the-fat compound? You know that second cousin of mine we buried last week? She was on that for four weeks.

—The doctor's allowing you 1,000 calories a day? Doesn't he know the latest thing is starvation diets — under medical supervision, of course.

—Come on. Forget you're on a diet. Have just one more piece of pie. No one will know only the scale will notice.

—Eat tonight and starve all next week. Here, have another piece of cheesecake.

—Are you sure you want another ice tea? It's your sixth, you know — and we have plenty of cocktails.

—Be a good sport. Forget the diet tonight. Eat, drink and be merry. Tomorrow you can resume the diet, if you really abhor being fat.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Floral Motifs Are Unusual

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Collinston Garden Club members displayed an unusual array of floral designs on the T. V. and Fifth District Garden Center program last Wednesday. Mrs. Jerd Savage, the club's president, with seven other members, made 11 arrangements — all showing expert workmanship — using a large assortment of flowers from their gardens. The designs were all very different — from dried materials, as the one made by Mrs. Margaret Langston and Mrs. Paulette McCain to the tea table design by Mrs. Alton Norsworthy.

Flower arrangements suitable for any place in the home could be found in this fabulous display. One that should be described is the church design by Mrs. Irene Norsworthy. This was a symmetrical massed triangle line featuring light cerese dahlias for the overall line in a tall white compote. Large-leafed dusty miller and leather fern were used as a filler throughout. It was just beautiful to look at.

PETRIFIED PINE

Another unusual and interesting design was the one made by Mrs. Jerd Savage using a large petrified pine knot for the interest accent. Curving dried dock followed the swirling lines of the pine knot and gave height. For color she used a line of large golden marigolds within this line. The pine knot was placed on a large rock base which blended in color perfectly.

Several of the designs contained the colorful castor bean leaves and the red seed clusters. One made by Mrs. Irene Norsworthy contained small aspidestra leaves for line in a brown salad bowl. The red castor beans filled in this line. Three large croton leaves accented these on one side. The whole design was placed on an attractive burl wood base. It would be ideal for the coffee table.

Mrs. Maud Pyron used eucalyptus branchse to form the Hogarth line in her design. Within this line the light yellow dahlias were placed, from small to large ones in the central part of the design. The container for these materials was a light grey-green pitcher.

One of the most unusual designs was the one made by Mrs. Rayford Harkness. She used the new growth of the palmetto which is a pale yellow-green. This was placed in a grey pottery driftwood container in tiered fashion. Eucalyptus and baby ivy were used to finish the triangle design. Within this established line she used deep red dahlias accented with dusty miller. This was a pleasing conplementary color harmony.

ASYMMETRICAL DESIGN

I must not fail to mention the asymmetrical design made by Mrs. Rayford Harkness also, using the yellow crotelaria (of the legume family) for the overall line in a square wooden compote container. Vivid red dahlias filled in this line creating a stricking and beautiful effect. Aspidestra leaves were used as background filler also, to accent the larger dahlias in the focal area she used the colorful Joseph's coat as a filler.

Most of these lovely designs were left at the center for display the rest of the week. Hope you came by the Center in Sears to see them. Some of them may be seen in today's paper.

We are very proud of the Collinston Garden Club for making these excellent and beautiful designs for the program. The thing that is so unusual about this club is that it is brand new. Just think what they will do in years to come. This show reminds me of the last sentence in John Taylor Arms' book, "Design in Flower Arrangement," when he wrote, "So feel beauty, think beauty, express beauty, that the world may become a better place in which to live."

These ladies have certainly expressed great beauty. They just couldn't do it without first feeling the beauty of the flowers that they have grown.

ARRANGEMENTS

College Height's Garden Club of Monroe, will feature arrangements on next Wednesday's T.V. and Fifth District Garden Center Program.

Have you made your plans to go to the Louisiana Delta Fair in Tallulah, Oct. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18? Of especial interest to the garden clubbers will be the Flower Show, "Flower Arrangements Attune to Our Times." Also, specimen zinnias will be featured — horticulture and design displays. Pot plants and corsages, cockscomb and miscellaneous flowers will be on display in the Woman's Flower Division.

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: I have a project coming up which involves the use of concrete blocks. Can you tell me something about them? I have never used them before.

ANSWER: We could have been more specific if you had told us what the project is. We'll assume you are talking about the common type of concrete blocks — the lightweight or standard wall blocks with two or three cores and with 8, 10 or 12-inch nominal widths. Be sure to use them while they are dry, since wet blocks will shrink later and possibly ruin the joints.

In making the mortar for the joints, be sure not to use so much water that the mixture runs easily. This is true whether you make the entire mixture yourself or buy one of the ready-mixes to which only water must be added. For a home-made mix, use 2½ parts of sand to one of portland cement. As you proceed with your job, check each block with a level. Don't rely on your eyesight. Another part of the job which should be done as you go along is to wipe off any mortar which falls on the face of the block.

Remember that there are many different kinds of concrete blocks on the market, so if you are looking for some special effect, ask to see some of the types other than the standard wall blocks.

Camellia Growing Is Fascinating

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles prepared by members of the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club to aid others in growing and displaying the flowers.)

Growing Camellias from seed is a fascinating hobby. Most seed pods ripen during the summer, usually in August and September in this area. There are from one to 10 seeds in each pod, with an average of three to five. Pick pods just as they begin to crack open, or the seeds will drop and be lost in the mulch.

Seeds should be planted as quickly after harvesting as possible. Under no circumstances should they be allowed to dry out, or the percentage of germination will be greatly decreased.

PREPARATION

If one has many seed he may plant them in outdoor beds located in semi-shade. The soil is pulverized and peat added. Trenches are made about a foot apart. The seeds are planted an inch deep and three inches apart and covered with fine soil and a thin mulch of leaves or pine straw. Germination takes place generally in four to eight weeks.

Later these are transplanted in a protected place. When the seedlings are four to five inches tall they should be transplanted to a shaded place and the tap root cut back one third to one half its length. These seedlings should be given special care until they are large enough to withstand full sun. Seedlings may also be grown in gallon cans, or pots for two years or more. The time of first flowering is quite variable, usually ranging from four to many years. Seedlings may often be found growing under a parent plant. These should be removed and given care mentioned above.

PREFERENCE

Some prefer to plant seeds in seed flats placed in a protected place. A seed flat containing vermiculite is excellent. A mixture of half sand and half peat moss may be used. The seed should be planted one half to one inch in depth. Germination usually occurs from 30 to 100 days after planting. When the seedlings are four to five inches tall they should be removed from the seedbed and given care mentioned above.

The germination process can be shortened in the following manner. When the seeds are released from the corky pod they are encased in a hard shell. Tap the shell gently with a hammer — just enough to crack it. Place the seeds in a large-mouthed jar filled with damp sphagnum moss which has had all excess moisture squeezed from it. Put a tight lid on the jar and leave it in a warm place (65 to 75 degrees) with reflected light. The top of the water heater is a good spot.

Watch the sides of the jar for signs of germination. A tiny radicle will first be seen coming through the seed coat. This later becomes the tap root. When this root is approximately an inch long remove from the jar, pinch it slightly, and plant with root end down in a can, pot, or flat, containing a mixture of equal parts sand, peat, and loam. Just barely cover the seed. Pinching the tap root encourages lateral roots to form. It takes seedlings from three to seven years to bloom. If allowed to become potbound in cans they usually will bloom sooner than if planted in open ground.

EXTENSION NOTES

Don't Burn Fall Leaves

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Don't burn those autumn leaves. They're just the thing for a compost pile. Homeowners throw away valuable materials that could be saved for use in improving their soil.

Leaves, grass clippings, old tomato plants, bean vines, even weeds can be turned into fertilizer for next summer's gardens. Such materials, after they have wintered in compost, make excellent organic matter.

Compost, spread around trees and shrubs and worked into the soil in flower and vegetable gardens makes the earth rich and porous. It loosens the ground so that roots can develop naturally, and air, moisture and plant food can penetrate easily.

Here's how to go about making a compost pile.

SELECT A SPOT

Select a spot at the back of your lot, yet within reach of your garden hose. Use ordinary wire fencing or boards to enclose an area three to eight feet high and three to five feet square. Dump leaves, lawn clippings, and garden trash into the bin in layers 6 to 12 inches thick. To each layer add some commercial fertilizer (whatever you use on your lawn) and ½ layer of soil.

Moisten the leaves as they are added. Keep building up the pile as you accumulate material. Top with one to two inches of garden soil. Keep the compost pile damp and by May or June last year's leftovers will be ready to perform springtime magic in your yard and garden, according to soil specialist in our U. S. Department of Agriculture.

If your daughter, Mrs. Homemaker, comes home from school with grass stains on that new school dress, don't be alarmed. Most grass stains can be removed from washable fabrics if they are treated at once and the treatment is suited to the fabric.

Remove stains from colorfast and white fabrics by rubbing them with a mild synthetic detergent. Then rinse and wash the stained area. If the stain is not removed on white cottons or linens, the spot may be removed by bleaching.

TEST SAMPLE

If the garment is non washable, alcohol may be used if it does not affect the color. Test an inside sample to make sure the color is fast.

Whenever you spill fruit juice on a table cloth or on your clothing, it's a good idea to sponge with cool water before you forget the location of the spot. Some fruit juices, citrus among them, are invisible after they dry. But later they will turn yellow with age or with heating. This yellow stain may be difficult to remove. Fresh fruit stains can often be removed from fabrics by sponging or soaking in cool water or by working a detergent into the stain.

Color, Light Are Teamed In Motifs

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Outside as foliage fades, our first impulse is to preserve somehow the colors around us.

It is the signal that sets us off in fall to do something about livening up our homes.

But before we dash out and buy a bucket of paint or a bolt of fabric or rolls of wallpaper in the azure blue of the summer sea or lush green of the country mountainside, we must take a good long look at our home, and decide whether we are on the right track or just merely sentimental.

Some thought to keep in mind in connection with the purchase of color were expressed by speakers in a recent day-long symposium conducted by the Home Fashions League in New York.

TEAMED

A lighting expert stressed that colors and light go hand in hand, and that color can give completely different values under different kinds of light. If you buy color under a fluorescent light or yellow light and have rosy-hued light in your home, you'll have a different color under your home light than you did when you made your purchase. Test a swatch of the fabric or paint before making a definite decision.

It was emphasized too that Color is timeless and in the point of newness, there is really no such thing as a fresh color. What gives color a right to be called fresh is the unexpected use of it, in the opinion of one expert.

Sasanquas In Bloom

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The first of the sasanquas bloomed a week or so ago, ushering in the long autumn season of these delightful flowering shrubs. With the cold winters which seem to be in store for us at least for some time to come, the sasanquas will probably become more and more popular. They begin in late summer and bloom right on into cold weather.

Sasanquas are very "bud hardy" to the cold. It is remarkable how they continue to flower as the weather gets colder and colder toward Christmas. Japanese books on camellias reveal the fact that special "winter" or "snow" camellias have been prized for many years in those islands.

IN NEW ORLEANS

It is a little strange that we Southerners did not cultivate Camellia sasanqua as a popular flower long before we did, because it is so eminently suited to our long, glorious autumns of sunshine and clear skies. When your columnist showed cut specimens at a lecture to the New Orleans Gardening Society back in the thirties, members of the Society asked where sasanquas might be obtained for planting in Audubon Park.

A year or so later, when I returned to lecture to the Society, the members had filled my hotel room with these beautiful flowers. They had fallen all over the floor and made a flower garden in the St. Charles. Large specimens had been planted in the park and were a glorious sight to behold.

Through breeding, we shall eventually have sasanquas that do not shed their petals quite so fast as the ones we now grow, but we should not complain about a plant which produces such an avalanche of blossoms.

FOUND PLACE

Of course, some japonica fanciers still do not think much of sasanquas, but these autumn flowers have found a place in our gardens and landscapes. We have discovered their many virtues besides their earliness. Sasanquas can be cut back mercilessly into almost any shape one wants — and repeatedly. They come in all shapes from fat to thin, from tall to low. They are suitable for hedges or as freestanding pieces. They grow easily from seed.

Sasanquas were described and drawn for us by the brilliant Dr. Engelbertus Kaempfer when he visited Japan in 1699. He drew and described the japonicas, the azaleas, the Japanese flowering quinces, chrysanthemums, cherries, red spider - lilies — in fact all the Japanese flowers. He also drew and gave a complete account of the Japanese tea ceremonies. He was the first man to assert that Japan was a group of islands and not an isthmus.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Floral Motifs Are Unusual

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Collinston Garden Club members displayed an unusual array of floral designs on the T. V. and Fifth District Garden Center program last Wednesday. Mrs. Jerd Savage, the club's president, with seven other members, made 11 arrangements — all showing expert workmanship — using a large assortment of flowers from their gardens. The designs were all very different — from dried materials, as the one made by Mrs. Margaret Langston and Mrs. Paulette McCain to the tea table design by Mrs. Alton Norsworthy.

Flower arrangements suitable for any place in the home could be found in this fabulous display. One that should be described is the church design by Mrs. Irene Norsworthy. This was a symmetrical massed triangle line featuring light cerese dahlias for the overall line in a tall white compote. Large-leafed dusty miller and leather fern were used as a filler throughout. It was just beautiful to look at.

PETRIFIED PINE

Another unusual and interesting design was the one made by Mrs. Jerd Savage using a large petrified pine knot for the interest accent. Curving dried dock followed the swirling lines of the pine knot and gave height. For color she used a line of large golden marigolds within this line. The pine knot was placed on a large rock base which blended in color perfectly.

Several of the designs contained the colorful castor bean leaves and the red seed clusters. One made by Mrs. Irene Norsworthy contained small aspidestra leaves for line in a brown salad bowl. The red castor beans filled in this line. Three large croton leaves accented these on one side. The whole design was placed on an attractive burl wood base. It would be ideal for the coffee table.

Mrs. Maud Pyron used eucalyptus branchse to form the Hogarth line in her design. Within this line the light yellow dahlias were placed, from small to large ones in the central part of the design. The container for these materials was a light grey-green pitcher.

One of the most unusual designs was the one made by Mrs. Rayford Harkness. She used the new growth of the palmetto which is a pale yellow-green. This was placed in a grey pottery driftwood container in tiered fashion. Eucalyptus and baby ivy were used to finish the triangle design. Within this established line she used deep red dahlias accented with dusty miller. This was a pleasing conplementary color harmony.

ASYMMETRICAL DESIGN

I must not fail to mention the asymmetrical design made by Mrs. Rayford Harkness also, using the yellow crotelaria (of the legume family) for the overall line in a square wooden compote container. Vivid red dahlias filled in this line creating a stricking and beautiful effect. Aspidestra leaves were used as background filler also, to accent the larger dahlias in the focal area she used the colorful Joseph's coat as a filler.

Most of these lovely designs were left at the center for display the rest of the week. Hope you came by the Center in Sears to see them. Some of them may be seen in today's paper.

We are very proud of the Collinston Garden Club for making these excellent and beautiful designs for the program. The thing that is so unusual about this club is that it is brand new. Just think what they will do in years to come. This show reminds me of the last sentence in John Taylor Arms' book, "Design in Flower Arrangement," when he wrote, "So feel beauty, think beauty, express beauty, that the world may become a better place in which to live."

These ladies have certainly expressed great beauty. They just couldn't do it without first feeling the beauty of the flowers that they have grown.

ARRANGEMENTS

College Height's Garden Club of Monroe, will feature arrangements on next Wednesday's T.V. and Fifth District Garden Center Program.

Have you made your plans to go to the Louisiana Delta Fair in Tallulah, Oct. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18? Of especial interest to the garden clubbers will be the Flower Show, "Flower Arrangements Attune to Our Times." Also, specimen zinnias will be featured — horticulture and design displays. Pot plants and corsages, cockscomb and miscellaneous flowers will be on display in the Woman's Flower Division.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles prepared by members of the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club to aid others in growing and displaying the flowers.)

Growing Camellias from seed is a fascinating hobby. Most seed pods ripen during the summer, usually in August and September in this area. There are from one to 10 seeds in each pod, with an average of three to five. Pick pods just as they begin to crack open, or the seeds will drop and be lost in the mulch.

Seeds should be planted as quickly after harvesting as possible. Under no circumstances should they be allowed to dry out, or the percentage of germination will be greatly decreased.

PREPARATION

If one has many seed he may plant them in outdoor beds located in semi-shade. The soil is pulverized and peat added. Trenches are made about a foot apart. The seeds are planted an inch deep and three inches apart and covered with fine soil and a thin mulch of leaves or pine straw. Germination takes place generally in four to eight weeks.

Later these are transplanted in a protected place. When the seedlings are four to five inches tall they should be transplanted to a shaded place and the tap root cut back one third to one half its length. These seedlings should be given special care until they are large enough to withstand full sun. Seedlings may also be grown in gallon cans, or pots for two years or more. The time of first flowering is quite variable, usually ranging from four to many years. Seedlings may often be found growing under a parent plant. These should be removed and given care mentioned above.

PREFERENCE

Some prefer to plant seeds in seed flats placed in a protected place. A seed flat containing vermiculite is excellent. A mixture of half sand and half peat moss may be used. The seed should be planted one half to one inch in depth. Germination usually occurs from 30 to 100 days after planting. When the seedlings are four to five inches tall they should be removed from the seedbed and given care mentioned above.

The germination process can be shortened in the following manner. When the seeds are released from the corky pod they are encased in a hard shell. Tap the shell gently with a hammer — just enough to crack it. Place the seeds in a large-mouthed jar filled with damp sphagnum moss which has had all excess moisture squeezed from it. Put a tight lid on the jar and leave it in a warm place (65 to 75 degrees) with reflected light. The top of the water heater is a good spot.

Watch the sides of the jar for signs of germination. A tiny radicle will first be seen coming through the seed coat. This later becomes the tap root. When this root is approximately an inch long remove from the jar, pinch it slightly, and plant with root end down in a can, pot, or flat, containing a mixture of equal parts sand, peat, and loam. Just barely cover the seed. Pinching the tap root encourages lateral roots to form. It takes seedlings from three to seven years to bloom. If allowed to become potbound in cans they usually will bloom sooner than if planted in open ground.

EXTENSION NOTES

Don't Burn Fall Leaves

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Don't burn those autumn leaves. They're just the thing for a compost pile. Homeowners throw away valuable materials that could be saved for use in improving their soil.

Leaves, grass clippings, old tomato plants, bean vines, even weeds can be turned into fertilizer for next summer's gardens. Such materials, after they have wintered in compost, make excellent organic matter.

Compost, spread around trees and shrubs and worked into the soil in flower and vegetable gardens makes the earth rich and porous. It loosens the ground so that roots can develop naturally, and air, moisture and plant food can penetrate easily.

Here's how to go about making a compost pile.

SELECT A SPOT

Select a spot at the back of your lot, yet within reach of your garden hose. Use ordinary wire fencing or boards to enclose an area three to eight feet high and three to five feet square. Dump leaves, lawn clippings, and garden trash into the bin in layers 6 to 12 inches thick. To each layer add some commercial fertilizer (whatever you use on your lawn) and ½ layer of soil.

Moisten the leaves as they are added. Keep building up the pile as you accumulate material. Top with one to two inches of garden soil. Keep the compost pile damp and by May or June last year's leftovers will be ready to perform springtime magic in your yard and garden, according to soil specialist in our U. S. Department of Agriculture.

If your daughter, Mrs. Homemaker, comes home from school with grass stains on that new school dress, don't be alarmed. Most grass stains can be removed from washable fabrics if they are treated at once and the treatment is suited to the fabric.

Remove stains from colorfast and white fabrics by rubbing them with a mild synthetic detergent. Then rinse and wash the stained area. If the stain is not removed on white cottons or linens, the spot may be removed by bleaching.

TEST SAMPLE

If the garment is non washable, alcohol may be used if it does not affect the color. Test an inside sample to make sure the color is fast.

Whenever you spill fruit juice on a table cloth or on your clothing, it's a good idea to sponge with cool water before you forget the location of the spot. Some fruit juices, citrus among them, are invisible after they dry. But later they will turn yellow with age or with heating. This yellow stain may be difficult to remove. Fresh fruit stains can often be removed from fabrics by sponging or soaking in cool water or by working a detergent into the stain.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: I have a project coming up which involves the use of concrete blocks. Can you tell me something about them? I have never used them before.

ANSWER: We could have been more specific if you had told us what the project is. We'll assume you are talking about the common type of concrete blocks — the lightweight or standard wall blocks with two or three cores and with 8, 10 or 12-inch nominal widths. Be sure to use them while they are dry, since wet blocks will shrink later and possibly ruin the joints.

In making the mortar for the joints, be sure not to use so much water that the mixture runs easily. This is true whether you make the entire mixture yourself or buy one of the ready-mixes to which only water must be added. For a home-made mix, use 2½ parts of sand to one of portland cement. As you proceed with your job, check each block with a level. Don't rely on your eyesight. Another part of the job which should be done as you go along is to wipe off any mortar which falls on the face of the block.

Remember that there are many different kinds of concrete blocks on the market, so if you are looking for some special effect, ask to see some of the types other than the standard wall blocks.

CURTAIN CALL

RENEE ROUSSEAU has been selected "Miss Paramount" in connection with the forthcoming October 16 premier of Warner Brothers' "Rampage," starring Robert Mitchum, Elsa Martinelli and Jack Hawkins.

The official opening night for "Auntie Mame" will be Friday, October 18, followed by performances on Saturday and Sunday, October 19 and 20. As an experiment to please our members more, we are then skipping over to Thursday, October 24, for the next performance, continuing Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 25, 26 and 27.

In addition there will be a Gala Preview for patrons only on Thursday, October 17. Thus "Auntie Mame," is scheduled for eight performances in all, Thursday through Sunday, October 17 through 20, and again October 24 through 27. Curtain time is 8:15 each night.

MAILING

This coming week a mailing will go to our membership stating box office hours at Strauss Playhouse and providing a form for making advance reservations. The mailing list includes all last season's members, whether or not they have yet renewed, plus all new members who have been processed by hard-working Mary Ellison and Mary Eason up to the mailing date.

Those who subsequently become members for the first time will not get on the mailing list until the second play, but they can watch the news media for box office information or call FAirfax 3-1235 after the box office opens. To be sure of receiving the advance preservation form, apply for membership to Box 868 by Monday or Tuesday.

The patron membership already stands at the sensational total of 195, so close to 200 that we would dearly love to reach that mark. But the program material goes to the printer Tuesday, leaving only today and tomorrow for those last five patrons to notify Mary Lee Milam or Jackie Woods of their intentions.

RUNNING AHEAD

For that matter, all classes of membership are running well ahead of last year at this time. The grand total is rapidly nearing the 2,000 mark. Even though this leaves lots of leeway before we hit the 3,000 ceiling, the usual last minute rush could be turned into a stampede this year with "Auntie Mame," as the glittering attraction.

Speaking of the program, more advertisers are represented than ever before, thanks to indefatigable Marge Mullens and her committee. Barbara Easterling has the responsibility of working out all the details of producing the program with the printers. The cover design by Dewayne May is fabulous and again we are grateful to Olin for giving us the special lightweight paper for the interior. One feature this season will be a listing of the first 150 plays.

COSTUMES

While most of the costume problems for "Auntie Mame" are on their way to solution, we would greatly appreciate the loan of some of the furs with which Mame and Vera are supposed to be dripping, especially a silver fox scarf and a full length mink. We know people hesitate to lend such items, but furs no longer in use might very well do.

Backstage the feverish activity continues as technical director Lonny Fraze keeps up with a 60 hour a week construction schedule. Joellyn Thompson and Mary Lou Clay can be seen wielding paintbrushes nightly and even some of the cast members are lending a hand between scenes.

Blocking and learning lines are complete, so run-throughs are now the order of the day on stage. This is the interesting period of polishing the characterizations, pointing up the punch lines and improving on the many bits of stage business that make "Auntie Mame" such a rib-tickling comedy. While Mame holds the spotlight, she is going to get a run for laugh honors from the many, many lesser parts that have such frequent chances to steal a scene.

Best wishes and many happy returns to H. H. "Grandpa" Nobes on his 85th birthday, October 9. An actor in some ten Little Theatre shows of the past, he still attends every play.

Stamp News

The United Nations Postal Administration will issue its fourth commemorative stamp for 1963 on Nov. 4. The new issue will be one in the series depicting sites of the United Nations General Assembly.

The 5 cents and 11 cents stamps of identical design will be printed in four colors by the Government Printing Bureau in Tokyo.

Those desiring first-day covers are reminded in advance to send their remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, in either money order or a certified check, to United Nations Postal Administration, United Nations Headquarters, New York, N. Y. The outside envelope must be clearly marked "FDC U. N. General Assembly." Requests should be submitted prior to Nov. 4.

As previously reported in this column, the United Nations has just issued a new stamp honoring the role played by the United Nations Temporary Executive Authority (UNTEA) in the transfer of control of West New Guinea (West Irian) from the Dutch to the Indonesians.

Although not an airmail issue, the denomination of the new stamp is 25 cents, which represents the airmail rate from U. N. headquarters in New York City to West New Guinea. The date of issuance is Oct. 1. This is the first anniversary of the date that the temporary administration of that territory was assigned by the U. N.

The Israel Philatelic Agency in America has announced that there will be five sets of stamps issued by that country between October 1963 and March 1964. They will be as follows:

An airmail stamp in the Birds of Israel series, a second series of Red Sea fish, a single stamp commemorating the landing of the ship Shalom, a set of three honoring the Tokyo Olympic Games and a single denomination commemorating Israel-African friendship.

CURTAIN CALL

The official opening night for "Auntie Mame" will be Friday, October 18, followed by performances on Saturday and Sunday, October 19 and 20. As an experiment to please our members more, we are then skipping over to Thursday, October 24, for the next performance, continuing Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 25, 26 and 27.

In addition there will be a Gala Preview for patrons only on Thursday, October 17. Thus "Auntie Mame," is scheduled for eight performances in all, Thursday through Sunday, October 17 through 20, and again October 24 through 27. Curtain time is 8:15 each night.

MAILING

This coming week a mailing will go to our membership stating box office hours at Strauss Playhouse and providing a form for making advance reservations. The mailing list includes all last season's members, whether or not they have yet renewed, plus all new members who have been processed by hard-working Mary Ellison and Mary Eason up to the mailing date.

Those who subsequently become members for the first time will not get on the mailing list until the second play, but they can watch the news media for box office information or call FAirfax 3-1235 after the box office opens. To be sure of receiving the advance preservation form, apply for membership to Box 868 by Monday or Tuesday.

The patron membership already stands at the sensational total of 195, so close to 200 that we would dearly love to reach that mark. But the program material goes to the printer Tuesday, leaving only today and tomorrow for those last five patrons to notify Mary Lee Milam or Jackie Woods of their intentions.

RUNNING AHEAD

For that matter, all classes of membership are running well ahead of last year at this time. The grand total is rapidly nearing the 2,000 mark. Even though this leaves lots of leeway before we hit the 3,000 ceiling, the usual last minute rush could be turned into a stampede this year with "Auntie Mame," as the glittering attraction.

RENEE ROUSSEAU has been selected "Miss Paramount" in connection with the forthcoming October 16 premier of Warner Brothers' "Rampage," starring Robert Mitchum, Elsa Martinelli and Jack Hawkins.

Speaking of the program, more advertisers are represented than ever before, thanks to indefatigable Marge Mullens and her committee. Barbara Easterling has the responsibility of working out all the details of producing the program with the printers. 16 Countries To Propose U.N. Leader Talk With Viet Nam On Buddhists

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Sixteen countries were reported planning Saturday to propose that the U.N. General Assembly ask Secretary-General U Thant to talk to the government of South Viet Nam about better treatment for the Buddhists of that country.

Ceylon's chief delegate, Sir Senerat Gunewardene, said he would introduce a resolution to that effect Monday on behalf of the 16 African, Asian and Latin-American delegations that have obtained a debate on alleged "violation of human rights in South Viet Nam."

He predicted that the 111-nation assembly eventually would adopt the resolution with no contrary votes and only a few abstentions.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons have been set aside for the debate. Ceylon, El Salvador, Ireland and the Soviet Union are expected to speak Monday.

The resolution is expected to be turned in after a Monday morning meeting of the 56-nation Asian-African group.

It was prompted by a quarrel between South Viet Nam's Buddhist leaders and her country's president, Ngo Dinh Diem, and his brother and adviser, Ngo Dinh Nhu.

The dispute flared up last May 8 when police and troops killed nine people demonstrating in Hue for permission to fly the Buddhist flag. It came to a climax Aug. 21 when police and troops raided Buddhist pagodas in various places and arrested an estimated 1,000 monks.

The intended resolution, in an introductory paragraph, would have the assembly express "distress and concern at the infringement of the human rights of the vast majority" of the people of South Viet Nam.

"Vast majority" means the Buddhists, since the delegations proposing the debate estimated that "over 70 per cent of the Vietnamese subjects" professed that religion. This estimate is disputed.

In one main paragraph, the resolution requests the secretary-general to communicate the text to the South Vietnamese government, to consult with authorities of that government with a view to restoration of the people's rights and to keep the assembly informed.

In another main paragraph, it appeals to U.N. member countries to use their good offices in furtherance of the objectives of the resolution.

The primary target of this plea is the United States. U.S. military aid has been going to the Diem government to help fight Communist guerrillas. But some of it has been used also to deal with the Buddhists.

The Soviet Union is expected to press its demand here that the United States pull an estimated 15,000 American military men out of South Viet Nam.

Diem has sent a six-man mission to present his government's case. The head of this mission, Prof. Buu Hoi, has asked the assembly president, Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez of Venezuela, to let him or one of his colleagues speak in the debate.

Sosa-Rodriguez has been consulting key delegations on this. But Gunewardene said he expected that the South Vietnamese would not be allowed to speak, since their country is not a U.N. member. He pointed out that no nonmember has ever spoken in a debate in the full assembly. He said that was against the rules.

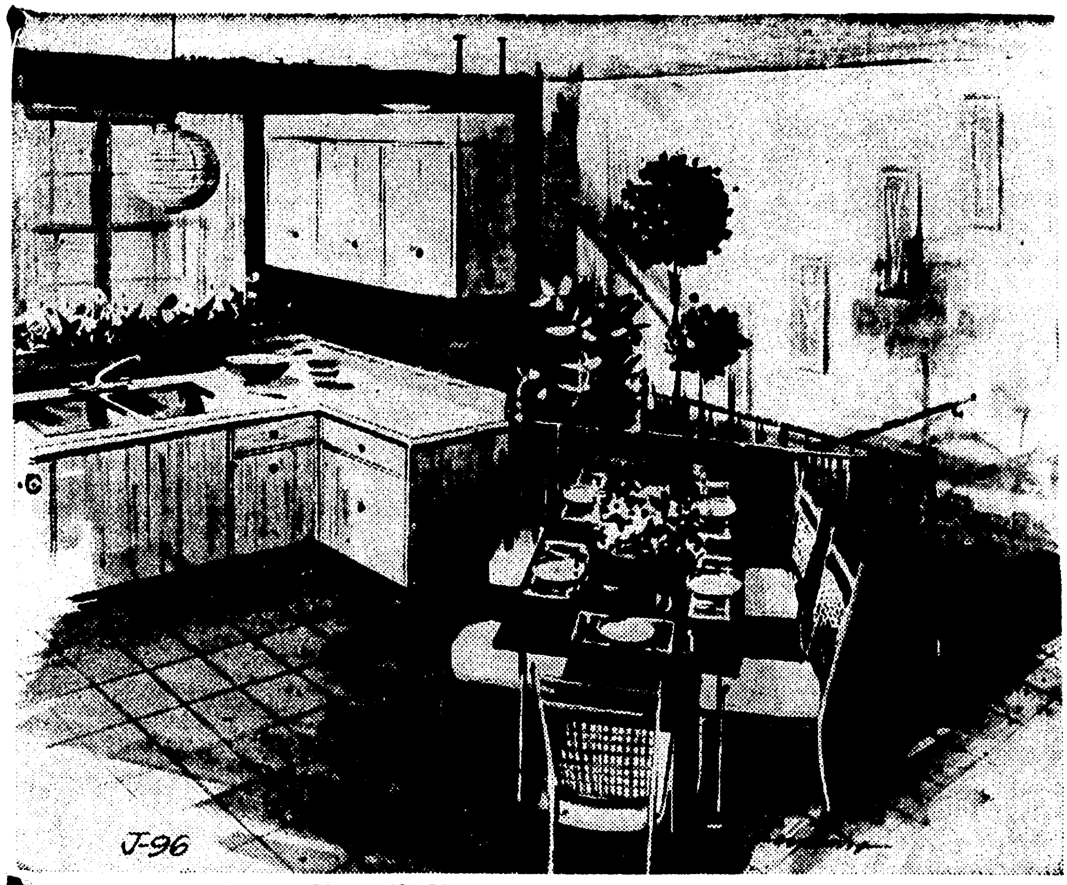
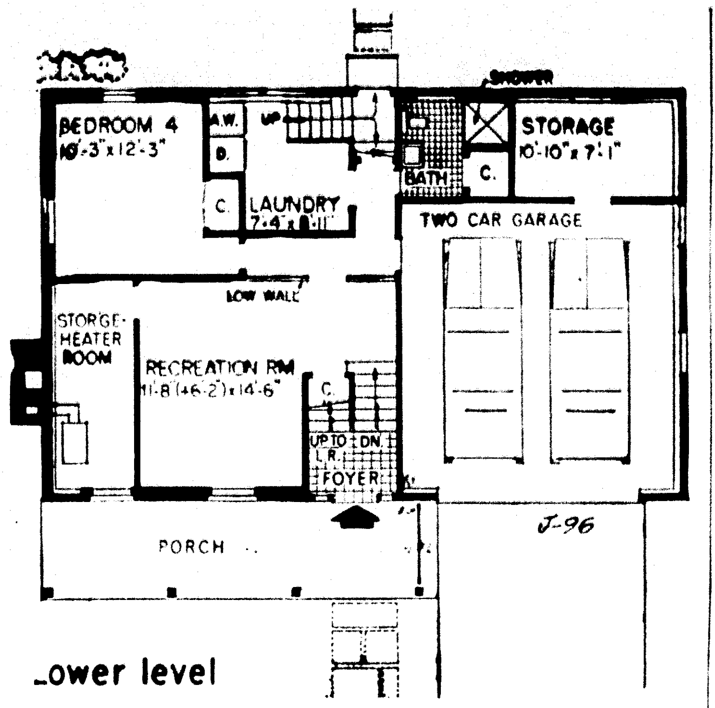
THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Small Bi-Level Has Place For Major Growing Room

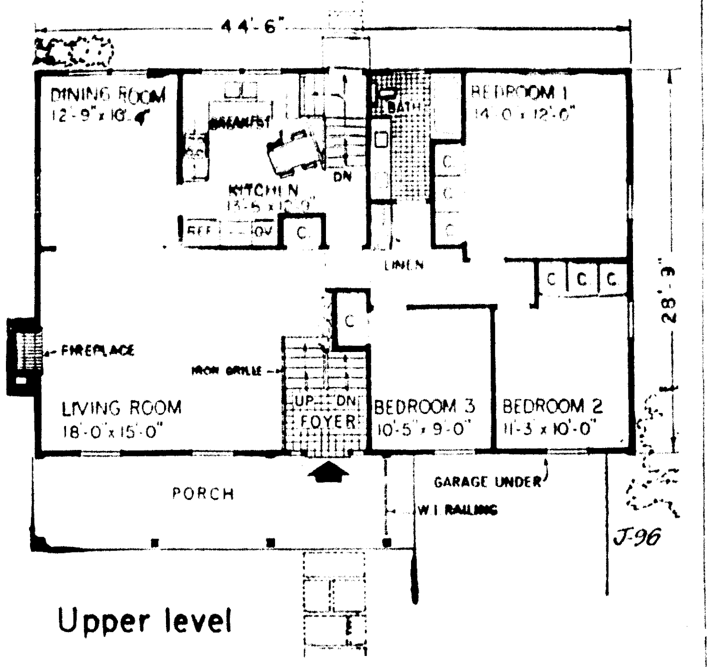
STATELY AND ECONOMICAL: This handsome bi-level contains four bedrooms and two full baths, yet its basic area is only 1,279 square feet. The lower level holds 580 square feet of bonus living area which can be developed when needed. The architect is Rudolph A. Matern.



DRAMATIC AND CONVENIENT: A second set of stairs in the rear of the house not only simplifies movement between levels but provides an interesting balcony for the breakfast table. In the kitchen, double windows over the double bowl sink afford excellent backyard supervision.



Lower level



Upper level

FLOOR PLANS: Main level contains 1,279 square feet of living area not counting 7' by 28'9" porch. Lower level contains 580 square feet not including the garage, storage area or heater room. Note the two sets of stairs, greatly simplifying movement between levels.

A small house that can grow right along with a family is the goal of many young couples. But finding one isn't easy—one that actually does grow, not one that just provides extra space for a future bedroom.

After all, adequate sleeping space solves only part of a family's housing problem. It's when everybody is awake and active that overcrowded conditions become realy unbearable.

Today's House of the Week is a complete three bedroom home of less than 1,300 square feet. But, when family expansion demands and financial conditions permit, an entire floor can be developed, adding a fourth bedroom, second full bath, recreation room and other features. In other words, it holds in reserve for the future both the daytime and nighttime space an expanding family requires.

The house is a bi-level design whose traditional styling will remain in vogue for years to come. The architect is Rudolph A. Matern, and the house is design J-96 in the weekly series.

A bi-level is simply a one-story home which has been raised out of the ground so the basement becomes liveable too; and the front door dropped a half flight so it's at grade level. It's the basement area of this home which can be finished later, and most of the work can be done by a handy husband.

Meanwhile the area plainly is not surplus—it still serves as a basement, the laundry facilities are down there, and so is a ful two-car garage, at least a $1,500 item if built in addition to the house.

The house is a simple rectangular plan in modest dimensions of 44'6" wide by 28'9" deep. A portico with four stately columns projects seven feet into the front and is 28'9" wide. The main level contains 1,279 square feet of living area not including the porch; the lower level contains an additional 580 square feet not counting the garage storage room and heater room.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

An excellent feature of the house is the second set of stairs in the rear, greatly simplifying movement between the two levels. Moreover, the rear stair railing is built as a dramatic balcony for the breakfast table.

The front stair also shows creative use of wrought iron. An iron grill, not a railing, provides privacy as well as a decorative touch to the living room. A mirrored planter and vanity niche is another eye-catcher at the entry foyer.

The living room is a spacious 18' by 15', but the rear portion of it actually has the effect of being 22' wide considering the area in front of the guest closet and planter. A log burning fireplace complements the iron grill on the opposite wall, and the formal dining room adjoins in a connecting ell.

One of the finest features of the home is the kitchen, interestingly arranged and efficient at the same time. Double windows are above the double sink, offering excellent supervision of the backyard. The rear service entry is down a half flight of stairs, equally accessible to both levels.

When the lower level is completed it will produce more than 230 square feet of recreation area as well as a well-ordered laundry, bathroom and corner bedroom. This doesn't mean there will be no room left for storage—architect Matern has provided more than 500 cubic feet of storage space at the rear of the garage, not to mention the extra space in the heater room.

Just as bulk storage space is not lacking, neither is closet space. On the main level alone there are nine closets containing a total of 368 cubic feet; and on the lower level there are large closets in both the bedroom and bathroom, and plenty of shelf or cabinet space in the 60-square-foot laundry.

As a further economy measure, the bathrooms of both levels are on the same plumbing stack. The main bath, with its double-sink vanity and recessed tub, is accessible both from the living and sleeping areas. The lower bath is convenient not only to the downstairs rooms but also the backyard and garage.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La. and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan J-95.

PIANO VALUES
and
COMMON SENSE

We are dead certain of one fact and that is that most people who buy pianos, shop with us. There is no question concerning your purchasing arrangement. What someone else can offer, we can do as well or better. If there is a necessity for extending your installment until 1964 we can do so!

COMMON SENSE IN PURCHASING A PIANO . . .

1—Buy from a dependable dealer who will be here when the "fly by night" is gone. If you don't know pianos, then by all means know your dealer.
2—Try Your Child; Don't fall for the old line that every one will learn to play the piano . . . it just isn't so. OUR RENTAL PLAN is the safest in the long run. If they do learn to play you have that much paid on your piano . . if not, you have only paid a small rental fee.
3—Don't be foolish enough to leave it up to the child to learn to play. Supervise his practice, be sure that each day he spends time at the piano. Some of the finest pianists today would have quit at an early age had they been allowed to do so.
4—See our fine stock of new and used pianos. We are almost sure to have one that will please you.

COMMON SENSE

We are dead certain of one fact and that is that most people who buy pianos, shop with us. There is no question concerning your purchasing arrangement. What someone else can offer, we can do as well or better. If there is a necessity for extending your installment until 1964 we can do so!

COMMON SENSE IN PURCHASING A PIANO . . .

1—Buy from a dependable dealer who will be here when the "fly by night" is gone. If you don't know pianos, then by all means know your dealer.
2—Try Your Child; Don't fall for the old line that every one will learn to play the piano . . . it just isn't so. OUR RENTAL PLAN is the safest in the long run. If they do learn to play you have that much paid on your piano . . If not, you have only paid a small rental fee.
3—Don't be foolish enough to leave it up to the child to learn to play. Supervise his practice, be sure that each day he spends time at the piano. Some of the finest pianists today would have quit at an early age had they been allowed to do so.
4—See our fine stock of new and used pianos. We are almost sure to have one that will please you.

'Quality Stabilization' Is New Word for Price Bite

The so-called "quality stabilization" bill, a high-lutin new name for the old fair trade bill, and with he same purpose of preventing competition in sales f branded products, is the subject of hearings before Senate Commerce subcommittee. It already has een given the go-ahead of the House Commerce ommittee, and has a lot of self-interested support oth in and out of Congress.

Its purpose, of course, is to force the consumer to pay more for his wants by illegalizing competition in prices. When a group of big electrical companies did this some time ago, they were indicted, tried and onvicted and officials sentenced to varying terms and made to pay heavy fines. The "quality stabilization" bill is of the same order, but through some juggling of words it is beyond the anti-trust laws.

The measure is a fair trade law dressed up in new lothes. In the last Congress it had the name of "fair competitive practices bill." Now it is the same thing but with the name "quality stabilization bill." Its added cost to the taxpayers, to say nothing of individual costs, would be enormous.

The word quality has nothing whatever to do with the purpose of the measure, which is strictly that of price fixing and making the consumer pay the tab. The intent of the measure is to allow manufacturers to dictate the retail prices of their products, and to et court injunctions against any one who sells them or less. It stabs at the heart of competition, which, growingly, in our free enterprise economy, is being egarded by sponsors of this legislation as a cardinal sin.

Some retailers who don't like to have to face competition want the bill as a guarantee of higher prices by extinguishing competition. When corporation representatives meet secretly and agree not to undercut each other's prices but submit identical bids, that's called a conspiracy and executives are fined and sent to jail. When they attempt to gain the same end by writing it into law, and require everyone to obey the dictum, then it's called fair trade, or fair competitive ractices despite the fact that it kills competition, or as of now the quality stabilization bill, and congressmen who ought to be thinking occasionally of the welfare of their constituents fall for it.

MADAME YING AND HER COHORT, TRADERS IN MILITARY INFORMATION, HAVE RECENTLY RECEIVED AN ORDER WITH A FAT FEE FROM RED CHINA...
I HAVE LEARNED THAT CAPTAIN WARREN HAS A TREMENDOUS EGO AND IS A COMPLETE FRAUD. HIS EGO IS WHAT WILL MAKE IT EASY FOR US...
... ALTHOUGH WARREN HAS BOASTED AROUND CAMP PENDLETON THAT HE HAS AN ENTERPRISING MANUFACTURING CONCERN IN NEWPORT NEWS, IN REALITY HE IS A DEAD BEAT!
NEXT MORNING AT CAMP PENDLETON.
THE FIVE HUNDRED BUCKS I BORROWED FROM MADAME YING IS GONE. I CAN'T KEEP UP MY "BIG SHOT" ACT ANY LONGER. I'VE GOT TO TELL MARIAN I'M A FRAUD AND NOT THE SUCCESSFUL TYCOON I'VE PRETENDED TO BE.
I LOVE MARIAN SO MUCH... AND SHE'S EVERYTHING I NEED... BUT IT ISN'T RIGHT TO MARRY HER UNDER THESE FALSE PRETENSES. I'VE GONE TOO FAR! SHE LOVES ME, I KNOW. EVEN THOUGH IT'LL HURT HER, AND I'LL LOSE HER, I MUST CALL A HALT TO THIS AFFAIR.
CAPTAIN WARREN'S PHONE RINGS, BREAKING HIM FROM HIS TROUBLED THOUGHTS...
YES... OH YES, MADAME YING... COME TO YOUR TEA ROOM? UH, OKAY... I'LL SEE YOU TONIGHT!
THAT NIGHT...
CAPTAIN WARREN... HOW NICE OF YOU TO COME. I THOUGHT YOU MIGHT DO ME A FAVOR.

LI'L ABNER
by AL CAPP ®
WHY DID I ORDER LI'L ABNER TO DESTROY ALL SHMOOS ? BECAUSE THEY'RE A THREAT TO CIVILIZED LIFE.!?
CIVILIZED LIFE IS BASED ON THE FAMILY— A MAN'S LOVE FOR HIS WIFE AND CHILDREN!? THE NASTY THING ABOUT SHMOOS IS, THEY'RE BETTER HOUSEKEEPERS THAN WIVES——AND THEY NEVER NAG!?
—AND FATHERS FIND SHMOOS FAR MORE LOVABLE THAN THEIR CHILDREN.
SO—TO PROTECT THE HOME— SHMOOS MUST GO!!—
SHMOOS ARE ALSO A THREAT TO NATIONAL SECURITY. WE HAVE AN ARMY TO PROTECT US FROM ENEMIES WHO WANT TO TAKE WHAT WE'VE GOT--- T3
—BUT, IF SHMOOS SPREAD—AND EVERYONE HAS 'EM—EVERYBODY'LL HAVE ENOUGH!! THERE'LL BE NO NEED FOR AN ARMY!? WE WON'T HAVE ANY ENEMIES!?
MILLIONS OF SOLDIERS WILL BE UNEMPLOYED!? THE STREETS WILL BE FULL OF OUT-OF-WORK GENERALS!? AND THERE'S NO SIGHT MORE PITIFUL THAN A GENERAL WITH NOBODY TO KILL!?
ALL AIRLINES, RAILROADS AND BUS LINES WILL GO BANKRUPT!? ALL TRANSPORTATION WILL BE UNNECESSARY!? THERE'S NO PLACE NICER TO GO THAN WHERE SHMOOS ARE!?
—AND THEY'LL BE EVERYWHERE!?
SHMOOS WILL MAKE ALL TYPES OF MANAGEMENT UNNECESSARY. SHMOOS MANAGE THEMSELVES VERY NICELY!?
BAKERY
BREAD
SHMOOS WILL ALSO ELIMINATE LABOR UNIONS!!
THEY WILL?
NATURALLY!! NOBODY WILL NEED TO LABOR!!
10-6
BUT, THE MOST DANGEROUS THING ABOUT SHMOOS IS THAT THEY TOTALLY ELIMINATE CRIME!! WITH SHMOOS, EVERYBODY'S GOT EVERYTHING—SO ALL LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS WILL BE FIRED!!
GASP!?— SHMOOS ARE A MENACE!?

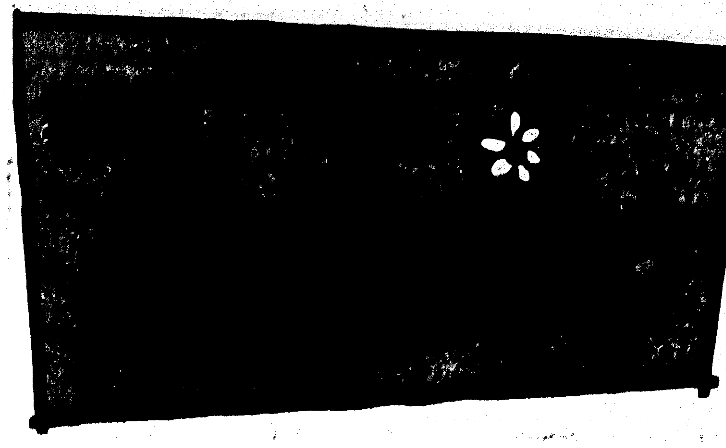
HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS



DEAR HELOISE:

We are trying to teach our three-and-a-half-year-old daughter to put the right shoe on the right foot . . . which seems to be her greatest difficulty!

I bought her a pair of bedroom slippers and got the bright idea of sewing one button on her right slipper.

This idea works like a charm and now I have learned to put a small piece of tape inside her right shoe only. She knows anything that is "marked" goes on her right foot. No more wrong shoes or slippers for us!

Alida V.

SMOOTH TRICKS

Dear Heloise:

When making our beds I smooth out the spread with the long, flat, bottom side of a wire coat hanger. I find this much easier than stretching across the bed.

A garden hose may be pushed through the hose of a vacuum cleaner if something is stuck in it. I have done this many times.

Marjorie Newell

EASY DRESSING

DEAR HELOISE:

I find it easier to frost a cake after it's frozen! No crumbs to worry about, the frosting spreads so smoothly.

When you have fruit for a fruit salad but no fancy fruit dressing and no time . . . try pouring a tablespoon or two of orange juice over it—depending on the size of the salad and family. I have used fresh, frozen, and powdered orange juice or just whatever is handy, and it is as good or better than a dressing that took all day to make.

Kelly's Gal

NEED A SHINE?

DEAR HELOISE:

I use ten-cent powder puffs to polish my shoes and find they do a perfect job.

I buy a different powder puff for each color of shoes. When not in use I keep the puffs in the plastic bags they came in so the different colored polishes won't rub against one another.

A Reader

RISE AND SHINE!

DEAR HELOISE:

Since I am such a sleepy-head in the morning . . . it's most helpful to set up my electric coffee pot every night for use the next morning!

I measure the water, put in the coffee, and hook the electric cord into the pot. In the morning when I get up . . . all I have to do is plug the cord into the wall socket.

Mrs. William C. McDaniel

BOOK BINDERS

DEAR HELOISE:

Use freezer tape to bind children's story books when they become worn.

You can buy the tape in different colors and it takes just a minute to stick it on. I even bind new books when I buy them and find that they last much longer.

Mickey Crowe

ICEBOX WATER

DEAR HELOISE:

The water which is melted from refrigerator coils is indeed free of chlorine and can be used for watering household plants.

The reason is that the ice has condensed from the air in the refrigerator . . . the same way that rain and snow condense from the atmosphere. However, it is also free from the trace minerals that are found in ordinary tap water.

I would suggest that one can accomplish the same purpose, and retain the minerals, by boiling tap water for a few moments. It should of course be cooled before using on plants.

NURSERY TISSUE

DEAR HELOISE:

A pastel-colored roll of toilet tissue is very handy in the nursery. This can be used for most jobs which require a facial tissue and is far less expensive. Besides . . . it comes in smaller pieces and one does not need a whole tissue at times such as when baby dribbles.

Dorothy Zabel

A CUP OF FLOUR . . .

DEAR HELOISE:

I always sift flour on a paper pie plate that I keep in my flour bin.

Then I can fold it and pour the sifted flour into my measuring cup. Saves many spills and cleaning the drainboard, etc.

Phyllis Allport

CUPCAKE CAPER

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a time-saving and mess-saving idea that I discovered one day when I was in a hurry.

Try putting your cupcake batter in a pitcher or something with a spout. Then—it's quick and easy to fill cupcake papers! This eliminates the dripping on the pans and cabinet, and it's much, much faster.

Mrs. M. J. H.

IN THE BAG

DEAR HELOISE:

I made some small bags with a little loop to fit around the neck of my coat hangers.

Now, as I iron and hang up the children's school clothes, I place their underclothes, socks, ribbons or berets in each bag. When the child picks a certain dress, everything to go with the outfit is in the little bag.

Pat

FOR BUSY COOKS

DEAR HELOISE:

It seems as though I never have a large enough supply of dish towels handy, so . . . when I know I am going to be in the kitchen for a whole day cooking, baking, etc., I pin a washcloth to the belt of my dress. Now I always have something handy to wipe my hands on.

Annabel Di Cammillo

CHAIR REPAIR

Dear Heloise:

Here's a very good hint for those who have wood screws that keep coming out of furniture.

Try putting a piece of steel wool in the hole itself, and then thread the screw back in! You'll be surprised at the result.

Flora Deals Staggering Blow To Cuba

House Committee Votes Deep Cuts In 3 Programs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today voted deep slashes in the nation's civil defense, space and science programs.

Among other things, it turned down the entire $195 million asked for a nationwide fallout shelter program. In a bill financing 26 executive agencies and offices, the committee approved only $13,102,818,700 of the $14,658,588,000 requested by President Kennedy for the present fiscal year.

But even with the cut, the total as it went to the House floor for consideration later this week was $1,233,067,400 higher than the same agencies received last year.

MOON MADNESS

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration was allotted $5.1 billion of the $5.71 billion the president had originally requested.

An effort to cut the space agency funds further will be made on the House floor. Rep. Louis C. Wyman, R-N.H., called for additional reductions of $700 million, mainly in the program to send a manned space vehicle to the moon. Wyman called the lunar project "daytime moon madness."

The Veterans Administration share was $5,372,430,000, almost the entire amount requested and a slight increase over last year.

For all civil defense programs, including those now in operation, the President requested $346.9 million. The committee lashed this to $87.8 million.

The National Science Foundation, for which the President sought $589 million, was given only $323.2 million.

Other allotments:

—$75 million for subsidy payments to air carriers.

—$60 million to begin development of a commercial supersonic plane.

—$152,540,700 for federal building construction in 34 cities.

—$100 million for payments on grant contracts for urban renewal projects.

Ouachita Valley Fair Opens '63 Production Today

Livestock began moving into the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds today in preparation for the annual fair, which begins at 5 p.m. today.

More than 500 entries from 4-H and FFA organizations in eight parishes have been registered for the junior livestock show. Additional animals are coming in for the senior divisions.

John H. Birdsong Sr., secretary-manager of the fair, has predicted more than 45,000 persons will visit the fair, viewing the livestock, carnival equipment and assortment of other features.

In addition to the livestock show, there will be horticultural exhibits, booths featuring sewing, handicraft, food preservation, baking, wildlife exhibits and commercial exhibits.

The judging of the livestock will be held during the evenings so that youngsters will not have to miss school, Birdsong said.

Friday at 1:30 p.m. an auction will be held for some of the junior show animals.

A quarter horse show is slated to be held Saturday.

The carnival begins tonight and will continue through Saturday.

The schedule for judging livestock includes: dairy animals, 6 p.m. today; breeding sheep and lambs, 5 pm Tuesday; hogs, 5 p.m. Wednesday; breeding beef and steers, 5 p.m. Thursday.

The carnival features are provided by the Blue Grass Shows.

Annual Pulaski Parade Is Held

NEW YORK (AP) — Martial bands, costumed girls and marching units—100,000 in all—paraded up Fifth Avenue Sunday in the 27th annual Pulaski Day parade.

About 300,000 persons watched the five-hour march. Among them was U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Marchers included members of the Polish army in exile. Some signs in the parade read: "We demand free elections in Poland."

At a dinner climaxing Pulaski Day festivities, Brockway McMillan, undersecretary of the Air Force, announced that President Kennedy has proclaimed next Friday as General Pulaski Memorial Day.

Count Casimir Pulaski of Poland was killed fighting for American independence in the Revolutionary War.

Diem Claims Reds Losing Viet Nam War

Strong Man Tells Hand-Picked Gov't Priest Issue Settled

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—President Ngo Dinh Diem said today the Communists are losing the guerrilla war in South Viet Nam.

In an address opening the National Assembly, Diem said the Communist Viet Cong faces the "eventuality of an inescapable defeat."

He also told his hand-picked assembly, in which there are no opposition parties, that South Viet Nam's Buddhist problem had been settled. His regime's recent crackdown on the Buddhists is to be debated in the U.N. General Assembly, beginning this afternoon.

Speaking while police enforced maximum security regulations in downtown Saigon, Diem said:

"At this very moment, it is with regret that we see some countries, intoxicated by false information on the situation in Viet Nam and on the Buddhist question in particular, request and obtain inclusion in the United Nations agenda of a problem already settled."

FIRST HAND

In New York, 16 Asian, African and Latin-American nations planned to introduce a resolution calling on U.N. Secretary-General U Thant to intercede in behalf of the Buddhists.

Diem has sent a special six-man mission to the United Nations to defend his government.

South Viet Nam is expected to counter the criticism in the assembly with an invitation to an international inspection team to see the situation first hand.

Diem again said the Buddhist crisis was Communist inspired as "an ultimate maneuver" to avert inevitable defeat.

He said the declaration of martial law after the wave of Buddhist demonstrations and suicides "permitted the unmasking of the Communists and their accomplices, and now a tempered, free Viet Nam emerges from this undeniably great trial through having victoriously surmounted this new assault of Communist conspiracy."

He praised his armed forces for several "major victories" in the Mekong Delta, where Communist resistance has been strongest.

Diem's speech was broadcast throughout Saigon over street loudspeakers.

MRS. NHU

Prima Donna Of Viet Nam U.S. Bound

PARIS (AP)—Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu left for New York today to defend her family's rule and its crackdown on Buddhists.

She told reporters she was happy to be going to the United States to explain the attitude of the Vietnamese government. She added that she did not plan to visit the United Nations.

Mrs. Nhu, sister-in-law of South Viet Nam's bachelor President Ngo Dinh Diem, plans to spend three weeks in the United States, including a four-day visit to Washington.

She has been solidly booked for speaking appearances, but she can expect no more than a cool welcome from U.S. officials.

LAST PHASE

Her reception by the public may not be any warmer. Her recent description of U.S. junior officers in South Viet Nam as "little soldiers of fortune" and Buddhist protest suicides as "monk barbecues" aroused a storm of protest.

Mrs. Nhu's trip to the United States is the last phase of a world tour that began with attendance at the recent interparliamentary union conference in Belgrade, Yugoslavia. Mrs. Nhu, 38, mother of four, also visited Rome and spent a week in Paris buying clothes and preparing for her U.S. visit.

Plaquemine March Broken By Tear Gas

PLAQUEMINE, La. (UPI)—Police threw tear gas grenades into a group of about 400 Negro students this morning to break up the teenagers civil rights march toward the Iberville Parish School Board.

The students dispersed but began regrouping right outside the limits of this racially troubled riverfront town.

About 30 state troopers were reported en route here to help city police and sheriff's deputies handle the march.

Police Chief Dennis Songy set up a barricade at the entrances to the business district and said the students would not be allowed to march into the downtown area.

Songy said his men threw "quite a few grenades" into the marchers in the middle of a Negro neighborhood.

SECOND GROUP

The students refused to attend classes at the Iberville (Negro) Hgih School this morning, but gathered in the school gym to sing civil rights songs.

About 20 suspended teen-agers picketed the building while school authorities tried to talk the mass of the students into attending classes.

But the Negroes ignored the class bells and roll calls and marched away from the school quietly in a double file. When police brought out gas equipment at the edge of the Negro neighborhood the students marched around the Negro area to pick up other marchers. However a second group of city police went into the area and dispersed the crowd with the tear gas.

About 35 students were suspended following demonstrations at the school Friday.

ALL REPORTED SAFE

Mexico River Explorers Found

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (UPI) — Fourteen Americans and three Mexicans who were feared lost in the wild canyon country of northwestern Mexico are all safe, a pilot reported from the scene today.

Jesus Acosta Munoz, a pilot who took U.S. Vice Consul Robert Homer to the area where the men were feared lost radioed back that all were safe.

Acosta Munoz said he was able to land and talk with the explorers and said they were in good shape. Three Mexicans were with the Americans.

Reports that the Americans — 12 men and 2 women were lost and perhaps starving had caused a big air search to be mounted today. Two U.S. Air Force helicopters and a twin-engine C-47 were ordered in from El Paso, Tex., to help search.

A U.S. Air Force Reserve command plane earlier left El Paso to fly over the moutains and deep gorges of the Sierra Madre country. The Americans were exploring the Rio Urrique, a treacherous, swollen river.

The Americans were from Utah, California and Pennsylvania. Acosta Munoz said they turned up in Creel, a city 160 miles west of Chihuahua.

Creel is on the edge of the canyon country. It is the takeoff point for people going into the Sierra Madre. The Americans were expected to take a train from Creel to Chihuahua late today and arrive about midnight.

Eduardo Mendoza, a business man in the area, first sighted the adventurers. They were hiking out of a canyon and Mendoza showed them the way to Creel.

They told him that they had rested two days in the Canyon and rationed their food. Although short of food, they were by no means starving.

James C. Dean, 31, of Salt Lake City, came out of the rugged country Friday night and announced that his companions were in a bad plight.

They ran into turbulent waters and protruding boulders during a rubber raft trip down the river.

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP)—Carolyn Toops, 18, (120 West 79th St.) Shreveport, was killed and her brother, Jerry, was critically injured in a collision on state highway 1 north near here today.

The crash occurred at the intersection of Highway 1 and state Highway 504 near the city limits.

The other vehicle was a truck driven by Arnold Pearle, who escaped injury.

Miss Toops was a student at Northwestern State College.

Red Conference Expected To Expel Chinese

MOSCOW (AP)—A world conference of Communist parties will be called shortly and the expectation is that the Chinese Reds will be expelled from the international movement, a non-Soviet Communist source said today.

The informant said the buildup already has begun, the call probably will come from Moscow, but there is no indication of a date. But he said there is enough evidence to indicate an early call is likely.

What is happening is this:

Throughout the world, various Communist parties have expressed their support of the Soviet Union in its dieological battle with Red China. Almost every expression of support contained the statement that the Chinese are working against the international brotherhood of Communists.

Red China also will be invited, as well as those backing Peking, notably the Communist parties from Albania, North Korea, Japan and New Zealand.

REBUTTAL TO SPELLMAN

Bishop Defends Catholic Deacons

VATICAN CITY (AP)—In a rebuttal of Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, a German archbishop defended today a proposal that the Roman Catholic Church use deacons who could marry as a way to promote a richer religious life in areas short of priests.

Julius Cardinal Doepfner of Munich gave his defense of the idea during today's session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council. Cardinal Spellman objected in the council last week to establishment of a rank of deacons, either celibate or married.

The American cardinal had said that married deacons might dissuade men from becoming priests. Cardinal Spellman said there were already burdens enough in running seminaries to train priests without having to train a new category of people.

Cardinal Doepfner said there would be no danger to the traditional celibacy of the priesthood.

A council press spokesman paraphrased the German prelate's remarks:

"Deacons would not be regarded as second-class priests, or as people who want to have priestly functions without priestly obligations."

Cardinal Doepfner said there might be a danger to the celibate state only if candidates for the deaconate were chosen indiscriminately.

"Special seminaries would not have to be established because in the mission lands people already well-prepared would be used," the German prelate was quoted as saying.

Deacons figure in a chapter that deals with Roman Catholic hierarchy. Deacons are mentioned as a possible new order that would have power to administer some sacraments but not say Mass or hear confessions.

4th Day Of Wind, Rain Ruins Crops

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Flora smashed northward back into Cuba today and, for the fourth straight day, the island was battered by howling wind and driving rain. The already staggering economy of Fidel Castro's regime had suffered a crushing blow. The Agrarian Reform Institute said half of the sugar, rice, coffee, cotton and coca crops may have been destroyed.

Sugar, the backbone of the Cuban economy, has been used by Castro to trade with the Soviet Union for military and other assistance.

Forecasters searched their records to learn whether a hurricane had hammered so long at a single area.

Flora moved in over eastern Cuba's Oriente Province on Friday and sat there for nearly two days. Then it drifted just off the south coast and for another 48 hours stalled in the Caribbean, while its winds blasted Cuba from Camaguey to Santiago.

Today the storm struck Cuba again near Santa Cruz del Sur. It was whirling very slowly toward the city of Camaguey and there was no telling how long it might stay over Cuba this time.

The Miami Weather Bureau forecast a northward drift at not more than five miles an hour beginning late today or tonight.

The Cuban radio broadcast reports of the crop destruction, of collapsing homes and buildings, and of serious floods that forced the evacuation of nearly 35,000 persons from Santiago de Cuba and Victoria de Las Tunas.

With more than 400 dead earlier in her wake in the Caribbean, Flora now threatens the Bahama Islands and Florida.

Before Flora moved into Oriente, the principal sugar producing area of Cuba, production already had fallen to the lowest level in 30 years. Castro admitted the cause was poor management, half-hearted effort by peasants, and the breakdown of motor transport used to haul the crops.

There wasn't enough sugar even before the storm to swap to the Soviet Union for adequate food supplies. Increasingly strict food rationing has been imposed on the Cuban people for over two years.

Top winds in the hurricane dropped today from 100 miles an hour to 85. The eye was centered at noon between the south Cuban coast and Camaguey and about 380 miles south-southeast of Miami.

The threat to the Bahamas is the second in two days. Saturday, on her first thrust into Cuba, Flora had given signs that she would drive on northward into the islands.

Only two deaths have been confirmed so far by the Cuban radio. The crews of two coastal fishing boats are missing.

More than 400 bodies had been counted earlier in Haiti and 17 on the island of Tobago.
